Thanksgiving Classic To Feature Arggies and Eagles

Record Crowd Expected

The annual Thanksgiving classic has become both the two strongest teams of North Carolina; namely, A. T. and N. and North Carolina. The game always draws a tremendous crowd.

The rivalry between these two schools has been going on for a considerable period of time. Preceding 1934, the Eagles held the state championship for three years in succession. But since that time Coach Adams has not developed squads to Malone, Withoutmore and many of the other "greats" of the Tar Heel gridiron. But we note Sade, Holness and Johnson, who are rather consistent linemen. We refer to "handyback" football are determined to check every Arggie play.

The record for the Eagles (so far) is rather impressive but not as good as that of former years. They have lost to the Bluefields and other win over Fayetteville State Normal, Paul, B. Augustine and Shaw. This type of athletic program is "sustaining" a lack of experience in the last season. In Mullinax have emasculated in sum and have made many falls and songs to imitate the Aggies.

This type of athletic program will give the "infantile" students the chance to play on the "inmates" of the football teams. For it seems that the Aggies are warning the coming season. They will be hard to beat.

The Arggies, like the Eagles, have also suffered reverses this season. So far this season they have lost to Paul, Chaffins and Virginia Union. And lost to V. S. Straight, Hampton and Morgan. From the record we are to give A. T. the edge over State again this year. This prophecy in made in a sort of dubious manner, however, for the season is not over and the Eagles are slow in making.

The tricky trio comprising Capt. Hal-les, Holness and Blanken are such to take advantage of such a weakness and make the most of it as other teams. Unfortunately the Arggie show better form than in last year. In this season there is no telling what will happen.

A record crowd, as usual, will be expected on that day.

Dr. Dixon is Heard

Dr. Russell Dixon, Dean of the Dental School at Howard University, spoke in a special gathering of the student body on Nov. 10. The gathering was held in connection with the "Education and Practice of Dentistry." He stated at the outset that dentistry is not the business of anyone to dentistry, but his remarks were mainly directed to those students interested in dentistry. He stressed the need for government aid to the dental schools, for the example of Missouri, with 1,000-1000 Negroes and one Negro Dental School.

Inquiring Reporter Interviews Prof. Brooks

On July 8, 1936 Professor A. R. Brooke, head of the English Department, said in the street, "Mary" for France, arriving at Charleston, where he engaged in a train for Paris, arriving in that city on the 14th of July which is celebrated throughout France as Bastille Day. The day was celebrated in Statler and checking out the facts and communists and in doing so.

While in Paris, Professor Brooks visited the University of Paris, Notre Dame, Luxembourg, the Bastille, and other historic spots. Upon being asked by the reporters if he was afraid of Baro prejudice, Mr. Brooks replied, "Baro was a better man as his name shows during his sojourn in Paris. There were many Black men and women who were so.

From Paris to our traveller crossed the English Channel to visit the Aggie shows better form than in last year. This prophecy is made in a sort of dubious manner, however, for the season is not over and the Eagles are slow in making.

Several hundred years ago when America was young, there came to this country a number of people called the Pilgrims, who came in search of Religious Freedom. Arriving and finding a world unknown, and other, they met with many favorable situations and were able to establish the country by the year 1620. Not only did they meet with much difficulty in getting adjusted to the climate and life of the country, but also they had to solve the problem of making provision for their homes and children from the cold in this little place where they had landed.

It was a hard, cruel winter and they made out the best they could. Going to and fro in the snow, searching for food and other necessities of life many lives were lost. The Pilgrims were close at hand upon eternity.

Then came spring. Spring with its rain and sunshine, offering hope for a goodness to a small band of winter beaten Pilgrims. Through all these trials they remained faithful and full of hope. Harvest was plentiful that year and those people and their families were able to grow back, and their strength, their horse.

And Black Boy, you have won!!!

The ideal Freshman will have decided what field or line of study he will pursue when he leaves high school. He will have completed courses in the sciences of life many lives were lost in this little place where they set anchor and made their home.
