Miss A. & T.---1945

MISS JOHNSON

MISS FOXWORTH

MISS A. AND T. OF THE 1945 SUMMER SCHOOL — Mrs. Katherine Johnson, Morven, N. C., (left) was on Thursday crowned Miss A. and T. of the 1945 summer school of the Agricultural and Technical college, Greensboro, N. C. Her maid of honor was Miss Ann Foxworth, Marion, S. C., and New Rochelle, N. Y., who is pictured at the right. The exercises were held in the Richard B. Harrison auditorium with the stage depicting a southern summer night.

Crowning Miss A&T

To become Miss A. & T. is a great honor and I am sure all who witnessed it can say the same.

Miss A. & T. for the Summer of 1945, was Miss Katherine A. Johnson of Morven, North Carolina. She wore a white silk organdy dress with white accessories carrying a bouquet of flowers.

Her runner-up was Miss Annie Mae Foxworth, also a student here. She wore a pink net evening dress with rose accessories.

There were several attendants of Miss Johnson. They were Miss Lucille Brown, Mrs. Nina Mae Marsh, Miss Thomasina Bethea, Mrs. Mary Horne Wilson, Miss Pearl Watlington, Miss Bernice Hawkins, Miss Eva T. Dillard, Mrs. Suella S. Jenkins, Mrs. Juanita Spaulding and Miss Wilma Dare Clayton. Their escorts were: Mr. Ira Brewer, Mr. Jeremiah Diggs, (Continued on page 6)

New Faculty Members

We, as students of A. & T. College Summer School express our gratitude and appreciation to the members who have joined our Faculty Staff for the summer. They are: Mr. J. A. Tarpley, the principal of the Dudley High School; Mrs. Pearl Bradley, Mrs. Nancy Arnette and Mr. G. A. Rivers, all of Dudley High School.

Mr. Tarpley is the consultant of the workshop, Mrs. Bradley, English instructor, Mrs. Arnette assistant librarian, and Mr. Rivers, director of the Physical Education program.

Evelyn Harriston, '46.

Closing Summer Session

The Summer session will close on August 20, and the convocation will be held on August 19, with baccalaureate and graduating exercises being combined on one program. There will be about thirty-five to receive either the B. S. or M. S. degree. The speaker for the occasion will be Rev. Baxter Matthews of Baltimore, Maryland. Reverend Matthews is a graduate of A. and T. Later he attended Virginia Union University in Richmond and Yale in New Haven.

Miss Hill Goes To Study

Miss Carrye V. Hill, one of the English instructors, has gone to New York University, New York, for six weeks to attend a College English Teachers Workshop.

The workshop is conducted by the association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

There will be nine other Colleges from the South sending a representative to this workshop to work on problems in English connected with their particular school.

Mrs. M. H. Jones, Reporter

Mrs. Veda J. Stroud of the Business Education teaching staff has been absent this summer to continue her graduate study in Columbia University in New York. She is expected to return to the college about September 1st.

The appointment of Lieut. Bell as head coach has been received with enthusiasm on the campus and among A. and T. fans everywhere.

Welcome To The Freshmen

(By ALBERT SPRULL, '48)

So you are coming to A. & T. huh? Well, I don't think you have such a bad idea in the back of your head. A. & T. is alright with me and I suppose it is with over a thousand other boys and girls who were enrolled here this past year. I should like first of all to remind you that A. & T. is no paradise. It is an institution of higher learning, and you must keep this in mind when you come here.

To those of you who plan to enter college here I should like to take this space to send you greetings from the student body and faculty of A. & T. College. Yes, the school of higher learning wishes very much to have you a part of them in order that it may be better.

It was my duty to write along with a welcome greeting a word of acquaintance and I shall attempt to do so in the next few lines.

In view of the fact that the history, etc., will come out in the college bulletin I shall discuss extra curricular activities, only.

Extra curricular activities are definitely a part of one's education and it certainly means a lot to be able to take in at least one while on the campus.

The Agricultural and Technical College offers numerous extracurricular activities during the school year. These include Sunday school, debating society, athletics, various clubs in one's particular field and fraternities and sororities.

At A. & T. you have your chance to major in whatever field you choose and you can be confident that you will get the very best instruction. If you are a chemistry prospect you will probably be interested introduced to the chemistry wizard, Dr. M. B. Towns or if you are an animal lover you may have a chance to meet Dr. W. Kennedy, or if you like art Mr. Taylor will be glad to greet you. You will be assigned an advisor problems are difficult. The people here are just like the ones you have at home, therefore you have nothing to do but relax and made yourself at home here.

If by and chance you come to A. & T. and you don't find it here as you expect it to be remember one thing "Life is what you make it." You can make life obey you. Again I wish to welcome you to A. & T. The best in the South.

Fall Term Begins Sept. 18

The school year 1945-46 will begin on Tuesday, September 18, with the registration of Freshmen and former students, September 20. From present indications the number of incoming freshmen will be larger than the record breaking class of last year. There will be a large number of new teachers added to the staff.

Veterans Institute Draws Crowd

Staff Discusses Standards

At its regular meeting on June 19th, the members of the teaching staff confronted themselves with the important question "How can we generate teaching power in students who plan to teach"?

This question aroused general interest on the part of all present with many taking part in the discussion, which developed around the three major factors in every learning situation—personality of the teacher propriety of the method and sufficiency of the subject matter.

Although reflecting quite clearly the traditional and progressive schools of thought the teachers were not content to end the meeting in a fruitless debate but decided to formulate a statement of principles which should guide every teacher whether in school or college.

According to the decisions of that August body, in order for a teacher to inspire, stimulate and encourage students to put forth their best efforts continuously over a period of time, he or she should observe these rules:

1. Understand the laws according to which children learn.
2. Keep in mind the necessity of superior teaching.
3. Realize the importance and meaning of each day's teaching.
4. Require intensive concentration on subject matter.
5. Do wide professional reading.
6. Maintain high ideals for, and cooperative attitudes toward students, and the teaching profession.
7. Understand the psychological background of students.
8. Maintain enthusiasm for teaching.
9. Make subject matter practical and meaningful to students.
10. Evaluate critically his or

Incoming Freshmen

It was learned today that up to July 31st, The Registrar has received 601 applications for admission to college. The girls lead two to one. So we see there still will be a man shortage on the campus the ensuing school term, but, girls, don't let this discourage you. We are sure all will enjoy a successful school year.

Being an upper classman I'm sure you will find your stay a pleasant one. The subjects are easy, if you apply yourself. The teachers are very considerate. The student body as a whole is very friendly and will help you in every way they can. So until we see you, I bid you adieu.

Great Interest Manifested In Soldier Problems

The State-wide institute for the purpose of explaining the benefits that have been provided by the Federal government and the State of North Carolina was held here on July 10 and 11.

All of the major veteran laws were reviewed and their provisions explained by government and business executives connected with their administration.

In opening the first session President Bluford explained the purpose of the meeting and how the information which wives, parents and other dependents of veterans might be helped by being in a better position to advise their service people.

The main address of the first session were delivered by Mr. C. P. Pate, chief of the vocational rehabilitation and education division, Veterans Administration Guidance Center, Chapel Hill. Mr. Pate outlined the educational benefits provided by Public Law 346, 78th Congress, popularly known as the "G. I. Bill of Rights." Mr. Pate explained the educational benefits provided for disabled veterans under public law 16, 78th Congress.

These addresses were followed by a general discussion and question period. Dr. V. A. Clift was discussion leader. Many questions were asked from the floor.

The afternoon session began with an address by Mr. J. F. Stevens, secretary and treasurer of Gate City Building and Loan

African Missionary Lectures Here

Miss Carie G. Hargrave of Wilmington, N. C., was a recent guest on A. & T.'s campus, where she delivered a series of lectures on African life as she saw it in Sierra Leone. Miss Hargrave lectured at the regular chapel periods and to various class groups in Negro history.

Miss Hargrave has written a book, "African Primitive Life." The following topics are discussed fully in this book: (1) Family Life and Customs, (2) Religious Practices and Marriages, (3) Industrial and Agricultural Opportunities.

This book has already been placed on the approved list of the North Carolina Education Association.

For two years Miss Hargrave was principal of the Reuben Johnson Memorial school for Girls in Free Town, Sierra Leone. She now resides in Wilmington, North Carolina.

FACULTY ADVISER
DEAN WARREN T. GIBBS

Paragraphics

Miss Elizabeth Gibbs assistant librarian who has been on leave of absence for the study of library science at the University of Chicago visited the college for a few days at the opening of summer school. She received the B. L. S. degree in June and is continuing her study this summer.

Miss Effiette Martin of our faculty has returned from L. Richardson Memorial hospital after an operation. We hope to have her back with us for the last six weeks of Summer school.

Captain Robert L. Campbell is well on the way to recovery after undergoing a serious operation at L. Richardson Memorial hospital. Capt. Campbell expresses his desire to be back with us very soon.

Miss Mary E. Devine, of the class of 1944 was a recent visitor to the campus. Miss Devine is still remembered by many summer school teachers.

Mr. R. E. Martin, head of the Social Science department of the college has been awarded a fellowship by the Social Science association of New York to do a research project in the states of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. He will be absent from the college during the year of 1945-46.

The following persons who are members of the Summer School were called home on account of death in their family.

Mrs. M. Cooper was called away to her home, Saturday, June 23, on account of the sudden passing of her sister. Mrs. Cooper lives at 70 Ashe street, Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. L. M. Purnell was called away due to the death of her brother in New York city, Tuesday, June 26. Mrs. Purnell lives in Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Brown was called away June 17, on account of the death of her father in Buffalo, N. Y.. Mrs. Brown lives at 236 Riddle street, Jeffersonville, Indiana.

Miss Annie Foxworth gained much popularity as a sponsor of social activities.

Veterans Institute

A meeting of importance to aid Veterans of World War II will be held at A. and T. college beginning Tuesday, July 10, and continuing through Wednesday, July 11.

This conference was of very special interest and benefit to Veterans and civilians, informing them of their rights under the laws. Not only was this enlightening to veterans on benefits that he is eligible for, but this conference also served as a nucleus for the civilians to whose communities these servicemen will be returning.

There were some outstanding authorities from the Veterans Administration and other Governmental agencies who lectured and led group discussions on topics most essential to the veterans.

This was the first time that a Conference of this type has ever been held at any Negro college in this section, and with the cooperation of both Veterans and Civilians this can be a highly successful Conference.

There are many discharged Veterans today who are missing grand opportunities due to their lack of information as to securing benefits that they are eligible to get under the Veterans legislation.

There are many Civic and Social Agencies that are willing to go "all out" in helping the Veterans rehabilitate and adjust themselves to our Society, they lack sufficient authentic information and procedures. Such procedures and information was given at this conference. Civilians, this should be your challenge.

Since this Institute is free to the public, it is hoped that you will feel it your responsibility to attend.

To the Civilian population: The (Veterans) offered their lives, you serve them by cooperating and advising them.

—IRA BREWER, '47.

Seniors

Well Seniors, you seem to be struggling very hard now, but who cares about a little hard work? Not you, I am sure. The very thought of the sight of the long sought goal is stimulus enough to make your burden lighter.

I quote, "Heights of great men reached and kept were not attained by a sudden flight, but they while their companions slept were toiling upward in the night."

There have been quite a number of compliments passed on the class of which you should be proud.

—MRS. M. H. JONES.

NARROW ESCAPE

A six - inch Jap naval shell struck two feet away from the foxhole in which reclined Anti-aircraft Gunner Jack W. Knapp of Watkineland, N. Y., during the heavy fighting around Davao. The explosion lifted him out of his foxhole, turned him over in mid-air a couple of times, landed him in a water-filled ditch ten feet away. He emerged muddy but uninjured.

My Philosophy Of Life

Life is not just a dream, an illusion or some fancy idea. To me, it is real, it is ultimately the growth of personality, moved by the growth of the love of the good, the truth, and the beautiful.

To be good is the goal of human thinking. Rousseau declared that every thing was good by nature and that evil was introduced by the malicious design of one's enemies. I believe that God is ultimately good and wishes us to enjoy ourselves; consequently we are free to choose the good and reject the evil. Thus we can live a good life and enjoy it more abundantly.

To search for truth is another goal of human activity. It is the sole end, if we wish to free men from human suffering and material cares so that they may obtain freedom in the study and contemplation of truth. There are times when truth frightens us; it seems cruel, and haunts us as a phantom. In our fright courage whispers, "Be Strong, does not the Holy spirit say, 'that the truth shall make you free'?"

Truth should not be feared, for it alone is beautiful. In seeking the truth one should completely free his soul from prejudice, passion and injustice. It is necessary to obtain absolute sincerity. When found, this truth gives love and happiness.

We speak of the beautiful not alone in the sense of material things, such as the beauty of conduct, the beauty of order in society and the beauty of justice but the beauty of nature and of true virtue, love of goodness, truth and beauty. I hope you understand, my friends.

The sum of my philosophy of life is the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

—L. M. PURNELL.

Workshop

This session of Summer school at A. and T. has been and is now quite inspiring, beneficial, and enjoyable. Each member of the faculty greets us daily with a smile which makes the students, though many miles from loved ones feel at home.

In each course our attention has been directed toward modern trends, new ideas and a fuller life.

The Work Shop is of special interest to me. It was this particular area that claimed my acceptance in summer school this year. Problems of various description have been and are being discussed, others are being considered. Suggestions of methods and approach have been numerous. Attention frequently has been directed to new world ideas in regards to education and the training of youth.

Dr. Chft, Mr. Tarpley, Dean Gibbs and others have given the group in the Work Shop a wealth of wholesome instruction which if lived up to will be a safe guide to many in the period of transition.

May they be waiting here many years hence, to guide others who may want to keep their minds alert in a changing world.

—MRS. A. C. MATTHEWS.

What A Freshman Thinks

"A school edifice with all its volumes is an intellectual storehouse of meet the needs of youth" — Seneca.

As a freshman I think of A. and T. in a primary sense as a storehouse of knowledge, with each student being a key. I don't, however, think of it in terms of the splendor of the buildings, towering with all its grandeur, neither do I think of it in terms of the vastness of the acres of land it occupies, neither the number of students enrolled. As great buildings do not necessarily mean a great school, nor do numerous acres of land, nor an influx of students. But I'm thinking in terms of the principles that A. and T. stands upon.

It is a school that every North Carolinian should be proud of. It offers Negro youth a kind of training that will possibly best serve his immediate welfare— industrial education of the highest type for both young men and women.

I think A. and T. is one Negro institution that the future holds no limit as far as advancement and growth are concerned.

Everyone likes the best, but as a freshman, and the respect I hold for A. and T. there is no doubt in my mind that this word "Best" is still predominant when I think of A. and T.; the school we all love so well.

—JAMES JONES, '49.

Is College Education Necessary

This question is believed to be one of national interest. Every where parents and youth are greatly concerned as to whether a college education is prerequisite to a richer and happier life.

Speaking as a student in college and as an elementary teacher, I realize how important a college background can be for anyone. Regardless of what one aspires to become the knowledge and contact developed at college will help an individual to become more efficient in his field of endeavor.

Our own government realized the advantages of higher learning, in that, the ex-service men are encouraged to continue their education.

It is hoped that the boys who are returning home from the war will take full advantage of this opportunity.

Some regard college as a foundation upon which one builds his social life. Who can disregard the lessons of teamwork and sportsmanship learned playing football or basketball in college?

Even to those of us who do not anticipate a profession. College is a definite necessity. We are coming to realize that college training is very important to girls who just expect to be housewives.

Summing up the advantages of a college education, I would say that the advantages gained by attending college are indeed great. Since knowledge is life; for a richer and very wholesome life, attend college.

—By MARIE D. RIVERS.

Poet's Corner

DARLING

Miss you in the morning, when I wake to face the day,
With the knowledge that my darling is full half a world away.

And when the sun lights all the earth and steams the shining dew,

My hands are doing "duty;" my mind is there with you.

The ache for you is something deep and hard to verse,

The void grows greater with each way, the lonely pain is worse.

But when the vacuum deep inside swells as large as it can grow,

Is when the light has left the sky and to my cot I go.

Then missing you becomes a passion so intensely deep

That I must tell my restless mind the thoughts of you and sleep.

Then in the night when all my mind guilds thoughts to all my heart,

I dream of being with my steew-heart and all the pains depart.

One day there will be a splendid dawn, and we shall be together,
And then the sun will brightly shine, regardless of the weather;

For every day I miss you now, I will dearly kiss you then,

And when the debt is paid, my darling, we will pay the debt again.

A poem to his sweetheart, composed by:

SENIOR CLASS POEM, 1945

As we step out into the world which is so war-torn,

We shall strive to make it better for generations yet unborn.

Young men who came here as freshmen,

As timid as could be,
Are now serving our country,
On land, in the air, and at sea.

Young women who had never traveled far from home,

Are now helping our boys far across the foam.

There are those who are not in the actual fight,

Working in defense plants both day and night.

What are we going to do after we leave dear A. and T.?

Join in the struggle and fight for democracy.

We are not planning to stand idly by

And watch the things for which our boys fought

Slowly fade and die.

The class of '45 has many plans in mind

To improve conditions for all mankind.

We will win the banner for dear old A. and T.

And spread its standards over land and sea.

So we depart with hearts brave and strong,

We won't say goodbye,

We'll just say "So Long."

Composed by NELDA J. SCOTT.

Public Opinion

Should or should not ladies go without stockings?

1—J. R. W. Grandy says—yes, they should due to the shortage of Nylons, because rayons will sag at the knee.

2—James Daniels says—Should not, because it adds a great deal of neatness and also neatness to the feminine qualities.

3—Frederick Austin says—They should, because the war is still on and it takes a great deal of silk for the war effort.

4—Dante Raye—Women should be entitled to their own opinion. Frankly, I see no necessity in wearing silk hose.

5—James Gilliam—Women should wear stockings as it improves that lady-like appearance.

A. & T. Summer Students Find Enjoyment Here

♦ A. AND T. IN SUMMER

Chapel Program By Talented Summer School Students

Mrs. Bradley, an English instructor who has joined our summer school faculty presented a dramatic program representing some of the talented students on the campus on July 6, 1945.

Mr. E. T. Moore from Hickory, N. C., Principal of East Hickory Elementary school who is now doing graduate work gave a dramatic reading entitled "Nebuchadnezzar". Scene: In a county jail.

Miss Verda Mae McMurray of Greensboro, a teacher at Pitt County elementary school, who is now studying for a B. S. degree gave a monologue, "A Cheerful Neighbor."

Scene: In the living room of a neighbor.

A skit, entitled "The Sergeant" by Lawrence M. Klee, released by the Victory Players Script of the American Theater Wing, was presented by regular students.

The characters are: Frances played by Miss Eva A. Foster, advanced junior and a major in elementary education of Greensboro.

Mae played by Miss Lois P. Hamilton, senior from Norfolk, Va., a major in elementary education.

The Sergeant played by Mr. Richard H. Harrell from Suffolk, Va., who has received his degree and is now doing post-graduate work.

Scene: On a street corner at a car stop.

A monodrama entitled "The Button," was given by Mr. Albert W. Spruill of Columbia, N. C., a sophomore majoring in Vocational Agriculture.

Scene: At an American prison in a solitary confinement cell.

—EVELYN HAIRSTON, '46.

The Picnic

On July 4th, the Student Body and the Faculty Members were cordially invited to attend a picnic down at the College Farm. The picnic began at 3:00 o'clock by everyone meeting in front of the dining hall for a jolly ride on the bus to the farm.

On reaching the farm, everyone began looking for some game to enter, such as cards and softball. Just as everyone had begun to enjoy themselves dark clouds rolled across the sky, thunder rumbled and small showers began drizzling down. Then the treat of the evening came, the lunch was served, consisting of fried chicken, potato salad, tomatoes, watermelon and punch. After lunch everyone sat around to gossip. I am quite sure everyone had a nice time.

—MAGGIE R. MILLS, '46.

Slaves were bought by the Aztecs by the payment of 100 cocoa beans.

Hurricanes and earthquakes are common in the Marianas Islands.

I am very happy to say that my summer here at A. and T. has been a very nice one.

Being a regular student. I have enjoyed talking and being with the Summer School folks and asking them questions of their past experience. I find all of them to be very interesting.

There has been plenty of activities on the campus to keep everyone busy, and I am sure that everyone has enjoyed the number of dances that were given by the candidates for Miss A. and T. To the winning candidate I congratulate you on obtaining such an honor, as to be crowned "Miss A. and T."

To the graduating class I bid you adieu, and hope to follow you soon.

—MAGGIE R. MILLS, '46.

♦ A. AND T. IN SUMMER

A. and T. is a nice place to spend the summer if education is your aim. The entertainment is good and the food excellent.

It is very interesting to be in classes with teachers who already have some knowledge of what we expect to meet when we have finished our course of studies, also to hear of some of the problems we will come in contact with when we leave A. and T.

I don't detest going to the library but it is one of the hottest spots on the campus in summer. I have to go and like it, because classes, as usual require library material.

There are many things to do during your leisure time, if you can take what the sun has to offer. This is A. and T. in summer.

—EUNICE POWERS, '46.

♦ A. AND T. SUMMER SCHOOL

I really can say I am enjoying summer school to the highest despite the hot weather.

Being a winter student, it has been an enjoyment to mingle with school teachers and older men and women. To be in class with them is quite amusing. To learn about their different experiences and problems is also very interesting to me.

There seems to be a lot of extra-curricular activities on the campus to keep one hurried at all times, and I certainly like to be doing something at all times.

The campus is very beautiful this time of year. The trees are in full bloom to give plenty of shade for those who detest too much sun. The food is good and plentiful at all times.

The classes are interesting and teachers are very considerate. To me summer school is fine.

♦ MY SUMMER AT A. AND T.

COLLEGE

I have enjoyed thus far the days that I have spent in summer school. There have been a few disagreeable days. However I did not let it confront me with my studying.

I am glad to see the interest that the regular students have in participating in the various activities that now exist on the campus.

I extend my best wishes to all members of the graduating class.

Bernice is a junior at Fayetteville State Teachers College. The baby is in nursery school here.

Ohrea Bagwell Wins Contest

"Today the Negro is facing the greatest crisis in his history," was the observation made by Miss Ohrea Bagwell in her first-prize winning essay entitled, "The Negro's Plea For Understanding," in a contest conducted by the Greensboro chapter of the North Carolina Interracial Commission. The contest, held recently, included all the colleges in the County.

"Negroes are coming to realize," Miss Bagwell's essay continued, "that the Negro dilemma is no longer confined to the South; that the old Negro idea of northern freedom is a myth." "Daily we see and hear of things happening that try the very soul of Negroes who yearn for freedom. To talk about interracial and intercultural goodwill is fine enough, but to talk and do nothing is to lose a golden opportunity and to break faith with future generations.

"Just as we cannot survive long on a diet of bread and water, neither can interracial harmony be obtained without maintenance on the part of all people concerned. We know that racial unity depends upon that feeling of brotherhood which must be present in our society if we want to pull together as one. We have a great task before us. We must come together and work on our individual problems with open minds. Very often we have thought of race relations simply as relations involving the Negro. We have thought of the Negro problem and race relations simultaneously. The Negro is not a problem nor is he a liability. It is a matter of group relationships with mutual difficulties on both sides of the fence.

"The Negro fight unreservedly for democracy. Will America be wise enough to abolish all such institutions that are barriers to Negro freedom and civilization such as segregation. Jim Crowism, disfranchisement and lynching? We shall seek it, making no excuse.

"Improved human relationships are essential within our nation and will exercise a great effect on the post war readjustments which nations and races all over the world will be called upon to make."

Miss Bagwell, who was awarded a B. S. degree May, 1945, was given the $25 prize by C. A. Hines, chairman of the Board of Trustees of A. and T. college and chairman of the Interracial Commission.

Miss Ethel Wise Heard On Lyceum

Miss Ethel B. Wise, a popular Soprano of the New York scene, appeared in a Song Recital in the Richard B. Harrison Auditorium of A. & T. College, Greensboro, N. C., on June 28.

Miss Wise, who holds the degree of bachelor of arts and bachelor's degree of music from Howard University, was born and educated in Washington, D. C. Her career as directress of Music at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Being a recipient of many scholarships, honors and awards she did further study at the Juillard School of Music, New York City and at the American Conservatory Master School of Music, Chicago.

Miss Wise recently returned from a trip to North Africa, Corsica and Italy. There she served as a volunteer in the United Service Organization.

Miss Wise is regarded as an exceptionally well equipped singer. She sings with accuracy and finish. Her diction and fine voice aroused the audience to a great enthusiasm.

Alumni Elect Officers

C. O. Howell, principal of the Gibsonville High School, Gibsonville, N. C., was named president of the Alumni Association of A. and T. college in its annual meeting, to serve for the ensuing year. He succeeded H. C. Goore, principal of Jordan Sellars High School, Burlington, N. C. Representatives were in attendance from many sections of the state and all parts of the country. Pres. F. D. Bluford of the college, in a brief talk, commended the organization for the work it is doing in spreading the traditions and ideals of the institution. The executive committee was authorized to organize chapters in all communities where A. and T. graduates are located.

Other officers elected were J. C. McLaughlin, dean of the school of agriculture at A. and T. college and W. E. Waddell, principal of the Albermarle high school, Albemarle, N. C., vice presidents; R. E. Jones, Negro agent for North Carolina, secretary; Miss M. M. Graves, teacher, Mt. Olive, N. C., assistant secretary and J. T. Daniels, principal Pender County training school, Rocky Point, N. C., treasurer.

Mr. Mason Returns

Mr. Bernard L. Mason, instrumental music instructor of A. & T. College, after taking an advance course at the University of Michigan, has returned.

Mr. Mason left A. & T. in June 1944, and attended the University from that time until June 1945. During his absence Mr. Ahern, the former band instructor at A. & T. filled his vacancy, and did an excellent job as instructor.

Due to the excellent work of Mr. Mason and Mr. Ahern many of A. & T.'s musicians are playing in the hands of our Armed Forces in many parts of the world.

To Mr. Mason hats off! We are glad to have you back with us, and we are sure you will continue the excellent work you have done in the past years.

Talent Night

On July 3, Miss Annie Mae Foxworth presented a talent program and a dance to the summer schoolers.

The program was full of enjoyment for everyone. The participants were regular students; Caldonia Brown solo, Burnice Avery stunts, Eva Foster gave her own composition, Summer school teachers, Mr. E. T. Moore reading, Mrs. J. Wells Adams, Mr. Oddie J. Cox solo, and Mrs. E. J. Moore gave two solos. From ORD we were honored with a tap dance, Quartet and solos.

After the talent program we gathered in the gym and danced. Thanks to Miss Foxworth for a very lovely evening.

—JACQUELINE LYLES, '46

This year a dinner-dance has been planned as a highlight of the social calendar for the second session of Summer School. A reception for the graduating seniors is also being planned.

Chatter Box

The first six weeks of summer school has passed and B. and C. Derr haven't met their soldier friends yet.

M. Ruth M. you will have to straighten up and fly right because Marion G. Will be here the second six weeks.

James J. is trying very hard to take up where John J. left off, after all he is one of the Jones boys.

Nat. Harris, come clean now, who is the girl?

Miss M. D. is the campus mascot.

Say Doc, since Mildred H. came to town you forgot A. Young.

I see M. Lois S. took up where Cat A. left off. She calls him Smoothy or Smokey.

I see McMillan, Jack, Fox and Stewart are our play boys of the campus. R. Franks, Jackie L., S. Norcum, Lois H., M. Steele started the ball rolling and now all the other girls are trying to anchor them.

The soldiers have taken over the campus as far as R. Watkins, Burnice A., and M. Owens, are concerned.

Buchannon has a sharp looking soldier, what do you think about him Mariah.

Cat Gilliam and his Cabbage. Folks, have you heard about the Lean Man's Club?

Cat Gilliam, founder, honorary member and president, Kimple, secretary and Cuthbertson, treasurer.

All of the dances we are favored with a floor show, starring J. Lyles and Alexander Giles.

Vivian Totten is lonesome since Melvin didn't stay for summer school.

Nancy G. and Sarg. are still marking time.

What has happened to Sara Norcum she stays in a lot these hot days.

This chatterbox would not be complete without the popular boys of regular school, well Jinxy Red, Frank Sumner, Dan Ray, F. D. Whitted, James Daniels, Bill Saunders, Walter Lewis, aren't raising any sand, can you imagine?

Contributions For 'Y' Hut Fund

The following is quoted from a letter penned by Pfc. James H. Reeves, Jr., class of '43, who is now stationed in the Aleutian Islands.

"The guys and I felt that we should do something about helping the 'Y' Memorial Fund, so we got together a little dough ($53.00) fifty-three dollars. Sending it your way now.

Started not to point my finger at anyone, but decided that it wouldn't hurt — here they are:

MAX WESTERBAND HERE

There was a dance at the college gymnasium Friday, July 6, at which time Max Westerband and his Collegiate orchestra played.

Their dance was under the auspices of the social committee. Everyone wore evening dresses and men dark suits.

The decorations, thanks should go to Mr. Grandy. The colors were pink and green, and red, white and blue. There were shrubs in the form of trees and two or three love seats located under arbors.

At intermission everyone was served a splendid repast. I am quite sure it was a gala occasion.

"Pickin's" From the Graduating Class A&T Summer School

The graduating class of A. and T. college Summer school regrets that it has been unable to meet all its members since it was organized due to the "Practice Teaching" of some of its members.

We hope Physics and Chemistry will not be a stumbling block to the next graduating class.

These subjects are making us sweat. This also is an excuse for the absence of some of our members from class meetings.

The prospective graduating list of thirty members has been posted. We hope there will be thirty when the roll is called. Each of us has his fingers crossed.

We expect the support of the entire Summer school students and faculty members to each affair sponsored by the class or else the fee covering the admission of the affair.

We are pleased to have Mr. Wise as our class advisor. He seems to understand our short comings.

HAS ITS ADVANTAGES

Spending most of your time in a foxhole has only one advantage—you can save a lot of cash. During 39 months in the Pacific, 41st Division soldiers have sent home $8,544,000 in postal money orders. This does not include money saved through allotments or Soldiers' Savings accounts.

The District Conference of Negro Vocational Agriculture Teachers of North Carolina met during the week of July 9th through 13th at A. and T. college, Greensboro, for their annual work shop and sectional N. F. A. contest.

This workshop was ably led by Prof. S. B. Simmons, State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture, who was assisted by Professors C. E. Dean, teacher trainer of A. and T. college and W. T. Johnson, Rural Engineering and R. W. P. T. Supervisor of A. and T. college.

Mr. Roy H. Thomas, N. C. Supervisor of Vocational Education, State Department of Education, Raleigh, was present and made an inspiring address to the teachers on past accomplishments and the state plans for the coming year. Mr. Thomas was able to secure the following leaders to aid in this work shop, Dr. F. W. Lathrop, U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C., and Miss E. S. Barrett, North Carolina Department of Vocational Education.

This conference gives success to the solving of problems through committees, and the following were appointed by Mr. Simmons; Committees on Evaluation, Guidance, Sweet Potato Production and Dairy Cattle management and Showing.

The following persons were leaders in the workshops, Dr. Lathrop, Evaluation of Departments; Miss Barrett, Guidance; Dr. Kennedy, Dairying; and Prof. Dean, Sweet Potatoes.

Many of the Teachers had contestants in the Sectional N. F. A. contest and a very favorable impression was made upon state and national leaders. North Carolina was winner in the following contests: Quartette, Public speaking, Talent and Stunts.

The winners from Virginia were in the N. F. A. quiz.

Handsome prizes will be awarded to these contestants who won and all are expected to go to the National Convention in Nashville, Tenn., during the month of August.

Honorary memberships were given to three A. and T. college graduates in the state N. F. A. organization; Mr. R. E. Jones, N. C. State Ext. Agent, Mr. Ross W. Newsome, Va. State Ext. Agent and to Prof. W. T. Johnson, Rural Engineer Inst. and R. W. P. T. Supervisor in Negro Vocational Departments.

Summer School Committees Are Active

The college is desirous of having all students in the summer school use their time profitably and enjoyably. The following committees have done a grand job in planning and carrying out the summer school program:

I—Committee for Miss A. and T. a. Purpose — To promote a program of choosing and crowning of Miss A. and T. of Summer School.

b. Members — Miss C. V. Hill, chairman; Mr. A. C. Bowling, Miss M. Thompson, Mr. C. R. A. Cunningham, Miss M. A. Simmons, Vice-Chairman, Mr. H. C. Taylor, Mr. B. L. Mason, Mr. W. H. Gamble, Mr. R. E. Martin, Mr. J. R. Grandy, Mrs. P. B. Bradley, Dr. Virgil Clift, Mrs. R. M. Babrey, and Mr. C. A. Irvin.

II—Social Committee:

a. Purpose—To foster and direct cultural and social activities.

b. Members — Miss V. F. Bell, Chairman, Mr. A. C. Bowling, Miss M. A. Simmons, Dr. M. B. Towns, Dr. W. L. Kennedy, Dr. W. N. Rice, Mrs. T. Colman, Mrs. M. W. Bolden.

Business Education Shows Gains

By CATHERINE J. DERR, '46

1945 Graduates

Yes, the seniors have gone out into the wide, wide, world and have made adjustments and have been appointed to several positions. Why? Because they are A. and T. grads.

Those who have positions that we know are:

Miss Catherine Atkinson, Secretary to Mr. Warner Pawson, music director at Howard University.

Miss Fannie Simmons, teaching French and English in the High school at Garland, N. C.

Miss Edna Moore, Teaching French and Biology at Bennettsville, S. C.

Mr. Wilson York, clerking in the bank of Danville, Va.

Mr. Thomas Penn, teaching Biology in Charlotte, N. C.

Miss Victoria Black, Home Demonstration Agent here in N. C.

Miss Edwina Faulkner, government job in Washington.

Salley George, Home Ec. job in Cleveland county.

Juanita Wharton, Home Ec. job in Robeson county.

Archie Wiley, teaching Vocational Agriculture in Madison, N. C.

Julia Johnson, teaching History in Hickory, N. C.

Anna Henderson, teaching Commercial Education at Dudley High school, Greensboro.

Wilhelmina McDonald, teaching History in Virginia.

Others who have been recommended are:

Earl High, Herman Standback, Richard Harrell, Augusta Allen Waddell, Gladys Ruffin, Emma Boone, Dorothy Garrett, Signora Lea, Mary Thompson, Edith Lomax, Helen Lowdermilk, Ruth Daley, Virginia Corpeneing, and Davis Waldron.

I hope to be with my fellow students and all of the clan of '46 can join me in saying this.

What ever you do fellow students do your best and you will be successful.

Opening Reception By Social Committee

I am sure I voice the sentiment of the entire Summer School when I say that the social committee has wonderfully entertained us this year.

The reception at the opening of school in Holland Hall was a different but very enjoyable form of entertainment. It has caused us to know each other better.

The room was beautifully decorated with mixed flowers of the season.

Miss E. J. Wilmer, who sat at the end of the beautifully decorated table was hostess.

Everyone was warmly received by President Bluford, Dean Gibbs, Mrs. Gibbs, Miss Simmons and others.

After making acquaintances, chatting with old and new friends, and playing various games, we were served a delicious menu of "Frappe, Cakes and Nuts".

Music was furnished by Mr. Martin.

Mrs. M. H. Jones, reporter.

The Business Educational program at the Agricultural and Technical college has been under the supervision of Mr. L. A. Wise since 1928. Since that time, considerable progress has been made in the Business Department in both the Business Administration and Commercial Education field.

The Business Education was not operated on a college basis at this Institution before 1930. In the Fall of 1928, a combination of Business Administration and Secretarial Science program of education was made a part of the college curriculum, at which time the service of Mr. L. A. Wise was secured as the first teacher in this field on College level. He introduced the Principles of Management, Money and Banking, Salesmanship, Office Management, Business Law, and Real Estate as the business curriculum.

Many improvements have been made in the equipment of this department since 1928. At first, there were only seven typewriters, one work table, and one mimeograph machine. Now, we have twenty-six typewriters, several adding and duplicating machines, all in very good condition. Besides having courses offered in the operation of these different machines, we have courses in Bookkeeping and Accounting, Business Mathematics, Law, Office Training, Salesmanship, Insurance, Secretarial Studies, and Real Estate.

Since the work began more than one hundred and fifty people have completed the department and are now gainfully occupied as teachers of commercial subjects, social workers, and secretaries to executives. They are also employed in insurance companies, community centers, colleges and as secretaries to county agents. The facilities of the department have been steadily improving in equipment, teaching staff and books to a point where it is now able to compete with many of the older commercial departments of colleges in the United States.

The Secretarial Course has been a great help to many of the students while in school to aid them in getting finance while working in the offices. Many of them from the Business Education Department have, since their graduation, been working as secretary to some of the School Officials as follows: Miss Biglow, Secretary to the President of this Institution, Miss M. Moore, Secretary to the Bursar, Miss Edwards, Secretary to the Treasurer, Mr. Gordon, Secretary to the Dean of the Mechanic Art Department, and Miss Truesdell, Secretary to the Registrar. Example of outside employment is Miss Catherine Atkinson, Goldsboro, North Carolina, a graduate of the Class of 1945, is now secretary to the Dean of School of Music at Howard University. Many other A. and T. former students have war jobs as file clerks, junior typists, and secretaries.

The other opportunities offered in the field of Business Education at A. and T. are: Training to fit one for owning and operating a small business for oneself or to act as manager for another.

Mr. James Gilliam, Mr. Richard Harrell, Mr. Benjamin Thomas, Mr. Prezell A. Robinson, Mr. Frank Summer, Mr. Joseph Camp, Mr. Arthur Williams, Mr. Herman Stanback, Pvt. Thomas Michaux.

The flower girls were: Barbara Martin, Gwendolyn Shippman, Ann Reese, Anna Louise Watson. The crown bearer was Robert Martin.

There were several selections given in honor of the Queen. Miss Joselyn Bailey gave a piano solo.

Singing and rhythm was by the Kindergarten children here at the Nursery School with Andree Carter as narrator. A vocal duet was given by Miss Dorothy Lefette and Mr. Richard Johnson. Mr. Robert E. Martin gave the history of Miss A. & T. from 1934 until the present time. Caldonia Brown a student here gave a vocal solo. Mr. Albert Spruill gave a reading and the Choral Group included the students of the Vacation School at Hayes-Taylor Y. M. C. A. Presentation of prizes were by Dean W. T. Gibbs. The program ended with the presentation of the annual trophy to Miss A. & T. of 1945.

Army Shows Advancement In Science

A Sgt of A. A. F. shows President Bluford Army 'improve ments while crowd looks on.

An educational demonstration unit of the utilization of air craft equipment and material for teaching purposes was presented Wednesday morning, July 18, in the gymnasium of the A. and T. college.

Capt. John D. Odum, from

Army Air Forces Headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., and a party of several officers and assistants were in charge of the demonstrations and lectures. Each member of the military unit are instructors in the AAF Training Command and were educators in civilian life. They discussed

Training aids and Techniques which were of special interest to the secondary and college teachers.

The program was designed to prepare for the utilization of air craft equipment and material which is now being made available without costs to colleges and schools according to Dr. F.

D. Bluford, president of the institution.

Attending the demonstration were superintendents of schools, principles of high schools, teachers of science and mathematics, college administrators, college instructors, visual aid directors and vocational directors and teachers.

Place Of Architecture

The fascinating significance that the above-mentioned subject implies to me is a utilitarian art and an exact science that overcomes the forces of nature to provide for man shelter, one of the three necessities of life. As I trek on my journey through this institution of higher learning striving to attain my goal, I can't help but ponder and wonder if the majority of the students realize the importance of this highly rated and esteemed profession. In order that architecture and the duties and responsibilities of an architect may be known and appreciated, I present the following in the hope that the aforementioned will be done.

Building construction is a priceless heritage that has come to us through the ages and has been a culmination and assimilation of ideas which have taken significance in the form of stone, wood, brick, and finally (in our time) steel. In the beginning, as we all know, man dwelled in the most menial type of shelter, lacking the conveniences and comforts of life that we are acquainted with and usually demand today. However, as time passes into years and years into centuries there was an incentive, a powerful inclination, a burning desire to make his living quarters more than merely a shelter from the elements. Thus, was founded the beginning of architectural endeavor.

As we look back and gaze at these monuments of time we see the Pyramids, the Taj Mahal, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, the Louvre, the Colosseum, the Parthenon, and many others too numerous to mention that impart to us accomplishments of the past. At first man was insignificant unless he was of the nobility, so it was often that the builder was not given credit for his achievements and too, often was the time the king or some member of his court was the builder, but somewhere behind it all stood some mastermind, or should I say masterminds, who were the forerunners of the modern architect. This desire for better living at first was only enjoyed by the rich, the nobility, whose palaces, villas, and chateaux were paradises in the midst of the dire poverty of the masses. Let us imagine Ancient Greece with its classic splendor, or Rome with its stately civil architecture that voiced the spirit of its conquering legions and we see architecture as a dominating factor in the life of the people.

These centers of culture, education, and gay revelry truly assert the truth in the statement, "Architecture is the mother of all art," for the finer things of life require a proper environment to be enjoyed. Thus, we see architecture coming into its own realm as a subject for the scholars and for a while, particularly during the black days of war and famine that ravaged the European continent, architecture, as did other learning, went into the monasteries studied only by a few. The dilemma, however, was short and after a brief setback architecture came into the public eye again and building was on the upgrade.

It was immediately following this dilemma that architecture reached its peak and men came into their own right and received note for their worthy accomplishments; these men were architects. The architect, as such, who had heretofore been an inconspicuous individual except in rare cases like Da Vinci, Michelangelo, Brunelleschi, Phidias or some of the others, now assumed his place in society. Space does not permit me to elongate and elaborate on the styles, periods, and the outstanding works of the architectural profession, but here I will cite two examples. Can anyone conceive of anything more symbolic of religious fervour and endeavor than the Gothic churches, with their spires piercing the sky, erected by the Gothicists as a pledge of their faith, i. e., Notre Dame de Paris, Amiens Cathedral, Cathedral du Chartres? I think not. Can anyone visualize the mammothness, the grandeur, and the architectural skill that is represented by St. Peter in Rome, the seat of the Roman Catholic church, which was the work of several masters?

True, these are churches, but church architecture has always played a vital role as the church was more or less the only place, in days of old during the time when absolute monarchy was a doctrine, where the common man could enjoy hospitable environment. There, however, are not only churches but also many places which were constructed for the rich, and today are landmarks eagerly sought by tourists when traveling abroad.

In the above I have given merely a background of architecture in the past, but since the past influences the present and the future, I deemed it worthy of note.

In these days of industrialization, commercialization, and a centralized populace, the trend in architecture has been great, particularly here in America where inventive genius and competitive thought has given rise to our metropolises and cities as we know them today. Less the transition from the old to the new be too abrupt and startling, let me say now that America in its beginning was not the America we know today. In the beginning as in all other things the homes were as crude as they could be despite the plentifulness of building material — the reason being a lack of tools to work with, but as time marched on and Colonial Expansion took place "better living" became the motto.

Thus was the dawn of architectural enterprise here in America who was destined to become the "Melting Pot of Nations" and the world's richest country. Colonial, Spanish, Dutch, French, Cape Cod, and Mediterranean dwellings, like the peoples who came here, soon dotted the hills and vales of our nation in remembrance of the motherland. However, with the Industrial Revolution and the centralization of population in cities the trend from farm to city created a need for new types of edifices for social, industrial, and living purposes; these were the dwellings, apartments, houses, and finally the skyscrapers so familiar to us today.

The Woolworth Building in New York, erected primarily for advertisement and to save real estate costs, truly is a gem of architectural merit. The Empire State Building, the tallest building in the world, which to the observer seems like a dagger piercing the sky is a monument to engineering skill and architectural accomplishment.

These two are but few of the many I could mention, such as, the Chrysler Building, New York Telephone Building, The Panhellenic House, Palmolive Building, which exemplify the skyscraper trend. Then too, there has been the design of huge industrial plants such as the General Motors Building, the Willow Run Plant and many others where the architect was sought. Today in this era of functional, conventional, and modern architecture, where architectural science and engineering skill have been combined for the use of the human race, building has become one of the greatest industries in the world. This is not only true now, but will also hold true for the post war era when construction will begin anew to replace the rubble and debris that are results of World War II.

The architect in the past and as I may have depicted herein is not only a builder for the rich or for industry, but also a servant to the whims and fancies of the masses. The home is the seat of the "American Way of Life", and the architect is one who can provide this type of service by fitting you with a home of your choice, like a tailor does a suit. In the era of post war construction when the millions of veterans return, their immediate concern beside remunerative capacitance shall be a home, and the architect will be the one to fulfill the dreams of those home-owning aspirants. The architect has truly instilled himself in the life of his community and will prove a vital cog in the post war plans of any type.

The horizons are bright for the architect and the builder, and they will truly be needed in the "World of Tomorrow" as a "designer of men's dreams". Therefore, with this in mind and the thought that some day I may be an architect or master-builder, I have written this article.

ELLIS E. HARRIS, '47.

Note: We do not have an Architectural Society or Club here on the campus, but in the future we hope that our work will be indicative of the ideas we held in common while matriculating, and that we shall organize one soon.

Thomas Wilson, baritone, will appear in concert Thursday, July 26, at 11:00 a. m. in the Harrison auditorium of A. & T. College, Greensboro, N. C., it has been announced by Dean Warmouth T. Gibbs, di-

Born in Anderson, S. C., Wilson moved to Washington, D. C., where he attended public school. He studied piano for a number of years, but gave it up in favor of voice. His first recognition came as soloist in the Armstrong High School Glee Club of Washington, D. C. On graduation he moved to New York, where he studied with Caska Bond, and subsequently was chosen by Ziegfeld to appear as a singer in "Show Girl."

The appearance of the noted artist at A. & T. College is a feature of the summer school lyceum program.

He was a sophomore and a member of the ROTC at A. and T. college, Greensboro. He has two other brothers in the service. One is with the Navy Bainbridge, Md. One is with the army somewhere in the South Pacific. He is the son of Mrs. Lula H. Fox, R. I. Watsonburg.

A. AND T. PRESENTS DR. O. A. FULLER AND MR. BERNARD L. MASON IN A RECITAL

The students and faculty of A. and T. college heard Dr. O. A. Fuller head of the department of music at Lincoln University, Missouri, and Mr. Bernard L. Mason, head of the department of music at A. and T. college, in a joint musical recital on Friday, August 3, 1945. This program was a highlight of the summer session.

Dr. Fuller played several numbers of his own arrangement and composition. The most appreciable of these were his Rhapsody in G and Pinocchio's Music Box. Mr. Mason received great ovation for the excellent performance and is to be commended for his fine choice of selections. Among his choice of selections were: Romance by Wieniawski and Schon Rosmarin by Kreisler.

This program was one of the most enjoyable of the summer session.

ROBERT WALTER McNAIR

June 28, 1945.

I have been asked to send in to the Register a picture of myself, and also a brief history of my life. I am only too glad to do so, and I hope enough service men and women will send theirs so that the book may be completed.

I was born in Philadelphia, Pa., January 31, 1925. Moved to Greensboro, N. C., in 1926; attended Washington Street Grammar school, and upon completion of same I attended James B. Dudley high school, and from there to A. and T. College where I completed one year. In the summer of 1942 I joined the U. S. Navy and have seen 22 months overseas service in Guantauama Bay, Cuba.

Trusting this will help, I remain,

Helpfully yours,
Robert Walter McNair,
Mus. 2/c.

The Aggies New Coach

Lt. William Bell, former all-American tackle at Ohio State University and coach of the Army Air Field at Tuskegee, will become head coach and director of Physical Education here.

He will assume his duties as soon as he is discharged from the armed forces.

Lt. Bell will coach all Varsity sports here at Dear Aggie. He is a graduate of Ohio State, and also received his M. A. degree there. He has coached at Florida A. and M. College bringing them top victories before joining the army in 1943.

Announcement To All Servicemen

The Editorial Staff of The Register is happy to announce that an official pictorial album is in the process of publication which will include the photograph and a short history of all the sons and daughters of A. and T. who are now serving or have served in the Armed Forces of the United States.

The album has the full support of President F. D. Blufford, the administrative officers, faculty and student body of the college. In order that the work may be complete in every detail The Register Staff is respectfully and urgently requesting that all sons and daughters of the institution cooperate with us to the end by sending immediately your photograph and short history.

ELLWOOD M. WHITE, SK2K

Dear Classmates and friends:

I have recently received the May issue of "The Register." I noticed your announcement to all service men and women who are sons and daughters of A. and T. to contribute to an official pictorial album, which is in progress. I hope I'm not too late in sending my photograph. If it is possible, I would like to receive an issue of The Register at each publication.

Here are a few facts about myself.

At the beginning of the fall quarter of 1942, I entered A. and T. as a freshman of the class of '46. I came from a small town in New York state called Ossining. My major was commercial art. Music and sketching are my favorite hobbies.

I am a pledgee to Omega Psi Phi fraternity. Track, basketball and tennis are my favorite sports. I entered the Naval Construction Battalion, commonly referred to as the "Seabees," on September 25, 1943. I am now stationed in Admiralty Is., where I have been for 16 months.

I must say that I've missed A. and T. very much. I often recall the enjoyable times I had there. I only regret that I will not be able to graduate with the class of '46.

Good luck to all of you.

Dear Sirs:

As a former member of the student body of your college, I am asking if it may be possible to get a copy of your newspaper. If there are some old copies that give the location of most of the former students who are in the armed forces, a copy will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Greetings from Marseille. The card says Reims but I am now in France. I guess many of the places you saw in 1918 are now familiar to us—Paris and Marseille are the places for me.

Wish the college much success in its efforts to eradicate our short comings.

The Register, Editorial Staff,
A. and T. College,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Editors:

I recently read in the Register that an Official Pictorial Album is in the process of publication, which will include the photograph and a short history of all the sons and daughters of dear old A. and T. who are now serving in the armed forces of the United States.

Enclosed is a small photo of myself, and I shall endeavor to give you a brief history of myself.

I graduated from A. and T. in 1941, at which time I received my B. S. in Fine Arts. In the fall of '41, I entered Columbia University on a scholarship from the state and Virginia Museum of Arts. Received my M. A. from Columbia in '41, entered the Arts Students League after receiving first prize in a nationwide competition. Left the League in '42; have exhibits in Virginia Museum of Arts, Norfolk Museum of Arts and Science, American Society of Artist Gallery in New York, Museum of Modern Arts, New York, Columbia University Gallery, Miller and Rose, Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and a one-man show at Robert Robinson Memorial Library, Arlington, Va., and exhibit Negro Exhibition, Atlanta University.

I did free lance work and defense plant camouflage work until I entered the army in 1943; qualified for OCT, was later injured in basic training and sent to Chico Army Air Field in the Fourth Air Force, where I was made post artist. Have my own studio on the post, where I painted the Post Gate insignia and numerous other designs. Am now in full charge of the Post Art department.

Hoping this meets with your approval, and looking to see the publication of the Album soon, I remain

Sincerely yours,
Pfc. Reuben G. Burrell,

TEACHER SHORTAGE

Never before in Colorado's history has the state had so few teachers to fill so many available jobs, and indications point to a teacher shortage "for a long time to come." So says Miss M. Helen Carpenter, acting director of the University of Colorado placement bureau.

C. P. Pate, chife Veterans Rehabilitation and Education Division, Fayetteville, speaking in the opening session of the Veterans Institute.

Veterans Institute Draws Crowd

(Continued From Page One) Greensboro, N. C. Mr. Stevens spoke on "Loans for Veterans for the Purchase and Construction of Homes." Mr. W. D. Scarborough, representing the Farm Security Agency, explained the method of procedure for obtaining loans for veterans for the purchase of farms and farm equipment. Mr. E. C. Calhoun, Security National Bank, Greensboro, N. C., spoke on Loans for Veterans for Business Projects after which followed a question and discussion period, led by Mr. R. E. Jones, U. S. Agricultural Extension Service and Mr. Gregg, North Carolina Mutual Insurance Company.

The general theme of discussion for the night session was "Employment of Veterans." A representative from the 4th Civil Service Region, Winston-Salem, spoke on the opportunities for employment in United States Civil Service positions and the preference given veterans. Mr. R. G. Goodwin, State Veterans Employment representative, War Manpower Commission, Raleigh, North Carolina, explained the role of the United States Employment Service in the placement of veterans. The question and discussion period followed, being led by Mr. Wilburn Wright, United States Employment Service, Greensboro, N. C.

On Tuesday, July 11, the morning session was opened with Sgt. Barefield from ORD, as speaker. Discussions on insurance, hospitalization, pensions, and benefits for veterans and their dependants. Sergeant Barefield stressed the importance of promptness on the part of veterans in establishing proof of their disabilities, and filing their claims.

Afterwards, the question and discussion period was led by Dean W. T. Gibbs, A and T. College. Many questions were asked from the floor.

In the afternoon session, Dr. W. D. Perry, Vocational Guidance Center, Chapel Hill, addressed the group on Veterans'

Guidance and Counseling. The question and discussion period was led by Mr. Arnett, A. and T. College.

The final session of the two day institute was opened by a discussion on "Veterans Benefits and Post War Information" by Robert Mosely state representative of Greensboro, N. C. In his discussion he stated that laws were passed making it possible for veterans under 21 years of age to execute the proper legal documents necessary for the purchase of real property.

He also discussed the workings of the newly created North Carolina Veterans Commission which proposes to serve as a coordinating agency with cities, counties and districts in directing veterans to the proper channels in order to secure the benefits to which they are entitled as provided by the state and federal government.

Aaron Day, Director of Education for Personnel for the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company of Durham, spoke of America as a soul and the true American as a man who loves the soul of America as is expressed in the desire of the American to be free. He stated that great responsibility rests with citizens and on the home front in assisting veterans in reestablishing themselves morally, financially and spiritually. Speaking from the subject, "Obligations and Responsibilities of Citizens for Giving Information and Assistance to Veterans."

"Obligations of the American Legion to the Returning Veterans," was outlined by C. G. Ervin, state commander division B, American Legion, Raleigh, who said that legionnaires recognized and would accept as a challenge the responsibility of directing veterans to the proper agencies which will assist them in readjusting themselves educationally, mentally and physically, and assist them in finding profitable employment in the areas of their training and aptitude.

During the session, a statewide committee was appointed on Veterans Benefits and Post-war Information," with A. and T. college being designated as headquarters. Rev. J. T. Hairs, pastor, Shiloh Baptist church, Greensboro, was elected chairman, and Dr. Virgil A. Clift, A. and T. college, was named secretary.

The purpose of the committee is to co-operate with the veterans administration and other government agencies in the collection and dissemination of information concerning benefits provided by law for veterans of world war II and their dependents.

MR. BERNARD L. MASON, HEAD OF DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

Mr. Bernard L. Mason, of Des Moines, Iowa, has been the head of the Department of Music at A. and T. College since 1942. He was appointed a member of A. and T. college music faculty in 1934 after his graduation from the Conservatory of Music, Oberlin College. During the school year 1944-45, he was enrolled in the school of music at the University of Michigan where he completed his requirements for the Master's degree in music.

Mr. Mason is nationally acclaimed as one of America's finest musicians. He is the most outstanding violinist of the Negro race. Mr. Mason's versatility as a musician is nationally as well as locally recognized. During the past year, while studying at the University of Michigan he played with the Michigan String Quartet. He plays the violin with superb technique and rhythmic precision. He has given concerts in many of the leading Negro colleges. While at the University of Michigan, he was concert master of the university symphony orchestra. Besides mastering the violin, Mr. Mason plays any band instrument well.

He has membership in the Pi Kappa Lambda, a national honor society in music and the Phi Kappa Phi, a scholastic honor given by the University of Michigan to its outstanding students in the various schools.

Mr. Mason like all truly great people, in spite of his great talent and accomplishments, exhibits a most unassuming mannerism. He possesses a wonder-

The Graduate School

There has been a noticeable increase in the enrollment of the graduate school of Agricultural and Technical college.

Qualified students have an opportunity to pursue advanced courses and research in Agriculture, Technical and Applied Sciences.

The work of the graduate school is under the general control of the graduate committee whose chairman is Dr. W. L. Kennedy.

Admission to the Graduate school may be granted to graduates of the institutions whose requirements for degrees are substantially equivalent to those of the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina.

Prospective students may make inquiries regarding the possibilities of graduate study to the college registrar or the chairman of the graduate school.

Candidates for the degree of Master of Science are required to do at least one full year's work in residence and a thesis. If work is done during the summer session, a minimum of three sessions of study and a residence is required. Credit will be given for the thesis.
