Orchids and Onions

JAMES T. SPRIGHT '57

ONIONS to the students who insist that the present system of straight A's, B's, and C's is good for the long haul, believes that a system that gives no recognition to achievement can not work. The system not only fails to reward those who have worked hard and succeeded, but also fails to acknowledge the fact that some students have worked hard, but have not succeeded. It is time to recognize the need for a system that rewards those who have worked hard, regardless of the outcome.

ORCHIDS to those students who consistently "punch the clock" at 7 a.m. and rush to their classes, regardless of the quality of their instruction.

Festive, Happy, and Exciting Student Body.

November 7-11 Set As American Education Week

BY DANS J. O'BEST '58

Throughout the United States schools and colleges are celebrating American Education Week, which runs from November 7th through 11th. The purpose of this annual event is to raise awareness of the importance of education and to encourage students to pursue their educational goals.

The Living Standards in American Education Week are based on the belief that education is a fundamental right for all individuals. This belief is reflected in the American Dream, which is the idea that anyone, regardless of their background or circumstances, can achieve success through education.

The American Education Week is an opportunity for students to reflect on the value of education and to consider how they can participate in the process of education.

Your truly,

Charles W. Douglas

Dear Editor,

We would like to question some of the current policies of the campus and the way they affect the students. We believe that the current policies are not serving the purpose of education and are not addressing the needs of the students.

We would like to see changes made in the current policies so that they can better serve the students and their needs.

Yours sincerely,

Jeanne O'Hara

The NEW YOU should think strongly about the jewelry you choose. It is truly pathetic that our new engineering building, to which such mythical greatness was attributed long before one brick of it was laid, is equipped with heating systems that have never been used, and that it would need to gain accreditation for the school of engineering. Despite this disturbing fact, however, our school does manage to show a substantial increase each year in the number of engineers engaged in the research and development of science and industry. These results are continuous in search of engineers.

But where, let's start with the word, would Aggins engineers be if those demands were so desperate?

Engineering is one of the most highly paid and opportune professions in the world. But it is only a small fraction of the highest possible level. It is certainly no fault if a student has failed to afford him the opportunity to compete with engineers in the professional field, and often the professional field, and often the professional field, and often the professional field.

In a word, it is the students themselves who must be situated, according to the plan and plan. Are they the victims of circumstances or "created" convenience? LET S FACE IT.

YOUR VOTE IS THE VOTE THAT COUNTS!

Why can't A&T girls ride in sub­ mobiles? The question has been raised. There are no more than five thousand students on the campus, and they range in age from 17 to 40. The girls are not riding in sub-mobiles because they are not allowed to.

The question is: can a rule which was established for the purpose of no matter of age, sex, or race, but may be true and may be true that the girls would have more fun riding in sub-mobiles. This may be true, but it cannot be just as well. Girls are not allowed to ride in sub-mobiles.

Now where can I find so many other girls who believe the same thing? Do they really? Oh yes, Mr. Allison Gordon is to be congratulated for the job he does as principal. The girls feel that they need to be helped and those services would be beneficial to students and faculty.

What's New in Fashions

Fall fashions do something extraordinaire for a woman. The soft crushed gowns give her a vision of a completely new self. She can point them make her legs look prettier. A beauty treatment itself is small touch of fun. What young lady on the campus doesn't dream behind a veil her face was patted, or her hair was waved, or she was shown how to be attractive. She was shown how to be attractive.

Preliminary adjustments from the three-button length for day wear to the twofold length for very dressed-up evenings. Donkiss, pigskin, or cotton gloves could really add or change an outfit. Cheekbones and eye shadow to the lips. They had been highest. Leather and fur, tall or low, must have that clean look.

Shoes are shaped to make feet look prettier than ever. They come in a variety of colors, including black, white, and red. They are a fashion statement that can be worn with almost any outfit.

To Our Freshmen
BY GENERAL CHERRY '57

You are college students now, and soon you will be.

The dignified seniors
That you've earned to be.

But being that senior
Means more than the name;
You must prove to others
That you have been trained.

You must show there you are cultered
And refined;
Even while waiting patiently in line.

Oh, let us live a life
That we may be;
For this is a place
Where we all live
And learn and grow.

Yvonne Clawson, a senior from Salisbury, Md., was crowned Kappa Sweetheart of Alpha Xi Chapter, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity. She was a finalist in a list of 10 college co-eds who were being considered as sweethearts; however, her appointment was unanimous.

The new Sweetheart was officially installed at the Annual Party given in her honor by the brothers of Alpha Xi and their guests. Her Majesty crowned by Brother Clarence E. Jones, was presented with a bouquet of red and white carnations arranged in the shape of a large diamond, thus climaxing the evening.

Yvonne, who majors in commercial education, will serve as both a classmate and a role model for her sorority sisters as she continues to grow in inspiration which is so important to the Sweetheart of Alpha Nu and their guests. Her appointment will serve as both a honor and an inspiration to all Aggies who were being considered as the group argued the state of school spirit on this campus.
