Honor Societies

To Meet Here In Conference
November 25-26

The 1938 Conference of the Federation of Honor Societies will convene at A. and T. College November 25 and 26. This conference is a continuation of the Nashville Conference where plans for the permanent organization of Honor Societies originated.

Student officers of scholastic societies and administrative and academic officials in twenty-five colleges have indicated an active interest in the program of the Federation. Representatives from other colleges will be at the conference.

The session will begin at 2:00 on Friday afternoon and conclude at noon Saturday.

The agenda at the conference will be divided into two parts. Recesses will consider the further development of the Federation and the expanding, improving and standardizing of the general program and procedures as they relate to the student body and friends of the colleges.

The second part of the program will include papers, addresses and symposia devoted to a consideration of the Federal Federation. Under this general theme attention will be given to early identification, raising standards, improving opportunities and removing limiting factors, all pointed toward exemplary development of the gifted student as a member of society.

Ground Broken For Mechanical Bldg.

On Monday, November 7, the entire student body marched to the site for the new Mechanical Building and broke the ground thereby paving the way for the continuation of the college building program.

Norah Davis, only female aud, in her mechanical class, turned the first spade of soil. Others to follow were President Bluford, Dean Nawata Harris, only female auditorium, Mr. W. T. Johnson, director of rural engineering.

Numerous prizes were awarded the communities and individuals among them being Florence Community, winner of the first prize; Sadalia Community, winner of the second prize; English Community, winner of the second prize; Bobo Community, winner of the fourth prize; and Greensboro Community winner of the fifth prize.

Dr. Benjamin Mays
To Conduct Religious Emphasis Week

The Religious Council brings to the student body and friends of the college Dr. Benjamin Mays, Dean of the School of Religion of Howard University, who will conduct the Religious Emphasis Week Services, beginning November 29.

Dr. Mays, having served on both national and international committees concerned with Christian principles, is quite capable of giving to the student a well rounded view of present day crises.

Gov. Dedicates Buildings

Named In Honor of Two Outstanding Negro Women

On Sunday, November 6, North Carolina's Governor Clyde R. Hoey delivered the principal address to approximately 2,000 people at the college dedicatory exercises.

The two buildings dedicated were the new girls dormitory and the home economics house. In naming the new buildings, the Board of Trustees have honored the memory of two outstanding Negro women. The dormitory is named for the late Mrs. Annie M. Holland, who for a number of years rendered distinguished service as Supervisor of Elementary Education in the Negro Schools of the State. The Home Economics Practice House is named for the late Mrs. Florence M. Davis, who for many years gave us practical and efficient instruction in the arts and science of homemaking.

Governor Hoey in his address said: "I am proud that North Carolina is giving opportunity to all people to progress, and a sign of progress is the erection of buildings that will educate the children of our state.

Education represents the supreme effort of society, and that effort is to live and make a living.

The Governor said that the State was unfriendly to teach men and women how to live through its schools and its adult education program.

"Work," said the Governor, "is the salvation of any race.

It is very important that we teach our people to live a making a living.

The session will begin at 2:30 on Friday afternoon and conclude at noon Saturday.

Stop! Don't move another peg; Hold it just where you have it, or do you have it? If you don't, you just ought to. Well, Crazy Bill has it.

Have you noticed that "Dot" Drass doesn't know who she wants? "Dot," maybe you are just catching Drass doesn't know who she wants? Why, her name is Bernice Curtis. Woesha stop that Ralph B. Goldsmith is on a taxi and Virginia Patterson entirely away from Arthur Williams. Y lives in a town near my home and in a parallel line with him. No, he's not very far and does everybody that Watters tells you. Don't you remember that he fixed that girl at Bennett last year? Ann and Pete there is really nothing I can say now but remember here I am again, although arriving the chance.

Hello readers! How are you this time? Anything worrying you? No! Are you sure? You know old A. V. Midnic-Zee, "My firm company." Well, won't you let me be your company and help you to start enjoying and reading your school life here again. Just state your problem, address it to "Naomi" and place it in Dean Gibbs' mailbox. If you don't want anyone to have the least holding of an idea that you are writing it up under the door when no one is there and I'll be sure to get it. All right, I'll be looking for a place. The following is a letter I received recently.

November 4, 1938

Dear Naomi:

There are two girls on the campus whom I believe I could care for, but have faults which I haven't been able to overlook. One's name is X and Y. I lives in a town near my home and is in a parallel life with me. Her brother is a dear friend of mine. Naomi, I am putting this to you for your own information and in often to her faults. Although I like her, I just can't overlook her faults. And don't think she is not aware of it all.

Dean Gibbs' desk. And keep in mind that there is more than one way to kill a cat, that if you really want it to die, don't give up.

My Dear Bewildered:

Indeed you have a problem of speech in your admirer girl friends. Both of which, no doubt, greatly embarrass you. But of course, you know, no one is perfect. Each of us has his bottling sin. However, it is not seen the house and not even, as these two faults can be heard by the mice, poor English or awkward. The speech of the few who are coming in a young lady and the lady who does doubt the admittance of giving a talk, she surely laughs when you tell her about it. This may be a good sign that she doesn't care very much for you since she doesn't try to please you. While the other lady has the fault of poor English and yet comes from a respectable family and who probably resents your correcting her because it is a pain to her. If you would do to the company of her misuse of the King's language. This, I believe, is the young lady that you would do well to watch in the company to see, she seems to measure up well to your requirements other wise, as the rest of her. Now Miss X seem has self-respect, and you are doing pretty well for yourself when you keep company with a young lady who has self-respect. Now as for the improvement of her Eng lish, I would say that she is by far a very tactfully by suggesting several good novels for her to read some of them in newspapers, and have her to understand that, because you are interested in her, you want to help her. There is, however, a way to go about this, so don't rush your procedure. It is not wise to go about it without knowing that she is being cor rected. And keep in mind that there are some who would rather have a cat, that is if you really want it to die, don't give up.

That the Dietitian and her two co-workers have pitched a tent—Miss Carolyn Crawford-North and South Carolina. Miss Virginia Leary and Miss Georgia Willis—Georgia. That time every one see Estelle Leath and you can do it.

That Dr. Rice details in saying "Allons, enfants!" That Porchmont and White. That Margaret Kennedy and A. V. Midnic-Zee are still troublemakers. That the Freshmen women are still the center of attraction for certain males of the upper classes? Is it an elevation process or do they possess something in common?

Equality or Inequality

You do ever pause for a while to think of and observe the general

trund in which we find ourselves? It seems perfectly possible that we may think that this race of which we are a member still travels in a chariot driven by blind men.

This inferior society of which we are a part must be eliminated from our system or we shall be found somewhere between equality and nonequality.

Passing On College Spirit

It is easy for one to drift alone, thoughtlessly, day by day, without the small forces that work for the inner development and outward expression of certain traits or the making up of certain qualities. These are the ones who will compose the bulk of tomorrow's lives. Such has been the list of students here at A. & T.

When one is not worn out in the desert, and has become hungry, tired, andائق to try to get through a period of rest when the mind and body are not in the right state to meet the lessons. One feels sure of his lessons he only makes a few mistakes.

Chapel service strengthens the bond of fraternity and binds together the students of any college. The simple service is conducted so that we are infallibly beings in the atmosphere of the church. Much of the aristocracy which often causes unpleasantness between persons is eliminated and all enter into a social environment with a sense of community.

The simplicity and spirit of college life finds a common denominator in every good activity or endeavor. The chapel hour challenges us to forget the unimportant fact that has been the influence of our atmosphere in which he finds himself. In this, our chapel service is one of, if not the most important in our college life.

Time and time again we hear, "how many persons say "you are making inquires every day." This statement is true in every case. Whether the habit is good or bad some one gets one of you every day. Let us be ever conscious of the fact that habits built upon sound principles may cause one to be unpopular with many but the way of the right always prevails.

Virginia State Trojans took the Aggies for the first time of the season as they crushed the Aggies 20 to 7. The game was a powerhouse of excitement from the start of the contest to the finish. The Aggies were behind a hard-charging line that crushed the Aggie forward wall and skated off the field as will for three quarters.

After being completely outplayed for the first three periods, the Aggies gained and scored and the contest went on. Miles, in the beginning of the third quarter, made a 53 yard run around A. and T.'s right end. Lynch's running and Robinson's scoring brought the Aggies to within inches of a tie. For two quarters the game was a close one, with Robinson's scoring bringing the Aggies to within inches of a tie. Lynch's running and Robinson's scoring brought the Aggies to within inches of a tie.

They were the pioneers in a great human movement for second generation of uplift, and we do realize momentarily the real value of the opportunity. Unfortunately many of us don't. Perhaps we are so engrossed with accumulating knowledge, but once we have achieved this, we realize we didn't put it to proper use, and we haven't lost our sense of idleness. Perhaps even from babyhood onward, in the game of school, we remained so coolly unappreciative of the results of our failure to exercise our judgment, and we are letting ours take a battle of life. Are you preparing to be a leader for our great race?

Thaw Price Indifference

Have we lost our sense of value, or did we ever possess one? Assuming that we had some at one time or other, let us examine and appraise, impersonally our ability to evaluate. Here we are at college, supposedly for the purpose of accumulating knowledge, but do we really realize the preciousness of knowledge which will probably be of little value in the years to come? Many of us don't. Perhaps during some rare reflective mood we may realize how few of us have even heard of the importance of this chance to determine and develop our abilities. Often we are too busy to sit down and frame a mind, but we can do as much as our time and duties will permit. If there is time as we go through a large body of lecture notes and assignments, let us examine them every now and then and find out the principles involved. The more we do this, the more it will become apparent that the principles are the same for all the subjects we are studying. The more we do this, the more it will become apparent that the principles are the same for all the subjects we are studying.

The Business Club

The Business Club was organized in September by the students in the business and commerce fields. Election of officers was held at the first meeting. The following persons were elected: Kenneth R. Arrington, President; Edward Smith, Vice-President; Doris K. Williams, Secretary; Thomas Ramsey, Treasurer; and Samuel Hodges, Keeper of Records.

Mr. W. A. Adviser to the club, presenting the idea of an organization for development of business efficiency in his discourse. He cited the need for better Negro business men. And the ways of increasing our knowledge in Business.

Mr. Kissaedoo was the keynote speaker. He gave a "Harvest Moon" dance which seemed to have been highly appreciated by the audience. The dancers swung and swayed to the latest numbers by popular orange. The club wishes to offer a cordial invitation to all business and commerce students who desire to become members.

Misfortune

One day as I was walking down the street, I tripped on a stone and hurt my leg. And when I got up from the ground, I lost my wallet. I walked around town, and I looked for my wallet. I had seen it in my awful full.

My tax was eight and you can see,
There was a hard time for poor.
I hopped along the dreary street,
Wandering, where I could get something to eat.
And as I wondered lonely and sad,
I met a beautiful girl I knew.
She said to me, "My good old friend,
I will take you to my father's place,
There I will bathe your leg,
And give you plenty of food.

Scholarship

The Gamma Tau Honorary Society wishes to recognize you with the high ideals which it stands in regard to scholarship, character building, and the all-round development of the individual in the hope that you may, in your turn, influence the student body to strive for excellence in attaining these objectives. Although excellence in scholarship is very desirable because of the development of the intellectual faculties and the mental discipline involved, it is not the only desirable objective that you should seek and achieve. You can give as much recognition to those elements of character that are essential for the development of true manhood and womanhood, good citizenhip, and the growth and enrichment of the entire personality. You may have noticed that one of the requirements for membership is participation in at least one extra-curricular activity, for we seek for the individual a well-rounded development of the individual.

We are particularly interested in the student who has been able to spend four of the most valuable and most immeasurable years of his life. This is a man whose success cannot be taken lightly because of his better work. These years will have a tremendous influence on your future destiny. You are therefore in the best position of your opportunities here, to reach out and grasp those developmental and cultural values which a college education can give. We urge you to cultivate a thirst for the higher and more refined things and to seek the satisfaction of that thirst.

The Sigma Tau Society has come before you for membership. You have come within the Gamma Tau Society and you will be cultivating those ideals and standards which you believe you have seen in your years of college life and which you will be admiring into the Sigma Tau Society.

I sometimes feel that some students are here because they are not, and I wish I could feel that all are here because you want to be and that you are here to be the best man, good from a college education that will prepare you to meet the problems of life that you will have to face. I urge that you keep up your studies in order to accomplish this and that you are training for a life of service and usefulness.

Attention Freshmen!

The Alpha Nu Chapter and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Lampodas Club wish to call your attention to the fact that they will be sponsoring a progressive homecoming party.

The Lampodas Club will hold its first dance of the fall on Friday, November 11, in the Rose Room (Band Room) in the basement of the Administration Building. This will be a great step forward. For instance, just a program around the campus, this would at least keep us from getting bored. It is our desire to make this a really good party, and we are confident that with the assistance of the members of the Lampodas Club, we can make it a success.

We in Alpha Phi Alpha think that it is our duty to do our part in the observance of Negro Achievement Week, sponsored by the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. This is the first program of the series to be given away each year in this connection.
