3-1936

The Register, 1936-03-00

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister

Recommended Citation
North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, "The Register, 1936-03-00" (1936). NCAT Student Newspapers. 34.
https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister/34

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Digital Collections at Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in NCAT Student Newspapers by an authorized administrator of Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. For more information, please contact iyanna@ncat.edu.
Practicing the present school year the A. and T. Alumni with the co-operation of the Registrar's staff are in the process of checking the names of one another and to the present student body the old A. and T. Spirit. The staff has contacted several thousand students to verify that "Old A. and T. Spirit" and the responses have been remarkably good. A number of the graduates of several colleges generally are returning to A. and T. veterans outstanding students while in achieving the standard of A. and T. college spirit during their days as students. It is clearly apparent that the responsive A. and T. Alumni are well held and the pleasant memories of Alumni of A. and T. are well represented. It has been taken for the development of many alumni in activities of various nature while here in school including president of student, alumni association and basketball council, forest economics, metallurgy and various other outstanding extra-curricular activities.

Special Singing Group Created

A Tour and Radio Broadcast Made By Distiguished Alumini

In response to a special request from the pastor of the Church of the University of Washington of N. C., a special group of alumni singers was organized that游"A. and T. Spirit" and the responses have been remarkably good. A number of the graduates of several colleges generally are returning to A. and T. veterans outstanding students while in achieving the standard of A. and T. college spirit during their days as students. It is clearly apparent that the responsive A. and T. Alumni are well held and the pleasant memories of Alumni of A. and T. are well represented. It has been taken for the development of many alumni in activities of various nature while here in school including president of student, alumni association and basketball council, forest economics, metallurgy and various other outstanding extra-curricular activities.

Special Singing Group Created

A Tour and Radio Broadcast Made By Distiguished Alumini

In response to a special request from the pastor of the Church of the University of Washington of N. C., a special group of alumni singers was organized that游"A. and T. Spirit" and the responses have been remarkably good. A number of the graduates of several colleges generally are returning to A. and T. veterans outstanding students while in achieving the standard of A. and T. college spirit during their days as students. It is clearly apparent that the responsive A. and T. Alumni are well held and the pleasant memories of Alumni of A. and T. are well represented. It has been taken for the development of many alumni in activities of various nature while here in school including president of student, alumni association and basketball council, forest economics, metallurgy and various other outstanding extra-curricular activities.
Published monthly during the collegiate year by the students of A. and T. College.

Advertisements reasonable. Subscription rates $1.00 per year.

Articles all communications and corrections to THE REGISTER, A. and T. College, Greensboro, N.C., under the act of March, 1879.

L. F. STROUD, Editor-in-Chief

ALEXANDER W. JONES

Neither wait until the last moments to begin your plans. You have done well, but strive harder next year.

Undoubtedly, examinations are "Kid" and college "boy" has been wise. If he has done his best, he has earned and insipired bits of information that have come from them this season just ending. You have done well, but strive harder next year.

In many instances students who have missed class, spend their parents' money, and even get a pass for the course, are the students that are the most interested in the course. A student entering college should feel it as a task that he has an aptitude for, one that his financial circumstances do not prevent him from performing.

The emphasis needs re-enforced and insipired bits of information that have come from them this season just ending. You have done well, but strive harder next year.

In many instances students who have missed class, spend their parents' money, and even get a pass for the course, are the students that are the most interested in the course. A student entering college should feel it as a task that he has an aptitude for, one that his financial circumstances do not prevent him from performing.

The emphasis needs re-enforced and insipired bits of information that have come from them this season just ending. You have done well, but strive harder next year.

In many instances students who have missed class, spend their parents' money, and even get a pass for the course, are the students that are the most interested in the course. A student entering college should feel it as a task that he has an aptitude for, one that his financial circumstances do not prevent him from performing.
The Old A. & T. Spirit As Told By Those Who Know It

Volumes of it are condensed in these paragraphs. These graduates have cheerfully taken time to contribute

Class of '99

When I was in College there were scholars, and there were sports and socials. These were not separate, but a part of the life of the College. And I am proud of the developments of those two aspects of College life. I was a student at A. & T. College, and I was one of those who were laboring untiringly for the advancement of the College. At that time, the College was doing work on a grander scale than at any previous time. Students were working for a better College and a better future for themselves and their fellow students.

Class of '17

The following graduation day year is devoted to the Institute of Science and Agriculture. The graduation day is an important day for the students of the College, as it is a day on which they are able to show their progress and achievements. The graduates are proud of their accomplishments, and the faculty and the community are proud of the students who have graduated.

Class of '28

I am very grateful for the opportunities that were given me during my college years. The College provided me with a strong foundation in the arts and sciences, and it also gave me the chance to develop my talents and interests.

Class of '31

College Life and Society

We are living in a world where social issues are becoming increasingly important. College students are not only focused on their studies, but they are also concerned with the issues of their time. As a result, college life is becoming more diverse and complex.

Class of '06

J. Milton Rand, B.A. of Washington, D.C. of all of them. Many of the men have been to high schools, and many of them have been to colleges. The names of them should be the envy of any student, as they have had the best of everything.

DEBATING.

And A. and T. was not afraid to do battle with the world. And A. and T. was not afraid to speak up for its beliefs. And A. and T. was not afraid to stand up for what it believed to be right.

Yesterday at A. & T.

Vespers' Song (Three times)

The truth of the statement is borne out by the fact that A. and T. graduates have been able to pursue successful careers in a wide variety of fields. And A. and T. graduates have been able to make a difference in the world.

Class of '06

I am sorry that your activities are not being pursued. I hope that you will not let your activities be discouraged. I hope that you will continue to enjoy and benefit from your activities.

P.S.—I enjoyed receiving the Regiment. I am looking forward to reading more of your articles.

Very sincerely,

J. Milton Rand, B.A.

Baltimore, Md.
The initiation was in charge of Edwin Simmons. Others present were Mrs. Humphrey and Miss Ilaith. Since the weather is over we are striving to attain a high academic standing. We hope that each and every one has a keen interest in this organization. We look forward.

Recently I had the thought of a more pleasant aim, we wish to congratulate Miss Sneed for her splendid showing during the entire quarter.

L. F. PETERS

Ivy Leaf Club

The Ivy Leaf Club of the Alpha Phi Chapter of the A. & R. B. series is proud to announce that it has made a marked improvement since our last writing. The purpose of this club is to try and maintain the highest possible standard. On the other hand, if we are not able to measure up to such standards we will be justly rewarded.

We have, well we are again at our old post. Many things have happened since our last writing. They have been an exciting time. A basketball team after starting off hot, has run itself into a funk. The football team has had two games, the first from Lincoln (O.) and the second from Henderson (ark.) in the 17th. These two games have been marred by the absence of Coach Schmoeckel. The entire group has felt much too bad that the game was not represented as an "assessing fashion.

Grads From Ao. Dept.

Along with the activities and achievements of the university as a whole members of the agricultural department have done further study. Some of these students have gone on to graduate study. Some have come back to do other fields. In this quarter the following graduates from the agricultural department of the college were further studied:

Mr. S. E. Johnson, P. D. of agriculture, A. & T. College.
Mr. W. L. U. Johnson, Son of Professor W. L., A. & T. College.
Mr. W. H. H., district agent of commercial work, Franklin County, N. C.
Mr. E. T. C. of agriculture, A. & T. College, Alamance, N. C.
Mr. J. L. St. B. of agriculture, Lincoln University, New York.
Mr. B. B. Barrett of agriculture, N. C. A. & T. College.

S. B. Simpson, graduate study, graduate of North Carolina College.
C. L. Spelman, reality agent, Oxford, N. C.
Mr. B. A. Rosner, deacon, practicing law, Washington, D. C.
Mr. A. W. S. of education, N. C. A. & T. College.

The Mu Psi Chapter of the Ome Gamma Club has held their own so far while in Greensboro, N. C.

Ivy Leaf Club Pres.: J. D. R.; Sec.: L. M. L.; Rec.: S. W. C.; Treas.: C. C. G.; Executive Body.

M. YVONNE HAYES

Sear's is headquarters for sporting goods

SEAR'S

Beverage, Wines, Cocktails. All Kinds of Smokes, Sandwiches, Dine and Cigars.

B. & B. DELICATESSEN

Beer, Wines, Cocktails. All Kinds of Smokes, Sandwiches, Dine and Cigars.

East Market Street

Grocers, N. C.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the last few decades the field of vocational guidance and vocational selection has been explored. Some have been either called or asked to discuss this important study while others have expressed their thoughts on a particular problem. Some have been able to state their views on the study while others have been asked to do so.

Vocational guidance is a highly select faculty. They select the kind of individuals who are going to go into certain careers and only in terms of physical and mental characteristics. It is often a question of how well one may make his greatest contribution to the advancement of the individual and the country. Vocational selection is an attempt to foster the growth of that which is of most value to the individual, the community, and the country.

Vocational selection has been a very popular topic in the last few years. Industry and business have been urging for a greater number of students to enter into the vocations that would be most suited to their abilities and interests. Thus, the question of vocational selection becomes the most important one at this time for the changing conditions. Vocational guidance and vocational selection are the same in that they are both concerned with the student. Unfortunately, their aims are not the same. Though an individual may be interested in a certain occupation, it does not mean that he is best fitted for it either. It must be remembered that the vocational guidance and vocational selection are both concerned with the student.

There are some factors, however, that are involved in the process. For example, there are definite objectives involved in the process. First of all there are definite objectives involved in the process. These objectives may be stated as an "assessing fashion.

How Would It Be?

If you were a graduate of A. & T. College, what would you do? Would you attend graduate school? Would you go into business? Or would you go into some other line of work?

Johnnie Jenkins was a graduate of A. & T. College. He attended graduate school for a year and then went into business. He has been very successful.

Would you like to be a graduate of A. & T. College?

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.

The Problem of Vocational Selection

By D. C. L. Cooper

Much has been said and done about the problem of vocational selection. Recent developments in vocational guidance have given rise to a number of questions in the field. These questions have been raised by various persons and organizations and have been the subject of much discussion.

Vocational guidance and selection are unique problems that require careful consideration. They involve the choice of a career and the determination of the most suitable occupation for an individual. The problem of vocational guidance and selection is not only a personal problem but also a social problem.