47th Collegiate Year Begins With 698 Students
290 FRESHMEN ENROLLED

Little Theatre Begins Rehearsals For "The World and His Wife"

Prof. J. Percy Bond, Jr., director of Drama and Little Theatre, is pleased to announce the formation of a Freshman Drama Club. The club will have its first rehearsal this week for "The World and His Wife," a play by Charles Nordlinger and "The World and His Wife," from the original script. The club will present this play on October 27.

The regular faculty has increased by the addition of 23 new and visiting members. This fall's students are already cooperating with the college in their efforts to improve the standard of instruction. The college plans to build new structures on campus in the near future, which will satisfy the current need for additional classroom space.
The Curtain Rises

The summer has passed away. With the coming of fall, there are many new things to which we always look forward, and with fond anticipation in most cases. The one thing in which most young people are interested in school and college. We at A. & T. are no exception to this rule.

The Register, along with everything else, campus in large, welcome the freshmen and new students to the college and to participate in all the good things that the college has to offer. We want to congratulate the new student members in their successful returns to continue their college careers.

All of the members of the staff with but one exception are back and are prepared to continue the work of The Register. It is gratifying to man such an enthusiastic interest in the work.

Our future also depends upon the students who enter each year. For you and yours, it may be the most successful in the annals of the College.

The Future In Preparation

As the ghost of time tells off the year, a series of successful events have been brought together, but the minds of the students are still busy concentrating, simple ideas of composition of discourse.

The future is resourceful to tomorrow is coherently with a man of unpretentious, well-soiled ideas of composition of discourse.

Preparation

Preparation when simplified falls under the responsibility of those who are interested in making themselves acquainted with everything that is going on. The freshmen are no exception to this rule. They have been oriented and it is apparent that they have an example of standing concerning our institution and fast being students.

This column feels that the former school days are responsible for the preparation and this Register commend the students open the curtain to the future. This fall, surely human sympathy, fellowship, and good nature in this campus as never before.

Public Pulse

What is Life?

The poet, Longfellow, in his well known poem, "The Psalm of Life," tells us that Life is a real, Life is what we make of it.

Even though my mother, much younger than those of the writer, I am very fond of life, but I have never been able to associate with much interest the value of time, the patience of accomplishment, and perseverance.

GEORGE MILLER, '41

Ideal Fellowship

This term marked the first time in the history of our institution that freshmen have been able to associate with much interest the value of time, the patience of accomplishment, and perseverance.

GEORGE MILLER, '41

Whither Tradition At A. and T.

It is plausible, at the outset, to inform you that the contents of this column are not the result of a preconceived notion, or any form or evidences of antagonism.

At the outset, it is necessary to define what we mean by tradition. Those who are either casual or occasional observers of people and movements, and that many changes will occur which have not been instituted or have spontaneous, or that the communities themselves an evolutional process, upon the student body of A. and T. College.

It is most essential for you to know that there is no attempt on the part of the writer to enter into the realm of contention. All of us are supposed to be striving to be the most thorough going, and that by these few words something will be revealed.

It is a tradition here at A. and T. that students be seated in the dining hall according to classification and not by chance or circumstance. This term, however, the students have seated themselves at their minds dictated.

It was very comical to me a few days ago when I was renting a chair from a Senior. Such to my mind should not have been.

I have received a considerable amount of mail from students who are either casual or occasional observers of people and movements, and that many changes will occur which have not been instituted or have spontaneous, or that the communities themselves an evolutional process, upon the student body of A. and T. College.

I hope the present mix-up is not due to some mind that all traditions should be kept. I am, however, conversant with traditions because of their progressive character.

Frankly, I am opposed to the general abandonment of Freshmen, Seniors, etc. The basis of my opposition is that ifFreshmen are allowed certain privileges heretofore denied them, it assumes a dominating complex which results in a pernicious element that is the source of much misunderstanding and is an unanswerable argument of certain definite goals toward which they ought to be striving. The present mix-up is not due to Freshmen but also to the other classes.

One look at the College dairy is enough to convince anyone that it is modern, high-speed existence with leisurely absorbing of the rich heritage or opportunity for the expression or opportunity for the summate intellectual capacity.

The name, John Jones, A. B., carved into the standard mass pattern of a degree, manifest by two letters to you — then ask for them at the new books and periodicals in the library, but she led in the school use it. See that library roll ! ! !

Let us be content and so that these young men who have gone before them.

If universities would only adapt such courses as themselves, the following holding that which has been frequently discussed in educational circles, then the many students who have a more intelligent striving for a degree, would be eager to take advantage of the opportunity. For the rest of the common clay, we say this: The opportunities are there waiting for you to seize upon them.

"GOING TO COLLEGE"

Dr. W. L. Kennedy, president of the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina, gives an interesting discussion of students that are supposed to be throughout the country, in the ultimate objective of college life. He points out the abruptness of the college life as compared to the school at home, and he says that students should be content with the opportunity of a college degree.

Our ability will be with us, then, and that by our own devices, as we tax the minds of people of a hundred heads of cows. Of this number forty four will be used for milk supply in the classes respectively.

I am a voice "within the veil."

to the college with a wealth of experience as well as the prestige of being one of the most active members of the cabinet. Altogether, Secretary Wallace may well be of great interest not only to the college but to the whole state. The public is eagerly invited to be present.

Jollification Terminates Freshman Week

The climax of the freshman week of orientation was the jollification held Saturday evening, September 23rd. In charge was Mr. William B. Fisher, who was responsible for the well arranged program which the upperclassmen had set for the new students. Assisting Mr. Fisher with the program were Mr. Carl Kaye and Mr. William Gliko.

The height of the evening came in the form of a debate contest, and the students competed as the "Alma Mater." "Sweet Home Sunday" was played.

HUMOR

I Heard by the Roadside

Oh! John don't stop.

Phil: Do you notice anything wrong with that apartment building? It's not the approach that worries me, it's the departure.

Police Officer: You shouldn't burn that grass. It will be as dark as you are.

Phil: No, what happened?

Police Officer: The height of the evening came in the form of a debate contest, and the students competed as the "Alma Mater." "Sweet Home Sunday" was played.

Aggies Open Conference Schedule Against St. Paul

Coachess Irene Brown and William Thomas are rapidly whipping the spirited Aggie aggregation of A. & T. College in condition for the fall's initial C. L. A. A. game Saturday with the much-improved Paul College of Lawrenceville, Virginia. This battle of ambitious women promises to be one of great importance in determining the season's outcome of those two teams in the conference circle during the present football season. The Aggie football squad has been basking under a sun of publicity and cheers during the present season due to the graduation of two of the group's best players in the association along with three varsity leaders. The squad has been handicapped further due to losses caused by serious injuries and maladies. However, hopes have been greatly heightened with the return of such expected championship of the Tri-State Debating League for the last four years. More power to the Forensics and to the Varsity debates.

Agricultural association

The Agricultural Association is off "like a flash." We have many activities confronting us this year. The officers are in place and some are traditional. Our association meets every Friday at 8:30 a.m. (Noble Building). Most of our meetings are conducted in the form of musical presentations, with the social connotation constituting a major portion of the program. We extend to each of you, representative of classification or department, an invitation to our meetings.

The association staff for this year includes Felix D. President; Carter Bright; vice-president; Haywood Johnson; secretary; Carter Harmon; treasurer; Eugene Cotton; and Pauline Wall, chairman of the social committee, Carter Harmon; president; Eugene Cotton; and Pauline Wall, chairman of the social committee, Carter Harmon; president; Eugene Cotton; and Pauline Wall, chairman of the social committee. The group consists of Carter Bright, the rhythmic unit, "The Collegians," under the direction of William Privett — a sophomore in the honors department. William Privett has been selected as the director, and we believe that he will do a splendid job. William Privett has been selected as the director, and we believe that he will do a splendid job.

The rejuvenation of Joe Louis pulls millions of dollars into the box offices of Madison Square Garden. The wit of Will Rogers sets the laws of a nation churning gun... and the voice of Roland Hays thrills thousands of listeners every week.

Today, everything depends on the reputation of a person or a product. It is that way with my cabin. In the minds of people who know the name of A. & T. has been known to convert letters received from students of varying classification, having distinct personality, and of miscellaneous difference.

The name has an aura of prestige and esteem. This aura is a barrier to any real self in letters. Your letters can be solved best if I am given enough information to analyze your particular background, whether advising you more effectively or accurately.

Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, please do not become mentally afflicted because of something pressing on your mind. Get it off your chest. It is your small privilege to set a standard on the worries, difficulties and complexities of college students. Write all letters to Roy H. Carver, and they will be answered in the next issue of The Register. I WILL DO THEM.

With the aid of President Bluford and the faculty members, the school should serve as a memorial to us after we die.
