The internationally known and beloved Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Director of the Division of Negro Affairs of the National Youth Administration and founder of Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Florida, will deliver the principal Founders' Day address, Monday, November 3. She will speak at the main service in the Richard B. Harrison memorial auditorium, Monday, November 3 at 11:30 o'clock. Students Plan Forum Club

Friday afternoon, October 10, the presidents of all the classes and one representative from each class met with Mr. Francis Mebane, President of the Student Body, and Mr. A. Russell Brooks, Chairman of the Forum Committee, for the purpose of mapping out plans for forming the Forum Club. This organization, unique in the history of extra-curricular affairs, will have as its prime aim a renaissance in the intellectual life of the student body through vigorous discussion of each monthly forum topic just before the second Sunday of each month when the Public Forum is scheduled to take place.

Further steps to be taken for complete organization of this Club will be announced so that all students who are interested will have an opportunity to participate.

Aggies Trim Union

Before 3000 cheering fans in Norfolk, Va., Oct. 18, A. & T. Aggies trimmed Union University eleven to the tune of 13-0.

Bruce, Douglass and White starred brilliantly for the Aggies.

President Bluford Has Interesting Vacation

The student body will be delighted to learn that after last year's nine months of grinding administrative duties, President Bluford enjoyed the summer months by visiting a number of historic places along the Atlantic Seaboard.

His first trip carried him to Boston, Mass., where he attended the 1941 convention of the National Association of Teachers. President Bluford says that he enjoyed the trip very much and was especially impressed with the educational institutions that he visited while in Boston. The institutions he visited were Harvard University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston University, Radcliff College, Simmons College and Boston College. On the return trip, President Bluford stopped in New York to see the Yankees and Boston Red Sox play ball. He also spent a few days with friends in Philadelphia.

Later in the summer, Dr. and Mrs. Bluford motored to Norfolk, Newport News and Gloucester, Va., his former home. On the way up, they stopped at Kitty Hawk, N. C., the place where the Wright Brothers started aviation history. They also visited Manteo, N. C., and witnessed a performance of Paul Green's "Lost Colony." President Bluford thinks the "Lost Colony" is one of the most inspiring dramas and he described the acting and music as being "superb."

He then went alone to Capahosic on a ten day fishing trip—fishing being one of his favorite diversions. He especially loved the rustic serenity of this little Virginia hamlet.

Also during the summer President Bluford with Mrs. Bluford and Professor and Mrs. Taylor motored through the picturesque country side of western Virginia, visiting among other places, the Natural Bridge.

Some Facts About The Freshmen

15 States Represented;
400 Students Enrolled

There are approximately 400 new students enrolled in the college this year. Three hundred and forty are from North Carolina. Virginia, our neighbor to the north, stands second with a contribution of 17. Oddly enough, far away Alabama is in third place with eight representatives. New Jersey is in full possession of fourth place with seven representatives. Indiana and Pennsylvania tie for fifth place. Each has five students apiece. Maryland sent four; California, three; and Illinois, Ohio, and West Virginia sent two each. From each of the following states came one representative: Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, and Nebraska.

Of the total number of Freshmen enrolled, 121 of them want to become teachers. Twenty-five of the 121 teachers want to teach Agriculture and 18 of the 121 want to teach Home Economics. Twenty-three students listed their life aims to be County Agents. There were 23 more who wished to become Secretaries and 15 potential Auto Mechanics.

From the High Schools of North Carolina, the largest representation came from Dudley, here in Greensboro. They are 40 strong. Orange County Training School of Chapel Hill

A. & T. Inaugurates New Forum Service

Sunday, October 12, marked the beginning of a new phase in our educational program here at the College. It was the inauguration, with the appearance of the internationally famous Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, of a series of public forums calculated to raise the civilian morale by giving students, faculty, and friends an opportunity to engage in free and public discussion of all questions vitally concerning national and international affairs.

These forums originated at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, who, in a communication to the United States Office of Education, affirmed the need of such forums in order to strengthen and perpetuate the American

Students Meet

The first mass meeting of the present school year was called by the president of the Student Council, Francis H. Mebane, on Wednesday night, September 24. The president expressed words of greetings to the student body and invited them to join him in a school year of cooperative work for the mutual benefit of all. Various expressions were heard from the students as they accepted the invitation.

The students' hand books for the school year were given out by Miss Ruth Craig, acting secretary of the Student Council. The new publications are well designed and very informative. These hand books are free to all students and to possess one is of considerable value.

The president closed the meeting with an appeal to the students for early action in all endeavors and extended the best wishes to all.

W. G. EVANS, '42

The academic year 1941-42 marks the beginning of a new half century of progress in the life of A. and T. Having been established in March 1891, the fiftieth anniversary was observed last March with ceremonies that brought graduates and friends from all sections of the country back to the campus in what might be called a great homecoming and jubilee, in which none other than the Hon. J. M. Broughton, Governor of the State was the chief speaker.

The second half century begins in an atmosphere of enthusiasm and high hopes for the future expansion of the college. The present enrollment is almost one thousand and will most likely reach the 1100 mark with the winter and spring registration. Of course all of this refers to regular college students and does not include any of the extension classes. Other phases and features of the college have grown apace. There has been a long line of notable progress in this college from those early days of small things. There have been many young men and young women to come here in search of light and learning. They have found both and now employed in many fields of service in this and other states.

Beginning the year with the largest and best trained staff in the history of the college, it was recognized after the first day of registration that additional teachers would be necessary to provide for the large increase. Some began on October 1, and others will follow later.

This year a nursery school and staff have been added to the Home Economics department, and an infirmary with a full time trained nurse has been provided, and new courses too numerous to mention here have been included in the present schedule.

We fairly, conclude that the second half century in the history gets under way with every indication that it will reach new heights among many lines.

THE REGISTER 1941-42

The Register can look back upon long years of growth and constructive achievement along many lines. The names of many of the leading students of each graduating class have been found on the staff of the Register and through its columns have contributed their share in expressing the ideals of the students of their day.

The year 1941-42 has already begun under very promising circumstances, and the Register as usual is determined to contribute its full share to the success of Dear Old A. and T. along all lines.

The staff this year is considering a program of activities in which every student of the college can participate and in which every student is earnestly urged to take part. The idea is to encourage creative expression on the part of students by dedicating certain issues to phases of creative expression.

Accordingly the November issue will be dedicated to the college poets, and every verse writer is hereby requested to submit a selection. An unbiased committee, not members of the staff, will judge the merits of these compositions and prizes and honors will be awarded to the best two or three.

Later issues will be dedicated to campus orators who write original orations on current or scholarly subjects, campus artists, music composers and plain theme writers. If there are other fields of creative endeavor that ought to have a dedication we welcome your suggestion. Committees in each case will determine the most meritorious contributions and prizes and honors will likewise be awarded. Please remember we want your contribution. Prepare it now and be ready to submit when the call comes. You may have much more talent than you realize. Now is your opportunity. We hope you will make the most of it.

ART DEPARTMENT NEWS

The Fine Arts Department, under the able leadership of Mr. H. Clinton Taylor, wishes to welcome the freshmen class of 1945. The Department invites you to see its studios in the Crosby building where there is always a display of student work. This work consists of portraits, landscapes, designs, and cast drawings done in oil, charcoal, pastel, showcard color, pencil and ink. This work was done by students taking art through special interest, students majoring in art and students who have majored in art and have gone into the great beyond. Those art majors, who are building up a reputation on the campus, are John Massey, Theodore Wells, Alfonzo Williams, Benjamin Lucas and Edna Watkins. These young people will probably go as far and farther than those graduating from this department already.

John Massey is making a commission from the Judge Magazine which his cartoons are appearing. And maybe you can recognize members of the faculty and fellow students of course, as depicted by the artistic hand of Edna Watkins. Mr. Roben Burnell, a graduate of the class of '41, has accepted a commission to paint a mural in one of the largest churches in Norfolk, Virginia.

So you see, Freshmen, as well as fellow students, the Art Department is hurdling forth and we want you to be a witness.

Introducing The "Lonesome Heart"

Are you lonesome? Want a friend to correspond with? Maybe it's that you are bashful. Well if that's the case, here is your chance to talk indirectly to the person whom you have been watching. The Lonesome Heart Column is open in order that you may meet the friend of your desire. Just write a brief letter to "Lonesome Heart," in care of The Register, telling her the type of person you are and the type of person you'd would like to meet.

Lonesome Heart may not be able to publish all the letters and answers and, therefore, is asking you to sign your correct name and also a "fake" name to the letters sent in. The fake name shall be used in publication and the correct name in answering all mail personally.

Your Friend,
"Lonesome Heart"

TO STUDENTS

Dear Student:
Do you need advice or another's opinion to help solve any problem confronting you? Write me about your troubles, whether financial, love, study or whatever they may be and together we will work out a solution. Just write me in care of the "Register." It is not necessary to sign your name, unless you wish—a fictitious name or initials will do. An answer to your letter will be published in the next issue of this paper after your letter has been received. Please let me help you with your problems.
"Naomi of A. and T."

Welcome Freshmen

The Junior Class wishes to take this opportunity to welcome you, the members of the class of 1945. We sincerely hope that you will find A. and T. a nice place to make your home for a period of nine months. If, at any time, you need our services, please feel free to call on us and such as we have, we give to you who need help.

As you enter into our great family life, we trust that you will develop a spirit of cooperation, service, kindness, friendliness and seriousness, for, it is these things that you need most in order to get the most out of your college life. You must realize that you represent your family, and race. It is you who are looking to those hard-working parents for support. What are they expecting of you? You cannot expect to come here for winter resort, for a lounging place, for a popularity contest or for a "jumping jive, hall." Instead, you should have come in order to secure an education. You want to prepare yourself so that you will be able to help others by rendering a charitable service to yourselves, to America and to your race. No matter how hard the task may be, you can do it. May you find yourself working hard to achieve those things which are great and noble. Will you achieve?

Today, America is in a great program of national defense. She is faced with problems which will never be solved. Perhaps, some of you will find a solution to them. You are here in a school which offers great opportunities. Why not take advantage of some of them. "Uncle Sam," has made it possible for his sons and daughters to accept his offers at very little cost. You must examine yourselves closely to find out just what field of concentration for which you are best fitted. Don't let it take you four years to find out that you were wrong in your selection. Don't wait for your opportunity, find it. It is waiting at your door everyday asking and begging for a chance.

To make your college well-rounded you should participate in some extra-curricular activities such as, football, basket ball, track, boxing and others under the supervision of the physical education department. Some organizations with which you may connect yourselves are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., the Band, Choral Society, Agricultural Association, and many others which are listed in your student Handbook.

Again, may we say that we welcome you to our great family which has no prejudice, no hate, and no discrimination of any kind. Join in to make A. and T. greater and greater each day.
ALVIN V. BLOUNT, JR.,
President of Junior Class.

SCROLLERS CLUB

We the members of the Scroller Club of the Alpha Nu Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, take this opportunity to extend to you, the members of the class of '45, a most whole-hearted welcome. We too, have traveled the road on which you are now beginning. We trust that you will find it a very good road to travel, and we hope that you will watch all signs of caution. We are happy at any time to help you in any problem in which we can be of service. We believe in the principles of kindness, cooperation and service. We hope that you will find your way into our big college family. Make yourself useful and alert in helping to make A. and T. a wonderful place to live. Remember you can not expect to gain more out of anything than you put in it. Our great aim is to render an unselfish service to mankind without looking for riches, fame and honor as a reward. We look high toward that great goal of all goals—the goal of achievement.

As we say our last words, use an old motto which most of you have heard, yet we feel there is much in it: "Good, better, best, never let it rest, until your good is better and your better best."

Welcome to you, the men who shall wear the medals of success tomorrow.

Local Authors Publish Texts

Dr. H. Mack Thaxton, well-known physicist and mathematician, who is at present Professor of Physics and Mathematics at A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. These books are designed especially to show the relationship between mathematics and physics.

The book, Manipulative Mathematics, is especially adapted to college mathematics and physics courses. Consisting of 12 chapters with numerous examples, it places emphasis on various mathematical processes rather than theorems.

Experiments in Elementary Physics contains directions for laboratory work with helpful diagrams and illustrations for each experiment.

Dr. Thaxton is a member of the American Mathematical Society, American Physical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Sigma Phi Scientific Society. He contributes regularly to the Physical Review and several foreign journals.

The Register wishes to express on behalf of the whole college community, sympathy and consolation to Miss Alma Morrow, our chief librarian, and Miss Veda J. Spellman, secretary to Dean Gibbs, over the death that has come in the family of each recently.

Dr. W. E. Morrow, brother of Miss Morrow, an Alumnus of A. and T. and owner of the well known and popular Morrow Drug Store of Greensboro, died on September 19. President Blufford was one of the eulogists and many representatives of the College were present.

Rev. W. T. Spellman of Royal Oak, Maryland, father of Miss Spellman, who had been ill for several months but was not thought to be in a serious condition, passed on Sunday, September 28.

In both cases floral wreaths and numerous resolutions, telegrams and letters were sent. Both Miss Morrow and Miss Spellman are very popular on the campus.

To The Freshmen

On behalf of Captain R. L. Campbell, Colonel Clyde DeHuguley and the officers of the cadet corps of the Military Department, I wish to give a hearty salute to the incoming freshmen and to congratulate you on your choice of school — in furthering your education.

The Military Department under the leadership of Captain Campbell has enjoyed increasing popularity and under his supervision has gained the reputation of being one of the most progressive organizations at A. and T. This reputation has been jealously guarded by the officers and cadets of this corps despite the fact that the task of perpetuating this reputation now falls upon you, and it is in the present time of National emergency that the Negroes' place in national activities is very significant.

It falls upon us, the present generation of Negro youth, to establish for ourselves a more definite and stable position in the world of tomorrow. It is in this department that the men of A. and T. will receive their basic training.

The department also wishes to announce the following promotions for the year 1941-42: To the rank of Cadet-Major, former Cadet-Captains Queen and Gaskin; To the rank of Cadet-Captain, former Lieutenants, Joyner and Threadgill; To the rank of provisional Lieutenant, former first Sergeant DuBois, Faduma and G. Green, L. Morris, Gooden, Smith, aTylor, Lynn and Threadgill.

Wings Over A. & T.

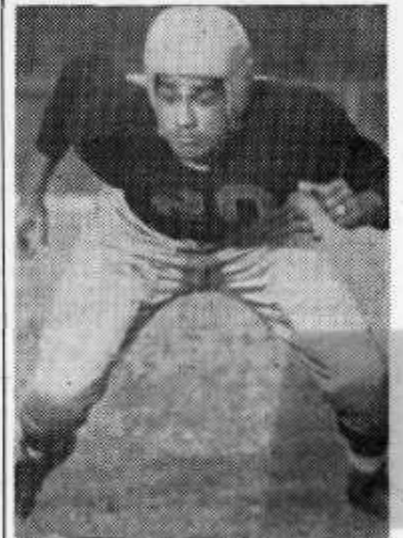

On the sunny day of June 18, 1941, a class of ten boys received their wings. After completing seventy-two hours of ground work and forty-one hours in air, under the Civil Aeronautics Authority, these A. and T. Collegiates became the proud recipients of license which qualifies them to become private pilots.

Inspector Hall presented licenses to George Lima, Bill Hill, Steve Waltz, Harold Tate, Edward McNair, Maurice Hewlin, Howard Daniels, Homer Harris, Howard Hunter and Jim Watson. Upon interviewing some of the men, it was learned that through perservance they succeeded. Bill Hill's reply to what his feeling was when he received his license was, "My feeling is unexpressible." Howard Daniels smiled and said, "I feel as I imagine Lindberg felt when he spanned the mighty Atlantic," and Steve Waltz answered rather gravely, "I felt that I had pursued a field that is opening its arms to Negro youth."

Any man is qualified to register immediately and complete this course and receive their wings if they are 19 years of age and not over 26. He must also pass the physical examination and be a citizen of the U. S. This field is broadening its scope. It will pay tremendous dividends to those who take advantage of this opportunity while it lasts. There is a chance, money and glamour in this business that can't be found in any other field.

Greetings To New Technical Students

By F. A. MAYFIELD

The Technical Department wishes to congratulate the Freshmen and new students who have entered its portals. May your entry be both profitable and enjoyable. Many are the ones who have entered within our folds and left. Today, in many walks of life, these alumni are filling prominent positions and are making very profitable contributions in their several vocations.

Offering

The Technical Department offers to you a diversified program covering the field of Technical education very generally. It is seeking constantly to increase its offering. For example, training for civilian pilot, and aviation mechanics are recent additions to its curricula. A great emphasis is being placed on metal work. General shop training has been introduced in the Industrial Arts program. In general there is a gradual evolution taking place in method of teaching. The Technical Department is applying the old adage in its teaching. "Learn by Doing," is truly the criterion for teaching in this department. Students are participating in actual field jobs under the direction of competent instructors. This surely gives to the student a genuine grasp of the work which he will do later in his life's vocation.

Field Director An Alumnus

To extend the offerings of the Technical Department to a greater number of people as well as to coordinate the activities, a Trades Director has been added to the administrative staff of the Department. Mr. C. S. Smith, Arch., '29 comes to the Department well qualified. He has had many years of experience as a teacher of trades and builder. His experience has been augmented with advance study in the field of Industrial Education in which field he holds the Master's Degree.

The National emergency no doubt has helped to open new opportunities for our Technical graduates. It has also shown that our graduates are too few in number. Aside from the regular jobs held by technical graduates as teachers and skilled workers, recently one of our graduates became Educational Advisor for Negro N. Y. A. Centers. In the new trades school at Rocky Mount, the Federal Trade School in Illinois and at Tuskegee, Alabama, our graduates are holding key positions. These appointments will illustrate the thoroughness of our graduates' training as well as the diversity of our program. The Alumni join the Department in wishing to our new "Teck" students a very successful year.

Question of the Month—

What do you as a Freshman think of wearing your green caps at all times, or do you fellows like showing your hair cuts better?

Phylliss Holland, '45, Birmingham, Ala.—I think that the green caps are silly, but are all right for the time being.

Julia Johnson, '45, Martinville, Va.—I think that the initiation is grand for it puts one into that collegiate atmosphere. If we started on the top we would not have anything to work to.

Hilliard Gilmore, '45, Lauringburg, N. C.—I think that the hair-cuts help to carry out the old traditions of the school. The caps come in very handy for those who do not have hats.

Vera Tillman, '45, Baltimore, Md.—I personally don't like the green caps.

Murial Press, '45, Cape Charles, Va.—I don't think that the freshman class of '45 could be represented any better than by the green caps.

Juanita Matthews, '45, Birmingham Ala.—The green caps are very cute, and I enjoy wearing my braids all of the time.

Jean Watson, '45, Birmingham, Ala.—I enjoy all of the initiation and think that the caps are really "sharp."

Ella Mae Watford, '45, New Port News, Va.—I am crazy about the green caps, but the initiation was hard.

Kenneth A. Page, '45, Gary, W. Va.—I think that the hair cuts are fine for they are part of the traditions.

Elsie Williams, '45, Washington, N. C.—I think that the caps are really cute, and I had plenty of fun during the jollification night.

Lelia McLaughlin, '45, Danville, Va.—I think that the caps are cute and the initiation very considerate.

William Capehart, '45, New York City—As far as the initiation goes, I am strictly neutral.

L. Curry, '45, Hickory, N. C.—I think that the caps are cute and the initiation swell.

QUOTATION

Let not your heart want for everything which appears to be easy; For greater glory is obtained through toil and sacrifice.

Chatterbox

O. L. Privett and W. Lee seem to be taking up where they left off.

C. Barnes left his old love C. Turner standing in the cold. Variety is the spice of life, eh Barnes?

W. Jones told his roommates the other day that he and J. Alston are out for the campus lovers again.

Barnhill, how are you doing? Womack seems to be having your fun.

Just between you and me, Champ is about to get another girl friend. Hush, don't tell.

Our boys seem to be a little reluctant about going to Bennett. Is it because of our fair "crop" of girls this year?

F. Mebane seems to be having difficulty in choosing between L. Woodard and O. Bagwell.

E. Watkins is among the lonely hearts this year because of the graduation of "Bus" Banner.

V. Teal seems to be playing a double header by going from senior to a freshman. Make up your mind. Is it Gilchrist, Turner, Stanford, or the freshman?

J Albert is back, what are you going to do, W. Jones?

Henhouse and Wilson are playing "Cat" jam up. Who will win!!!

Warm Willie: "Girls like you always bring out the animal in me."

Warm Wilma: "Thanks for the tip. I'll set the mousetrap."

Chapter 1

Merlin Morgan looked from her window into the garden—trees and shrubbery surrounded the Morgan estate. Something was on her mind, a silly, absurd little story that she had heard at Club meeting that very day. It was so silly, so simple, but, Merlin, ever since she was a child had been fascinated by stories. Especially ones that sounded most impossible like "The Road to Oz," "The Milky Way," and all stories about fairies and dogs that talked. Now a woman almost eighteen (for she felt that she was quite as mature as she'd ever become), she still loved to listen to stories—ghost stories and impossible ones about lovers.

The particular fable that was on her mind was the one told by Frances Miller, her best pal. Frances was hard and cold at all times not versatile like herself, so she had dismissed a perfectly good tale with a laugh. Frances was always ready for excitement—ready to try anything once, but this scheme was positively absurd.

Merlin tried to dismiss the thought and proceeded to prepare for bed, as she reluctantly left the window. She rolled her black wavy hair on curls (the beautician's suggestion) and went on with her usual routine—sweet smelling powder, cold creams, greasy creams, smelly creams; then into bed to have all the creams wiped from her face on her mother's spotless linen. She lay there wide awake and remembering the story. "What's the day," Janet had asked at Club meeting. "June 24," she had answered. Then Frances (Why did she do it?) said: "Why this is mid-summer's Eve. Don't you know the yarn about this day? Why, if a girl goes down to a spring at mid-nite on mid-summer's eve and takes a peep into the spring her future husband's face will appear in the water."

Just like that the story came. Some of the girls had merely laughed. Others stated that they would like to try it. Frances said her grandmother tried it when she was a girl, but it was impossible. But she, Merlin Morgan, had been silliest of them all and had actually believed, but it did sound so romantic—so "some thing" she couldn't explain.

Why shouldn't she go, she asked herself. It would be silly, but no one would know it.

Despite her usual slowness in dress Merlin had on her slack suit in a split second, for it was 11:45. What would Mother, Dad, Brother and Jim say? Oh! they would never know.

She crept through the house, past her brother's door—turned the key slowly in the front door—and out into the night she ran. Suppose some of the neighbors were awake and saw her running down the walk? Suppose someone kidnapped her? But she ran on—on—the spring was only a block away now — near Paul's modest little cottage.

She ran down a steep hill, tripping over stones and pebbles, then stopped beside the small spring. She dared not look into it—she was afraid—afraid of the face she might see. She must run back home at once and not look in at all. This was too absurd. Surely this wasn't the real Merlin Morgan.

The water in the spring lingered a while then sang as it trickled on. The coolness from it refreshed the air—the moon was high in the sky, and oh so bright.

Gosh, what a romantic setting; if she'd only really see a face in the spring. No, she didn't want to see a face, or did she? At that instant she gathered all her Morgan courage and leaned over and peeped into the water. Only the moon's reflection she saw. But wait! Were those footsteps that she heard? Did she hear pebbles move? Was that a face she saw looking back at her or was it only her vivid imagination? She dared not look behind her! She felt eyes on her. Should she scream? She wasn't dreaming—she saw a face! At that instant Merlin whirled around and faced a man. A real live man!

Did Merlin really see a face in the spring, or was it her imagination? Even if she didn't, who is that strange man behind her? A murderer? A kidnapper? Or maybe her future husband? Chapter 2 reveals.

It's The.... Eating House

The Canteen under the capable management of Mr. Joseph Fitts, recent graduate of the class of '41, has made considerable improvements for the promotion of better health and comfort.

The Canteen, during the summer was painted and renovated. Also, there were installed two electric fans, for the purpose of disposing of food fumes and circulating free air. New dishes were brought along with a gas range with the intentions of serving daily meals.

Meals served in the Canteen are of great value to city students, faculty members, and 'late risers.' These meals consists of breakfast, choice of: Hot cakes, waffles, bacon, eggs, toast, fresh fruit, coffee, milk, and melons, dinner, choice of: two meats, two vegetables, hot or cold beverages, Sunday dinners are served from five to nine-thirty.

Mr. Fitts speaks of his cooperative workers as "a fine lot." He also speaks of plans for the "New" Canteen which will include a kitchen and individual tables.

The administration is "one hundred per cent back of the canteen," says Mr. Fitts.

Time is the gem to be treasured and used to the greatest of your ability.

It passes quickly and your accomplishments during its presence determine the wealth that you have gotten out of it;

Your wisdom, a result of your having taken advantage of it—Your physical changes, your increase in years, your loss of it being true signs that it has passed.

KAPPA NEWS

To you, the members of the class of 1945, we, the members of the Alpha Nu Chapter, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, extend to you our sincere greetings. We realize that you have come from far and near; from homes of the wealthy and from homes of the poor, but that is not so important. You have come here primarily to secure what you call "an education." Of all things, try with all effort to get it.

During the summer months you, perhaps, were preparing to come to this Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina. Some of you worked hard to make it possible to be in that great number on September 16, 1941; some of you slept, lazed about and watched the days go by while your parents toiled from the rising of the sun to late hours of night, trying to make it possible for your being here; still others came here because they were merely forced to attend college. You are probably in one of these groups. You are here, now what are you going to do? Have you any plans for your life's work? Do you regret coming to college? Can you survive under these present crises which confront you daily? Ask yourselves these questions and many others in examining yourselves. Don't wait too late, for then, you will have passed away into an unclassified world of your own. Prepare yourselves today, for it may be too late tomorrow.

For the past few years, it has been a policy of Alpha Nu, to give a scholarship to the ranking member of the freshman class of the fall quarter. We feel that in this way we are encouraging the importance of scholarship and at the same time, making some valuable contribution to the college in its effort to make college life wholesome and beneficial. We realize that all of you will not qualify for this scholarship, so, in order to be fair, we give a "Freshman Scholastic Social" for the twenty-five ranking members of the Freshman class. In no way are we trying to entice you to apply for membership to our fraternity. This scholarship and social is for ranking members of the Freshman class. We make clear that it applies to the ladies and gentlemen. We hope that you will study hard and try to maintain a high average in scholarship and character. Remember that our "Alma Mater" is what you make it through your action.

Again, and Again, we say with kind words of expression, "We extend to you our sincere greetings."

SPHINX CLUB

On Wednesday, September 24, the Sphinx Club held its first meeting for the year. The main feature of the meeting was the election of Brother Jesse Bagley to succeed Brother Walter White as president of the Sphinx, Brothers Lovell, Vice president; secretary; Brother Rohr, Brother Smith, treasurer; Brother King, chairman of program committee; and Brother Lovell, reporter.

Other members are Brothers Lloyd Moore, DuBois Faduma, Richard Epps, Edward Dowden, Eugene Henderson, Filmore Haith, James Warren, Bernard Barno, and James Samuels.

Brothers not returning this year were: Julian Talyor, Ernest Lewis, who is now at Iowa State University, Albert McReynolds, Walter White, transferred to Purdue, George Lima and Wyrcht.

Congratulations were extended to Brothers Henderson and Lovell for scholastic achievements.

Several of the brothers are planning and hoping to make A. Phi. A. this quarter.

JAMES F. LOVELL,

Y. W. C. A. NEWS

The Y. W. C. A. had its annual Installation Tea in Holland Hall Sunday, September 28, at 5 p. m.

The officers were installed by Mrs. F. D. Bluford. Mrs. R. L. Campbell gave a very interesting reading entitled "If, for Girls." The great aim of the Y. W. C. A. as expressed by the newly installed president, is to stimulate a greater interest in religious activities on the campus and community relationship. The officers for this year are: president, Ethel Wingo; vice president, Ruth Craig; recording secretary, Elizabeth Spellman; corresponding secretary, Abigail Little; chair-treasurer, Hannah Robinson; chairman of recreation committee, Gwendolyn Peterson; chairman of program committee, Betty Greene, chairman of general education committee, Jessie Payton; and reporter, Dorothy Jones. A number of the city and campus girls are expected to join the "Y" this year; also the faculty and city women. Miss C. V. Hill, Miss V. F. Bell, Mrs. R. L. Campbell and Mrs. F. D. Bluford, are already taking a very active part in this organization. We truly hope that it will grow and become an important part in the lives of the girls of A. and T. College.

AGRICULTURE

The members of the Agricultural Association were at home to the freshmen in the Ag. department, in Noble Hall, September 25, at 7 p. m. The agenda arrangement was carried by James Warren, who in addition gave words of welcome to the new students and urged them to make the most of their college careers by affiliating with duties that are in line with their aspirations.

The loss by graduation of many key men in the set-up does not count to determine the range of program of work. The new leaders are set and ready to go, the pass word is still the same "forward."

The officers of the Association are for 1941 and 1942:

President, James W. Warren; vice president William D. White; secretary, Robert Harper; assistant secretary, George McDaniels; treasurer, Clarence Bond and Roy Askew; program committee, Herbert Marable; social committee, David Williams; decorating committee, Emmitt George; and reporter, Walter G. Evans.

It is worth remembering that you cannot whitewash yourself by blackening others.

After the regular opening, Mr. Francis, superintendent, presented the officers for the ensuing year, who are: Mr. Walter Evans, assistant superintendent; Miss Netty Grady, secretary; Miss Ruth Craig, assistant secretary; Mr. Andrew Best, treasurer; Miss Jeannette Alston, reporter.

Dr. Smith, one of our new instructors, offered to devote a short period of his time towards helping the teachers prepare their lessons. The teachers for this year are: Mr. A. Lowther, Mr. F. Mebane, Miss R. Craig, Mr. D. Barnhill, Mr. W. Evans.

Miss Julia Johnson, freshman, consented to assist the Sunday school as pianist.

JEANETTE ALSTON,

Greetings Students:

The Eta Chapter of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity welcome you to our midst and hope this year will be the beginning of bigger and better things for you.

Notable Scholars Added; Teaching Staff Increased By Ten Members

The fifty-first opening of the college has brought a large freshman class of instructors as well as students. The large number of new instructors was caused both by the fact that some of our regular teachers are absent for a year of graduate study and by the increased enrollment.

Mail Order Company Awards $800 To Agriculture Students

This year, for the first time the Sears-Roebuck Company of Chicago and elsewhere made available to A. and T. the sum of eight one hundred dollar scholarships to be awarded to farm boys for the study of agriculture.

One of the provisions of the grant was the the boys must come from actual farm homes and themselves must be interested in agriculture as a life work.

Another provision was that they must go to boys of promise who would not have been otherwise able to attend college.

With the co-operation of the teachers of vocational agriculture, county agents and high school principals, the college was able to secure the names of qualifications of many worthy young men from which the eight were selected. The following were the eight finally selected: Charles Cates, Roxboro; George Faulk, Lumberton; Howard Foxworth, Rowland; James M. Goode, Morven; James Harshaw, Laundale; Willis Jacobs, Pendleton; Ester McNair, Laurinburg; and Richard Spencer, Lilesville.
