Good Morning, Aggies....APRIL FOOL!

Satire And Tomfoolery

From the REGISTER Staff we greet you this morning, Aggies, with a how-do-you-do and a hearty "April Fool."

In these changing times we figured we'd be right in line in doing something different from the regular scheme of things. After all, why can't we have a little clean, honest fun once in a while?

We'd like to stop here, also, to make our acknowledgments to the Greensboro Daily News. We say to you that this edition is meant to be purely satirical in nature and that no offense is intended whatever. We are by no means setting a precedent in doing this; for instance one school paper in Michigan does this annually using the Detroit Free Press as its vehicle—they call their April Fool's edition the Detroit Flee Pest.

SPICEY FEATURES

Yes, herein you'll find take-offs on the styles of a number of the feature writers on the staff of the Daily News. These feature writers (and their features) are Burke Davis, "Raleigh-Tarheel Notebook;" Dave Morrash, "Nothing Ventured;" C. A. Paul, "People, Places and Things;" and W. Rhodes Weaver, "Monday Moanin'," to mention a few.

Also, you'll find a large section devoted to books, the Campus Pulse, and a Woman's Page with a spark of humor added via Barbara Burts, REGISTER Staff, Feature Writer.

SPOTLIGHT ON HUMOR

For the most part, there has been a lot of emphasis placed on humor here. This is quite in keeping with the occasion, however, as this would hardly be an All Fool's Day without a little Tomfoolery.

So happy reading, fellow students. We hope you'll like this edition of the REGISTER, and if you do, send a letter to the Campus Pulse. On the other hand, we'll appreciate your criticisms too.

Economics Institute Offered To Fifty Foreign Students

An Economics Institute for 50 foreign graduate students in the fields of economics and agricultural economics will be held this summer at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado, it was announced today by the Institute of International Education. The program, which is the second of three similar sessions, will again be directed by Professor William F. Oates of the University of Colorado and will operate from June 28 to August 29, 1959.

The purpose of the Economics Institute is to provide newly arrived students with concentrated training in basic economic analysis and supplemental training in oral and written English. In addition to the academic objectives, the program includes an introduction to the United States society and culture.

The Economics Institute was made possible by a grant from the Ford Foundation and developed under the auspices of the Inter-University Committee of the American Economic Association. It is administered by the Institute of International Education with the assistance of a Policy and Advisory Board and professors of economics designated by the American Economic Association.

Economics Institute's eighth session will open to 150 students and come to a close on August 29.

Music Educators

By JOHN H. FINNEY

MENC Reporter

Special To Register

Four great composers of music history have as much reverential lip-service today as at last actual appreciation as George Frcederick Handel. The Messiah is his universal art work comparable in fame to the Mona Lisa. Nevertheless, the Messiah is only one great work, only one isolated example of a master's creative output.

The Music Educators on A&T's campus will pay tribute to George Frederick Handel May 12, 1959 at 7:30 p.m. when they will give a program consisting of Handel's music and sung by the A&T College Choir. There will also be instrumental and vocal works of Handel performed.

The speaker for this program will be Dr. Robert W. John of North Carolina College, Durham, North Carolina. He will discuss the life and work of Handel and the great influence of his compositions in the worship of our cultural lives.

Chemistry Contest

For Undergrads Opens

The opening of the 1959 contest is called by the University of Southern California. The contest is sponsored by the Continental Oil Company of Houston, Texas and Pacific City, Oklahoma, and is now in its third year.

Students of chemistry, biochemistry, and chemical engineering at all accredited universities of the United States and Canada are eligible if they are regular undergraduates on April 1, 1959.

The contestants may enter either a report on a research project conducted by themselves or an essay on the subject. "The contributions of Irving Langmuir to colloid and surface chemistry," Longmuir, American Nobel Prize winner in chemistry, was made only a few years ago. He was with the General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York. The best essay and the best report will each receive prizes of $200 under contest regulations. Honorable mention prizes of $50 each are also provided.

The deadline for submitting entries is July 1, 1959. Entry blanks may be obtained immediately by writing to Prof. K. J. Mydah, Chemistry Department, University of Southern California, Los Angeles 7, California. The prizes will be awarded by a panel of anonymous judges and will be distributed September 15.

As contest chairman, Dr. Mydah will be assisted by an advisory committee composed of Professors P. H. Emmett, Johns Hopkins University; V. K. LaMer, Columbia University; and Marjorie Void, University of Southern California.

Bravo, Mr. Mikoyan

If one is permitted to ignore the complex and confused realm of international politics, he must certainly shuck a plus mark for Mr. Mikoyan's unprecedented tour of the United States. Even if it appears he deliberately attempted to deceive us about the missing airmen, his visit from coast to coast without major incident or discomfort. No one ran to his aid with open arms as a long lost friend but with the attitude which has been a hallmark of one of our great military feats was a tribute to the basic hospitality of our people. Indeed, Mr. Mikoyan was received so well considering who he is, that the State Department felt it necessary to amend his hand-out position and accord him some diplomatic recognition toward the end of his visit.

What Mr. Mikoyan did visit did was to demonstrate just how much difference there is in reports of the Communist world, ambassadors and top-level conferences are no substitute for the down-to-earth personal contacts of the ordinary citizen. The success of this visit was an easing of the tension between the two countries. This atmosphere of accommodation implies that there are still enough people in both the American and Russian peoples willing to acknowledge that basic reserve of goodwill between the American and Russian people is there. Throughout all the tensions of the cold war, Americans have never felt hostile towards the Russian people until something to most reasonable observers the reverse is true also. The tensions have existed between the conflicting government policies.

Further strengthening of this people to people goodwill through personal contacts under every man, no matter how violently they disagree, will find some way other than acuminate their differences. How about a Nixon goodwill tour of the USSR?

More On Punch Cards

Surprisingly, I sat back and considered my problem, (the situation in the dining hall, that is). Why didn't I write the punchcard problem until now? I've concretely in making our changes against the punch cards.

Specifically, we have reference to the punch card system mentioned on this page in the February edition of the A&T College REGISTER. It's the method of forecasting the number of one-time only meal ticket holders in a day. It's so accurate, it's right on the surface when we consider the math and the program. One claim in support of a meal ticket system is that it saves money. True, but there is food is prepared for every meal and there is not much thought to the amount or whether or not he eats. The contention is that if we had a punch card system (or some other like the dining hall would lose money since there may be times when enormous food would be left over.

You have a food argument indeed. But, truly, his much of the "small amount" of those customers for whom it is supposed. When you get up to any time in the system? You're right. You eat them up. You get them out of the system only two or three times. But the punch card system has methods are less efficient. Usually when predicting how many meals should be prepared for the third and even the next, also. In connection with this is the fact that any food service system has methods that are more efficient or lower. A punch card system will give a certain amount of data on the part of customers they'll have for meals? Why be that much data? It's just such a management. Every third day, you check your food, make it totaled out and gone through the serving those certain meals. All the holes in this area means having something is lacking somewhere.

Yet, the system we have now was definitely designed with you NOT in mind. The thought process, is long as you don't ask for more than you need. Now that is where a punch card system would definitely serve you good.

There were the words used by President Roosevelt in referring to the status of the A&T College dining hall. It is a matter of a similar statement, "I have no idea what the right answer is but that about public figure was his idea of how to solve a problem. But this time not only Americans but everyone from coast to coast agreed to try and agree with the President.

What about Mr. Dulles has made the people to think about the fact that there is the best interest of all mankind, even if we don't get along as well as we should.

In this particular instance, however, the speaker thought the "right sign is "W" and if you'll look at the top of page two of this paper you'll see why. (There's nothing wrong with that man, however. I'm just a little old). But this was mentioned, however, we started thinking on our own. (This is as far as the Chicago Associated College Press Conference. The incident in reference was one in which a speaker of great and was an accident, but that was not the case. He was the event of his life in the coming months, we must think of him as one of our greatest secretaries of state. Yes, Mr. President, America needs him.

Early Marriages Not A New Fad;

The Common Thing Decades Ago

I am constantly reminded of my very first love. We were both eight years old, and I had just moved into the neighborhood. Our relationship started with simple gestures—sharing toys and books, playing hide-and-seek in the park, and hiding behind a bush when we were caught by our parents. We became inseparable, and our love was strong and pure.

THERES A REMEMBER: The Aggie's that weren't there when the team returned from Alabama. "Pardon me — I forgot they were at the airport waiting for them to come back from Indiana. . . . A new record released last month, "Pass Me" by many low average students."

Tech Institute Expands

Building Nears Completion

By CLEVELAND BLACK

The Technical Institute at A&T College has its beginning as a separate school in the fall of 1951. In 1952 the Technical Institute was moved to Julian Price Hall, a building of modern architectural design with all the latest accessories and equipment. The Technical Institute has as its main goal, to train and develop men and women in their chosen vocations to the best of their ability or ability. But the Technical Institute has always been confront with the problem of being overcrowded. From 1953 to 1956 four additional departments were added in hope that the crowded conditions might be eased. This still did not solve the problem of overcrowding. What is being done in the present day?

A new building is being constructed on North campus, between Ward and Carver Halls. The building will be an annex to Julian Price Hall and will house each department as Masonry, Painting and Decorating and Drawing. In addition, it will have other class rooms and laboratory facilities. The building is being constructed in modern one story style. A September opening is planned.

Painting A Portrait Of A Bird

By PETE SMITH

In a twilight colored room filled with many kinds of people — from the musicians themselves to the people who had come only to witness the performance. A mood of elation filled the air and the audience was in full swing. Suddenly, the music faded and a familiar tune was heard. The crowd sat hushed. They sat and watched as the doors creaked open and the first notes as they burst from the horn filled the room, he stood in the center of the stage surrounded by the crowd. He played with his light brown hair fanning out behind him, his eyes fixed on the audience as he stepped to the microphone and started singing. The audience was captivated by his voice, his talent, and his passion for music.

Bird finished the set and stepped off the stage, he played as though his time was almost up and his message was not complete. And the people, like statues, sat and watched, not knowing that the next year Charles Christopher Parker would be dead. I'll always remember him as "Bird."
The orchestra started up a loud chord and the curtain opened. While I waited with closed eyes, the famous designer began to talk. And then it was a relief that the model looked like a fine hydrant. We all laughed and remarked that it was a rather unique way to get the packed house to wake up and discover that it isn’t true.

My shoulder, shouting, “Wake up. What in the world are you dreaming about?” Quickly, I jumped out of bed and ran to my closet. The clothes were the same as I had left them before going to bed. Then I realized that the list of my clothes on my shoulder was April first. All Fool’s Day! I went back to bed for fear of my reporter thought to herself, what could start this day?

Well, I’m sure how you would like your reporter to think back to a grapefruit with a bowl of sugar on your shoulder. That’s what I was seeing, however.

Dreams And Visions

By BARRABRA BURTS

Hi, Ladies. Before we hear the fashions, a review of Spring, let’s look into a dress that your reporter had a few weeks ago. It was so vivid that anyone who experienced this dream would be relieved to wake up and realize it wasn’t true.

It seems as if there is a fashion show being presented to the student body on campus. A direct invitation of “Hi” to Italy, displaying all that made them look like ketchup bottles, toadstools and strings of sausages. We held our breaths and continued to wait for the show to start. The drums were roaring and especially the fashion reporters — holding our breaths and waiting with excitement for the show to start. The announcer was saying, “Ladies and gentlemen, this is it.”

The great fashion reporter, Miss Catherine Tillery, Junior from Augusta, Ga., to Cluey Harke, Senior, to Calvin Nixon, a grad. from Edenton, to Ernest Wilson of Windsor, North Carolina.

The dress was roaring and the announcer was saying, “Ladies and gentlemen, this is it.” “Now you will see some wild outfits, of a delicious-looking bunch of grapes, another in the form of a porkchop, a form of a violin, one in the shape of a banana, another in the shape of a grapefruit with a bowl of sugar on your shoulder. That’s what I was seeing, however.

Ask Blackie

By BLACKIE CLEVELAND

Dear Blackie:

My problem is my boyfriend. He wears false teeth, and everywhere we go to a party on campus he takes them out, and what’s more he knocks them together and dances a Cha-Cha. What should I do, I become embarrassed.

Amicie Scales

Dear Annie:

Have you ever heard of White Apple, Rum, Roma Rocket, Vodka, and White Lighting? That’s your problem.

Dear Blackie:

I am having trouble with my Chemistry teacher. I take acid instructions from him in the dark room and it seems that I’m the only field that he can find. What can I do? I don’t want an F.”

Dottie

Dear Dottie:

The next time you go into the dark room for instructions have a ‘ready set — dig’!
Fashions A&T Men Would Like To See On Campus

Young men, on this campus have seen very good fashions coming to the campus and things they would like to see on the campus. These are the following styles they want on the campus or rather they would like to see the girls wear.

1. David Murray — "I would like to see the girls wear more slacks on the campus and be more dressy. In my opinion, this would lend an air of sophistication and integrity to college we need to dress like this."

2. Tony Fowler — "Being almost the opposite, I want more of a college atmosphere. I like berets, knickers, knickers, casual shirts and sweaters. That way a college woman will be more college-like."

3. James Spurlin — "Again we have the call for a collegiate air. I want more casual clothes, such as skirts, sweaters, blouses and cords. We must remember that we are in a college and not a fashion parade. One can be neat and clean without wearing high heels every day."

4. William Stewart — "I would like to see the young ladies dress more comfortably during the day and less formally. Remember, no fashion shows in the classroom."

5. Willa LeFevre — "I wish the girls would dress more informally because it becomes difficult to tell whether it is Sunday or weekdays around here. One should try to re-emphasize this as a college and try to keep in line with the college magazine."

6. Peter Smith — "I would like to apply this summertime tip to the clothes — let's try to remember that this is not high school, but college. Therefore, take off those thick socks with sneakers and ear-rings. Skirts with two or three crinolines will look like a halo. Also, corsets are not made to go over white shirts with all those pretty pin curls. Please try to keep a simple but becoming hairstyle and leave those fancy sweaters in the side bar for Hollywood. Last of all, be more collegiate, Freshman. Because one day, you will be the Seniors of A&T College."

Why Can't We Have More Editions Of The Paper?

By SPERGON CAMERON

Business Manager

The Register is a 100% student run newspaper. Information concerning this matter may be found in the student section in the A&T yearbook (1958-59 Edition) under the heading, SPECIAL FUND.

It is possible there will be eight or ten (10) pages in each edition, determined by the amount of ads, news and the importance of the issues. The ads are加盖 by National Advertising Service, Incorporated, New York City. The money received from these agencies is not used for the newspaper office and the staff. It is also used to help ship the paper to the printer in Raleigh, and for various trips made by members of the staff, and the banquet.

There is a breakdown of the cost of the February 28, 1959 edition of the REGISTER (5,250 copies):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type of Service</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Printing of 8 pages ($5.00 per page)</td>
<td>$48.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Engravings of pictures and halftones</td>
<td>$48.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Delivery Charges</td>
<td>$5.25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(From Raleigh to Greensboro)</td>
<td>Total $58.50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This is the cost of an eight (8) page paper. We have had three 10 page editions during the ’58-’59 school year. They were more expensive than this latest edition. A breakdown of the cost of each printing of the REGISTER, from September, 1959 edition to the February edition listed above is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Month</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>October edition</td>
<td>$447.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November edition</td>
<td>$477.10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December edition (1910)</td>
<td>$316.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January edition (1909)</td>
<td>$316.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

So many times when the paper is being prepared for shipping to the printer, there are only four (4) staff members who give their time and effort to get the paper out. Most of the time the staff, re-typing, copy and proof reading, is made up of the students of the faculty adviser, Editor, Copy Editor, Business Manager, and one Reporter. There have been occasions when these people spent Saturday nights (Friday night also) and lay Sunday working on the paper. How many of us would be willing to do the same?

LACK START MEMBERS

These are only a few of the facts behind the long hours of work it takes to print one edition of the REGISTER. The REGISTER needs more staff members who are willing to work when needed and many other things. The financial situation is only one of the reasons that the REGISTER has. It is generally hoped that in time the dilemma will be worked out and in the meantime, the staff will continue to do its best to keep A&T College’s newspaper one of the best in the nation.

As interested in joining the staff may come to the newspaper office located on the ground floor of Dud- ley building and talk with the faculty adviser, Miss Eula Stevens of the English department. You may also call the faculty adviser, Mrs Loreno M. Morrow, or the editor, Alphonso Serena.

TRADITIONAL Responsibilities

U.S. ARMY R.O.T.C.

Why didn’t

14,436

sophomores enter advanced

Army R.O.T.C. during 1958?

Many more applied. Not all were accepted.

In more than 200 U. S. colleges, 14,436 college sophomores met the high standards set. These students were selected to continue officer training in the advanced R.O.T.C. course. Why did each of these young men decide that he would benefit by fulfilling his military obligations as an Army officer? Here are two important reasons. Perhaps they’ll help you make your decision.

1...TRADITIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES

As an Army officer, you’re in command of men. More men than the number supervised by many civilian executives years older than yourself. To meet your command responsibilities, you employ a great many of the LEADERSHIP principles acquired in advanced R.O.T.C. training. And your executive potential develops while you gather LEADERSHIP experience. The executive ability you gain as an Army officer will be an important advantage in any civilian career. That’s why employment directors often prefer men who have served as commissioned officers. These men than the number supervised by many civilian executives years older than yourself. To meet your command responsibilities, you employ a great many of the LEADERSHIP principles acquired in advanced R.O.T.C. training. And your executive potential develops while you gather LEADERSHIP experience. The executive ability you gain as an Army officer will be an important advantage in any civilian career. That’s why employment directors often prefer men who have served as commissioned officers. These men have already proven their ability to take a key leadership position, and handle specific duties. Be prepared to take a key leadership position, and handle specific duties.

2...TRADITIONAL REWARDS

In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. The traditional prestige of an Army officer is matched by material advantages. A second great reward is the increased prestige of an Army officer. The traditional prestige of an Army officer is matched by material advantages. A second great reward is the increased prestige of an Army officer. Why did each of these young men decide that he would benefit by fulfilling his military obligations as an Army officer? Here are two important reasons. Perhaps they’ll help you make your decision.

Why Can’t We Have More Editions Of The Paper?

BY SPERGON CAMERON

Business Manager

The Register is a 100% student run newspaper. Information concerning this matter may be found in the student section in the A&T yearbook (1958-59 Edition) under the heading, SPECIAL FUND.

It is possible there will be eight or ten (10) pages in each edition, determined by the amount of ads, news and the importance of the issues. The ads are加盖 by National Advertising Service, Incorporated, New York City. The money received from these agencies is not used for the newspaper office and the staff. It is also used to help ship the paper to the printer in Raleigh, and for various trips made by members of the staff, and the banquet.

There is a breakdown of the cost of the February 28, 1959 edition of the REGISTER (5,250 copies):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type of Service</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Printing of 8 pages ($5.00 per page)</td>
<td>$48.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Engravings of pictures and halftones</td>
<td>$48.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Delivery Charges</td>
<td>$5.25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(From Raleigh to Greensboro)</td>
<td>Total $58.50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This is the cost of an eight (8) page paper. We have had three 10 page editions during the ’58-’59 school year. They were more expensive than this latest edition. A breakdown of the cost of each printing of the REGISTER, from September, 1959 edition to the February edition listed above is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Month</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>October edition</td>
<td>$447.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November edition</td>
<td>$477.10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December edition (1910)</td>
<td>$316.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January edition (1909)</td>
<td>$316.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

So many times when the paper is being prepared for shipping to the printer, there are only four (4) staff members who give their time and effort to get the paper out. Most of the time the staff, re-typing, copy and proof reading, is made up of the students of the faculty adviser, Editor, Copy Editor, Business Manager, and one Reporter. There have been occasions when these people spent Saturday nights (Friday night also) and lay Sunday working on the paper. How many of us would be willing to do the same?

LACK START MEMBERS

These are only a few of the facts behind the long hours of work it takes to print one edition of the REGISTER. The REGISTER needs more staff members who are willing to work when needed and many other things. The financial situation is only one of the reasons that the REGISTER has. It is generally hoped that in time the dilemma will be worked out and in the meantime, the staff will continue to do its best to keep A&T College’s newspaper one of the best in the nation.

As interested in joining the staff may come to the newspaper office located on the ground floor of Dudley building and talk with the faculty adviser, Miss Eula Stevens of the English department. You may also call the faculty adviser, Mrs Loreno M. Morrow, or the editor, Alphonso Serena.
Never A Dull Moment in Adult Education

BY JEAN RIDDICK

Numerous activities that will en hance the self-image of the partici pants and increase the use of the adult education program in the near future were learned by the partici pants at the conference sponsored by
Mrs. Sarah Spinks and Robert T.
Taylor. With "Beautifying the Home" as its theme, the conference was held in Winston-Salem on April 1.

The role of the adult in the mod cern community was also taken up by the class. It was also pointed out that the adult education program must be continued to help the adult com munity to keep abreast of the chang ing times.

The ultimate goal of Adult Educa tion Program. Through all of the flurry of activi ties and devices and the stu dents were learning, it was pointed out that they had NEVER HAD A DULL MOMENT.

Cheating Accepted

(ACP) This editorial from Vermont College included many current articles in the college press on cheating.

Cheating is not only widespread, but it's a problem that's growing. Cheating becomes worse when students don't open all the books and when they admit they were cheating.

The articles concluded, "Students are parts of a system which is only as good as the parts. Cheating has been used as one of these."

A&T College has come a long way and it is partly due to the students. During the last few weeks we have shown our school spirit and pride by cheering our basket ball team on to higher heights.

We want to thank all of you for making links out of those persons who say that A&T's students don't have any school spirit and don't care what happens to the team at the school.

Congratulations go to the team and its fine coach, Calvin Irvin, who has broken home from coast to coast from Tallahassee, Florida to Washington, D. C. to Los Ange les, Calif. These fellows have brought national recognition to our campus for which we are very proud.

Through observation, I saw students using the letter in front of Currie Hall as a short cut across campus. At first, I thought it was just a load, but the majority of them are upperclassmen. They know that we must use the walk in order to preserve the grass, but there is no let up in the traffic. We waited for something to happen that would make people realize the importance of using the walk.

Friday, the men from Building and Grounds made an attempt at grass. We didn't quarrel, but we realized that we need to make people realize the im portance of propriety.

Mr. Steinbeck, the author of the novel MICE AND MEN, has described and illustrated certain aspects of the American way of life. To give a brief idea of how he accomplished this, he gave some descriptions of the western portion of America. He also emphasized the American way of life through the actions, customs, and habits brought out in the portrayal of characters. Mr. Steinbeck seemed to have been aware of the life of the people he wrote about. He used some violent terms to show the lack of professional training, cultural background, and moral standards. Nevertheless, some of the characters did show some type of courtesy toward ladies, which proves that no matter how undisciplined one may be, he may acquire basic gentlemanly habits. The author of the essay on the American Way of Life mentioned that the westerner—or a man—the Californian, is the noisy type of fellow, which Mr. Steinbeck most certainly proved in his novel, where ranch hands returning from work with their yelling—hoots and yips—punctuated the author of the essay since that many of the western cities were still young and growing, and in the novel this could be readily seen in the description of the country as the two men handed from town to town where they were to work.

In the author's frantic effort to give some type of definition to the phrase “the American Way of Life,” he used the term Liberty in a summation manner. However, this word had been somewhat tarnished by such things as social problems. Because he was the so-called “outsider,” the Negro was kept in the stable to attend to the horses and other farm animals. All the ranch hands were told to stay away from him and be away from them. The Negro stablekeeper had collections of books which he had managed to acquire. He was well-versed on many topics and relatively well educated in spite of the racial barrier which had been set up.

Truly this “Liberty,” in a country where all men are entitled to freedom, must be an American dream rather than reality to the American people are going to let this type of atmosphere exist.

The main character in the story, Colfax Pendleton, is from a neighborhood of Virginia aristocrats. His family is not exceptionally wealthy. He goes to Delaware to work in his cousin’s law firm. After a time, Colfax returns to the Virginia home and marries his hometown sweetheart. His cousin disapproves of the marriage and refuses to let Colfax remain in the law firm. In relating the incidents of the story to the American way of life, we see first an example of conformity. Colfax preventively refuses to drink heavily, like almost everyone else in his home town. After several unpleasant incidents, Colfax begins to drink more and more. He tries to meet the approval of both his wife and his friends. His wife, Ethel, feels that drinking is quite all right as long as it is done socially. Naturally, in order to preserve peace at home and to remove any signs of snobbishness, Colfax drinks. As the story progresses, we see how this drinking figure in Colfax’s destruction.

Colfax and Ethel have difficulties in home because they have difficulties in ambition concerning goals. Even after he marries, Colfax wants to get a job in law. His wife objects to this because she feels that it takes away from his dignity. Colfax does not wish to spend the rest of his life doing nothing, and as a result we may well see how conflict might arise. Apathy was another of the ideas expressed by the author. As the years passed, Ethel becomes more and more wrapped up in her children, entertaining, and her flowers. It is during that time that Colfax begins to take refuge in his. At times he is lost and meditative. He thinks of all the many times he had tried to do something with the ambition he once possessed. That of being a great lawyer. From the very beginning of his marriage Colfax was that Ethel was indifferent to his ambitions. There is a little of the idea of cultural barriers in the story too. Colfax never feels really close to his three daughters because of the culture forced upon the girls by their mother. Even the girls sometime failers in doing the many things expected of them by their mother.

There is the idea of prestige from money. There is the idea of prejudice growing out of this greement. Colfax wants to do something for himself. He is no longer interested in doing for the good of the community. This is indicated in the fact that Colfax is not a prejudiced individual because he is not literally “aware” of the things that happened during his earliest years. As time passes, the idea of increasing wealth present. There is the idea of prestige from money.
The 1958-'59 basketball season was really a great one for the Aggies. They not only won the CIAA Visitation and Championship for the second straight year, which is an unprecedented record, but has also won the 29th District's NCAA playoffs at Tuskegee. This marks the first time any A&T basketball team has won a regional tournament. In doing so, the "Big Boys" ran through Tuskegee Institute 101-87 and Florida A and M, 101-84 near runaway victory on the second round of play 87-70. A very strong and determined team from American University wasn't strong enough, losing to the Aggies in the semi-finals 110-92.

Joe Cotton was voted in the small college All-America's third team and in so doing became the first A&T basketball player ever to accomplish this feat. Cotton also was named to the NCAA small college All-Tournament squad. Making the All-America list is something new to Cotton, but being named to the Tournament team is old stuff. Out of the seven tournaments that Joe participated in, he has been named to 3 All-Tournament squads, emerging as the Most Valuable Player in both the 29th CIAA Visitation and Tournament. But all in all, Joe's name never even showed up for honorable mention for the All-CIAA this year.

So is the case of James Toon, an outstanding defensive player. Toon was named to the PITTSBURG COURIER'S All-America second team, but couldn't make ALL-CIAA. This makes me wonder whether you have to be too brilliant than All-America to make All-CIAA. Most officials seem to think that All-America players are better.

CAL COULDN'T MAKE IT EITHER

Coach Cal Irvin took over a crippled A&T basketball team five years ago and since that time has turned it into a national power, feared from the Atlantic to the Pacific. In his five years as coach here, he has to his credit 58 victories and 30 defeats. Can you think of any other coach in the conference with such a record? Never before has any coach in the CIAA coached his team to two consecutive conference and tournament championships. It has really been heartbreaking for many of us to sit in Durham and watch other coaches win with 'the Coach Of The Year' trophy. What has been his reward? Well, if you consider a lot of handshaking, sympathy, and everyone telling you that you have been robbed, then Coach Irvin's reward has been real. That's all he has gotten. WHAT DOES THE CIAA HAVE AGAINST A&T?

RETURNING HEROES

Cal Irvin, who coached the A&T College basketballers to CIAA Visitation and tournament championships for the second year in a row and to winning the NCAA District playoffs at Tuskegee, Ala., is being trusted above the shoulders of Aggie fans as he deplaned in Greensboro after his boys had copped third in the NCAA College-Division Tournament at Evansville, Ind.

Joe Cotton, 6'4" Junior, guard and standout performer on the '58-'59 basketball squad, became the first A&T basketballer to be voted in the Associated Press' Little-America Squad.

Baseball Players Look Good

Edward Pitt

The '58 edition of the A&T College baseball team got off to an impressive start last week by defeating Delaware State 33-3 and Howard University 6-5.

The squad, comprised mostly of returning men, looks as if it might join the A&T championship rank and give Aggieland its first triple title year. Loaded with power, the pitching staff seems to be in good shape. The return of Robert "Pockets" Bryant to the first base and cleanup slots should, and already has started paying off. Coach Mel Groomes sent Frankie Hamilton, senior, (righthander) and cleanup catcher. Delaware collected only six (6) hits off Hamilton.

The Aggies' second victory came just one day later against powerful Howard University. That game was altogether different from the first, as the 5-6 score as obviously points out. The eleven inning 1-1 thriller featured some superb pitching by William "Tony" Fowler and Leroy Williams for A&T, and Howard's Clarence Morrow, who went all the way.

The Man Who Thinks for Himself Knows —

Do You Think for Yourself? ( THESE QUESTIONS CAN TELL YOU A LOT ABOUT YOURSELF! **)

1. When you feel that certain fads are foolish do you talk against them?

2. Do gadgets such as new cigarette lighters often intrigue you so you want to take them apart?

3. Do you think that political candidates would write their own speeches instead of using a "ghost writer"?

4. Given the choice, would you prefer having an apartment of your own to living at home with your parents?

5. Do you prefer a salesman who is anxious to make a quick sale to one who will patiently answer all your questions about the product?

6. When arriving late for a party, are you inclined to join a group of close friends rather than attempting to strike up new acquaintances?

7. If you met somebody with a beard, would you tend to consider him "off base" and treat him with reserve?

8. Are you generally reluctant to go on a "blind date"?

9. Do you base your choice of a cigarette on what people tell you rather than doing your own thinking?

You'll notice that men and women who think for themselves usually smoke VICEROY. Their reason? They've made a thinking choice. They know what they want in a filter cigarette. They know that only Viceroy, filter cigarette contains a filter and a smoking man's taste! *If you have answered "YES" to three out of the first four questions and "NO" to four of the last five ... you really think for yourself!
