THE LATE PRESIDENT DUDLEY

President James B. Dudley of the Agricultural and Technical College, Greensboro, N. C., died at 9:45 P. M., Saturday, April 4.

Dr. Dudley was born in Wilmington, N. C., November 2, 1859. He was educated at Shaw University, and prior to coming to Greensboro was for sixteen years principal of the Peabody School in Wilmington, N. C. He has been president of the A. & T. College (formerly A. & M. College) since 1896, and under his administration the school has had wonderful expansion. When he became president there were only fifty students enrolled. The very first year under his leadership saw a change for the better, and the upward trend of that first year has been since maintained. Today there are over five hundred young men enrolled, and within the last few years more than a half million dollars have been spent in buildings and equipment. The school is now one of the foremost institutions of its kind in the country. Accredited high school and college courses are given along literary as well as agricultural and mechanical lines. His aim was always that the A. & T. graduate should be able to make his living with his hands as well as his head.

While his main work has been in the field of education, Dr. Dudley found time to promote other activities. While principal of the Peabody School in Wilmington, he was editor of the Wilmington Chronicle, and was at the same time very much interested in politics. He never accepted any political office, but was sent as a delegate to the Republican National Convention in St. Louis, in 1896.

Since he has been in Greensboro, he has founded a building and loan association which is still doing a successful business. He was president of the Negro State Teacher's Association for six years, during which time he vitalized it and made it a potent factor in the educational progress of the State. His efforts also contributed largely to the building up and energizing of the Negro State Fair, until it has become one of the foremost organizations in the country. He was a trustee for many years of Bethel A. M. E. Church, where he also taught a class in Sunday School, in addition to his Sunday School Class at the College. He was prominent in the Masonic and K. of P. fraternities.

But aside from his work as an educator, Dr. Dudley's principal contribution has been in the field of inter-racial development. Indeed the South has produced few men who have done more to help the two races understand each other and to work together for the common good. Often misunderstood, he has nevertheless long held the reputation for being far-sighted and level-headed, and in this respect the South has lost one of her most useful men.

His place will be hard to fill. He was a good neighbor, a reliable friend and counsellor, a patient and loving husband and father, chivalrous and generous. And he has left the imprint of his life and labors not only in the fine buildings and equipment of the College, but in the thousands of young men, scattered in the four corners of the earth, who have come under the influence of his personality.

It is not for us here at the A. & T. College to attempt to estimate the true value of President Dudley's service to his race and to the State, nor can we express the beneficent influence of the A. & T. College, which he developed to be one of the greatest land-grant colleges in the country. This Institution is not the only testimonial of his unswerving pursuit of a high ideal, but every phase of his many activities has been interpreted in editorial comments by newspapers in every section of the State. Our purpose in publishing this issue of the Register is to give to the public some information concerning his death and burial.

Since his death many telegrams and letters have come to the College from all sections of the country bringing comfort and solace to the bereaved family and relatives. Mrs. Dudley, therefore, has requested that we express for her, the family and relatives, the gratitude which they feel for the tender and loving expressions of sympathy which came to them in the sad hour of their bereavement.

The limited space of this issue will not permit us to publish all of the telegrams, editorials, letters and resolutions which were received. Others will be published later.

*RESOLUTIONS FROM THE STUDENT BODY

Whereas, the Great and Supreme Ruler of the universe, our Heavenly Father, has in his infinite wisdom removed from our midst Dr. Jas. B. Dudley, the husband of Mrs. Susie B. Dudley and President of this institution, and

Whereas, he will be missed in the home by his wife, daughter, relatives and friends; we can only point them to Him who doeth all things well, and who is able to assuage the grief of the broken hearted;

Whereas, the Negroes throughout the State and Country will mourn his loss,

Whereas, he was an educational leader of his race, a leader in citizenship, a leader in the church and fraternal organizations,

Whereas, in all these fraternal relationships, he held the esteem of his co-laborers, manifesting his interest in the work and the workers as a missionary, serving wherever he could do good for the cause of Christian missions; likewise in his work for the advancement of Negroes, he was held in high esteem; for he took delight in relieving the distressed and caring for those in need,

And whereas: The discharge of his duties as President and chieftain of this great institution makes it fitting that we record our sincere appreciation for his having lived and died for the work which he so ably fostered;

Be it resolved: That we, the students of the A. & T. College, hold in grateful remembrance his useful life; that the removal of such a life leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by the friends of the institution and the student body,

Be it resolved: That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives, we express our hope that even in the shadow of the tomb, may the cause of our grief be overruled for good by the dear Father, and being mindful of the words of Tennyson, "May there be no sadness of farewell, as he puts out to sea."

Be it also resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be filed in the records of this institution, a copy published in our leading Negro papers, and a copy mailed to the bereaved family.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT TO DR. JAS. B. DUDLEY FROM ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Whereas, it has pleased the Almighty to remove from our midst by death our beloved President, Dr. James B. Dudley, who has for nearly thirty years presided over and shaped the destiny of the North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College, our Alma Mater, and who has maintained a high rank as an educator, counselor of his people in matters, especially pertaining to better relations between the races, and whose unselfish devotion in interest of the college characterized his every act, and, whereas, we consider his demise an irreparable loss to the race and citizenship of the State and especially to the city of Greensboro, therefore, be it resolved:

That we bear willing testimony to his many virtues and exemplary life; that we offer to his bereaved family and mourning friends our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of trial and that Infinite Goodness may bring speedy relief to their burdened hearts and inspire them with consolation, that hope in the future and faith in God will remove the shadow of the tomb.

Resolved further: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the stricken family of the deceased and copies sent to the public press.

RESOLUTIONS PRESIDENT JAMES B. DUDLEY
APRIL 7, 1925

We the faculty of the A. & T. College, mourn deeply the loss of our President, co-worker and friend, Dr. James B. Dudley.

We realize the great loss that has befallen the school, the State, the race and the nation.

We shall greatly miss him as counsellor and adviser, as well as leader and our official head. He was courteous, generous, sympathetic and unselfish.

We shall try to emulate his example.

We shall try to carry on the work he has begun, and thus far so nobly advanced: the A. & T. College, first, last and always; co-operation and good-will between the races; loyalty to the school, the State, the race, and the nation; service to humanity. To these great ideals we hereby pledge anew all that we have, and are, and hope to be.

We extend our sincerest sympathy to the grief stricken widow who has been his faithful companion all these years, to their only child, now in a foreign land, and to the large number of relatives and friends who, like us, feel most keenly the great loss.

And we pray that He who doeth all things well may help us to see through the thick shadows the bright sunshine of his long and useful life, which could not last always; and so may help us all to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God.

Whereas, his influence was one of peace, of respect and constructive work to bring young men to a greater development;

Whereas, the effects of his life through his students have been felt not only throughout this country but in foreign lands;

Whereas, at all times and especially during the catastrophe that befell Bennett College in nineteen hundred twenty, he offered the services of A. & T. College;

Whereas, he was a brother to all men;

Whereas, he was loyal to his race, his nation and his country; and

Whereas, it was a blessed benediction to those who had the good fortune to know him as a Christian friend; therefore be it resolved: That the faculty and student body of Bennett College, this sixth day of April, 1925, take this opportunity to express their high appreciation of his faithful and efficient service as an American citizen, as President of A. & T. The Baltimore Federation of Parent Teacher Clubs deeply mourns the passing of Dr. James B. Dudley, and extends to the bereaved family, to the faculty and student body of the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina our profound sympathy.

Resolved: That in the passing of Dr. Dudley our race has lost a foremost educator: That the school of which he was founder and president, has lost an efficient head and administrator; that the faculty and student body have parted with a father and friend; that the community has lost a standard bearer whose place will be hard to fill; that the family is bereft of a loving husband and father; that Heaven has gained another shining spirit.

Be it further resolved that: Since the passing of Dr. Dudley, we, who follow in his steps as educators and friends of the youth of our race, feel called upon to pray and work harder in his chosen field of education, that we may keep aloft the standard which he set and lifted so high.

THE LATE PRESIDENT DUDLEY

His funeral was simple but impressive. Services had to be held in Murphy Hall, the new dining hall, in order to accommodate the students and visitors who were present. Rev. C. C. Stroud, his pastor, presided. Dr. Stroud read a sketch of Dr. Dudley's life, after which he spoke briefly of his usefulness to the church and to the community. Some of the President's favorite hymns were sung, and a few of his visiting friends and co-laborers spoke. Among these were Prof. M. C. S. Noble, Chairman of the Board and for forty-three years his friend and co-worker; Hon. A. M. Scales, former senator, now a member of the Board; Prof. W. C. Jackson, Vice-President North Carolina College for Women, and Dr. J. R. Hawkins, financial secretary of the A. M. E. Church. All paid tribute to Dr. Dudley's gentleness, patience, humility, and anxiety to serve.

There was a mountain of flowers, and hundreds of telegrams of condolence and sympathy. A few of the resolutions, some of which were read, appear below.

Following the services, the body lay in state in Murphy Hall for several hours, after which it was taken to Wilmington, N. C., his native home. Taps sounded, as the body for the last time passed under the arch of A. & T. A specially chartered Pullman carried the family, faculty and friends to Wilmington, where another funeral service was held at St. Stephens' Church.

At this service, as at the service in Greensboro, a large number of distinguished men of both races spoke, among whom were former Judge George Rountree, Dr. C. S. Brown, Prof. G. A. Edwards, Mr. David Bryant, Prof. D. C. Virgo, Prof. W. B. Windsor, and Professor Chas. Epps. All these were lifelong friends of President Dudley, and testified to his usefulness to his race and country. The burial took place in Pine Forest Cemetery, Wilmington, with full masonic ceremony.

President Dudley is survived by his widow, Mrs. S. B. Dudley, and one daughter, Mrs. Vivian L. Jones, whose husband, Dr. S. B. Jones, is health officer of St. Kitts, British West Indies.

EDITORIAL FROM THE GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS

The massive dome surmounting the frame of James B. Dudley was full of wisdom and the great heart of him was true. He may be likened to a brave soldier, fighting the good fight and falling at his post; and indeed he had, and needed, qualities of high courage, high fidelity and of generalship. But it is more fitting to say that a master gardner has completed his day's work, surveyed the labor of his industrious hands, and lain him down to rest.

The span of his busy life stretches back into the day when men were chattel slaves and he was born into that estate. He saw the emergence of a race, his kindred, from involuntary servitude, and the beginning and development of its struggle to achieve freedom from the fetters of circumstance. To that effort of liberation the labor of his life was dedicated, and it was the outpouring of uncommon strength, capacity and devotion. He was an educational leader of his race, a leader in citizenship and himself a citizen for whose services his State will be indebted for all time. He was a diplomat and philosopher, as he needs must be who forms a link between a State dominated by one race, and another race dwelling within it. He was gentle, and had an infinite, beautiful courtesy that could have proceeded only out of a heart brimming with good will to all humanity.

Under Dr. Dudley's administration, the Negro land grant institution, North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College, had a history of expanding usefulness, of constantly broadening service to the race and to the State. His death no doubt was hastened by the labor of the past few months in seeking to show the white leadership of the State the necessity for an increased subsistence to enable the institution to discharge with some degree of satisfaction the duties of an increasing field of opportunity. He had for a long time been carrying on under difficulties that were apparent. A thrombosis of some years since, left evidence that his industry and cheery, wholesome demeanor could not wholly conceal slight impediment of speech and carriage told of a burden of years and its demand that there should be a relaxation from toil. Instead Dr. Dudley continued the struggle to the last ounce of his strength.

He was proud of the school, of the capacities it had aided in training and demonstrating, proud of his State, proud of the kindly relationship of the races in the Greensboro community. He leaves an imperishable monument.

EDITORIAL FROM THE GREENSBORO DAILY RECORD

The death of Dr. James B. Dudley removed from the ranks of the educators of the State, the man who has perhaps done more than any other individual to promote a friendly feeling between the races that dwell in North Carolina.

In his death, the State, and the entire South, suffers an almost irreparable loss. His influence was one of peace, of respect, and of constructive work, to bring to his race a greater development, a wider field of opportunity, and a better chance to be of service to mankind. Such men are valuable. Their work lives on, but the direct value of their presence and their influence is lost.

As we become accustomed to a mountain pushing its shaggy head up into the sky, so we become accustomed to the presence of big men, to whatever race they may belong, and are apt to forget what their works mean, until they are suddenly taken away.

The educational work among the Negroes in North Carolina has been successful. That success is in a large measure due to the influence of Dr. James B. Dudley. The teachers trained under his direction and imbued with his ideas of racial co-operation, went from the doors of the institution which he headed, to the schools of the State, and his influence was multiplied and passed on to thousands of Negroes who are making better citizens for North Carolina because of it.

Dr. James B. Dudley was a diplomat of great ability. Members of the white race listened to his ideas on the development of his race, and Negroes throughout the State, were given a truer vision through his teachings and his influence.

He realized that the future progress of the Negroes was through industry and his school sought to lead its students into industry with the idea that there they would find the opportunity for greatest service. It may have been the industry of agriculture, one of the crafts, or even the great work of teaching, but back of it all was the one idea, that the Negroes must produce service in industry before they tried to reach heights that the white race has attained after thousands of years of patient and toilsome plodding.

The influence of Dr. James B. Dudley will be sadly missed in the educational system of North Carolina. The Negro race has lost a great leader and humanity has lost a friend.

EDITORIAL FROM THE CHARLOTTE NEWS AND OBSERVER

The whole State is a loser in the death of President James B. Dudley, a patriotic leader of the colored race. For nearly twenty years President Dudley has been the executive head of the State Negro Agricultural and Technical College, located at Greensboro. Under his direction that institution has done fine work, he has trained members of his race to skill and industry and worthy living. He knew the needs and his judgment and devotion made the institution expand in right directions. He was a true leader of his race, with poise and patriotism.

CHAIR FUND

We again take this means of expressing to our friends our appreciation for their liberal contributions to the Chair Fund, which have enabled us to re-seat the Dudley Hall Auditorium. We feel that such subscriptions from the citizens of North Carolina will encourage the legislature to make larger appropriations to the College. Some of our subscriptions are overdue and we trust that our friends will pay them as soon as possible, as we have to make payments on the notes each month. If our friends will be kind enough to pay something on their obligations each month, we feel sure that we will be able to meet our obligations.

A. & T. COLLEGE HIGH SCHOOL WINS THE INTER-HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING CHAMPIONSHIP OF NORTH CAROLINA

Defeats Shaw University High School and Triumphs Over Elizabeth City Is Awarded the Dudley Silver Loving Cup

A. & T. College now basks in the sun of forensic glory, for she is the champion of wit and reason. Rich Square Institute, Berry O'Kelly and Elizabeth City survive the preliminaries of March 27, only to perish in the later contest of April 18 at the hands of the merciless crushers of the High School Department of Shaw University. It was but natural that the team which defeated Shaw so decisively that her own student body joined in the applause of a unanimous decision against her, should refuse to be checked.

Because of this double victory against Shaw it was predicted that A. & T. would be the State debating champion when the question, "United States should join the World Court," would again be debated by the survivors of the contest for the Dudley Cup and state championship. This prediction came true with the elimination of Rich Square by default, and Berry O'Kelly in the semi-finals of the afternoon, and the defeat of Elizabeth City in the evening. Both O'Kelly and Elizabeth City were good. It was only by the combination of determination and debating skill that these teams were defeated.

By these victories A. & T. has won a unique and significant distinction. She has the honor of being at the head of the list of the winners of the one hundred dollar Dudley Silver Loving Cup which was just offered to the champions by the late President Dudley before his sudden demise. To be the participants in the debate makes it a most significant victory, champions of the twenty-four standard high schools which

The A. & T. affirmative team was Messrs. N. N. Galloway and W. E. Pitts, with Mr. E. J. Baker as alternate. The negative team was Messrs. B. W. Holloman and M. E. Patterson, with Mr. J. M. Jenkins as alternate.

The debate was highly educational. Many people who were probably indifferent to this great international question had their interest awakened by the facts and issues presented in the debates. The speakers were cool and dispassionate in their delivery; logical in their analysis, and possessed a wide knowledge of the question. The high school debating league of North Carolina deserves praise for the good it has accomplished.

On April 6, Dean F. D. Bluford was appointed by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, to serve as acting president until a permanent successor is elected. Mr. Bluford has been a member of the A. & T. College faculty for nearly 13 years, 6 of which he has been dean of the institution.
