WELCOME HOME, ALUMNI!

HOMECOMING
A & T vs Maryland

The homecoming extravaganza to be played in Memorial Stadium with Maryland State is expected to be the greatest attraction to date of the long series. This annual highlight of the football season, which has packed in up to 20,000, will feature the two football teams; but talent other than football will be a vital part of the afternoon's entertainment.

Between halves, the A. & T. Marching Band, with Mr. W. F. Carlson directing, will display the drill techniques and march perfection for which it has become famous. The Army and the Air Force ROTC Drill Teams are also slated to participate.

The powerful Maryland State Hawks will bring to A. & T. one of the best halfbacks in the CIAA, Johnny Samples. Touted for all conference honors, Samples is the key man in the visitors' ground attack. Sherman Plunkett, All American guard, heads the linemen.

Under the able tutelage of Vernon "Skip" McCain, coach, the Hawks have been the terror of the Conference for six years. During this span, the Marylanders have piled up a phenomenal 62 won, 5 lost, 2 tied record. In their last outing the Hawks edged Hampton in a 6-0 squeaker.

The "Aggie" footballers, coached by William Bell, have been tabbed as the dark horse of the Conference by virtue of their two impressive early-season wins. Unveiling a surprisingly effective ground attack, the Aggies bowled over Virginia State 21-6 at Petersburg, Va. in the season's opener and returned to home ground the following week to hand Virginia Union a shellacking, 18-0.

Frank "Rabbit" Johnson, a sure bet for all conference honors, at tailback; J. D. Smith, the "Mr Inside" of the ground forces, at fullback; Lawrence "Shifty" Payne at wingback; and Donald Boone at quarterback round out the Aggie starting backfield.

Annual Alumni
Worship Service
Planned

The Gate City Chapter of the A & T College Alumni Association will hold its annual worship service on Sunday Morning, Oct. 16, 1955 in Harrison Auditorium. The speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Elreta M. Alexander, attorney at law in Greensboro. She is a graduate of A & T College and Columbia University.

Others on the program include Mrs. Susie M. Taylor who will read the scripture and offer prayer; Dr. Glen F. Rankin who will report on the recent achievements of outstanding alumni members; and Mr. E. E. Waddell, president of the national alumni association, will greet the assembly.

The music that will be furnished by the choir will include "I'll Never Turn Back" by Dett and "Gloria In Excelsis" by Mozart.

The officers of the Gate City Chapter are as follows: Mrs. F. B. Alston, president; Mr. Ralph L. Wooden, vice-president; Mrs. Nelda S. Bynum, secretary; and Mr. E. M. Holley, treasurer.

H. S. Seniors
To Visit

More than 5,000 graduating seniors are expected here for the annual High School Senior Day Celebration to be held at A & T College on Saturday, October 22.

Acceptances to invitations mailed out a few days ago began pouring in early last week. W. H. Gamble, dean of men at the college and chairman of the committee arrangements, told reporters this week that the participation for this year will, probably, exceed all previous ones. He stated that senior classes from all high schools in North Carolina and border points in Virginia and South Carolina had been invited.

A schedule of activities planned for the seniors include: a conducted tour of the modern facilities at the college; a concert by the A & T College Symphony Band; the football game between the A&T Aggies and Winston-Salem Teachers College; lunch, dinner and several novelty numbers.

DR. BLUFORD

Greetings:

Today is especially significant to us because you are here from many sections of the country to share with us the joy and inspiration which come from meeting old friends, graduates, and former students of the college.

Alumni, we salute you for your many achievements; for the success of this institution can best be measured by the contributions you, the graduates, have made and are making to society.

Friends, your faith in the present administration, as evidenced by your cooperation and your support, has won for you a special place in our "home." Without you this institution could not have existed. Whether you are parent or well-wisher, you are welcome to join in our celebration.

Maryland State, the rivalry which we have enjoyed in the past makes us exceedingly glad to welcome you. Although we shall strive hard to win, we, nevertheless, extend you a most cordial welcome.

Finally, Students, you are the institution. This, then, is your day. Rejoice and be glad in it.

Very truly yours,
F. D. Bluford,
President

A & T Fields Largest
Band In History

Occupies Enlarged Quarters

The 1955-56 version of the marching band under the direction of Mr. Walter F. Carlson and the new drill master and assistant, Mr. Richard Jones, recently began activities for the year with the largest band in the history of the school. The band, comprising 135 pieces, has an enrollment of 66 freshmen. The majorette section has doubled in size, increasing its membership from six to twelve.

The new drill master, Mr. Jones, is a graduate of A. & T. College and Northwestern University. He was a member of the U. S. Navy Band during World War II and has taught in the state schools in North Carolina, West Virginia, and Alabama. The student body is delighted to have Mr. Jones here and extend to him a hearty welcome.

The band now occupies enlarged and remodeled headquarters in Crosby Hall. Among the many advantages are a larger practice room, more storage space, many individual practice rooms, and office studios.

The program for the fall season includes many outstanding field formations and steps with many rousing marches. Trips to Morgan College and Virginia State College are eagerly anticipated.

The remaining home activities not only include the games but chapel program and the Greensboro Christmas Parade.

Among the officers for the year are Harold Jones, president; Mae Bowers, secretary; and Myrtle Cunningham, reporter and chairman of the social committee. Besides the marching band, there are the beginners' band, the intermediate band, the symphony band, and the R. O. T. C. bands. All are open for membership to any qualified and interested individuals. Join a band of your choice today and enjoy a year of work and play.

Nursing School
Gets $21,000
Grant

The A. & T. College School of Nursing has just received a $21,000 grant from the Richardson Foundation, Inc. of Greensboro and New York, according to information received from the president's office. The outright gift, provided for the purpose of advancing financial aid to student nurses, is to be used during the next three years.

Junior and Senior students in nursing are eligible for this aid, granted to worthy enrollees on the basis of financial need, scholarship, reliability and earnestness of purpose. It is the largest scholarship gift ever received by the college.

The announcement of the gift, made this week by Dr. F. D. Bluford, president of the college, also listed the first winners, all juniors in the School of Nursing which was opened first at the college in 1953. The winners will receive aid to cover their entire expenses during the current academic year.

Registrar's Office
Releases Roll

The Office of the Registrar discloses that approximately 2,235 undergraduate students enrolled at A & T College during the fall quarter. Of this number, over 800 are freshmen; however, the final tabulation has not been completed at this time. This number exceeds last year's enrollment. The office also noted that there is a ratio of 3-1, that is, there are three young men to every young woman student.

The statistics also show that there are in the freshman class 599 males and 216 females. Last year's freshman enrollment was 766. Of this number, there were 569 males and 197 females.

Another point which may be of interest is the increasing freshman enrollment in the engineering fields. Approximately 120 freshmen are enrolled in each of the three fields of engineering: architectural, electrical, and mechanical. This enrollment is a sharp increase over last year's number.

The enrollment for the upperclassmen is as follows: 546 sophomores, 487 juniors, 387 seniors, and 17 special students.

WELCOME!

On behalf of the student body, the President of the Student Council extends a warm welcome to alumni, friends, and well-wishers with the hope that each of you will enjoy being at "home."

The many changes that you see are only an indication that homes are repaired and improved, but the hospitality is still the same. We are glad that you could visit with us today.

SHARE IN $21,000 SCHOLARSHIPS—These eight ranking students in the School of Nursing at A & T College were this week named as the first winners of scholarships given the college by the Richardson Foundation, Inc. of Greensboro and New York. Under the arrangement, they will get full educational expenses paid by the Foundation during the current academic year. They are from left to right front row, Delores Watson, Durham; Nora Hardy, Snow Hill; Joyce Lorick, Winston-Salem and Rebecca Judge, Rose Hill. Those on the back row are: Ranova Satterwhite, Zebulon; Alice Oliver, Burlington; Wanda Vaughn, Burlington and Gertrude McAdoo, Greensboro.

Responsibility of Youth

The youth of today have inherited a great age. Our predecessors have willed to us an era of technological development that has placed at our disposal modern conveniences, weapons and the like, that no man a hundred years ago, even fifty years ago, dared venture to dream about lest he be called a fool.

We have witnessed the emergence of supersonic air travel. We have witnessed the advent of streamlined rail locomotives that rip by at almost blinding speeds. In our homes through the medium of television we are spectators to events that are happening thousands of miles away. These are only a few of the almost miraculous developments that modern technology has brought us.

However, along with all this has come problems also, tremendous problems—problems that we, the youth of today and the leaders of tomorrow must resolve lest man by his own token of genius destroy himself. Man has allowed his scientific, his technical development to outstrip his development in human relations. This is the core of many problems that beset man.

As the youth of today, we must seek and find ways of advancing man's progress in the area of human relations to the extent that they are commensurate to the great progress made in technology and science. To achieve this, we must diligently prepare ourselves mentally, morally, and physically. We must not, we cannot fail.

On Virtue And Praise

BY CLARENCE D. M. FUNNYE

In this new age of atomic energy and supersonic aircraft it seems that some things which were characteristic of good behaviour and fine breeding a few years ago are sometimes in danger of being considered "old fashioned" and belonging to another age, something that was good enough for the students of yesterday but hardly applicable in our very modern age. It is not hard to visualize what a "mixed up" world this would be if this assumption were taken as being the rule rather than the exception. We realize that courtesy and gracefulness are among the traits that are demanded in any age, and certainly no less in demand in our own age.

It would seem folly to suppose that the evolution of electric doors eliminates the rule of courtesy that states the young man should allow the young lady to precede him through the same doors.

We submit that many acts not condoned as being in keeping with good taste have been, to some extent, excused by saying that any rules to the contrary were established yesterday and were applicable only to the people in a forgotten yesterday—dead and of no use to the progress of the present.

Our College Chaplain is aware of the danger of our losing sight of the real values and sometimes becoming unwittingly guilty of small infractions of the rules of courtesy and good taste, simply because we believe we are being "hep" or doing modern things. We are reminded that any act of rudeness is never the "hep" thing to do. However, we allow that some times it is confusing as to exactly what is to be done for the best interest of all concerned. This being the case, our Chaplain has been kind enough to offer all of us who may sometimes be in doubt, a rule whereby any action or thought may be guided. The rule, says the Chaplain, was written more than a thousand years ago but in its very simplicity has never aged.

He advises that before we take any action, the consequences of which we are unsure, we should consider . . . "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are of good report. If there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

With a guide such as this, very applicable to our atomic age, no one even the most uninformed should have excuses for any infractions of any rule of good taste and courtesy.

A Guide For Living

JAMES V. BRADSHAW

Modern man is learning that he is helpless to save himself without God. It may well be that the world at the present time is being humbled that we may learn that trusting God is something other than reading the inscription on the penny. God does not hold out His arms to our burdens without cooperation from us. If we are to enjoy the inner peace, we must seek a closer relationship with things spiritual by living a clean life.

He who cares for the sparrows, the lilies of the field, and knows the every moment of man will not be unmindful of us toward whom He made the greatest act of love this world has ever known.

Who Should Go To College?

By MICHAEL DEVEREAUX '59

Everyone who is able and eligible should go to college.

In the days of our grandparents and their parents before them, little or no formal education was needed. The standard scale of measuring a man's worth was BRAWN not brain. There were people who were educated but the number of people who were not vastly outnumbered those who were.

The persons in those days with a grammar school education was considered as educated as a person who now has a high school diploma. One striking example of how far a person could advance with little or no formal education was Abraham Lincoln who taught himself all that he learned. But men of Mr. Lincoln's calibre, even now, are few and far between.

Times have changed. The world is so far advanced in the twentieth century that now a college degree is necessary to enable a person to get a decent, good-paying job. Anyone with a high school education has to play second fiddle to a college graduate. Is there any wonder then that college enrollments are greater than ever before?

HAROLD MITCHELL '59

Today, more and more high school graduates are thinking seriously of going to college or to some school of higher education. As the population of the United States rises the high schools take in more students and turn out more graduates than before. As a result more graduates turn to college.

The person who wishes to go to college only to socialize makes a mistake by going. It is necessary for one to balance his activities and place them in three categories. First should be academic activities; second should be extra-curricular activities; and third; social activities.

One should place social activities last because these can be carried on at a later time when the academic work has been done. Extra-curricular activities can often be interwoven with the academic to give well rounded effects.

The person who comes to college to engage in academic activities and who finishes and gets his degree is the sort of person who is needed.

This writer believes, then, that the person who realizes the importance of a college education and who will go forward to make academic progress is the one who should go to college.

So This Is College

By MARJORIE J. GORHAM '59

After the glorious year as a high school senior and the regrets of leaving the sheltered protection of school, home, and the community, a summer of preparations and dreams of the great step to higher learning — this is college.

No one gets you up in the morning in time to have breakfast and get ready for a seven o'clock class, with a few minutes left to look over something you were too sleepy to finish the night before. Neither are you likely to find that anyone makes you study, though the time is allotted for such. Assignments are given and without the usual sighs being heard from the students.

You assume your responsibilities almost unconsciously by the same process that you formerly took them for granted. You do not even expect someone else to perform your duties. You do take for granted that they are to be done and by YOU.

College and responsibilities aren't always easy or without problems; but neither was high school without problems. This is college and greater responsibility.

TIPS ON FASHIONS

By RUTH ANN CARTER

VOGUE SAYS: 7 KEY LINES FOR FALL ARE

- THE FITTED SUIT — It is probably the most generally wearable of all. It is a four season suit for it can be worn alone or slipped easily into a coat.
- THE MIDDY DRESS — This is a new silhouette and a young one. The midy dress is a perfect example of the long torso over blouse, fitted and unbelted, a wide bare neckline and a graceful, box-pleated skirt.
- THE BOX JACKET — The box jacket is part of an ensemble, but the jacket can equally be half of a suit.
- THE BELL SKIRT — The skirt of the bell shape is very new. It is flared (perhaps over a resting petticoat), the jacket fitted, flared, and longer.
- THE LIFTED WAISTLINE — The most feminine of the even lines is this waistline. It is fitted snugly at the normal waistline but unbelted. The lifted waist line is indicated high sometimes by a knotted band of glossy black satin contrasting against black wool crepe.
- THE BACK FLARE — Flat in the front and flared at the back, this silhouette is a flattering one for the late-day dress that has its own jacket, like the cherry-red velveteen dress and jacket seen on page 15 in the fall Vogue pattern book. Firm, smooth fabrics with body carry it the best — velveteen, Lyons-typ, satin, broadcloth of wool and broad.
- THE TUNIC — The newest line and the most prevailing is the tunic silhouette. It is seen in dresses, suits and coats. It is most often unbelted, but sometimes there is a belt, low in back. It will hold its line in the finest woolen, even jersey, if it is lined with lightweight taffeta.

Study In Mexico

November 1, 1955 is the closing date for application for graduate fellowships for study in Mexico during 1956, it was announced by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The awards, given through the Mexico-United States commission on Cultural Cooperation, are for the academic year beginning March 1, 1956.

Eligibility requirements for the Mexican Government awards are U. S. citizenship, knowledge of Spanish, a good academic record, a valid project or purpose, and good health. Preference will be given to graduate students, but undergraduates (juniors and seniors) are also eligible for awards.

Fields of study especially recommended for graduate candidates are architecture, Indian and physical anthropology, ethnology, archaeology, museography, art (painting—for advanced students), biological sciences, Mexican history. Candidates with an M. D. degree may receive special training at the National Institute of Cardiology and the Institute of Tropical Medicine, Mexico City.

Applicants may write for information to the U. S. Student Department of the Institute of International Education, the agency which administers the Mexican Government awards.

Mrs. Aggrey Delivers Chapel Message

The faculty and student body were inspired Sunday, October 2, in the regular chapel hour by an inspirational message delivered by Mrs. Rose D. Aggrey, of Salisbury, North Carolina. In her message "Miracles in Our College Life," Mrs. Aggrey said that "fine young women are the hope of the race; they make fine young men. Americans crave for newness and superlatives without attention to the inward newness. One whose education does not include the knowledge and belief in the Holy Spirit is in sad condition."

Mrs. Aggrey also pointed to the students as to how they should live in human relations with each other. "First, create an atmosphere here at A&T College for good living."

She further stated that "there is a need for a power more dynamic than education, that is less perishable than money. There is a need to spread the ideology of inner change."

In conclusion, she said that Miracles remain in realms of thought and we must make them operate in our lives. When there is an awareness of a need for reliance on God, all our problems are more easily solved. We must work and fight to achieve our goals. This is a matter of giving what you have and dedicating yourselves to God."

Mrs. Aggrey has served as principal, teacher and supervisor in the public schools of North Carolina; president Western District of the Parent Teachers Association Congress, and president of Teachers Association and others. She is at the present president of the North Carolina Federation of Negro Women's Club, Salisbury, North Carolina.

Others participating were Miss Gloria Scott, president, Y. W. C. A. and Rev. Cleo L. McCoy, chaplain.

Lieut. Cutter Receives Wings

Second Lieutenant Albert J. Cutter of 2302 Stevens Street, Savannah, Georgia received the silver wings of an Air Force jet pilot recently at Laredo Air Force Base, Texas. The graduation culminated fourteen months of intensive pilot training in both propeller driven and jet type aircraft.

Lt. Cutter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cutter also of Savannah, Georgia. The 22-year-old jet pilot graduated from A. and T. College of North Carolina where he acquired a B. S. degree. At the same time, Lt. Cutter also received his commission through the Air Force ROTC Unit. He was an active member of the Alpha Phi Fraternity, the Arnold Air Society, Register Staff, YMCA, and the Model Planes Club.

Darkness

By EDWARD WELLS

As the darkness of night spreads its misty hands

On the good and bad of men,
I sit by my lonely window
And watch the work of sin.

I dare not go out into the night,
For I realize I'm growing old;
And the night will only pounce
upon me
And steal away my soul.

For I have seen the night at work
And I've watched its bitter sin;
I've seen it corrupt the hearts of cities
And capture the souls of men.

I've seen it lend its darkness
To men in which to hide.
I've seen it supply the background
For scenes in which men died.

Evil seems to ride with darkness
As goodness rides with light;
Yet, some men seem to work the hardest
In the midst of a dark, dark night.

The arms of darkness move swiftly
After the setting of the sun;
And they seem to spread and spread and spread
Until their work is done.

And when the stars fail to shine
And the moon loses its glow,
It is then the night engulfs secrets
That only God will e'er know.

All the pleasure comes thru
...THE TASTE IS GREAT!

Engineering Assoc.

The Association of Engineering students of A. & T. College has announced that new students with majors in the field of engineering may now be considered for membership in that organization. To qualify for membership students must be in good standing with the college and be majoring in any branch of engineering. (not including agricultural engineering,) or be concentrating in the fields of either physics or engineering mathematics.

The Association of Engineering students is among the oldest and the most highly thought of groups on this college campus and this being true, the criteria for membership is, by normal standards, somewhat high. Students who have demonstrated by their character, ability to think independently and constructively, and overall scholarship that they are the type of students finally admitted to membership in the Association of Engineering students will have just cause to feel proud when admitted.

According to the president, students accepted for membership during the fall quarter may secure their engineering association sweater by the start of the Winter quarter. The secretary has advised us that a notice will be posted when the next meeting is scheduled.

Assoc. of Veterans

The Association of Veteran students has begun the new school term by initiating a gigantic membership drive designed to utilize a good portion of the 600 new veteran students. Membership cards were extended to many new veterans both upperclassmen and freshmen. Plans are now underway for a smoker to be held in the basement of Scott Hall late this month, at which time the rules and regulations will be explained to all the new members.

We are informed that the new group of veteran students includes nearly a half dozen female students, and wish to pass on the information that they are welcome to any and all meetings of the Association of Veteran Students.

A primary aim of the Association this fall will be to stimulate a stronger desire on the part of veterans to excel in college in the area of academics. Pointing out that the veterans have always had a record of being serious minded students, the secretary informed us that this record will be defended to the very last "A" grade by as many veterans as are members of the Association of Veteran students. In the secretary's own words, "Scholarship will be the watch word, scholarship first and scholarship last."

Business News

James A. Griffin, a senior in business administration, was elected president of the business association at a meeting held Thursday evening, October 6.

Other officers elected were Josie Williams, vice president; Carolyn Caldwell, secretary; Austin Lane, treasurer; William Forney, business manager; John Steele, sergeant at arms; and Thelma McCalop, Parliamentarian.

In addition to the above officers, Geraldine Rogers was selected to be the homecoming queen and Doretha Bosier and Margaret Cooper, attendants.

Mrs. Humphrey and Mr. Gray are faculty advisers.

All students in the field of business are urged to join the association.

Geographical Society

The Geographical Society held its first meeting of the year late in September. New officers elected for the year are the following: Mrs. Alma Hodgnett, president; Annette Cox, vice president; Odessa C. Brown, secretary; Frances Bell, asst. secretary; Mavis Brimage, treasurer; Dorothy Pryor, reporter. The main objective of the organization this year will be to organize a Geographical Honor Society.

All persons interested in joining the society are invited to attend meetings which are held every first and third Monday night in room 208 of the New Classroom Building.

USHER BOARD

The College Usher Board had its first meeting of the 1955-56 school year Saturday, October 1.

The members along with their advisors discussed and drafted plans for the current year. These plans will not be divulged at this time; but watch your bulletin boards, and read the most attractive signs to keep informed of our activities.

The officers elected for this year are Inell Grimsley, president; Lois Jenkins, vice-president; Monnie Allen, secretary; Romona Artis, recording secretary and treasurer; Cleddie Allen, reporter; Christine Williams, chairman of the publicity committee; and Patsy Harper, chairman of the social committee.

Dendy Graduates

Army 1st Lt. Norris F. Dendy, son of Mrs. Amanda James of Clinton, South Carolina, was recently graduated from the motor transportation course at The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia.

Lieutenant Dendy is a 1953 graduate of A. & T. College and entered the Army in August of that year.

Frosh Welcomed To School Of Nursing

The faculty, junior and sophomore nurses welcomed the freshmen into the school of nursing at the annual Peanut Party at the Windsor Community Center recently. At this time "Little Sisters" were chosen. The juniors shared with the group many games and dances they learned while on Psychiatric affiliation at the V. A. Hospital in Tuskegee, Alabama.

After three months of affiliation, the class has a different concept of mental illnesses and wishes that more people had the opportunity to get a better knowledge of such illnesses.

While in Tuskegee, the class visited the Carver Museum on the main campus of Tuskegee Institute. This was the first experience of this kind for the majority of the girls, surely one that they will never forget.

This quarter, the juniors are continuing their experiences in Medical-Surgical Nursing with some of the class getting experience in the operating room. Later this quarter, the sophomores will start their Clinical experiences in the hospitals and are looking forward eagerly to Capping.

Marjorie Scott Elected Miss Junior 1955-56

Marjorie Gloria Scott of Eastover, South Carolina was elected Miss Junior for the 1955-1956 school term in a meeting held recently. Miss Scott is majoring in clothing and is a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

The junior class, with Alvin Taylor as president, is making plans for events that will afford both social and cultural relaxation. This year plans to be one of the most successful for the class.
