Logan Wins Literary Award

Dr. Frenise A. Logan, professor of history, received the Connor Award for the best article published in the NORTH CAROLINA HISTORICAL REVIEW during the past year.

At the occasion was especially significant in that A&T College had been admitted to Collier membership by the accrediting body three days earlier.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy, dean of the School of Education and General Studies, and Dr. G. A. Edwards, dean of the Academic Division, extended welcome greetings at the morning session.

The Institute, to be conducted over a six-week period, will begin Dr. Rankin compared the momentous changes to the social and economic history of the country.

Dr. Gibbs cited basic research as the key to the success of its athletic teams. He said that the objectives of A&T College are to improve the quality of instruction in these fields.

Approximately four or five football players stormed into the dormitory room of the editor of the REGISTER immediately after the December 4th edition of the paper hit the campus.

Quarterback Paul Swann, guard Harvey Stewart, and others from the team paid the visit to protest an editorial written by EDITOR Alan W. Hoyt, Jr., entitled "Champions.... So What?"

Dr. Hoyt talked fast because when they came into his room they were completely disrupt ed the pinochle game in which this reporter, the editor, and five more students were engaged.

It was the caption of the article, for the most part that angered the athletes most. However, they remained calm and reassured the reporter which Swann said.... "makes us feel like the students aren't appreciating our going out and raising our money in order to form these scholarships for the school." He further stated that one of the main reasons that many students are attracted to A&T College is the growth and success of its athletic teams.

Reference to the number of scholarships athletes receive was another demonstration of the players' anger. Stewart claimed the numbers is less than seventy in full scholarship as the editor stated.

"Also," he said, "this is really not a full scholarship because each player has to work in different capacities to earn the scholarship."
On Scholarships

Statements made in this column in the December 4th edition of The Register were incorrect. The Register was not informed of the fact that the school had stopped writing letters to the applicants whose essays were not selected. The procedure is as follows: applicants submit essays, and the essays are evaluated by a committee. The committee then selects the essays that they believe are the best. The school then sends letters to those applicants whose essays were selected, informing them that they have been accepted into the scholarship program.

Associated Student Government

The Associated Student Government is holding a meeting on December 10th at 7:00 PM in the Student Union. All members are encouraged to attend. The agenda for the meeting includes updates on the budget, details on upcoming events, and the selection process for the next year's officers.

Cut No Scholarships

We do not advocate that the athletic scholarships be cut in the near future, as that is the policy of the school. However, we do believe that the school could do more to help these students. One suggestion would be to provide more academic assistance and support, such as tutoring and counseling.

Accreditation Was Issue

This article was written in connection with the paper's efforts to help secure membership for the college in the Associated Collegiate Press Association. The college was one of several such articles printed during the fall quarter. The newspaper had gone to press with the paper printed two times by the time the announcement that we had been admitted was made public.

Reception Funds Allotted

One good example of what can be done was exemplified by the reception funds allotted for the student government's reception. In particular, the instance the society was able to recruit one potential debater who has a "G" grade average. This was necessary for the debater to work at night in order to pay his way through school. An attempt to secure scholarship aid for him failed. Therefore, because of many similar difficulties, in the near future A&T must have the funds to give up debating.

This is the type of thing the editorial that appeared in the December 4th edition of the newspaper, was that not athletes as such, for the fellows don't run this system.

It is, then, this onusded system which we challenge.

"And Want An "In Chem"

Hurray For The Marching Band

BY ERNEST JOHNSTON

Everyone needs a hobby and everyone needs to express themselves. The A&T Marching Band is far from being a quiet one and has earned much recognition as being the most enthusiastic and lively band around the Aggie household. The band members are always seen in their uniforms, either on the field or in the stands, cheering on the Aggie football team and bringing a great deal of pride to the school.

This year the band was greatly rewarded with its uniforms, which included a drum major's uniform. The uniforms are the best in the country and are designed to be found anywhere. They have not only added to the looks of the band, but have also served as an incentive to the band members. The band members are proud to wear their uniforms and are eager to continue to bring honor to the school.

Editor of the Register:

With regards to the article presented in the last edition attacking the conditions that exist here at A&T College in the area of athletic prestige versus academic achievements, I would like to congratulate you for having the foresight and the courage to devote such a grave matter and most of all, do it to let it be known...

It is of relative importance that A&T College rid itself of the shadow of complacency and contentment — content with living on the laurels of its students' mediocrity, and the title those students' mediocrity must be kept accurate and up to date.

Bullock Speaks On Principles Of The Baha'is

Mr. Matthew Bullock, attorney, educator and former member of the National Spiritual Assembly of Baha'is of the United States addressed the A&T College audience on Tuesday morning, December 9, on principles of the Baha'i faith.

"The three basic principles that Baha'i advocate," according to the speaker, are, "the unity of God, the unity of religion, and the unity of man." He stated that in attempting to achieve unity of man, human beings must be fully cognizant of the fact that man is man regardless of his racial, political, social, and religious differences, and that this unity of man can run from breast to breast only if we allow it to.

According to the Baha'i faith, as related by Mr. Bullock, there can be no change of complete living until the three "isms" have been totally eradicated from the face of the earth. Those three lies are communism, nationalism and racism.

The speaker, a graduate of Dartmouth College and Harvard University School of Law, warned the students about student conduct. He said that as students we must be "good" hoodlums. We must fight our way out of the mess we have created for ourselves. We must be intelligent, hard working, and understand what education is all about, what the purpose of colleges and universities is.

The task of building a harmonious tomorrow is in the hands of college students. He emphasized by saying, "Each of us must contribute our part, put our hearts into it, and pay the price and then we will be able to harness anything."
Jazz From Benjie's Lid—

52nd Street Is Dead

This is the point where one traditionally stops, looks backward, and then to read some of our lit-garnered tows in a final tribute to jazz, relying on the musical's vitality to overcome all the sins with which it has soiled in the past.

I expect that other more mature members of the musical scene will have made this point, but this must surely set a tone to which will solidify the jazz innovation I present, present, presenting a working principle, or avoiding the one that jazz will not survive.

This brings me to the question of the future. Will it survive, not just for a day, but again for the next Christmas?

There's a fellow that can't grow any hair on his head but compensates for it by growing a large crop in various localities.

Majoring in engineering.

A survey made by Dr. Gragg shows that the Negro man and woman in America has a life span which is behind for the entire race and, therefore, prevents a group or cooperation from growing from the situation concerning the Negro race.

There are various reasons that we are attached to the situation that exists among us. First inadequate knowledge of nutrition; second, illiteracy; third, an inability of our people to properly make use of health services; and, lastly, to apply knowledge in rearing our families.

As a result of this one great effort made by the NACRO to be furthered by many who are unable to take the development of other clinics in various localities.

Display Ancient Fossils

Mrs. T. A. Clark, left, points out age-old specimen of fossil rock, one of many that she and her husband, Mr. Clark, right, gathered on a trip to South America last summer. Mr. Clark is an instructor in the Department of Biology here, and Mr. Clark teaches geography in the Department of Education and General Studies. This is part of the Geobotany Display they recently made in the main lobby of the D. B. Ford Library.

Celebration Of Christmas In Other Lands

In many parts of the world you will find Christmas being celebrated in a little different than it is customary in America.

For instance, in Hungary, Christmas is celebrated by a series of song and dance affairs from December sixth through January sixth. The days of December twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth, of course, have special meaning. Church bells ring for the entire two days.

Activities that have special meaning. Church bells ring for the entire two days.

Christmas trees are unknown to millions of Latin Americans. Instead, they have what are called piñatas—large hard baskets filled with toys and sweets.

In Germany, Christmas day is celebrated on December sixth. Children place their shoes at their windows believing that the Christ child rides from home to home placing gifts in them. But in most of Germany, Christmas is a time of quiet church services.

Italians celebrate Christmas Eve with a fast day and supper.

In Syria and Lebanon, it is a season of prayer and worship rather than a gay holiday. Their Christmas begins on December fourth and the last day of December is set aside for quiet church services.

In England, Christmas is celebrated in America on the fourth side. In Poland, the Christmas Festival here in America on the fourth side. In Poland, the Christmas Festival is celebrated on December fourth and Christmas day is set aside for quiet church services.

Small Christmas trees are unknown to millions of Latin Americans. Instead, they have what are called piñatas—large hard baskets filled with toys and sweets.

No matter how you celebrate the Christmas season and in what country you celebrate Christmas in because it is in the word “Christmas.”
Dr. Turner Speaks At Founders' Day Rites

ERNIE L. JOHNSTON, JR.

With the time rapidly approaching for the Man in Red to appear, our organizations are hastily getting in the mood for the occasion. As the students rejoice over the holiday from Hodgin Hall, The A&T College Student NEA, however, was on the job delivering a panel discussion to the teachers for the meeting. Katye B. Foye, the president of the local chapter of NEA, will attend a meeting in Durham after Christmas in order to make plans for the State meeting to be held at North Carolina College the latter part of January. At the seance, Miss Foye will discuss "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Grouping."

The closing of the football season found Alpha Phi Alpha observing its 50th anniversary December 6, 1959. At the residence of Miss Jean Bright, on Saturday, December 12, 1959.

ALPHA OBSERVE FOUNDERS' DAY

Fosterly loved found Alpha Phi Alpha observing its 50th anniversary December 6, 1959 at Eliza Johnston. Dr. D. T. Turner, professor of English at A&T, addressed the group on "The Negro Scholar." Dr. Turner stated "If Aphas endures, if the Negro race attains the position it so eagerly seeks, this picture must project the shadow cast upon the future Negro race of today, the scholar of tomorrow." A discussion was held in Scott Hall Lounge immediately following the address.

YEARBOOK UNDERWAY

The yearbook staff is seeking to make this year one of the best yet in years. The Register, Ed Pitt, solicits the help of each organization in order to make the annual a success. Two members of the staff recently attended the Associated Collegiate Press Conference in New York City. Information gained there will be used to great extent in the planning of this year's publication. The two members attending the conference were Pitt and Baxter Marion, Associate Editor.

TEACHERS MEET

With all of those teachers aware of the happening, many students rejoiced over the holiday from Hodgin Hall. The A&T College Student NEA, however, was on the job delivering a panel discussion in the teachers' lounge for the meeting. Katye B. Foye, the president of the local chapter of NEA, will attend a meeting in Durham after Christmas in order to make plans for the State meeting to be held at North Carolina College the latter part of January. At the seance, Miss Foye will discuss "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Grouping."

The closing of the football season found Alpha Marching Band saying, "A job well done." Performing on the streets, wind, and rain, the band served as ambassadors of the college. Rites surely should be taken off to Mr. Walter F. Carlson, Jr., and Mr. Hosea Taylor, Director of Bands.

The Arnold Air Society is very happy over the flight they gave their sisters, (The Angel Flight) on December 11. The ride, from all indications was very enjoyable because many of them are still walking on Cloud 9.

As the Aggie Family departs for their Christmas holidays, each organization will like to wish the student body, faculty members, staff and everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

New Worship Center Is Dedicated

By TOMMY GADDIE

After sixty eight years of serving as an educational center for thousands of men and women, A&T finally has a complete Worship Center. This Worship Center was completed by the addition of a portable altar, pews of coverings, and a brass cross with matching candle stick holders. To celebrate the completion of the Worship Center, a special dedication ceremony was held Sunday, December 6 at the regular Sunday morning Worship Service.

The sermon was delivered by Reverend Clee McCrory, director of religious activities. Rev. McCrory spoke on the theme "The Everlasting Light." Throughout his sermon, Reverend McCrory pointed out that the scripture has great influences upon our civilization and it serves as a foundation of life for men and women." He said, "There are three basic ideals of teaching in the Bible and they are 1. God created this world. 2. God personally created this world. 3. Human life is the most important thing in this world."

This service was also a part of the college's observance of the Universal Bible Sunday, sponsored by the American Bible Society.
The intramural program here at A&T, which is under the direction of coach Forrest Willis, is presently in the development state. However, the program needs wide participation from the Aggie student body in order to survive and grow.

At present there are only a few students participating in the intramural program, which is centered around basketball. These students have formed six teams which alternate by playing each other every Tuesday and Thursday night of the week.

COMMITTEE FORMED

A committee has been formed to decide on policies and potests of the organization to keep the program operating in a smooth efficient manner. Chairman of this committee is James Hale, and members of his staff are James Twitty, William Harper, James Slate and Alvin Attles. They have done a commendable job in stimulating interest among the students in the program, thus increasing the membership and interest.

Others who have aided in the program's operation are Pannis Hark, Harold Daniel, James Dargan and James Dillone. Each week a team is assigned to coach the teams.

OFFERS RECREATION

The intramural program offers recreation in an organized form in the areas of basketball, softball, ping-pong, tennis, horseback riding, volleyball and touch football. The program is an organized and efficient way of providing recreation opportunities for the students.

The majority of the students now participating in intramurals are F. E. majors. But these students go through examinations of their abilities to participate. In order to enroll their interest and participation, they have to be admitted to the program. Students unable to enroll in the program may make it possible for additional funds in the future, mainly from the student body.

FUNDS APPROPRIATED

The student government has appropriated certain funds to the program for the purpose of purchasing awards, equipment, miscellaneous supplies. Wide cooperation from the student body may make it possible for additional funds in the future.

The program will be expanded by means of the student body. Students who wish to participate in the program may contact the committee chairman, or see Coach Willis at Charles Moore Gymnasium.

Negro Student Charge Social Inequality

BEREA, O. (LP).—A special faculty report concerning a fraternity from the Baldwin-Wallace College campus, released here recently, summarized the findings of a committee on social inequity in the college, which was selected two years ago to study the problem.

The report stated that "restrictions exclude Negroes from membership in all but one of the Greek letter organizations. "That there is a lack of adequate and equal social opportunities on campus and in the community and that there is a problem in housing dormitory facilities." The problems are not peculiar to Berea College, the committee found. Similar problems exist throughout the country.

Negro students wish to have fair treatment toward social equality on the campus, the report added. In a review of social inequity for members of the community, the committee found that only one Greek letter organization's national constitution specifically recognizes the Negro. The other organizations have no such clauses.

The committee also found "evidence that all students are eligible for membership in any social organization on the campus, but Negro students are not permitted to become members of the following organizations: athletic organizations, fraternities, sororities, and student government organizations on the campus—Wallace campus."
Sports
By EDWARD W. PITT

Football season is over and again the Aggies have emerged as CIAA champions. This marks the second consecutive football championship for Coach Bert Piggott's mighty squad. But being champions just seems to be a way of life around Aggieland, for in the past three years A&T athletic squads have won five of the seven major laurels in the CIAA program.

Basketball season is underway and in Aggieland that means that Coach Carl Irvin is again trying to outwit all of the other coaches in the loop, and in the NCAA, for that matter, and again seat his hard running, high scoring, Aggie squad at the top.

This year it is generally believed that Coach Irvin and his squad have their work cut out for them. The schedule is about the same, but many agree that the Aggies are weaker than last season, at least in the first five to six games. This year the Aggies will have to work even harder, but the key to the Aggies' success in past seasons has been (in addition to the first five) the strong bench that they were able to maintain. This year, those strong benches were forced to move up to the big "five" and an almost new bench moved in.

Now everyone is wondering just how effective the new bench will be when the going gets rough. Each year since Coach Irvin has been at the helm of the A&T basketball machine he has come up with at least one, usually two, surprise standout. His first was the great Joe Howard, rebouding and Charles Harrison and "Vince" Milled. The following year, Al Attles and Joe Odum, the next, Herb Gray and Walt Holtzclaw and last year, Alvin Attles, the rebounding ace Charles Harrison and "Vince" Milled. But what's new this year that will soon ring a bell in the manner: that this star-studded list of glories fail? Well, there's a couple of fellows by the names of Jerry Powell and Hubert Evans who, as the season wears on, may become very popular names around here. Don't bet Cal short; winning hasn't closed his eyes to new talent.

The Aggie Basketball team jumped off to a good start in the defense of their CIAA Championship title by winning major victories over the Pirates of Elizabeth City Teachers College and the Falcons of Saint Augustine's College last weekend.

FALST PIRATES 106-83
The A&T College Aggies put the basketball affair on the road for 1959-60 with an exciting 106-83 victory over the Elizabeth City Teachers College Pirates in the new Greensboro Coliseum.

The Pirates had little chance to show their wares, as each member of the first five was red hot and scoring from just about every spot on the coliseum portable floor. The playmaking tactics of flashy senior Alvin Attles, the rebounding (25) of 6'6" center Herb Gray and the all-around pressure of the others was just too much for the highly respected squad from Elizabeth City.

Aggies Take First Two
In Cage Season Openers
The Pirates fell behind junior guard Walter Holtzclaw, the first two points of the contest and remained in that position throughout the contest. The Aggies held them scoreless for 3:37. During that time the Aggies scored 12 points and the pace for the game had already been set.

The Aggies came out the second half leading 54-83, and continued scoring at a mad pace. The Pirates showed signs of giving in but came back. Early in that period the Aggies increased their lead to 6 points and never again saw the Aggies in 2 points. After that point the Aggies kept pouring in points and the pace for the game was set.

SAINT AUGUSTINE'S BOWF4-82
The Falcons of Saint Augustine's College lost their second conference game (6-0) when they played host to the CIAA defending champion, A&T College Aggies.

Led by the outstanding play of Capt. Al Attles and Junior forward Herbert Gray the Aggies had little trouble handling the Falcon. The return of Albert Stirrup aid the performance of a couple of new men did, however, keep the Aggies on their toes and made it more for the Falcons to slacken up. The Falcons took an easy but short-lived lead, but lost it at 3:4 and never again saw the name of the Aggies in the lead.

The Aggies got by as much as 36 points in the first half and with 4:38 left in that period, had led by 64 points. The second half followed a similar pattern as did the first half. Gray and Attles kept piling in the points for the Aggies, and Gray, 6'7" center from Washington, D.C., controlled the board. The Aggies held the Falcons to the scoring honor for the Aggies with 21 points each and Gray matched 2 rebounds off the board.

Blugolds, with 13 points, and Alfred Glover and Bobby Davis, with 11 points each, took the scoring for the Falcons.

Henry Marshall, sophomore Aggie stand-in at the guard position, sustained a head injury late in the second half.
