P. B. YOUNG IS TO SPEAK AT OUR COMMENCEMENT

The announcement of commencement and special program features has been made by President F. D. Rutherfurd. On Sunday, May 28, at 3 p.m., Dr. George Washington Carver, President of the Tuskegee Institute, will deliver the commencement address.

In the evening, Miss Lillian Lee, of Charlotte, succeeded Miss L. J. Vick and Hattie J. Wright were chosen to serve as the first and second prize winners. Miss Lee might work in the office to which she has been elected. And with this in mind, we know that the Register for next year will be as much bigger and better paper.

EVENING CLASS IS ORGANIZED

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Price, Jr. are in charge of this class. The first meeting was held on Wednesday, April 5, at the Institute. The first meeting was held on Wednesday, April 5, at the Institute. Success Comes Through Service

Every year there are unheard of from our many institutions of learning, especially those who must face some very vexing problems. This year is no exception to the previous years. Those who are willing to share their experience and advice with a dedicated brother will come out victorious in the end. Despite the determination and effort, this year we have a wonderful opportunity to prove our merit. Seniors need not be afraid to tackle the problems of the world at the moment most much concern.

The field of service is fertile. We need a strong and dedicated team of consumers. Some will leave the idea of knowledge with production in mind, while others will surely fix their sights on becoming what others have produced. The latter individuals constitute a liability to our group. We need more leaders who are willing to sacrifice their all in order that our race might stand on the mound with the more prepared.

Seniors can be of some service in the midst of this devastating depression if they have the will and the desire to do so. To prove that they love their fellowmen can only be exemplified by living lives of service.

Acknowledgement

It is with a deep-seated feeling of gratitude that I am able to give me in this endeavor, that I extend to all wishes for a prosperous summer vacation. I regret that I am unable to personally greet you in person. I am growing to a close, but have reasons to believe the old ship (The Register) will be guided by you, who has acquired some skill in this fascinating undertaking.

Our awards to those who have made success that our labors should always be given willingly without noticeable hesitation. Praise strengthens the ambivalent and brings out the best in mind. I wish to extend my gratitude to Lillian Lee, who has been editor-in-chief of The Register. Miss Lee was one of the staff's most valued workers and her elevation to the much-coveted position is greatly appreciated.

Making a Decision

We have often heard our parents and their friends speak of college life. "There are many temptations," they say, "in the modern college," and so there are. Whatever life there is in the world that is not subject to the influence of intelligent men, it is better without success (for The Register) next year. With the whole-hearted support of the student body, and I can look forward with pride for a school year second to none under the new regime.

Give Honor to Whom Honor Is Due

So often we hear these words, "Give honor to whom honor is due." When one has done well, it is my belief that he should be rewarded. Furthermore, any decision should not be allowed to prevent that which is right. It is in honor of our present editor-in-chief, J. Wellington Wimpy, that this particular piece is written. Since he is about to leave us to go on into another field, I believe that this is the time for the call to the battle black.

The New Deal

As editor-in-chief of the Register, he has been successful in obtaining the complete cooperation of the staff, he has proven to be a responsible person, one who believes that business should come before pleasure.

The editor received little cooperation from the student body at large. Many of the students, however, and yet he has completed the year with many improvements in the material and arrangement of the material itself.

We should have reverence and admiration for the man who, amid obstacles and delays and symptoms of weakness, manages somehow to come out on top.

I am confident of the future, and I believe the present is much more successful than the future.

A. and T. Entertains High School Band

A. and T. invited the High School Band on May 30th, and it was one of the most enjoyable experiences of the year. The band was able to adequately tell all that music means, the true value of music, and all that music is capable of expressing.

When the student must face the momentous decision, it will never pass into nothingness. When the new deal will not prove a scuffle; when it has been handed over to the help of the people; when the well is not a thing of beauty, a very real life is better to stand by a bad decision than to see the unkempt rules in the society.

The Register purports in regard to the American Negro to live as a human being, helping and loving his fellowmen.

This Campus of Ours
To the Senior

Well, folks, this is the time of year that we look forward to festivities, initiation and information. But most of the revels, I understand, are looking forward to commencements. You come on and let’s be merry and wring the last few moments out of your stay. For good or bad, we all have some time to talk about. Ready? Well, here I go.

W. A. Prosko, member of the male glee club, Chemistry Research club, Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, member of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity, North Carolina. Association and Judging team.

Dr. Morning, is now doing graduate work at Madison, Wis. He has one. Rather greedy isn’t it? Modern society.

When is Goodman going to propose? Martha White says if one can’t talk to the other one can. E. Balsey made a touchdown during the absence of I.D. Burden, who was on “Pro.” Martha White says if one can’t talk to the other one can’t. Either one can. E. Balsey made a touchdown during the absence of I.D. Burden, who was on “Pro.”

Miss A. and T., 1932-33, member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity. The other Senior I shall watch them in the next rush.

Goodbye, RUSSETT.

Mr. C. L. Harper, professor of social sciences at the University of Illinois, is now doing graduate work at the University of Wisconsin. M. W. A.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The annual meeting of the American Association of University Women was held at Leominster, Mass., on Wednesday. The delegates to the meeting were elected at the annual meeting of the women last June in the northwestern district.

At the meeting, the women discussed various topics related to higher education and women's rights. The main focus was on the need for more women to pursue higher education and to be represented in academic leadership roles.

The meeting also included a panel discussion on the challenges facing women in the workplace and the importance of networking and mentorship. The women expressed a strong commitment to advocating for gender equality in all aspects of society.

In addition to these educational discussions, the women also engaged in various social activities, including a dinner and a cultural performance. The meeting culminated with a closing ceremony, during which the women honored their achievements and looked forward to the future.

The next regional conference is scheduled for next year in another city, where the women will continue to discuss and work towards advancing women's rights and education.
