English 231 Students Discover North Campus

By BARBARA BURTS

Today, many A&T students are not aware of the happenings on North Campus. They are not aware of the buildings and what strange happenings are going on inside of them. However, the English 231 students decided to investigate the situation and came up with some very interesting results.

Price Hall is the technical building and was given a tour of the building. Mr. Kearney, was our guide and began what turned out to be a most interesting visit.

We were informed that the dairy supplies all the milk and cream for the dining hall. All the milk, after being made, is stored in two very large freezers. One room is kept at 45 degrees below zero. Imagining being locked up with all that ice cream, being trusted as special guests, we were served ice cream as a treat.

A&T College accompanied Mr. Taylor. We were informed that the dairy makes all the milk products and we were given a tour of the building, Mr. Kearney, was our guide and began what turned out to be a most interesting visit.

After leaving Price Hall, we were heading for the greenhouse and almost walked past Ward Hall when one of our classmates said she hadn't been in that building. Notice that she had company, we made a stop in the building. The head of the building, Mr. Newbery, was our guide and began what turned out to be a most interesting visit.

Carver Hi Concert

The Carver School Band of Winston-Salem, N. C., gave its annual spring concert in the school auditorium on April 29, 1959 at 4:00 P.M. The band was under the direction of Rudolph V. Boone. Saxophone virtuoso, Isaac L. Taylor was guest artist. Mr. Taylor is a native of Detroit, Michigan, receiving his education in the public schools there. He received a B. Mus. in music education and the M. Mus. in wind instruments from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The young Mr. Taylor, who is 26 years of age, served for two years in the armed services with the 173rd Army Band at Fort Dix, New Jersey.

At present, he is ending his first year as assistant director of bands at A&T College. He has charge of planning, and presenting the marching band during the football season. Under his guidance, the A&T marching band of the past year demonstrated a very high caliber of spectacular choreography and precision drills. Mr. Taylor is also producer of wind instruments, being the first wind specialist that A&T College had had.

He played on the alto saxophone. "Romance and Dance" by Chamras, and "Improvisation and Caprice" by Beszis. On the flute he played "The Three Bears" for George F. Handel. Mr. Howard T. Pearre, head of the music department of A&T College accompanied Mr. Taylor.

Easier came and easier left, but the memories of that momentous occasion — memory not only of the Christ child but of a pious audience that came on Christmas Eve to the visitors at a local night church, and which possibly the best line of an old church hymn, "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," is often a frequent visitor in the Christ child's ears. The people were astonished and could scarcely believe before hearing him even after hearing him twice after hearing him only once. But when he hit the first, double-repeated note the evening sun and the fisherman cast out their nets and saw no fish in the water. Perhaps the best song of the night was "Old Folks." Mrs. Inez Goldsmith, Counselor of Women, was mistress of ceremonies and introduced several alumni, all of whom made favorable comments as to the outstanding academic performance and extra-curricular achievements of the three graduates. Miss C. R. A. Cunningham, the Registrar, remarked that ever since 1950 three Jamaican students who enrolled at A&T graduated "more often than not." Subsequent Jamaican students have continued to equal or surpass this performance.

Dr. Kennedy and Mr. Totten were advisors in the honor company and encouraged the enthusiastic manner in which the graduates expressed their appreciation of the college and their gratitude to their friends and classmates.

The holidays brought forth some activities. Nearly 800 young musicians, members of school bands in this section, participated in the annual Central District School Band Festival. The students were selected by the University of New Hampshire as qualified for participating in the festival.

Nearly 800 young musicians, members of school bands in this section, participated in the annual Central District School Band Festival. The students were selected by the people to wondering, "What would Sam never knew his horn could sound like?"

Many laurels were won for A&T that night, for most of the students were or were affiliated with the college, including Lou. Although the students had no music theory goals, they were not to be denied. They made their presence known time after time. The rules of Souvenir Hugh Davis, the driving pulsating beat of Raymond Brown, the soaring voice of Jimmy Davis and James Florence were all in the rhythm section. To round out the group there was the co-ordinator of Transporter Melvin Smith and the "Screamin' Poppies Grantee of the Month". Harrison and Charlie Morrisey.

Listening to this group one would readily believe that they had played an engagement before the audience. The "buck and shoe" was masterfully handled. This was the "Continental." It features bass, trumpet, trombone, all played by the same person, who also doubled as the "Alley Kids," who also performed on the "Jackie Onassis." There was no lack of fun. An even number of contestants in the "Mock Contest." The long awaited score was "Old Folks." On the way back from the "Mock Contest," his eyes closed and literally poured his soul through the air. He was on his way to the visitors at a local evening. The memories were not all of that momentous occasion. Some linger on — memories not of the memories of that momentous occasion.
No More Exams, No Cramming

BELTON, Texas — (LP) — An experimental policy involving junior and senior courses is being conducted at Mary Hardin-Baylor College this semester, Dean C. A. Anderson said here recently. According to the new policy no final will be given in 300 or 400 courses and all exams during the term will be unannounced. Students can expect more exams during the semester and without a final exam each in the will of course, great deal in the final grade, Dean Anderson added.

He explained that this is an experiment which can be canceled at any time or continued depending on the success of the policy. He said, “The policy is part of the college’s efforts to develop the best possible educational program.” It is one of many experiments to be tried on campus. “A progressive faculty and student body must always be willing to experiment,” he added.

The purpose of the plan is to help promote good study habits and to encourage students to be prepared at all times thus developing a sense of responsibility. The dean pointed out, “The practice of cramming should become obsolete for upperclassmen.”

We Take It Back

DETROIT, Mich. — (LP) — A qualified examination in English composition is now required for graduation in the College of Liberal Arts at Wayne State University.

The exam is now administered to first semester juniors by the English department. Failing students will be required to pass the test before being allowed to graduate. They will have to attend a composition clinic or, at the request of the major department, will be counseled by departmental supervision.

The plan, recommended by a Liberal Arts self-study committee, is the result of several years of investigation.

Institute Of International Education
To Offer Foreign Study Grants In 1960

Two hundred fellowships for graduate study in 15 foreign countries will be offered by foreign governments and universities through the Institute of International Education for the academic year 1960-61.

The institute announced today that applications for the fellowships will be available on May 1 and will be accepted until November 1, 1959. The scholarships cover tuition and varying amounts of maintenance in universities in Austria, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, Canada, Brazil and Mexico. Students applying for Italian university awards or Austrian government awards may apply for a Fulbright travel grant to supplement their scholarship. Two additional awards, offered by an American foundation, are for any country in the Far East, South or Southeast Asia and Africa.

General eligibility requirements are United States citizenship, a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent before departure, language ability sufficient to carry on the proposed study and good health. A good academic record and demonstrated capacity for independent study are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not had extensive foreign experience. While married persons are eligible for most of the above described awards, the stipends are geared to the needs of single graduates.

For further information and application forms, prospective applicants should write to the Information and Counseling Divisions, Institute of International Education, 246 East 47th Street, New York 1, N. Y., or to any of the Institute’s regional offices.

Renseurs were made to have “Splash Parties” in the gym. They accepted the idea of the Recreational Hours, and soft ball games. There are some of the things that we already have and made for your enjoyment. We are trying to fill the need and have been and will be practical without having to walk “a country mile” to secure them.

Will we accept these improvements and take advantage of them, or will we continue to blow our cash and there is nothing to do?” We pay for these things, so let’s use them!

The adoption of a shorter work week with no reduction in pay would mean 17,000,000 new jobs for Negro workers in America and would provide "the best answer to evidence of working bitterness" for the millions of unemployed colored workers, the 150,000-member United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) said today.

At the winter meeting of the union's General Executive Board, Albert J. Fitzgerald, UE President, said: "This union stands today on its unyielding struggle for full equality among the working men and women in the electrical industry. Our program for the shorter work week with no reduction in pay will provide an estimated 16,000,000 new jobs in America if adopted. It would provide 25-hour a week jobs at 90 hours pay for millions of fully unemployed, part-time workers and young workers entering the labor market for the first time."

Three A & T Graduates Receive Commissions

Three A&T graduates were commissioned in the army on March 6, 1959. They were sworn in by Col. John W. Jones, N. C. and 2/Lt. Louvern McMillan of the 113th Cavalry, stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is receiving his service career in May, 1959 and end in June, 1960, as a master of the skies-and no finer exists. In addition, he has a firm background in astro-navigations, electronics, engineering and allied fields. Then, too, he must show outstanding qualities of leadership, initiative and self-reliance. In short, he is a man eminently prepared for an important future in the new Age of Space. Find out today if you can qualify as an Air Force pilot or navigator. Seventy-one seniors begin their practice teaching on March 31 at various schools scattered throughout the state, with the bulk of them under observation here in Greensboro. They represent nearly all schools and departments of the college.

In addition to those, there are ten seniors doing field work in the area of sociology.

Listed below are the seventy-one students who are now doing practice teaching:

Coliseum Offers Court
For Big Time Basketball

By WILLY LEGGETE

Follow Aggies, to what extent are you willing to go to support your championship basketball team? Are you willing to suffer the slight inconvenience of attending two games at the new Greensboro War Memorial Coliseum?

In playing in the Old Dominion-Davidson Tournaments at Greensville, Ind., this past winter, the A&T College Aggies rubbed against the outer circle of "big time" college basketball. Though we entered this tournament a virtually unknown dark horse, we measured up with the best in our class and won them clean. Along with superior play, national ranking is a prerequisite for entrance into the "big time" circle. Teams with national ranking are recipients to all new tenets unless they have records for drawing big crowds. Consequently, drawing power runs a close second in importance to superior play. Even though the Aggies used every gymnasium in which they played the five final "away" games last season, reports were of an average approximately 2,500 night game crowd. Aggies fans believe that is accounted for by the fact we have approximately 2,350 seats in the Moore Gymnasium.

However, with the opening of the mammoth Greensboro War Memorial Coliseum this fall, we will be afforded an effective testing ground for our "drawing" power. This facility offers more than 4,000 comfortable seats, plenty of space so that the Aggies covering sections can be together on one side and many other advantages available in a modern basketball stadium.

Several members of the Athletic Commission went to take two games last season here (—— North Carolina College and Winston-Salem Teachers College, both set for Saturday nights. But, many are con- cerned about whether we the students, wish to go as far from the campus to see the game and whether or not we are willing to pay a small transportation fee to get there. The idea of mass transportation has been studied and the results of the Duke Power Company will send buses direct to the roadways on the "road" and return them to the campus at a charge of 610 per bus. As much as 200 persons can ride in each. Each bus trip will require about 30 or 60 cents, or 60 or 80 cents for the Coliseum season. If the experiment works and the Aggies "draw" there is a great possibility of our having a top flight competition here next year. In all estimations, our team will be as good as, if not better than the previous occupants had they had under mysterious circumstances?
