Dorm Counselor Dies During Holidays

By JOAN GORE

Mrs. Sara B. Williamson King, residence counselor in Curtis Hall, died December 29, 1959 at her home in Reidsville.

Mrs. King had been employed at the college for 2 1/4 years and was spending her Christmas vacation at home at the time of her death.

In addition to serving as dormitory counselor, Mrs. King was a member of the college's discipline committee, the Sunday School, and a participant in many other activities.

Miss Geneva J. Holmes, dean of women, described Mrs. King "as an ideal person." "She was cooperative, cheerful, and interested in all students' welfare," said Dean Holmes.

Funeral services for Mrs. King were held at Zion Baptist Church in Reidsville, January 1 at 2 P.M. She is survived by her husband, Rev. Joe King, and three brothers — Clyde, S. S. and Eric Williamson.

Representatives of the college attending the funeral were Reverend Cleo M. McCoy, director of religious activities; Miss Geneva J. Holmes; Mr. William H. Gamble, dean of men; Mrs. Sadie B. Bundrige, Mrs. Annie B. Bynum, Mrs. Annie R. Simpson — all dormitory counselors; and Mr. Allison Gordon, college postmaster.

New Building To Replace North Dorm

Members of the building and grounds committee here decided on Wednesday, January 6, that North Dormitory, on the main campus would have to go to make way for a new classroom building on that site.

North Dorm is one of the oldest buildings on the college campus, part of the original complex of Dudley, Vanstory, Morrison and Noble halls.

Architect R. E. L. Peterson of Greensboro will draw plans for the unit which is expected to cost approximately $218,000.00. The money has been allocated by the state for construction.

North Dormitory is adjacent to Dudley Building (the administration building) and its back is toward Lindsay Street. The new building will lie just north of the administration building and will be within a few steps of Harrison Hall, the auditorium.

NO DATE SET

No date was set for razing North Dormitory, a women's dormitory housing some 60 students. These women will be moved somewhere else on the campus next year and later will most likely be placed in the new dormitory soon to be erected.

There was some talk about placing the classroom building adjacent to the Hayes-Taylor YMCA on property which the college owns but committee members felt the North Dormitory site was more feasible.

PLAN FIELD HOUSE

An athletic field house will be built on the northern part of the campus near the athletic practice field. Thomas B. Hayes, of Southern Pines, is the architect for this building which is to cost $58,000. Hayes is also improving the athletic field, and this is expected to cost $91,500.

Long range plans call for further expansion and development of an area just west of Dudley Street between Lindsay and East Market Streets.

Chairman George Sockwell of Elon presided at the committee meeting. The committee had previously been authorized by the board of trustees to determine the sites for the new construction.

Plan CIAA Tourney Promotion

These two men will have the responsibility of promoting the CIAA Basketball Tournament to be held at Greensboro's multi-million dollar War Memorial Coliseum, February 25-27.

They are Ellis F. Corbett, left, A&T College public relations director and recently appointed chairman of the Advisory Committee on Publicity and Promotion, and Dr. Charles Ray, director of the News Bureau at North Carolina College and director of publicity for the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

CIAA Tourney Committee Holds 15th Annual Meet

The CIAA's 15th Annual Basketball Tournament Committee held its Second Meeting here on January 10.

Coach Bell stated that the Committee in an Earlier Meeting inspected the Greensboro War Memorial Coliseum and everyone was delighted with its facilities.

CORBETT LOCAL PROMOTER

Ellis F. Corbett, Public Relations Director, is local advisory Committee Chairman on Publicity and Promotion. Mr. L. D. Smith, 15th Tournament Committee Chairman, Virginia Union University, Richmond, Virginia, stated in a recent meeting that Corbett would be involved in publicity and promotion at all levels.

Corbett will have the assistance of the CIAA News Service whose director is Charles A. Ray of North Carolina College, Durham.

FIRST TIME IN GREENSBORO

Coach Bell and Mr. Corbett have expressed the hope that Greensboro Citizens would open their doors and hearts to the tournament.

The Greensboro War Memorial Coliseum is in its first year of operation. It has seating accommodations for more than 9,000 people, with parking facilities for more than 3,000 cars. The Coliseum dimension-wise is 314 by 202 feet wall to wall. The actual coliseum floor, however, is 212 feet by 100 feet.

Prospective tournament spectators will be able to order seats in advance by addressing Robert H. Kent, Manager, Greensboro, War Memorial Coliseum, Drawer W-2, Greensboro, N. C.

Students Begin Internships Next Week

By LOUIS BELFIELD

According to Mr. S. Joseph Shaw, approximately fifty students will do practice teaching this quarter.

Student internes from the School of Agriculture, School of Education and General Studies and the School of Engineering will begin work on January 18, in various Secondary Schools throughout North Carolina.

Mr. Shaw pointed out that more students will participate in student practice teaching during the winter quarter than at any time in the past four years.

In the area of student teaching a more diversified program for instruction "Materials" is now in progress. However there is much greater use of Visual Aids by student teachers.

Mr. Shaw stated that more information on what the student teachers are trying to accomplish will appear in a later edition.

Mr. Shaw is in the process of completing a research project in teaching programs among other Land-Grant Colleges and is to be released in the spring.

Fall Honor Roll Lists Four With Perfect Grades

54 Students Register In "A" Column On Long List Of 224

Doris Bowman, James Blue, Paul Parker and Arthur Mangaroo headed the long list of students on the fall quarter honor roll with perfect 4.00 averages.

There were 37 other students on the "A" honor roll with grade point averages ranging from 3.94 to 3.50 while 136 students made the "B" honor roll.

TECH. INST. LISTS 47

The Technical Institute listed 13 students on its "A" honor roll — two of whom had perfect grades — and 34 students on the "B" honor roll.

While this list is the smallest for any fall quarter since 1954, when the total was 246, the percentage of students in the top echelon of the honor roll is considerably higher than at any time during this period.

GOP Drama In Three Acts

The Republican Party, under the watchful eye and masterful leadership of President Eisenhower, recently staged a grandstand series of events which eventually led to Vice President Nixon's apparent position of high esteem in the GOP.

Act I

First, in this spectacular stage of events, came Governor Nelson Rockefeller's surprise Christmas gift to Nixon in the form of a surprise withdrawal from the race for the GOP Presidential Nomination.

Act II

Next, in a subsequent article, Drew Pearson asserted that this decision of Rockefeller's was influenced by the President. It seems that Eisenhower was opposed to Rockefeller's nomination because he (Rocky) was not sympathetic with the President's effort to maintain a balanced budget, among other things. Rocky's announcement certainly came as a big surprise in view of the fact that he had done quite a bit of trans-continental campaigning.

Rocky had also set up elaborate campaign headquarters on Fifth Avenue.

Act III

Then came Act III. Nixon, the hero, single-handedly and very diplomatically settled the Steel Strike which had been deadlocked for almost eight months, despite the combined efforts of both Houses and the President himself.

Just what does all this fanfare mean? Could it be that the Republican Party is engaging in high-level slight-of-hand? Could be, but most trickery of this sort is at least a bit more subtle.

Synopsis

Now, Nixon has free reign with no opposition on the part of Governor Rockefeller. He is in a position to scrutinize carefully the tactics of the Democrats and make necessary counter-measures, especially in trying to win the Catholic vote.

It is generally believed that in the event Kennedy is chosen as the number one or two man at the Democratic National Convention, Nixon will select Governor Pat Brown of California, a Republican Catholic, as his running mate. On the other hand, if Kennedy gets the ax, Nixon is expected to draw Henry Cabot Lodge as his number two man.

All of this is true in light of the fact that Nixon claims indifference as to who will be his running mate.

It was believed that when Rockefeller made the announcement of his decision to withdraw that the Republican Convention would be eventless; but with this series of events, it can be seen that this election year will have a great number of sparks in all quarters.

So it remains with the voter to sit and wait for future situations of this sort to arise and to look closely and deeply into these situations so that he can make value judgments accordingly.

These are the times when each and every Red Blooded American is on trial physically, mentally, and emotionally. This is, in truth, a momentous year.

Tough To Answer

(The Milwaukee Journal)

A student has asked a question for which we find no ready answer: If it was just "entertainment" for Assistant Professor Charles Van Doren to fool the public, through accepting surreptitious coaching about what he knew, why would it be "cheating" for one of his students to do the same thing on an examination?

Editor of the Register:

It is hard for me to remember my first connection with information regarding segregation. I must have been twelve or thirteen before I had experienced any type as such, and then it was reduced or inhibited in a normal way.

A very dear friend and I left Columbus, Ohio, our home, to return to Greensboro at the termination of our Christmas vacation. Our trip was a memorable one in that it rendered a few inconveniences and a personal victory.

The restaurant was set up cafeteria style, and right away I sent Barbara around for the food. Barbara, having a fair complexion passed the test and soon our food was on the table piping hot.

Finding that she was being ignored, she turned to my friend. "I still can't see how you got the food," and I answered, "The fact is that the food is here, but you might ask the cashier how it was obtained."

answered, "I know how you feel, and I am terribly sorry myself and took the first bite of my food."

We stayed until the food was well digested. In essence, I attempted to make the knowledge gained more than compensate for the inconvenience. The inner-satisfaction that is possible with a knowledge that you have done the right things is in itself a tremendous stabilizing factor.

Frank L. Barron

Editor of the Register:

First let me congratulate you on your article "Champions . . . So What?" in the December 4, 1959 issue. The article was well written and quite informative.

As a matter of fact I never considered them myself until I read the article "Athletes Rap Editor" in the December 18, 1959 issue. Truthfully I believe the athletes had a good beef (literally speaking).

On the other hand, to consider a scholarship for such organizations as the Debaters, Choir, Yearbook, and Register would indicate that we are giving scholarships to individuals who volunteer for them (scholarships).

I believe that there should be MORE EMPHASIS PLACED ON THE ACADEMIC STANDING of those who are on athletic scholarships instead of handing out volunteer scholarships.

Do not misunderstand me, I am not implying that no scholarships be given except for sports but I do not think it is fair to use our athletes as examples to show how our academic scholarships stand.

It is true that A&T is going forward and recognition of cultural advantages are necessary but extra-curricular activities are considered to be a means of bringing capable students together to show their abilities in different fields.

Again let me congratulate you on your article and the fact that you did focus the students' attention on the value of scholarships.

Yours truly,

Paul E. Parker

Editor of the Register:

The edition of THE REGISTER of December 18, 1959 published a new coverage of the display made by Mrs. Elizabeth Clark and myself, on the fossil remains of plants which existed 250 million years ago.

I wish to call to your attention that the fossils were collected on a Geobotanical tour of coal mines in Southern Indiana, and not in South America as the writing disclosed.

Your correction of this mistake will be greatly appreciated. Very truly yours, Thomas A. Clark Associate Professor of Geography

(We submit our most humble apologies to Professor and Mrs. Clark for this very serious error, and promise that in the future, more care will be exercised on the part of reporters to acquire accurate information - Editor.)

Editor of the Register:

A reprieve to the Dining Hall. For a couple of weeks, we have been asked to remove our milk bottle caps from the bottles and place them in a can made available.

This is considered as being hazardous, in that during rush hours 12:00-1:00 p.m. you may drop your milk or some one may make you drop or spill it.

In talking to the president of the student council, I found we are spending much money monthly because students take bottles from the dining hall.

I would like to make a suggestion that the milk be placed at the end of the line where the ticket taker is, so that students may only receive one bottle of milk.

Thank you, Wanda Gunnings

The two top winners in each area will have the opportunity of discussing their work with Mr. Sterling Brown, on the afternoon of January 19, in the Seminar Room of Hodgkin Hall. Mr. Brown, nationally known poet and author, will be guest speaker in the regular chapel assembly on the following Tuesday. A conference hour with the guest speaker will also be arranged for Tuesday afternoon by Miss Jean Bright, Assistant Professor of English.

The first of the programs set for February will consist of a book discussion under the direction of Dr. Margaret Jackson. The date set is February 2nd in the 10:00 a.m. regular Tuesday morning assembly.

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winston's got it!

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he'd glower at the extended pack and sneer, "Et tu, Brute?"

In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numeral I filter cigarette—for the best-tasting filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

P.S. to bachelors. If you're lucky enough to find a gal who'll keep you in Winstons, Caesar!

Religious Emphasis Week To Be Observed Here

By JOHN OLDEN McDONALD

The Annual Observance of Religious Emphasis Week again becomes a reality to the A&T College family, January 24-27.

The theme for the week will be, "The Contribution of Religion Toward Worthwhile Living."

CHICAGOAN IS SPEAKER

A prominent Chicago minister will be the featured speaker at the Annual observance. He is Dr. Morris H. Tynes, a graduate of A&T College and a former resident of Greensboro. He is now pastor of the Chicago Monumental Baptist Church.

Dr. Tynes is a very industrious individual, having excelled in public speaking at Yale University, where he received the B.D. degree and has done further study. He held the positions of Dean of Theology at Virginia Seminary and College, Lynchburg, Va., and was the first of his race to head the Bimacial Staunton-Augusta County Ministerial Association.

A pre-religious activity program will be held tomorrow at 8 P.M. in Harrison Auditorium, consisting of various interpretations of Negro spirituals given by the College Choir, Modern Dance Group and the Dramatics Club.

A fellowship hour will be observed on January 21, with the Religious Activity Committees, ministers who are actively engaged in advising denominational groups on campus, head of departments and Student leaders in charge of the program.

MOVIE INCLUDED

The four day observance opens with a morning worship service on Sunday, January 24, at 11:00 A.M., and worship services will be conducted on Monday and Tuesday mornings at 10:00 o'clock and concluded with an evening worship service on Wednesday.

In addition to the Annual Worship services on January 24, at 4:30 P.M. in the basement of Cooper Hall, a Fellowship Council Tea, in honor of Dr. Tynes will be given. Immediately following the tea, a religious film will be presented in the Harrison Auditorium. The movie, entitled "Day of Triumph," is filmed in Eastman Color and wide screen.

Dr. Tynes will appear before smaller groups and participate in individual counseling during his stay here. Throughout the observance Dr. Tynes will be assisted by several local ministers who will serve as advisers to denominational student organizations.

Reverend Cleo McCoy, Director of Religious Activities here at A&T College, stated that "It is hoped that this form of activity will cause a re-focusing of attention upon the value of religion in the daily lives of individuals with a fuller realization of its significance in the solution of problems arising out of our daily experiences."

A&T Grads First To Hold Ohio Positions

By JUANITA HARGROVE

Mr. James Rowe, Mrs. Felicia Paine Rowe and Dr. Marie Rivers, all A&T graduates, were the first Negroes to teach in all-white communities in Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Rivers is presently on the faculty here at the college, having come back here in the fall of 1959.

Mr. Rowe was assigned to Wilbert Wright High School located in a wealthy all-white neighborhood, while Mrs. Rowe joined the faculty of Fairview High School located in a fashionable Jewish neighborhood.

Before taking her present assignment at A&T last fall, Miss Rivers taught at U. S. Grant School in an upper-middle class white community.

The uniqueness of the situation was that all three of these teachers are graduates of A&T College.

Mr. Rowe is a former football star at A&T while his wife, Mrs. Rowe, is a former Miss A&T.

New Methods Of Study Introduced On Campus

By TOMMY GADDIE

For the second quarter, Mr. Alphonso Gore is experimenting with a new program in his Psychology 202 class which he calls, "Individualized Instruction Through Team Work."

This program was begun last quarter with the Psychology 200 Class. Mr. Gore pointed out that "this program is an extension of the Winneka Plan used primarily in the elementary school which allows the student to move as fast as he is capable of moving."

Mr. Gore said that he is searching for better ways of instruction and this method he is now experimenting will allow the student to do his best work because he feels that students work better with one another than they do in the regular lecture type class.

Courses taught by this method are broken down into jobs. "Since a certain number of jobs must be finished in order to get a certain grade," Mr. Gore said, "It eliminates the possibility of a person's personality entering into the determination of his final grade and lets the individual know just where he stands in the class."

The grading system is broken down as follows:

Jobs	Grade
24-25	A
22-23	B
20-21	C
18-19	D
Below 18	F

Mr. Gore stated that last quarter there were more A's in the class than before but that there were also more F's in the class than before.

Civil Rights Commission To Meet In California

The Commission on Civil Rights announced that it will hold general hearings in Los Angeles and San Francisco in January with emphasis on the interrelationships between problems of discrimination in voting, housing, and education.

The three days of hearings in the two cities will begin on January 25 and continue through January 27.

The Commission said it would attempt to determine, among other things, to what extent any deprivations in voting, or voter apathy, might affect the quality of public education; whether or not voter apathy is a result of discrimination in education; whether slum living causes voter apathy or whether it inspires block voting, and how segregated housing patterns might be affecting the quality of education received by minority groups.

FIRST IN WEST

The decision to hold the California hearings was made because the Commission said, hearings had been held in all other sections except the West, which has its unique racial problems. Hearings on discrimination in housing have been held in New York, Chicago and Atlanta. A hearing on deprivations of the right to vote was held in Montgomery, Ala., and the Commission conducted a conference in Nashville, Tenn., attended by public school officials.

CONDITIONS STUDIED

In its report to the President and Congress in September, the Commission said of the interrelationship between the three fields it is studying:

"... If the right to vote is secured, but there is not equal opportunity in education and housing, the value of the right will be discounted by apathy and ignorance. If compulsory discrimination is ended in public education but children continue to be brought up in slums and restricted areas of racial concentration, the conditions for good education and good citizenship will still not obtain."

In Atlanta, for instance, the Commission found that extension of the right to vote to Negroes has led to improve racial relations in other areas, including housing.

The Commission said it expected the California hearings would yield much information in areas in which it has not previously had the opportunity to examine closely. It pointed to the existence in California of the Mexican-American and Oriental minorities and the continued large migration of Negroes to the State.

FIRST MEETING CANCELED

Plans that were made last spring by the Commission to hold hearings in Los Angeles were canceled when the Commission decided to turn its attention instead to the large number of voter registration complaints which it was receiving from Louisiana. A voting hearing in Louisiana was held up by a court order, an appeal from which is being taken by the Justice Department to the United States Supreme Court.

Unlike the voting hearing which was held in Alabama and the one planned in Louisiana, the general hearings in California will not involve subpoenaed witnesses or testimony taken under oath. Witnesses will be invited to testify, as they were in the hearings held in New York, Chicago, and Atlanta and the conference in Nashville.

The Commission plans that the hearings will be open to the public. Members of the Commission's California State Advisory Committee will be invited to attend as observers.

Get Experience Before Going On Your Own

Planning on starting a business after you finish college? Then one of the best things you can do is to get experience first working for someone else. You won't risk losing your savings while learning the trade.

This is one bit of advice in a revision of the 20-page pamphlet "So You're Going Into Business" published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The Chamber first published the pamphlet in 1956.

The pamphlet points out that nine out of ten retail firms that fail, fail not because the people who start them don't have enough money, but because they don't have enough experience and competence.

Another good idea, the pamphlet points out, is to try to make your business different from others, especially others of the same type and size. Aim for a particular type of customer.

For a copy of the pamphlet write: Domestic Distribution Department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States 1615 H Street, N.W. Washington 6, D. C.

Professor Clark To Report On Book

Professor T. A. Clark has been selected by the American Association of Geographers to make announcement of a recent publication on conservation.

The publication, a text written by Dr. Raymond F. Dasmann, is entitled, Environmental Conservation. The review of the text which professor Clark will write is to appear in the next issue of the Professional Geographer, a monthly magazine of the American Association of Geographers.

It is hoped that Prof. Clark's review of the textbook will interest teachers of conservation to the extent that they will take measures to have the book incorporated in the basic curricular of their respective schools.

SFC Jordan Joins ROTC Instructor Group Here

Takes Over Duties Of Johnson Who Is Discharged

By G. GORDEN ALSTON

SFC Harold Jordan, a former member of the 1st Airborne Battle Group, 503rd Infantry at Ft. Bragg, N. C., recently replaced SFC Norris Johnson as MS IV instructor here.

Sgt. Johnson completed his tour of duty here at A&T, and was transferred to Ft. Bragg for separation from the Armed Forces.

SFC Jordan brings with him a record of highly meritorious service verified by reports from former commanders under whom he has served during his military career.

In a recent Army Training Test, SFC Jordan was congratulated and commended by Captain Richard E. Garner, his Company Commander; Colonel Gus S. Peters, and Airborne Officer; General Tucker, the chief umpire; Major General Dwight E. Beach, commanding officer of the 1st Airborne Battle Group, and Major Lawrence D. Spencer, his present commander for his outstanding performance and devotion to duty while acting in the capacity as platoon sergeant.

He was also commended on his leadership ability among non-commissioned officers and his knowledge of the utilization of weapons. He is considered by many to be an expert on this matter and will definitely be an asset to the cadre staff as instructor here at the college.

Major Lawrence D. Spencer, left, presents Sergeant-First-Class Harold Jordan with a citation he received since beginning duties here. The citation was for meritorious service in the capacity of a platoon sergeant performed by Jordan while on a tour of duty at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

ROTC Receives Superior Rating In Inspection

By JAMES A. HEFNER

It was announced Monday that the Army ROTC Corps of Cadets received a superior rating on a recent Command Maintenance inspection.

This is generally regarded as a very rigid inspection, as very few ROTC units receive this top honor rating. Thus, the unit here considers itself something of a paradox of military excellence in this area, at least.

The corps here has sought for many years to receive the rating in this annual inspection of the organization and maintenance of its department. Specifically, all equipment, supplies, records and general "housekeeping" practices of the unit are inspected.

In this, his second year as Professor of Military Science and Tactics here, Major Lawrence D. Spencer has brought the entire unit up to its present position of par excellence which netted the Army group this rating.

The inspection was held on December 9, 1959, just one day prior to the full I. G. Inspection which was administered by a team from the XII Army Corps, headquarters for all Army operational units in this area.

100 AF Cadets To Tour Pope Air Force Base

Approximately one hundred Air Force cadets will make a tour of Pope Air Force Base on Friday, February 5th.

This marks the first time in the history of the corps that such a large number of cadets will visit a base at one time. Three buses will be used to transport the cadets to the base, which is the home of the 464th Troop Carrier Squadron. This organization is stationed at Fayetteville near Fort Bragg, and is the facility which serves the 82nd Airborne Division.

The tour will include a briefing in Military Justice, Security, Command Affairs and Personnel. There will also be a crash and rescue demonstration of fire-fighting apparatus, and the operation of the navigation and instrument trainer.

The tour will climax with a briefing of the operation of a C-123 aircraft.

College officials who will accompany the cadets will be Dean W. H. Gamble and Professor Bernard Coleman, as well as several members of the Air Force ROTC staff.

The group will depart at seven o'clock on the morning of February 5th and return at approximately seven o'clock that evening.

A Synopsis Of

A Typical Aggie Game

ERNEST JOHNSTON

Around six o'clock, Moore gym is quiet and still with only the footsteps of the janitors and other personnel ringing out in the evening air.

Everyone is steadily making preparations for the big game of the night. Finally two teams take to the floor. Wait a minute! It's too early for the main game to start. Suddenly it all dawns on me that this is the preliminary action. All of the players battle to the gruesome end hoping that one of them will be scouted for the varsity.

Looking across the gym, a group of men students are huddled together waiting for a section of the benches to be pulled out. What is so special about these people, that they wait in great anticipation for special seats?

The gym is rapidly filling to standing room only. Those seats are finally pulled out and section no. 1 takes over. So that's who those fellows are. They are the Aggies

No. 1 rooting Crew. "This is Section No. 1, No. 1, No. 1" rings throughout the gym and soon after Section No's 2 and 3 give quick and snappy responses. Funny thing though, Section No. 4 is the weakest of them all.

At last it's game time and the two teams take the floor. Hooking, Dunking, and Set Shooting from every angle possible, the two teams battle until the final buzzer is sounded. The game is over.

Moore Gym then says goodbye to her company and once again the footsteps of the night crew ring out throughout the gym that has not hosted a winning visitor more than once in three years.

Jazz From Benjie's Lid

Miles Tops Polls

By BENNIE ROBINSON

The annual jazz polls are out with many of the winners of '58 repeating again in '59.

With few exceptions, you'll find they ran like this: trumpet, M. D., trombone, J. J.; alto sax, Paul Desmond; tenor sax, Stan Getz; baritone sax, Gerry Mulligan; clarinet, Tony Scott; guitar, Barney Kessel; piano, Oscar Peterson; bass, Ray Brown; drums, Shelly Manne; flute, Herbie Mann; vibes, Milt Jackson; combo, Dave Brubeck Quartet; vocal group, Lambert-Hendricks-Ross; male singer, Frank Sinatra; female singer, Ella.

The jazz personality of the year was none other than the man, M. D., and we must add for the second straight year. He's really saying!!

As in years past, many of the ratings are obviously influenced by the amount of traveling or recording that a particular musician did during the last part of '58 and all of '59. Performances at Newport and at various other festivals were a definite factor in several of the most surprising finishes. It may be added that not as many musicians as in the past coasted in because of laurels gained in the years before. But, all in all, the polls were very satisfying.

One should not interpret the polls as to who is the "best" this or the "second best" that, for there is no "best". What is saying for one individual may say very little to another. The winners of these polls are the artists who are saying the greatest amount to the greatest number of people at this time.

No doubt there are many of your favorites that you thought should have been higher. That, of course, is the basic problem with polls of all kinds — it is nearly impossible to sum up all the quality involved in an art form in any listing of names.

NOTES FROM THE BIG HORN

You drop down to the Jazz Gallery on 80 St. Marks Pl. at First Ave. to catch the new sextet. As the set starts you first take a polite nibble of their offerings, and then a bite size wedge, but as the momentum increases you crave yourself a huge chunk. That's the way the Jazztet hits you, featuring Art Farmer, trumpet; Benny Golson, tenor; and Curtis Fuller.

The "Enigma of Miles Davis" in the Jan. 7th issue of Down Beat is a must!!

Cannonball has united with his brother, Nat, and is swinging with a really aggressive group that has plenty of drive.

Aggies Back From Holiday

With 3 important CIAA basketball wins under their belts, the A&T College Aggies basketball team left for the Christmas holidays just as happy as little boys on Christmas day.

Before going home for Christmas, they had knocked over Elizabeth City State Teachers College, St. Augustine's College and Virginia Union and moved into the New Year undefeated.

Earlier in the year the team was worried over the loss of Joe Howell, the most sensational player to don the Aggie Blue and Gold and Charlie Harrison, ace rebounder.

However, Cal Irvin, Aggie coach, believes that adequate, if not as good, replacements have been found.

Cal Irvin, head basketball coach, who has led the Aggies to two straight conference visitation and tourney crowns, was smiling too. "We may not be as good," stated Cal, "but we will be good."

Irvin mentioned that while his club is making lot of mistakes, the team is still winning. "If we reduce the errors and keep whole," he continued, "we will not have to worry about our limited depth."

During the holiday, the A&T College Aggies won the Winston-Salem Holiday Festival Tournament by defeating Winston-Salem Teachers College in the final round by 63-59.

Aggie Notebook

Mr. J. Niel Armstrong, professor in the graduate department, was the keynote speaker for the first assembly program on Tuesday, January 5.

An estimated crowd of 42 students and four faculty members had the honor of hearing the address. It seems as if the canteen was more interesting than assembly. They had a record crowd of around 150. Maybe the canteen should be closed while Tuesday Assembly is in progress.

The CIAA Tournament will be held in the Greensboro War Memorial Coliseum on February 25, 26, 27. Tickets are now being sold at the Coliseum.

The Richard B. Harrison players are planning to present two originals by William H. Robinson of the English department as their winter quarter productions.

During the Christmas holidays the Nativity scene was the center of attention around F. D. Bluford Library. The Nativity scene was erected by the Building and Grounds department.

Believe it or not A&T had an estimated 500 fans for the holiday festival Tournament held at Winston-Salem Teachers College as compared to 2,000 Teachers College fans, N. C. fans, and J. C. Smith fans. But we won.

A series of special weeks and days are scheduled for the New Year's Calendar. They are, English Emphasis Series, January 19-April 26; Religious Emphasis Week, January 24-27; Negro History Week, February 7-13; Brotherhood Week, February 21-28, and Arbor Day, February 13.

Tips On Fashions

By VICKI STEWART

1960 — A new year bringing new things and experiences for all of us with variations of last year's styles in the news. Leather and suede boots fur-lined and fur-trimmed are popular this winter.

The most common colors being black and grey, these boots are warm enough to be worn in the snow and attractive enough to wear with your Sunday best. Pointed toes on flats and heels will be seen again this year (dark brown and greens seem to be selling a great deal).

The "lace-up" effect on high heels is an added attraction which will appeal to you female readers sooner or later. Tinted hose are out in front leading the sales in stockings and they do enhance an outfit when chosen wisely. Now there are colors to go with everything from dungaree blue to capucci blue. Hose for evening wear are flecked with gold for added glamour but they cost like gold and don't last any longer than the regular stockings.

Young ladies took to the pleated skirts quite readily, therefore we'll see more of them this season in printed fabrics as well as the familiar solid colors. Overblouses in the fashionable paisley print will be worn with the pleated skirt as well as with the standard straight one.

Speaking of standards, the shirt dress and the man tailored shirt are back again. Blazers featured without collars are on the market with small brass buttons usually worn with blouses having extra large collars. Charcoal grey, navy blue, and black will be the most popular colors for these.

Bright colors such as orange and red add to the outfits of young ladies also when combined with dull ones. The American co-ed will stick to her guns and continue to wear the usual crew neck sweater and wool skirt for casual affairs and class.

Jeweled chokers in a dazzling variety of stones and designs lead the jewelry parade for evening wear (these aren't for the girl with a short neck). These are very attractive when worn with evening gowns or V-necked frocks. Even with a V-necked silk shirt the pearl choker looks well.

Higher hairstyles are the fad now showing off the neckline. Deep sides waves and French twists ornamented by jeweled chop-sticks and combs are being adopted by many of us and this of course means that a great many of you will be letting your hair grow to longer lengths.

Winter means that colder weather is ahead. This calls for extra attention to your skin-facial and other. If you're bothered by dry, flaking skin, try applying a little cold cream before facing Mother Nature and Jack Frost. Hand lotion and gloves are a must as always and shouldn't be neglected. A few extra moments of beauty care can mean so much in later years and the time to start taking care of your skin is now!

Never apply new make-up over old and notice sooner than you would imagine how quickly those blemishes and pimples disappear. It's a good idea to cleanse your face before applying new make-up and if water dries your skin try using cold cream to remove that powder and lipstick for a change.

Just because your feet and hands are usually covered during the winter months is no reason for you to neglect giving yourself a pedicure and a manicure regularly. With a little practice you'll soon become expert at giving them and once started, this ritual won't be forgotten. You'll appreciate it when you start wearing sandals again and even more so when your date reaches for your hand in the movie.

More to come in the next issue on the latest in dress wear for '60. Until then . . . Have a happy!!!

Group Features Carol Fantasy By Rockwood

The A&T College Choir featured "The Carol Fantasy," by Norman Rockwood in its annual Christmas Carol Concert on Sunday evening, December 20.

The fifty-voice group, directed by Mr. Howard T. Pearsall, chairman of the Music Department, sang "The Carol Fantasy" as its final number in the concert. Other numbers in the program were "Deck the Hall," "We Three Kings," "Away in a Manger," "Once Long Ago" and "O, Tannenbaum."

The College Choir was well received for its Rendition of a group of Christmas songs by the Negro composer which included: "The Joys of Mary" and "New Born," arranged by John Work, and "Oh, Po' Little Jesus," by Willis James.

Rounding out the program were carols of foreign derivation, "The Holly and the Ivy," "Le Miracle de Saint Nicholas" and "Christmas Bells."

Among the leading soloists were Ruby Coston, Warsaw, Soprano; Nora Williams, Shawboro, Mezzo-Soprano; Rodney Davis, Woodbury, N. J., Tenor; and Richard Smith Miami, Florida, Baritone.

Reverend Cleo McCoy, director of religious activities, delivered the Christmas message.

Miss E. Bernadine Booker was piano accompanist and Everette Thomas was at the organ.

The audience joined the choir in singing two carols, "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night."

ROTC Making Plans For Annual Spring Banquet

MORRISON RESIDENTS HAVE PARTY

Morrison Hall closed out the year by giving a pre-Christmas party to its residents before they departed for the holidays. Their "Secret Sister" techniques worked quite efficiently as it has in years past.

This was carried out by drawing names. The names were kept in secrecy by each person until the time for the exchange of gifts. All along, each person presented her secret sister with little gifts signed "Your Secret Sister."

When the time arrived for the exchanging of presents the Secret Sisters were finally revealed. At the time of present exchanging, refreshments were served along with the singing of Christmas Carols.

Army ROTC Team Edges Hampton In Rifle Match

A&T Army ROTC Rifle team defeated the Hampton Institute ROTC rifle team by a narrow margin of seventeen points.

A&T scored 1255 out of a possible 1500 points while Hampton scored 1238 out of the possible 1500. High scorer for the match was cadet Master Sergeant Alonzo Blount of the Aggie team, scoring 268 out of 300. Second place was held by Hamlette of Hampton with a score of 260.

Hampton used seven firers against A&T's five. However, the match was scored by taking the five top scorers from the teams, totaling them to determine the winner. A&T was at a slight disadvantage having only five firers to choose from, but did manage to edge the Hampton club.

KAPPAS TO HONOR SUPERLATIVE FROSH

Over in Greekland, the Kappas are looking forward to a very successful year and they hope their activities will prove to be outstanding. On tap for the month of February is the Kappa Alpha Psi's annual, "Top 25 Freshman" Scholarship Social and Awards Program. From the looks of things, George Manning had an enjoyable Christmas. He was a delegate to the 49th grand conclave in Philadelphia which was held for Kappamen December 27-30. Meeting and talking with Kappas from coast to coast will help to incorporate many of the ideas and knowledge gained.

In Alphaland, the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity has entered the gates of the New Year by planning to make it a Year of achievement and success with the entire Student body in mind.

The Alphas plan to relocate their bulletin board from its present location of Crosby Hall to a spot near the exit of the dining hall. This is to be done so that there will be a place to post all notices and information in a position where all students will have a better chance to see them.

The bulletin board has been at the Crosby Hall location for some time, but not affording students an easy chance to read it. The Alphas are lending their services to students in keeping with their motto: "First of all Servants of all, we shall transcend all."

This is just the beginning of things to come in our world of organizations. This year has already shown lots of inspiration and drive on the part of these groups and each organization would like to wish each other a happy New Year as well as to the entire Aggie family.

ROTC Cadet Battle Group Reorganizes

Each year at this time the ROTC Battle Group is reorganized to give capable cadets a chance to prove their leadership ability.

Along with the process goes the necessary promotion of personnel. Cadet Major Molten Smith was promoted to Cadet Lt. Col. Cadet Captains Matthew Minnicks and George Waters to Cadet Majors, and Cadet 2nd Lt. Leroy Williams and Robert Warwick to Cadet 1st Lt. Williams and Warwick took over the commander slots of "C" and "B" Companies, respectively.

Lt. Warwick was formally a platoon leader in "B" company during the fall quarter, and because of his aggressiveness and leadership ability over this period was chosen to be that organization's new commander.

Warwick is a member of the Scabbard and Blade Society, Cadet Officers Club, the Championship Aggies Baseball Team, and is the youngest officer in the ROTC advanced senior class. His Cadet adviser, Capt. Harold Lanier spoke highly of him, stating that "Warwick is a very capable cadet, and under his leadership Company B will continue to be tops in the battle group."

Warwick's performance in summer camp led to his being awarded the "Distinguished Military Student Citation."

The Big Awakening

After playing two very close games the weekend before and coming out barely victorious the A&T College Aggies went back on the court (the home court) to meet the Trojans of Virginia State College, Monday night.

Now no one was playing the Trojans cheap. But very few people, if any, thought that they were strong enough to defeat the Aggies — not in Charles Moore Gymnasium. But the Trojans did stop the Aggie attack and staged one of their own.

BLACK MONDAY

The stage had been set for the big kill. But who would deliver? Not Elizabeth City. No, they didn't stand a chance. Union? Well everyone thought that if it could be done Union would be the team that would deliver. But the seven man squad just didn't have it. They put up a good fight, mind you. Hampton? Out of the question, we thought. But ole Hampton really shook us up, not enough to win, but they really shook us up. Smith? "Now you're talking," said many; and they almost knew what they were talking about. Smith drove up with about half of its student body ready to celebrate their great conquest. They just barely missed out.

"Well, I suppose it'll have to be T.C.," some were saying after Smith's failure. Even NCC was mentioned, WOW! But no one thought that it would be the Trojans of Virginia State College and that's exactly who it was. One thing that most of the local basketball set — almost 100% — foresaw, was a loss on the home court this year.

Early in February of 1957 the Eagles of North Carolina College defeated the Aggies in Moore Gym. That was 28 home games ago. Only seniors remember that loss. Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors witnessed the very first loss that the Aggies have sustained at home in their entire college careers. This makes it very easy to understand why hearts were so heavy Monday night.

WEeping WILLOWS

The entire school and its interested environment felt the blow. The team was hurt and I mean hurt badly. It showed all over them. The little girls were crying, and I mean crying out. The radio stations, T.V. stations, and Western Union couldn't believe it. Even the Virginia State cheerers, and there were a few there, didn't realize their feat. But all of the tears, heavy hearts, and unawareness didn't change the story. The Aggies had lost.

What Happened to them? Well, I'll just explain it this way — Virginia State scored 65 points and A&T scored 61 points.

Now if you have any knowledge of basketball you'll know why we lost. But for the few of you that don't and seek help in this column I'll go deeper into it. We didn't score as many points as they did, or to put it another way, they scored more points than we did.

The season is still young. The Aggies have 13 games remaining to be played; and I believe when it's all over, the Aggies will be on top. You just can't keep a good team down.

Aggies In Series Of Tight Squeakes — Bow To Virginia Trojans In Upset Ending Streak

The first weekend following the holidays has seen one major development in the CIAA, A&T, at least temporarily, has been brought back to earth following two seasons in the clouds.

The powerful Aggies, with every team on its schedule pointing for an upset, rolled up four decisive victories before Christmas and ran its streak to eight in a row by winning the next four; but look how they won them.

WIN HOLIDAY FESTIVAL

It all started in the Winston-Salem Holiday Festival, which they finally won, by coming from behind in the final seconds to edge Johnson C. Smith 75-72. The next night was little easier but close most of the way in the 64-59 win over the T. C. Rams.

They made it five cliff-hangers in a row by squeezing past Hampton 75-73 with five seconds to go in the contest. Smith was beaten again the following night 65-61, but this one wasn't in the bag before Al Attles took a length-of-the-court pass for a lay-up before the final buzzer. Finally the pressure was let off with the blowing of a seven point half-time lead and bowing to Virginia State's Trojans by the same 65-61 score in the last 31 seconds. All except the first two were played at Moore Gymnasium.

The play in all the contests ranged from the mediocre to downright brilliance and caused many an ulcer to ache before they were finished.

ATTLES, GRAY STANDOUTS

Al Attles, the Aggies great play making guard, has easily been the standout and favorite of the crowd this season, and the leading scorer as well. Big Herb Gray has been the only other really consistent regular. The big boy has been rebounding and scoring well. Ducky Edwards, the little good field no hit guy, has finally gotten the crowd on his side with his fine defensive play. The best defender on the squad, he has really come up with some gems.

DUCKY SPARKLES

Ducky prolonged the Aggies' streak against Hampton by making a brilliant save on a two-on-one fast break with only 15 seconds left in the game and the score deadlocked at 71-71. With the Aggies pressing, he stole the ball three times in the last two minutes in the backcourt against the Trojans and passed off for easy shots that might have brought victory, but the lid was on the basket that night and the shots refused to drop.

COTTON OFF FORM

Joe Cotton, supposedly the Aggies top gun, is in the midst of a real slump and has only on occasion flashed the form that caused the Associated Press to name him to the little All-America squad last season. He got only two points in the Hampton encounter, and has been in double figures only five times with mid-season approaching. It is doubtful that the Aggies can come through this year without Cotton's playing a stellar role. There doesn't seem to be too much difference in four or five of the top teams, though the Aggies have the personnel to defend their cherished diadem. If Cotton will move back into the pivot and show the dash and fire he displayed the three previous seasons, the Aggies might go at least as far as last season.

HOWELL AND HARRISON MISSED

This team isn't nearly as good as the last two editions because of the loss of Joe Howell, who was perhaps the best outside shot in collegiate basketball the past two seasons barring none, and Charles Harrison, the peerless rebounder. The Aggies' outside shooting has been a little below par recently.

Still they have the potential and could get a hot streak going and be well on the way by tournament time. Harrison's replacement, Hank Marshall, the highly touted sophomore hook shooter, seems to have forsaken that weapon for a jump shot and consequently isn't scoring as well as he can.

COTTON KEY MAN

He and Cotton can push the Aggies back into those clouds if they hit their strides and relieve the pressure of some of the Aggie ulcer-suffering fans.
