Second Father-Son Banquet Held Here

The second annual Father and Son Banquet and judging contest of New Farmers of America of Guilford County was held at A. and T. College Tuesday, May 11. The judging was carried on at the college farm between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Teams representing the following schools were present: Brown Summit, Goshen School, Summerfield, Florence High, Mt. Zion School, Gibsonville. The Banquet which started at 6:45 p. m. in Noble Hall went over with great success. Much credit is due Miss Crawford and the Home Economics girls of A. and T. College for planning the menu. The program was as follows:

Toastmasters, Summerfield President; Song, Agricultural Association Quartet; Welcome, President of Agricultural Association; Objectives of N. F. A. Organization; Solo, J. Barnhill; Greetings, President Bluford of A. and T. College; My Project Program for 1937, Presidents of Local Chapter; Ad-

SUPERLATIVES FOR YEAR CHOSEN

Each year the election of the Superlatives is one of the most anticipated events of the Spring season. This contest is sponsored by The Register Staff and its members are not allowed in the competition.

A number of new features were added to the list this year which served to enliven the interest in the election as a whole. However, it seemed to us that out of, perhaps, eight hundred students there should have been a larger registration than some three hundred.

The complete list is as follows:

N. B.—In each case the name of the woman appears first.

Most Pleasing Personality: Sammie Etta Selden, Darlington, S. C.; Alexander Corbett, Jr., Lake Waccomaw, N. C.

Most Versatile: Pearl Garrett, Greensboro, N. C.; William McClain, Columbus, Ohio.

Most Talented: Veda J. Spellman, Royal Oak, Ind.; Frank H. McDuffie, Laurinburg, N. C.

Most Collegiate: Helen Galloway, Greensboro, N. C.; Jack Johnson, Hickory, N. C.

Most Philosophical: Lois Russell, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Van Foster, Kannapolis, N. C.

Most Eccentric: Marion Drayne, East Spencer, N. C.; Jasper Bridges, Greensboro, N. C.

Wittiest: Helene Biggers, Gastonia, N. C.; J. C. Gill, Jr., Elizabethtown, N. C.

Most Comical: Bernice, La Junta, Cal.; Leon Bailey, Boston, Mass.

Most Studious: Alberta Whitsett, (Continued on Page 6)

John T. Graves, II and Dr. Wm. L. Imes To Be Finals Speakers

Approximately 65 Students To Get Degrees; Program Announced

Approximately sixty-five students will receive their B.S. degrees at the thirty-ninth Annual Commencement of the College which will begin June 4 with the All-Student banquet in Murphy Hall and close with the literary address to the graduating class in the Gymnasium on June 7.

Mr. John Temple Graves, II, of Birmingham, a native of Rome, Ga., who holds the degree of A.B., from Princeton University and LL.B. from George Washington University and who has served on the editorial staffs of some of the leading publications in the country will deliver this address. Mr. Graves' experiences in international affairs, as an economist of the Federal Trade Commission and as an author, makes him an admirable speaker for this occasion.

Dr. William Lloyd Imes, pastor of the St. James Presbyterian Church, New York City, a native of Memphis, Tennessee, who holds both his bachelor's and master's degrees from Fisk University, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 6. Dr. Imes earned his B.D. degree from Union Theological Seminary and a second master's degree from Columbia University. Today, he is recognized as one of the foremost pulpiteres of the race.

Following the precedent of former years, there will be a musical by the vocal groups, a band concert on the green, class day exercises and the annual alumni meeting and luncheon. An entirely new feature, however, will take place at the Student Banquet, when the members of the graduating class, who have done meritorious work in the production of The Register for at least two years, will be awarded keys or medals for their services.

The complete Commencement program follows:

Student Banquet, June 4, Murphy Hall, 8:00 p. m.; Senior Class Day, June 5, Dudley Hall, 3:00 p. m.; President's Reception for Senior Class and Visitors, June 5, President's home, 4:00-6:30 p.m.; Annual Recital—Music and Physical Education Depts., June 5, College Gymnasium, 8:30 p. m.; Baccalaureate sermon, June 6, College Gymnasium, 5:30 p. m., Dr. Wm. Lloyd Imes, Pastor, St. James Presbyterian Church, New York.

Business meeting of Alumni, June 7, Dudley Hall, 10:00 a. m.; Alumni Luncheon, June 7, Murphy Hall, 1:30 p.m., *Open House, June 7, 2:00-4:00 p.m.; Band Concert on Lawn, 4:00 p.m.; Commencement Exercises, College Gymnasium, 7 p.m., Mr. John Temple Graves, II.

*All departments of the College will be open for inspection. Art Exhibition opens Friday.

1937-38 "Y" LEADERS

Reading, left to right: Mr. Carter Foster and Miss Willene Miller, recently elected Presidents of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., respectively.

W. H. Gamble Follows V. C. Stroud As Editor In Chief of Register

New Staff Elected; Willene M. Miller Is Managing Editor

In the recent Staff election, William H. Gamble, Thomasville, N. C., was chosen to succeed Virgil C. Stroud, as Editor-in-Chief.

The new editor is the secretary of the newly formed Colored Intercollegiate Press, has served faithfully on the staff for the past two years and has made himself conspicuous in various activities during his stay here. With the very able staff that he has to assist him, he is expected to produce and maintain, and even raise, the standard that has thus far been built up thru hard work and earnest endeavor.

Graduation leaves only six members excepting the new editor to work with and guide the policies of the new members. These six members are: Ruth E. Williams, Washington, N. C., managing associate editor; Willene M. Miller, Charlotte, N. C., managing editor; James Pendergrast, Philadelphia, Pa., business manager; Loretta Bagwell, Spartanburg, S. C., managing social editor; Julia Snead, Farmville, Va., circulating manager and Doris E. Boyd, New Bern, N. C., managing feature editor.

The new members showing considerable promise as staff additions are: Carter Foster, William Gilmore, Alberta Whitsett, and Fannie Nicholson (associate editors); Amelia Stanford, Eunice Medley, I. Snipes, Ida Scurlock and Ruth Nicholson, reporters, I. Hilliard, sports, Willa M. Johnson and Ma-

ABLE REPRESENTATIVE CHOSEN FOR TITLE

The highlight of the spring quarter this year was the annual contest sponsored by the Women's Council of the college for the title of Miss A. and T. The voting took place on Wednesday afternoon, May 12, 1937, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. The returns were announced at 6 p. m. that same evening.

Miss Izora Jones of Norlina, N. C. won the coveted place with more votes than the other three candidates combined. Miss Jones is a member of the present Junior class, and is an officer of Alpha Phi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Sorority.

The candidates for the title were as follows:

Izora Jones	196 votes
Loretta Bagwell	143 votes
Cora Haith	13 votes
Geraldine Pinn	7 votes

Rain Halts N. C. I. A. Tourney; St. Augustine Scores

Because of the inclement weather, the Third Annual North Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis Tourney, held here May 15, was not completed.

In the singles, St. Augustine had advanced to the finals in one bracket. In the other bracket, St. Augustine and Teacher College (Winston Salem) were playing the semi-finals. The count when midnight called the game, was: one set each; the third set tied at 8-all.

The doubles saw St. Aug. and A. and T. emerge as final contenders for the crown. Like the singles, however this match was not held.

Participating institutions were: J. C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C.; Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C.; Teachers College Winston-Salem, N. C., St. Augustine, (Continued on Page 4)

College Spirit

If our college faculties had the academic courage and academic patriotism which our people have to demand of them, most of the evils of college life would disappear. The worst training a young man can have is that of physical and intellectual idleness. Free education should be reserved for those who have the mind and will to receive it. There is no education without effort. Those who do not want an education have no place in college. A firm insistence on the demands of scholarship would do away with rowdiness.

Of the same nature is hazing, with this difference, that hazing is essentially the coward's part. It is a half dozen against one, and always involves the rights and liberties of free men. Such affairs are not indications of college spirit. They are not, like amateur athletics, in aid of the good name of the college. It adds nothing to the glory of the institution that the papers are full of her hair cutting scrapes of her freshmen and sophomores.

Our student bodies as well as our college faculties have been too tolerant of petty trickery. This is shown in student elections. The man of college spirit will vote for the best representative of the college. Cheating in examinations is of a piece with cheating in politics. A sound college spirit finds no place for such things.

If I Were A Freshman Again

"Oh, if I were only a freshman again!" If I only had my college career to go over again. If I only knew some of the things at the beginning of my college life that I know now, how differently

History of the Class of '37

By ALEXANDER CORBETT, '37

Age is not all decay; it is the ripening, the swelling of the fresh life within that withers and bursts the husk—Each age is a dream that is dying, or one that is coming to life.

We the class of '37 have come through the following ages:

Chapter I. The Age of Ignorance

In the year of our Lord 1933, in the 9th month and the 16th day of that month, there entered into

I would have done. How much more I would have gained in knowledge, grades and fellowship with both students and professors." These are the thoughts of the average man who looks back on his college life.

This is especially written for agricultural freshmen so that in the future they will have no further regrets.

The growls of the aggies, the glitter of fraternity lights, the perfume of Greensboro's femininity, and other minor attractions, side track and even derail many a well meaning freshman from the major purpose in college which should be to gain an education worthy of the time and money expended which will prepare him for his life's work in both its technical and social aspects. These attractions are a part of the student life and activity to be sure, but are minor attractions which should be participated in as recreational functions, and with the major portion of their time being given to studies.

The major purpose of college is to provide a period of training to fit men for their life work. To measure the degree to which this is being accomplished the college sets forth certain requirements, and grades the students on their achievements at the completion of their assigned duties. These grades are the measure by which one is rated and it should be the purpose of freshmen to make good grades first, and then divide other time among other activities. A mere bookworm is a pitiful sight in college or elsewhere, for there are so many other phases to life and especially college life, that much is lost if all the time is devoted to books, for first hand knowledge and experience abound on the campus.

One of the greatest achievements that a student can make is being made a member of some fraternity. Being in a fraternity sponsors a feeling of intimate brotherhood for each of its members.

Many other openings are available to students who can carry their work and have time for other things. But the things are more than worthy of the sacrifice required in their attainment. If it were a matter of difference between a mark in a course or participation in some activity, there is no doubt that by participating in such activity the student will gain enough inspiration alone to more than offset the time taken, which will in turn reflect itself in college studies. Best wishes.

Leroy R. Johnson, '37.

this land of learning 144 seekers of knowledge. Some from big cities, small towns, corn fields and cane breaks from all over the country. For many months we had been storing our minds with the honey of wisdom, getting ready for college. Would we realize our dreams here? We were to find out during the latter ages. Soon we got registered, finally, and as it were, we were received with wild welcomings and rejoicings by those who it was decreed should henceforth lead us to the by-ways of learning.

Likewise, it also came to pass that we were received with malicious glee by a very unreasonable, yet happy band of "know-alls" then known as "Sophomores" who carried with them straps, shears, and clippers accompanied by a very strong taste in their mouths for "Freshman blood." We took our medicine though bitter and as we dwelt in this land we fell in the custom of the inhabitants thereof. The strangeness wore off, our hair got curly, our shoes were shined and in fact, we were "Remarkable fellows." The winter quarter came and passed and before we knew it, it was time to go home for summer vacation. It was interesting to watch the budding Freshmen joyfully packing to go home and spread the news about college.

Chapter II. The Age of Wisdom

We entered upon the second age with a smaller group numbering 125. There came from the adjoining territory a new group of freshmen looking up to us, the class of '37 in our new dignity and promotion, still we remembered our greenness and treatment just one year prior. "Do unto others as others did unto you" was our motto, so we caught the new greenies, dusted them out until they were full of sorrow. That year being the second milestone of our way was well spent, we thought. Gone were the days when we held as our motto: "Ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

And behold, as the class went on its way in great rejoicing through the land of plenty and promise, many of its comrades cried into them in a loud voice saying, "Leave us for we cannot keep pace with you." And as they spoke, even so did the class listen and had compassion on them, and it was done unto them even as they asked.

Chapter III. The Age of Confidence

"He can who thinketh he can." Adopting this as our guiding principle, we plunged into our junior year in the face of '35 with still a smaller number. This time only 98, yet full of confidence in our ability to uphold the dignity of our position and reach our cherished goal—Sincerity.

We closed the year feeling that we had spent it wisely and profitably.

Chapter IV. The Age of Dignity

Now, this, the fourth and last age of this great and wonderful class of '37 has been one of much labor. In the home stretch we came on the track with 105. The age of dignity has been an age of authority.

TO THE GRADUATE

B. JARRETT WHYTE

We had tried all sizes of class advisors and presidents but each time they were matched. This time it was suggested that we Kriss Cross them, so the class chose Louis (Runt) Richards for president and Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Class Advisor.

And it also came to pass that the class, finding itself most brave, chose for one of its colors the the crimson hue of courageous blood, and for the other, cream for symbol of superbness. And they did blend together the crimson and cream which was to proclaim unto the world that they did ever mean to be superb men and women in the great land toward which their steps were directed.

Then it straightway came to pass that members of the class began to write down the deep and wonderful thoughts such as no one ever thought before since the world began upon sheets so that the people who should come with them to listen to words of deep meditation, should not be turned away disappointed.

Since beginning last September with 105 there are some whose feet grew heavier and heavier and they have lagged behind and would not move ahead unto the gate. So with tear-dimmed eyes and much sorrow did the class of 30 and (7) seven bid farewell and passed on without them.

And so, ladies and gentlemen, the number at the end of the fourth year is 64?

So it has come to pass that the 144 that entered this land of learning, only 64 will depart, for verily, verily, I say unto you, that broad is the gate and wide is the way that leadeth to college and many there be that go therein; but straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth to graduation, and few there be that find it.

Four years hath the class of 30 and seven sojourned in this land and gathered in large portions of the fruit from the orchard of knowledge. But it is written: In the day when ye shall have eaten of all these fruits, ye shall surely be driven forth from the land! Now, I say unto you, they must depart—thence, to each a separate way, to lands they know not of, to do, they know not what. The class of 30 and seven can say two things that no other class has ever said and most certainly no other class will ever be able to say. They are:

1. Class of '37 composed of 64 members was the first to see a C. I. A. A. Basketball Championship won by A. and T.

2. The first to graduate after A. and T. received "A" rating by Southern Association for Colleges and secondary schools.

Finally, let us not be weary in well doing for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

And now may each prosper and live as long as we like, and have what we like as long as we live.

Alexander Corbett, Jr., '37.

Why We Humans Are So Narrow

Have we ever paused long enough to think or wonder why we as humans are so narrow? No. We have not. We do not even know the meaning of the word narrow, but it is time for us as college students to wake up, to look around us, and think.

A narrow person is one who is prejudiced to others, because they possess more beauty, brains, talent, common sense, and a number of other qualities not found in a narrow person. We should be broad-minded enough to know that we all can not have beauty, brains, talent, or common sense, but we all can develop a personality that will outshine those qualities that we do not possess. After all the blind should not lead the blind or they will both be in the dark forever.

This narrow spirit has taken a heavy-lead-way on this campus recently, which should be stopped before it goes too far. So why not start thinking today—Don't do or say a thing just because John Doe said or did it. Think for yourself—Stand on your own feet—WAKE UP AND LIVE!

To Us On Class Day

"The years have flown on Time's swift wheel,
The months have sped so fast;
And now on this the Day of Days
We graduate at last.

Behind us stretch long wealths of joy,
With sometimes tears and woe,
But just ahead we catch a glimpse
Of Future's shining glow.

A Great Adventure opens wide
Long avenues of thrills;
There's conquest or achievements there
For each of us who wills.

Now classmates, let us heed the call—
Fling far resisting fear,
And enter with our youthful zest

Upon the quest so near.
Seek for the highest good there is,
Give of your very best,
Then better that best if you can,
Meet well Life's every test.

Farewell to the school we have known,
Welcome, the way ahead;
Goodbye, familiar faces and paths,
Hail, new avenues to tread."

DELTA CELEBRATE MAY-WEEK

The Alpha Mu Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority recently observed its Annual May-Week program, May 3rd to May 7th. The Sorority brought to the student-body many interesting programs.

The Alpha Mu Chapter gave the opening program, which was dedicatory in theme. The club song of each Sorority and Fraternity was played as a toast to them. Soror Matilda Johnson, President, presided.

On Wednesday morning, Soror Beatrice Jones presided. They brought to us, Soror Johnstone, Professor of English at Bennett College, whose lecture was well received by the entire audience.

The climax was reached on Friday morning at 10 a. m. when Soror Martha B. Sutton, Professor of Music, Barber-Scotia Jr. College, Concord, N. C., dramatic soprano, appeared in recital at the College Gym. Soror Julia Sessoms, head of the Physical Education Department of A. and T. College served as accompanist.

Because of graduation, the Sorority will lose four of its outstanding members: Sorors Beatrice Jones, Superintendent of the Sunday School, (the first time in the history of the college a young woman has held the position), Sammie Sellers, president of the Y. W. C. A., Ella Edwards, Vice-President of the Alpha Mu Chapter of The Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and an active member of the Choral Club, and Minnieola Mason, Treasurer of the Business Club and Humor Editor of the College Register.

But the sorority feels confident that the able work of those members will be continued by the other sorors: Lena Mae Johnson, Matilda Johnson, Estelle Smith, (the winner of the "Most Beautiful Girl" on the campus for two consecutive years), and Gertrude Mathews, plus the fine work that will come from the recently made sorors, who take in all the states from New York to Georgia.

They are Sorors:
Ruth Williams, Washington, North Carolina, Miss A. and T. for 1936-'37, and a member of the Gamma Tau Honorary Society.
Loretta Bagwell, Spartanburg, South Carolina, Runner-up for Miss "A. and T." for 1937-'38, and a very active member of the Dramatic Club.
Charlotte Johnson, New York, N. Y., who can write 125 words a minute—shorthand of course, but if you think it's easy, try it sometimes.
Julia Snead, Farmville, Virginia, who is the Circulating Manager of the Register, and a frequent member of the "A" Honor Roll.
Eliza Carroll, Warrenton, N. C., who is loved by the students for her friendly ways and charming manners.

Georgia Willis, Albany Georgia, who is known the city over for her personality and poise.

Willa Mae Johnson, Newark, New Jersey—who has won every Speed Test held this year in Typing. She can type one hundred words a minute with ease.

Lillian Cooper, New York, N. Y., Treasurer of The Women's Council. Miss Cooper's dramatic ability is known from Maine to California.

Helene Biggers, Gastonia, North Carolina, who has been on the 'A' Honor Roll for 3 1-2 years. She is President of the Dramatic Club.

Love Willis, Albany, Ga., President of The Business Club and the first girl to appear in concert with the College Band. She plays a "Sax."

Read The Last Issue of Naomi of A. & T.

Good Bye, my friends, good bye for the summer. May you a pleasant vacation spend.

My Homies Are Somebody Dear Naomi of A. & T.:

Somehow, I am left out of things. There are about four of us who are homies. Each of them, excepting myself, has been outstanding in some one or more things, football, debating, men's glee club, or something. Their names go in the paper, but mine, never. Mamma has asked me why. She said that she wanted her son to do something and really be somebody. I am not over-talented but if given a chance believe that I could do such things as be president of my class, chairman of a Y. M. C. A. committee, hold some responsible office job, or even be President of the Student Council, for that matter. Once, I was the reporter for a campus club, but was not reelected, and have not since been nominated for any distinguished position when the Spring elections are made for the next school year. Naomi, please tell me why?

M.

Dear M.:

Yours is the case of many an A. & T. young man who never gets to rise any higher than an ordinary, concentric, unpopular student. You are talented, you say. Then you really have the wares, but just don't know how to show them.

On the campus, you must let your schoolmates know what you can do, but more, if you wish to climb and climb high, you must be enthusiastic about whatever you do. Brimful of vim, then like a polished diamond will you sparkle, and your schoolmates will be able to see and appreciate your talents and utilize their value.

Enthusiasm is the quality that makes a man express belief with intensesness and sincerity needed to convince others of his worth. The man who is enthusiastic simply overflows with his belief in himself, he conserves his powers and applies them with a concentrated will to succeed that inspires confidence in others. I stress this trait because it is essential and as a rule distinguishes the man who rises to a position of any responsibility.

M, have you ever studied your personality? You understand, of course, what I mean by the term. It is all-inclusive and taken analytically might be subdivided into hundreds of traits. It is the blending of several positive attributes, such as enthusiasm, sincerity, friendliness, earnestness, depth, tact, imagination, health, vitality, and so on. These attributes taken together round out the man and form a character that instinctively we like, we admire, and trust. He must not neglect, however, certain little things in speech, dress, manner and deportment. Superficially these may seem unimportant, but if ignored, may and often will prove a severe handicap to success.

A man whose positive traits are developed into a strong personality will do far more with a given situation than a man who has made no conscientious effort to develop his powers in general.

M, don't let your homies walk away with all the honors. How will you be able to face your Mother? You can be somebody on the campus, your name can appear in The Register and The Journal and Guide, you can become the president of some organization. . . your success is largely under your own control, and if you will only generate the driving force of enthusiasm, and place it behind each and all of your activities, that is, when you are up before the student body to do anything or to serve your schoolmates in any way, do it with all your might, then they will believe in you and elect you to prominent positions, put you on the top, your great ambition. Remember, that enthusiasm is the steam that drives the engine, the yeast that leavens the mass of dough.

This school term is completed, but beginning with September, I want you to be a changed man, to begin then and there establishing yourself on the campus. Find out how many personality traits you do not possess, acquire them, sort out those that are weak, improve on them, bring to light those that are undesirable, exterminate them, and you will be a new man and a compelling and attractive power for all students. You will win out where another student, who is deficient in those qualities (and especially enthusiasm) because he has neglected to develop them, will fail. Only the student who persistently seeks out his weaknesses and strives to eradicate them by the development of positive traits, can hope to climb, climb high . . . and succeed.

—NAOMI of A. & T.

WE ARE MET

Thoughts while trying to write my thesis: Usually when you see a girl flirting with various fellows she is trying to find a place to roost but when you see various fellows flirting with the girl she has them trying to find a place to roost. Ou tenez-vous? Prattling . . . After each affair given in our Gym and, formerly in the Ag building, between fifteen and twenty dollar's worth of paper (decoration) is swept out and burned. Conservatively estimating, if eight affairs are given each season, between one hundred and twenty and one hundred and sixty dollars in paper are burned. In the last four years between four hundred and eighty and six hundred and forty dollars, in paper, needlessly have been burned; in the last ten years between twelve hundred and sixteen hundred dollars. We are not so poor after all. . . Smoking cigarettes at fifteen cents a pack, two or three packs a week, per thirty-six weeks, cost between ten dollars and eighty cents and sixteen dollars and twenty cents. . . Attending the cinema—ditto. . . Professor Miller's lectures don't serve as sleep producers, as some. . . Laughs. . . J. Cirt Gill's, John Gee's, Leon McDougall's. . . A liberal estimate gives three strings in place in our last annual May pole wrap . . . Women are voguing; men are Esquiring. . . This phrase "more or less" something or other. . . Can it be? . . . Flowers to Professor Lawson. He is doing a grand job with the Choral Society and Men's Glee Club. . . "Gone With the Wind" is to be produced by a moving picture company. All new stars are to be used. . . Dean Gibbs, in an ordinary recitation period has used the word "yes" seventy times. He averages about thirty-eight per period. In one period a day for one school year we get about four thousand "yesses" for four years about one hundred sixty thousand. Rather working that little word, don't you think? Or do you? . . . College students, it is said, represent the cream of the population. Some of us have curdled, though. . . More students go to breakfast on Wednesday, Fridays and Sundays because cereals are served. . . Question: What does "You can be had mean?" . . . An etiquette club might find an unexploited field amongst some of us. . . Women don't seem to know that tennis matches are not football games where yelling is necessary—neither do some men.

Heard in passing: Fresh Frosh: "Which class do you have the next hour?" Smart Soph: "United States History." Fresh Frosh: But, I thought you registered for Negro History?" Smart Soph: "I did, but—well, you see we read the Negro History on the side and Dean Gibbs teaches us United States History." A law should be passed requiring all Freshman to bring along with their sheets, pillow cases and counterpanes, a towel. What about those of us who are Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors?

What Is Happiness

The last issue of this column was based on the fallacy, "We Grow Happier As We Grow Older." Again I'm attempting to prove another fallacy, "as we grow older, we lose our illusions." I suppose you might say that you do not care to lose your illusion, but certainly you do. Have you stopped to think what happens when you lose an illusion? Everytime your lose an illusion you gain a new idea. Ideas are more interesting than illusions. The world as it is, men and women as they are, are more worth knowing than fancy pictures created by ignorance and inexperience.

We are told that youth is happy because youth looks on the world through rose-colored glasses. I have no desire to look at the world in such a way, and I don't think that you have. Listen to what the poet, Robert Browning, at the age of seventy-seven wrote: Friend, did you need an optic glass, Which were your choice? A lens to drape In ruby, emerald chrysopters, Each object—or reveal its shape Clear outlined, past escaped, The naked very thing?—so clear That, when you hold the chance to gaze, You found in inmost self appear Through outer seeming—truth ablaze, Not falsehood's fancy-haze?

If the happiest person is the person who thinks the most interesting thoughts, we are bound to grow happier as we grow older, because our minds have more and more interesting thoughts. A well-ordered life is like climbing a tower; the view half way up is better than the view from the base, and it steadily becomes finer as the horizon expands.

Herein lies the real value of education. Advanced education may or may not make men and women more efficient; but it enriches personality, increases the wealth of the mind, and hence brings happiness.

In the conclusion of this column for the year, think of life with all its sorrows and cares; life with all its perplexities and heart breaks, is more interesting than bovine placidity, hence more desirable. The more interesting it is, the happier it is, and the happiest person is the person who thinks the most interesting thoughts.

POETS CORNER

To Mother

A sonnet to my Mother on Mother's Day Mother, at thy pedestal. Today I humbly kneel; With a faith that cannot falter I am seeking for my mother, O'er the earth so waste and wide; Today though we are parted As ever my heart is with you.

I have seen thy picture often, And it ever seems to soften, All my sorrows with its charm. So I want thee, darling, mother, In God's gentle arms to rest; And to share with Him forever That sweet pillow on his breast. Mary Ward, '37.

My Plight

Oh! where shall I go, oh where shall I be, When the wrath of God is not trailing me. If I mount upon the highest old hill, The wrath of God will follow me still; Down, down in the sea, there his wrath will be; Then where shall I go or where shall I be When the wrath of God is not trailing me.

Up, up in the sky someday I may go But up there I know we reap what we sow. Up there I see his wrath still trailing me; Then where shall I go or where shall I be, When the wrath of God is not trailing me.

From iron I may build a house or a cave, I may even go down in some lonely grave, But ah! I will give up in great despair; For the wrath of my God will meet me there; Then where shall I go or where shall I be. When the wrath of God is not trailing me. Otis Gerringer, '38.

The Women's Council News

The Women's Council whose purpose is to enact and enforce laws; to present the highest standards of honor and integrity in all matters of personal conduct; to strengthen the cordial relations between faculty and students; to increase the sense of individual responsibility and encourage active cooperation in the work of self-government; and to form an official body to give expression to the opinions of the students in matters of general college interest, held election Wednesday night, May 12 for the cabinet for the term '37-'38.

The following officers were elected: Eva Mae Council, president; Doris Boyd, vice president; Georgia Venters, secretary; Willie Weaver, corresponding secretary; Lillian Cooper, treasurer; Julia Parker, assistant treasurer; Veda Spellman, chaplain; Marguerite Williams, chairman of program committee; and Ruth Nicholson, chairman of Ways and Means Committee.

Life

Life is that illusion Which leads man on— To another; illusion, Beyond which lies That reality—God.

Each

Each flower has its place within a garden; Each garden its place within a wall; So, each friend has his place within a life. And each life its place within the Kingdom. L. Bertina Huntley, '37.

"Ag" Sophomores In Special Project

A group of A. and T. College Sophomores and Juniors under the supervision of Dr. M. F. Spaulding are studying this quarter while people are planting "Commercial fertilizers." The class for the most part has been getting the principles underlying the practice of mixing, applying and the purchase of commercial plant foods.

After getting the principles in class and being able to mix fertilizer on paper, then they journey to the college farm where they actually make different fertilizer analyses, from different formulas for different corps, together with a study of recommended application rates.

Appropriate laboratory exercises are planned to study the physical characteristics of individual fertilizer ingredients, and the behavior when mixed together and when applied to the soil.

As a climax to the study educational tours are made to fertilizer plants. Recently the class was entertained for two hours by the Superintendent of the acid plant at Armour Fertilizer, who works under the general supervision of Mr. Ledwell, the plant manager. There they actually saw the manufacture of 60° Baume sulphuric acid, which is used in the manufacture of super-phosphate. The mixing and bagging process created considerable interest because of the activity and the degree of specialization involved. It was time to return before the interest began to lag.

Social News

The Scrollers of Kappa entertained a group of friends at their annual sport frolic Saturday, May 1, 1937 in the A. & T. Gymnasium. A very swellelegant affair, with music by Jones and Morrissey's Tar Heel Syncopators.

Following the May Day Festival held on the front lawn of the campus Saturday, May 8, a social was given in the bandroom.

The Omega Psi Phi Fraternity entertained a select group of friends at a very lovely sport dance Friday, May 17 in the A. & T. Gymnasium.

The Choral Club under the direction of Warner Lawson presented a program at Bennett College.

Miss Gwendolyn Johnson of Savannah, Ga., and a former student of A. & T. was a recent visitor on the campus.

Some of A. & T. College Songs

The Wearers of the Blue and Gold (Original Tune)

Down the way they came a marching
Wearers of the Blue and Gold
Proudly fighting for our banner
Waving it before our fold.

Mighty men and filled with courage
Wearers of the Blue and Gold
Winning, losing, always smiling
Ever with the Bulldog mold.

SONS OF A. AND T. (Sons of Burgundy)

Sons of A. and T. and we're proud
to be—
For we love Old A. and T.
Sons of A. and T. and we're bound you see
To win for Dear A. and T.
Fight! Fight! Fight! On to victory!
Dauntless! Fearless! Men of A.
and T.
Here we come a marching
Men of strength and knowledge
For we're Sons of A. and T.

SAY 'TAINT SO (Original Tune)

Let cheers ring out
With mighty shouts
There is no doubt
We've won this bout.

Chorus:

When we throw that ball around
State looks like a gawky clown
Oh, say 'taint so!
Oh, yes 'tis though!
That game today
We'll put away
Where it will stay
For e'er 'na day.

As we leave that playing field
Sweep will blow and scrape and kneel

Oh, say 'taint so!
Oh, yes 'tis though!

Our boys can't lose
They've got new shoes
And stuff they use
Dispels the blues.

Chorus:

Chinese Rhythm took the day
Poor old State is left to bray.

Oh, say 'taint so!
Oh, yes, 'tis though.

OLD A. AND T. (Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes)

Old A. and T. our Alma Mater
We are proud of thee.
As years roll by we'll ne'er regret
Our joyous college days.
Dear days are spent between thy walls
In study, rest and play.
In memory's chest we'll ne'er forget
Our love for old A. and T.

Old A. and T. we cheer thy name
And spread thy broadening fame
Loyal and true to our gold and
and blue
We'll ne'er besmirch thy name.
Mother indeed to students in need
We reverently sing thy praise.
Faithful and leal, we e'er shall peal
Our love for OLD A. and T.
Dedicated to the A. and T. Co-eds

THE SWEETHEART OF A. AND T. (Original Tune—Waltz)

I've found the girl I've dreamed about.
The sweetest girl beyond a doubt
She's gentle and sweet
Her smile can't be beat
She's the Sweetheart of A. and T.

Through the years her charms
will follow me,
For I know that she was meant
to be

There were about 150 men and boys present including the fathers and sons of Guilford, Agricultural Senior class of 1937, and the instructors and workers. The list of seniors are as follows: Bass Garland; Barnes, Bennie; Barnhill, Joseph; Barnhill, B. F.; Burton, Leroy; Brown, J. J.; Brown, P. A.; Jones, S. S.; Johnson, Leroy; Jamieson, Walter; Marable, Wm. T.; McCoy, E.; McCoy, Almo; Smith, David; Roland, G.; Roberts, Walter; Lane, William; Winstead, J. S.; Tuck, J. E.; Goore, Hamlet; Pullen, Frank; Hannon, Robert. These are the young men who had charge of the training of the different judging teams.

The winning judging team was from Florence High School. This team was under the direction of Mr. Leroy Johnson, Walter Jamieson, Stanley Jones, Joseph Barnhill, and Leroy Burton. The members of the team were Robert Webster, Master Peak, and Johnnie Joyner.

In the judging, the highest individual score was made by C. Wallington of Brown Summit, with Master Peak of Florence 2nd highest individual score.

A Matter Of Courtesy

Every year in certain clubs of our illustrious, intelligent, well-informed commonwealth the individuals spend countless hours debating whether or not students should be permitted to attend their annual affairs as guests. And in recent years with an alarming degree of consistency the students are not invited. I say alarming because a number of these individuals are in positions of responsibility. These individuals are invited throughout the year to our affairs and, incredible as it seems, they are never found absent. (Only in case of sickness or death). They never miss an opportunity to dance with our sweet, fresh, young women or our handsome, young, virile men on our money. But when it is their turn, they yell about the degrading influence of the students (at their affairs). It is the matter of courtesy and the hypocrisy involved that rankles, especially in our so-called enlightened circles. Intelligentsia? Bah! We do not particularly care to attend their affairs for usually, their one or two affairs fall on the nights when we are having something, and the young men certainly prefer dancing with soft, fresh, sweet young things than with staler corsetted matrons and the sweet young women certainly prefer dancing with handsome virile young men than with dried-up, sapped old men! Thought: Through courtesy, at least, the Seniors in our two four year colleges could be invited. If our so-called intelligentsia is not careful this situation is going to stink. If the intelligentsia does not want us at its affairs then it should cease its parasitic and hypocritical activities—eating our cake and drinking our wine—by letting us decide whether we want to sample theirs'. It is a matter of courtesy in which some of our teachers, doctors, lawyers, businessmen and professors are lacking.

Pyramid Club News

Where are they? Ten of our able members have gone; they have left only a few in number. But we pledge to keep up the name and ideals of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and aspire to the best that Delta Sigma Theta offers.

The new officers of the club are: President, Doris Boyd; vice president, Vivian Browning; Secretary, Ethelyne Hamlar; treasurer, Geraldine Pinn; club reporter, Mary Curtis.

Business Club News

The Business Club will give its annual affair this year in the form of a Dinner-Theater-Party, May 19. The club members will dine and dance at the Royal Palace which has been reserved for them alone. After dining and dancing, the group will proceed in cabs to the Carolina Theater where they will see "Romeo and Juliet" starring Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard.

The honored guests are Miss Viola L. Chaplain and Mr. L. A. Wise. The club has enjoyed a successful year under the leadership of its president, Florine Love Willis and the fine cooperation and interest shown by all the members.
