SUMMER SCHOOL HAS ENROLLMENT OF 400

Leading Institutions of Higher Education Represented Among Student Group.

A. AND T. COLLEGE LEADS

The 52nd annual Summer School of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College opened June 8, and will continue to Aug. 7, when the summer term begins. Fifty-three colleges are represented with students from all parts of the state and adjoining states. That the college made a strong appeal to many classes of educators from a large section of the country is shown not only from the large number of persons registered in the Summer School but also, from the ever increasing number of colleges represented by graduates or former students. A glance at the registration cards shows that not less than 53 colleges are represented. When we take the fact of the completion of new dormitory in the far southwest with W. A. Hunt, June 29, Blue Ridge Institute, a summer school in Greensboro, Texas, and far west in Ohio State University, this brings the enrollment nearly every state is represented by at least one of the leading institutions of higher learning. While it is impossible to make a complete analysis of enrollment at this

ADDITIONS MADE TO SUMMER SCHOOL STAFF

Departments of Natural Science and Social Science Are Augmented by Outstanding Specialists.

A PRACTICE SCHOOL IS ADDED

Most of the members of the regular college staff are employed in the summer school as usual. In addition, owing to the great increase in summer school attendance, other specialists have been brought to carry on certain work in the departments.

Mr. John F. Edwards, a former student of Cornell University and holding a master's degree from the University of Minnesota, is teaching courses in botany and bacteriology. He was formerly a member of the faculty of Harvard University.

Miss L. E. Hall, who holds an A. B. from College College and an M. S. from Colorado, is giving courses in sociology and geography. Mrs. L. E. Hall is regularly employed at the Junius High School of Greensboro.

Miss Katherine Brogwell, who holds a B. A. in Education and A. M. in English education from the University of Southern Illinois, has charge of the elementary practical school. Miss Brogwell conducted the elementary practical school for three years at North State College in Greensboro. Of her courses are open to instructors in public schools.

Miss Ethyl Wise, has been organized. Of the 71 Greensboro students, representing 36 colleges in the state of North Carolina, 34 are Hortense Galloway and Flossie Robison Alston.

The Get-Acquainted Campaign

Besides attending summer school to raise certificates that bigger jobs and better salaries might be obtained, or to make our stay in college shorter, there is an additional advantage for freshmen.

It is evident that we must acquaint ourselves with books to be used in our courses and instructors who are to teach the classes in our field of study.

The advantages of other people and compare with them your own. Get the opinions of others on some of those problems you are trying to solve.

One author says, "It takes half of us to know what the rest of us are keeping half of us to know it.

None of us are so old as to have to shoulder all the affairs of the world, and so young as to have to shoulder all the affairs of the world, and so young as to have to shoulder all the affairs of the world, and so young as to have to shoulder all the affairs of the world.

This paper will present to the readers of The Register the lessons which we will learn about our hard work and the hard work of others.

The Register

Robert Valenzuela, '35

The staff of The Register wishes to appreciate the splendid support of the whole summer school in publishing the first number of the summer edition of The Register.

We are sure you are justly proud of having the distinction of being the first contributors to this new edition.

Your stay at the college promises you not only an increase on the intellectual side, but also on the material side of your life. Therefore we hope that the success of the Register complements the offers the hearty cooperation.

Summer School Enrollment 1935

This year, the enrollment at A. T. and T. College leads the list with 72 graduates and former students registered. As compared to last year, approximately 125 persons who took courses in the summer school were counted, which represents a little less than one-third of the total number of summer school registrants. The interest shown by the students in these courses indicates their desire to improve their knowledge and skill in the various fields of study.

On the other hand, students who did their undergraduate work in other institutions and who are now attending A. T. and T. College also take an active part in the summer school activities. Many of these students have chosen courses in the summer school in order to complete their work or to acquire new skills.

According to the register college student who has not attended a summer school program, many students have other reasons for choosing the summer school. Some students have particular interest in the classes offered and others take courses to acquire new skills.

The summer school is exceedingly valuable to the students who have chosen to attend it. The classes are well-organized and the instructors are qualified to teach in their respective fields.

HARRISON BECOMES A DOCTOR

The task of formally presenting the degree of Doctor of Philosophy to the President of the State University of North Carolina, joyfully received by the Governor of the State,ordinator Bluford, was assigned to the Dean of the College, Professor G. H. Gibbs, who did it in the following manner:

"In recognition of this unique presentation, in appreciation of the splendid service rendered to the University of North Carolina, and in the name of the people of the State, I present to you the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters, in honor of your achievements and services."
