278 MAKE FALL QUARTER HONOR ROLLS

Two seniors and one freshman, out of a total of 278 students listed on the fall quarter honor rolls, achieved perfect scores.

Walter T. Johnson, Jr., president of the Student Council and a senior engineering physics major; Betty Witherspoon, a senior nursing major; and Anthony A. Dudley, a freshman business administration major, all made 4.00 averages.

Of the 278, honor students, 53 made scores of 3.50 or above, with 43 in collegiate courses and 10 in the Technical Institute. Two hundred and twenty-five had scores ranging from 3.00 to 3.49.

A further breakdown revealed that the senior and freshman classes both placed 19 on the "A" honor roll. Sophomores were second with a total of 11; and juniors were third with four.

Seniors and freshmen also led the "B" honor roll with 77 and 53 respectively. Juniors were third with 50; and sophomores, fourth with 45.

The School of Engineering was represented by 18 on the "A" honor roll, the School of Agriculture by 13, and the Technical Institute by 10, the School of Education and General Studies by 9, and the School of Nursing by 3.

On the "B" honor roll, were 73 from the School of Engineering, 54 from Education and General Studies, 38 from Agriculture, 32 from the Technical Institute, and 28 from Nursing.

Chemistry majors led the "A" honor roll with a total of six. Electrical Engineering majors were second with five; and business education majors third, with four.

Following are both the "A" and the "B" honor rolls:

Dr. W. Archie Blount Announces Evening Classes Progressing Well

Dr. W. Archie Blount, director of evening classes and professor of adult education, has indicated that the evening classes are progressing well.

In a recent interview, he stated that every possible effort is being made to make students feel that they are a part of the college family.

Officers elected from evening classes include: Airman James E. Jones, Kernesville, president; Mr. A. P. Hicks, County Agent, Rocky Mount, Virginia, vice president; Mrs. Christine Wilson, a legal-firm secretary, Winston-Salem, secretary; Mr. Belwin Jessup, Western Electric employee, Greensboro, program chairman; and Mrs. Marie Morris, Greensboro, social chairman.

According to Dr. Blount the evening class students do not have a student government, but he is hoping that they will eventually obtain representation in the regular student government of day students.

He also added that there are several students attending the evening sessions who are enrolled in self improvement courses. Among these are a dentist, a lawyer, and a county agricultural agent. Many students who are enrolled in such courses may have several degrees, but they desire to improve themselves.

Evening classes as emphasized by Dr. Blount, are centered around two central objectives. They are to provide these individuals who are unable to attend college on a full-time basis a chance to earn a college degree and to improve their educational background.

Sixty-one students are enrolled in the evening classes. They are enrolled in such courses as business English, French, geography, history, health, education, mathematics, music, tailoring and brickmasonry. All of these courses will eventually lead toward a degree or a certificate.

Most of the students are from Greensboro. A few, however, travel a distance of eighty or ninety miles twice per week in order to attend classes.

Further information concerning the evening classes can be obtained from Dr. W. Archie Blount, Director of Evening Classes P. O. Box N-23, A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C.

Rev. Rooks Leads Religious Week Observance

"One of the basic problems of modern man is that of finding an identity for self and ultimate reality," stated Reverend C. Shelby Rooks as he presented the initial sermon in the Religious Emphasis series.

Reverend Rooks is associate director of The Fund for Theological Education, Inc. in Princeton, New Jersey. Before appointment to the present position, he served as pastor of the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church in Orangeburg, New York.

Two Problems Faced
"There are two basic problems that the church today is faced with, stated Reverend Rooks: That of helping man find an answer to his loneliness and increasing the recognition that the church is one big Christian Community.

The speaker emphasized the fact that outside of the church nothing...

Attention Foreign Students

The United States Government requires every person who is not a citizen of the United States to report his address to the Government each January. Special cards for doing this are to be obtained at the Greensboro Post Office, filled in and returned there. The Post Office will then forward all of these cards to Washington, D. C.

This must be done BEFORE January 31. Report at Room 109, Greensboro Post Office.

— News Briefs —

Dr. Margaret E. Sewell, visiting professor of English at Bennett College, will be guest speaker at the assembly Tuesday, January 31, in Harrison Auditorium.

Dr. Gardner Calvin Taylor, pastor of Concord Baptist Church of Christ, Brooklyn, New York will speak at the 22nd Annual Dinner Meeting at the Hayes-Taylor Memorial Y.M.C.A. on January 27, 1961 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Sylvester Broderick, a native of Sierra Leone in West Africa, spoke at the opening meeting of the 22nd annual Institute of Religion at The United Church in Raleigh.

Dr. Broderick told the audience that Africa wants "true friendship"

Inaugural Ceremonies To Be Held March 18 For College President

Dr. Samuel D. Proctor Is A&T's Fifth President In 71 Years

By Tommy C. Gaddie

Dr. Samuel Dewitt Proctor, president of A&T College, will be inaugurated as president, March 18. He succeeded Dr. Warmoth T.

Gibbs who retired as President of the College at the end of the 1959-1960 school year.

Dr. Proctor, a native of Norfolk Va., came to this institution from Virginia Union University where he had been President since 1955.

Graduate of Va. Union

A 1942 graduate of Virginia Union, he did graduate work at Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa. the University of Pennsylvania, Yale University, and Boston University, where he received his doctoral degree.

In 1958, Dr. Proctor toured Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, and the Baltic States for the Baptist World Alliance. He also participated in the study of foreign missions for the American Baptist convention in Europe, the Near East, India, and in Burma during 1953.

Fifth President

The 39 year old president is the fifth president of A&T College. He succeeded educators such as Dr. John O. Crosby, Dr. James B. Dudley, Dr. Ferdinand D. Bluford, and Dr. Warmoth T. Gibbs, all former presidents of A&T College.

The president is married to the former Miss Bessie L. Tate of Fredericksburg, Va. They have two sons.

Inaugural Events

The series of inaugural events will begin Sunday, March 12 and end Saturday, March 18.

To kick off the series of events will be John M. Ellison, Chancellor of Virginia Union University. Dr. Ellison will be speaker for the regular Sunday vesper services March 12.

Other Events

Other events during the week will include a concert by the A&T College Choir Monday, March 13, at 7:30 p.m.

A faculty symposium, "The Land-Grant College," will be given in Carver Hall at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday night.

Bulletin

At an emergency meeting of the Board of Trustees, Board Chairman Robert H. Frazier announced that Mr. Harvey R. Alexander will succeed Mr. E. Ray Hodgin as business manager of the college.

Mr. Frazier also announced that Mr. Vance Gray, personnel director, has been appointed administrative assistant to the President.

Only Two Seventy-Eight . . .!

When averages for the fall quarter had been computed, at least 63 students here were sent letters of congratulations by their dean. A copy of each honoree's letter was also sent to his parent or guardian.

STUDENTS CONGRATULATED

An additional 215 honor students received verbal congratulations for their achievement.

No figures have been released, however, concerning the number of letters sent to students who failed or to students who made poor but passing grades.

At the beginning of the school year, 461 students were on probation. At that time, attention was called to the seriousness of the scholastic situation.

PLEA TO PREXY

Many probably remember only the last line of the editorial — "Please, Dr. Proctor, I Don't Want To Go."

With the winter quarter half over, it seems appropriate once again to call attention to the need for more serious attention to scholarship.

THE REGISTER congratulates all students who achieved honors — three-fourths of the campus leaders, the entire junior class in the School of Nursing, and the others.

DIFFERENCE IS EFFORT

It offers encouragement to those who missed the honor roll by only a slight margin. The difference may really be the amount of effort you put forth.

To others, it repeats the advice given by the Registrar: "... stop wasting time, put more time on school work, study a little harder, and make better grades."

CHECK FIELD

"It may be that you have chosen the wrong field of study for your talents and abilities. If this may be the case, please report to the Guidance Office in the Hodgkin Building for advisement and counseling on choosing a program of study."

Put 22 On Display . . .!

An A&T College product that is doing a great job in professional basketball is Alvin Attles. Al, who was the speedy playmaker for the Aggie cagers, has been hailed by sportscasters and sports writers as one of the sensational rookies of the year.

In an editorial written in the November 4th edition of THE REGISTER, it was suggested that nothing would be more fitting than to retire Number 22 and to put Al's entire uniform in the trophy case.

That Number 22 hasn't been seen on the court is an indication that Al's uniform hasn't been pulled from the trunk. That then raises these questions: When will the uniform be put on display? Is this gesture being withheld for a formal ceremony?

Whatever the reason may be, let all A&T see number 22 take that long deserved rest in the lobby of Moore Gym.

The Neglected Ones . . .

A total of fourteen foreign students remained on the campus during the Christmas holidays. They remained with the expectation that before long, they would be placed with families; but the expectation proved only to be a group of happy thoughts. What became of these plans nobody knows.

Many of the foreign students stated that no preparations were made for them to eat even though they thought their meal books covered this period. To them, eating at local restaurants was a costly matter.

During the past Christmas holidays many of us experienced the deep feeling of Christmas — happy songs, gay laughter, cheerfulness, and that sense of peace. But, with our foreign students, Christmas was none of these.

Because of the thoughtfulness of Mr. Allison Gordon, campus mailman, mail was delivered to the foreigners throughout the holiday period. James Riddick and Major Harold L. Lanier were others who contributed joy to an otherwise gloomy Christmas for our foreign students.

If we encountered such an experience, wouldn't we feel much neglected?

Every school feels honored when it can count within its enrollment, students who are foreign. It is known that they add to the cultural life of our campus.

With another holidays approaching, let us find ways of making our foreign students share the same joys that we shall experience.

The Difference Is Effort

New Venture In Higher Education

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a review of an article by Loren Pope, "A New Venture in Education" which appeared in the December, 1960 edition of the NEA JOURNAL. The review was written by LaVerne Davis under the direction of Dr. Marie Rivers, professor of education.

As a general routine of most students at different colleges, it has been found that they are not preparing themselves to challenge their superiors in their future vocation. They are merely preparing themselves to conform to the old ways and customs of their superiors.

There is one college, however, that should be given praise for venturing into this higher level of education — Michigan State University Oakland, located in Rochester, Michigan.

MSUO is designed and dedicated to produce students who will question and criticize the laxity found in society; consequently, this venture in education is labeled revolutionary. Its curriculum is called a reversal of present-day educational trends.

MSUO proposes to produce men and women with broad understandings and high principles. With the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson who gave a 1600-acre estate and $2 million toward the developing of this new institution, MSUO's new president, Dr. John A. Hannah, took a new approach to the founding of this university.

In 1957, Dr. Hannah, formerly a professor at Michigan State University, Lansing, named a committee of fifty community leaders to shape a philosophy for this new university with full emphasis on intellectual achievement.

This committee found an urgent need for a liberal arts college. It felt that students should be trained with know-how and have as their chief objective a study-forward rather than a looking forward to earning a living.

Dr. Hannah organized a sub-committee of twenty well-known leaders. This group proposed outlines for what are now MSUO's four programs: Liberal Arts, Teacher Education, Business Administration, and the Engineering Science.

Panelists for liberal arts said that liberal arts should be the heart of the college and that it should have full permission to add courses if needed. Panelists for business education questioned the procedure of requiring undergraduates to take business administration. Engineering panelists said that rather than spend time teaching transitory courses in engineering, fundamental courses such as mathematics and geometry should be taught.

In laying the foundation for Michigan State University Oakland, it was felt that character building should be emphasized. Hence the MSUO student will get a liberal arts education and will take only four basic courses and a few electives.

The 535 freshmen who constituted the student body for 1959 and 1960 took a sequence in the Development of Western Institutions and Social Ideas, courses in which they will read with understanding men such as Aristotle, Locke, St. Thomas Aquinas, and Plato. Each student will take courses in literature, writing, fine arts, science, and rhetoric. Sophomore students will take a year's sequence in the fine arts and laboratory science courses.

Junior students must take a full year's sequence in history and phil-

Fashions

By CATHERINE HINSON

Term: Culottes — a new conception in styling for insouciance.

In the December 16 edition of the REGISTER there was a fashion article concerning the incomparable culottes. After having read the article, a young man approached this reporter and asked, "What are culottes? I have looked in several references and failed to find it?"

CULOTTES EXPLAINED

Culottes are nothing more than a twelve pleated petit skirt with a seam in the center indicating that the attire can be worn for bike riding, golfing, ice skating, and basketball games. It's a more relaxed costume than the ordinary skirt that is worn.

However, the attire is usually worn with bermuda socks or bobby socks. Stockings aren't considered a sports feature toward this costume. To appear fashionable, wear this attire in several colors and fabrics.

Some suggestions to the young ladies who prize in compromising quality and elegance: invite on campus the new look in the fashion world. Just perfect for attending classes and sport events — very relaxing.

To lunch in the cafeteria, wear a pair of stunning cherry-red flannel culottes with a white bulky sweater. You would surely be admired by everyone.

MORE STYLES SUGGESTED

Capture the eyes of your classmates as you give your report. Display the tailored three piece navy wool flannel culotte suit, topped off with a pink French cuffed blouse. To have a double outfit, wear the navy blue culottes with one of your favorite sweaters.

Leaving for the library to gather material for your term paper? Wear a pair of black wool culottes; express in elegance a gold wool sweater with collar and sleeves trimmed in black.

Don't let your clothes overpower you. People should remember you—not your clothes.

Campus Pulse

Editor of THE REGISTER:

In your January edition of THE REGISTER, I noticed that there was quite a bit about a certain section number 1. In your editorial, you took one stand. In a letter to the editor, another student took a different stand. I must say, however, that in my opinion you were quite correct. We should all make ourselves a committee of one to form a section number 1.

Why should we wait until the athletes begin cheering to cheer for our team? Is this the school spirit leadership committee?

I feel that it is time for all of us to begin showing our own school spirit. It is not necessary for us to be led by someone else. We should all have enough feeling for our team to exhibit our feelings.

One must admit that section number 1 did add great spirit to our games, but what about the remainder of the 2,100 students who pride themselves as Aggies? Are they too cute to cheer, or are they too busy doing other things?

CORNELL MARTIN

Council Corner

By WILHELMINA E. HARRISON

Beautifying the campus has become an immediate objective of the Student Government. Letters have been written to Mr. Marvin Graeber, superintendent of buildings and grounds, requesting that benches and trash receptacles be placed in appropriate places throughout the campus.

The land in the rear of the new cafeteria was also a subject for discussion. Prexy Walter Johnson is to check with the buildings and grounds department on the possibility of getting the area built up and having benches placed there, making the landscape into a choice gathering spot for students as the warm weather approaches.

Juanita Tatum and Dorothy Swann have set February 10th as the tentative date for the grand Sweetheart's Ball.

The council also voted money from the treasury for the financing of the intramural program presently in progress. This will enable the group to have separate equipment from the physical education department.

Junior and senior class presidents are trying to make headway in planning for a Junior-Senior Prom. At present their greatest problem is getting members of their respective classes to attend class meetings so actual plans can be drawn up.

Congratulations to the political leaders on campus who have also proved themselves leaders scholastically by obtaining places of distinction on the honor roll. Included are Walter Johnson, George Gant, Earnest E. Sherrod, and Jerome Baker.

As Religious Emphasis Week came to a close, organizations were rather busy arranging discussions, panel groups, and dormitory programs. Now that the week is over, clubs are concentrating on their new projects and plans.

Many of their plans are now being developed with the accent being on a better year for 1961. Organizations are campaigning for increased membership as the new year swings into being. Both students and faculty members are accepting membership.

GAVE BANQUET

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority recently had an informal banquet to welcome the Fall Quarter probates into the fold. The Basileus of Alpha Phi Chapter, Wilhelmina Harrison, extended the welcome to new members.

Mrs. Lucille Piggot, Basileus of the Greensboro graduate Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, was guest of Alpha Phi.

In addition to the welcome to the neophytes, the banquet served as an after-Christmas party.

PRESENTS PROGRAM

The Zeta Phi Beta Sorority recently sponsored a chapel program with Dr. J. A. Tarpley, principal of Dudley High School, as the main speaker. With his speech centered around civil rights, he said, "If students want to be leaders, they can't very well be outstanding if they don't prepare themselves."

In conjunction with their Founder's Week, the Zetas presented a display in the library of the needlecraft which the members have chosen as one of their projects.

FIFTEEN PLEDGEES

The sorority is proud to welcome its 15 new pledgees into the Achronian club. Cornelia Merrick is president of the Achronians with Shirley Strickland as vice president. Other members include Betty Barr, Alfreda Brown, Doris Canada, Jo Ann Carmen, Elaine Crawley, Katie Headen, Susie Hall, Minnie Hodge, Dorothy Johnson, Glenda Mitchiner, Philistine Nesmith, Nancy Shaw, and Eloise Wright.

INITIATES PROJECT

One of the plans the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority is initiating concerns one of the five point projects, a national sorority project. Their project is the third of the five points, community service.

Their project will involve working with off-campus YWCA, working in the community, setting up displays, and helping in high school career day.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Two members of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity attended the 18th National Convention in Philadelphia, December 27-30. Julius T. Randall represented the undergraduate chapter with James R. Chestnut of the graduate chapter.

The conference was attended by 820 members and alumni assembled from 37 states to observe the fraternity's 35th anniversary.

One of the speakers, Honorable J. Caleb Boggs, the Governor of Delaware, challenged the delegates to participate in increased service to America. In another speech, Dean Glen T. Nygreen, Kent State University of Ohio, warned the delegates to remain mobile in order to meet the challenge of the increasing population and its ramifications on the college campus.

FILL TAX RETURNS

A money making project underway for the United Business Association is filling out income tax returns. The president, Joe Dudley, is urging any persons desiring to have their income tax filled to phone BR 4-9023 for further details concerning this service.

The club is still in the process of trying to make this business association an affiliate of the neighboring colleges. In order to make this organization an outstanding one, all business majors are asked to become members.

PLANS TRIP

Plans are now underway for the Geographical Society to take a trip to New York during the Easter holidays. Although the arrangements are in the skeletal stage, it is the wish of the society that persons desiring to go will pay their money early in order to be assured of going.

In their last meeting, Mrs. Jacqueline Williams spoke to the group concerning her trip to Indonesia. Her first-hand experience which she related to the group brought out the many things they had been reading in the text. Customs, school systems, and the way the Indonesians people dressed were topics discussed.

TO ENTERTAIN

Teloca, the nurses' organization, plans to entertain nursing clubs similar to theirs. These nurses will be representing schools of nursing found in hospitals and colleges. As one of their money raising projects of the year, the nurses presented a movie entitled "World in his Arms." This movie was presented Friday night, January 22, in Harrison Auditorium.

The junior class of the school of nursing can boast that all its members made the Fall Quarter honor roll. Another nursing student, Betty Witherspoon, a senior, made a 4.00 average for the fall quarter. This was probably a record for seniors in the eight year history of the School of Nursing.

PANEL GROUP

One of the more stimulating programs now underway is being pioneered by the Charm and Culture Club. Its members will present a panel. The topic for the discussion will be "The Conduct of Students at A&T College."

SELECT GROUP

Individuals participating in the panel will be selected on the basis of being well acquainted with the chosen topic. The discussion will be presented in the Harrison Auditorium for the benefit of the whole Aggie family.

The organization is urging all young ladies on campus to join in order to spread poise and grace among the coeds.

TEAM HOT

One of the red hot teams in intramural sports is that belonging to the YMCA. At the writing of

Journalism Class Tours Campus Greenhouse

By DAVID JOHNSON, JR.

The James Reid Greenhouse, located on North Campus across from Carver Hall, is one of the most beautiful and most interesting places on this campus.

This building was completed in nineteen fifty-three. It includes a headhouse and five thousand square feet of growing space. The headhouse includes a heating unit and storage space for supplies and equipment. In the growing area, plants and laboratory space are provided for the divisions of agronomy, botany, and horticulture.

On a recent tour of the greenhouse, the journalism class gathered information pertaining to the plants and services that the greenhouse renders to the college community.

Mr. Mansel P. McCleave, manager of the greenhouse, showed the group the many different types of plants and flowers. Among these were tomato plants, cactus plants, roses, carnations, and orchids.

One of the most interesting things was the process used to color flowers. Mr. McCleave stated, "We can make a flower the color we want it to be." This process involves chemicals that are placed in the soils in order to obtain the desired color. However, Mr. McCleave stressed the importance of soil testing, if one is to obtain the best results from this process.

Several services that the greenhouse renders to the college community were pointed out by Mr. McCleave. Among these services were the services rendered to individuals bringing plants to be rejuvenated, and purchasing of plants and flowers for certain occasions.

"The greenhouse is a hospital for plants; therefore we invite students to come over and learn more about the plants and services," said the director.

this column, it had racked up ten straight wins and it aims for more. As far as the record shows, the "Y" team is the only unbeaten one in the city of Greensboro.

On the business side of the "Y", its members were very successful in making Religious Emphasis Week an outstanding event. Their future plans call for the annual Men's Day Services which will be held later in the quarter.

PURPOSE OF JOINING

The Baptist Student Union is going all out to help solve the problems of students through Christianity. This organization offers many opportunities such as listening to discussions on present day problems and how they can be solved through christianity, participating in socials which will give you the opportunity to meet new friends, purchasing B.S.U. sweaters, attending conventions and conferences, traveling to foreign countries free with a $300 reward upon their return to the United States, and participating in Baptist Student Union festival and picnic.

The president is going all out for a good new year's campaign for larger membership. There are no dues for affiliation with the BSU; only regular attendance is required to join.

From that, you can see that our organizations are going all out to boost their membership and make this year's plans bigger and better.

KAMPUS BEAT

by DEE

DEE'S DELIGHT: If you ever notice, the cheerleaders that were seen in the coliseum for the last few days can never find their way to games in Moore Gymnasium . . . Hats off to the Junior nursing students. . . Everyone in the class made the Fall Quarter Honor Roll. . . As I thumbed through my secret file, I found some very interesting facts. . . On campus, there are 34 Browns . . . 31 Johnsons and 2 Johnstons . . . 31 Smiths. . . That means a Smith for each Johnson. . . 14 Harrises. . . 35 Joneses . . . 41 Williams and 4 Williamsons. . . With 35 Joneses and 41 Williams, it's a case of the Joneses keeping up with the Williams.

AT LAUREL AND LINDSAY STREETS: A coed walking along eating an ice cream cone in subzero weather. . . The door of the new canteen looks like an advertising firm just setting up business. . . Do you think a bulletin board would help? . . . Those hamburgers that used to sell for 19 cents in old canteen, are now selling for 21 cents in the new one. . . Reason: They used to use two slices of bread; but now they have acquired hamburger rolls. That Don't-Walk-on-Grass sign with wire around the grass near the library recently had little meaning when some ambitious Aggie pulled the wire away. . . After hearing about the fellow who gained 30 pounds, a young man recently informed me that he lost 30 pounds last quarter. . . I wonder what happened? . . . Maybe someone crossed signals. . . .

BROKEN LAWS: Now I wonder where I could have been when they passed that law? I mean the one requiring clock punchers to leave the dormitories at seven o'clock during the week. Oh, it all comes back to me now. Must have been while I was away attending the convention of the Society opposed to couples sitting in the balcony during Saturday night movies.

IT DIDN'T HAPPEN YET: A mail box near Scott and Cooper Halls. . . Tray stands in the dining halls. . . Al Attles' uniform in the gym trophy case.

BEST SPOKEN WORDS: In one of his speeches during Religious Emphasis Week, Reverend C. Shelby Rooks used this anecdote: A minister was giving a boy a quiz and one of the questions asked was to spell the word prophet (as found in the Bible). The boy immediately sounded off by saying PRO-FIT!!

RECENT MARRIAGES: 1st Lt. Norman A. McDaniel of the U. S. Air Force to Jean Breeze on Saturday, January 21, 1961. He is a 1958 graduate and received his commission through the Air Force ROTC program.

FAMILIAR FACES: Former Aggies seen on campus recently who are now in the U.S. Army were Billy Smith and Sam Still both stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. Charles Go-lightly was also spotted as he took his leave. Chuck is stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Other Aggies seen were Wanda Gunnings, a teacher in Goldsboro, and George Manning, former campus photog. Manning is now with The Stanback Studio in Durham, N. C.

THINGS I REMEMBER: The fellow who used to spend several hours talking to his girl from a Cooper Hall phone. . . The phone company broke that deal by taking out all the phones except one. . . .

THE MARBLE FAUN
NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE
reviewed by
DAVID JOHNSON, JR.

THE MARBLE FAUN, which is a novel by Nathaniel Hawthorne, provides its readers with the opportunity for acquiring much knowledge about Italy. It is a story, whose central theme is centered around the mysterious life of one Count Donatello of Monte Beni, an estate in Tuseany, Italy.

Nathaniel Hawthorne has been classified as being one of the greatest writers during the nineteenth century. He is known for the greatest romance of this period, THE SCARLET LETTER. When he wrote THE MARBLE FAUN, he may be regarded as having been enjoying the fresh delights of fame and the most generous sense of creative power.

Seemingly, Hawthorne, in this particular novel, attempted to give his characters life-like qualities by the use of description. This reviewer believes that he tried to give his readers the opportunity to draw a mental picture of the central characters' physical and mental features. This belief has been substantiated by the author's description of Miriam, who loved Donatello.

He described her as an individual arrayed in queenly robes, and beaming with the singular beauty that had always distinguished her from other persons. In another instance, the butler in the novel related that there were certain intellectual weaknesses in the Monte Beni ancestry.

It appears that Hawthorne depended upon speculation throughout the novel. He left the reader to wonder about the fate of Donatello, THE MARBLE FAUN.

The other central characters — Hilda, Kenyon, and Miriam — were located among marble shrines of Rome, but they could not draw a conclusion as to the possible fate of Donatello. However, Hilda and Kenyon decided to return to America and get married. Miriam presented Hilda with a bracelet containing seven legendary stones as a bridal gift.

The reviewer is of the opinion that Hawthorne did not write this novel as simply as he did THE SCARLET LETTER or THE HOUSE OF SEVEN GABLES. Evidently, he had in mind that only those individuals who had studied psychology would read his book. It is true that he wrote in the colonial style, but in a style that requires one to be really a psychologist to appreciate this particular novel.

In order for one to understand the plot, he must first try to understand the characters. The characters, Donatello being intellectually weak but physically strong, possessed the ability to recognize his problems; however, he could not solve them.

The character, Kenyon desired to win the love of Hilda and to solve Donatello's problems. Donatello desired to win Miriam's love and to maintain the Monte Beni's traditional belief that the men of this ancestry were equal to or perhaps better than other men.

The story's climax can not be readily detected. It can be regarded as the part in the story where Hilda and Kenyon married and returned to their native land while the fate of Miriam and Donatello was left untold.

This reviewer could not really draw a conclusion as to the author's philosophy, but it seemingly varied from the Puritan philosophy of predestination. There are indications that Hawthorne was pessimistic. In other instances, traces of mysticism can be depicted in the novel.

Hank Marshall Sets Pace In Free Throws

Hank Marshall, A&T's leading scorer, is setting a torrid pace in the category of foul shooting. The 6'4" southpaw has scored 35 of 39 free-throw attempts for a lofty free-throw percentage of .897. Marshall's best single game performance was against Hampton when he scored 10 for 10.

Next in free-throw percentage is William Harley who has scored 27 of 34 attempts for a .794 percentage. Herb Gray has scored 35 of 51 attempts for .686 percentage.

However, Marshall's field goal percentage took a sharp dip. The jump shot artist dropped to a .486 shooting percentage of 73 field goals (highest on team) of 150 attempts. It was the first time Marshall had fallen below the .500 mark since his freshman year.

Hugh Evans sports the best field goal percentage of .542 with 39 baskets in 72 attempts.

Gray's rebounding average took a big drop because of a slump and an injury. The 6'6" center, who at one time was heading the NAIA in rebounding, has dropped all the way to an average of 20 rebounds per game. He has 180 rebounds to his credit in nine games.

Marshall has 101 rebounds for an average of 9.2. James Jackson, freshman sensation, has snatched 41 rebounds to hike his average per game to 5.1 while Wylie Briggs has 54 rebounds for a 5.4 average.

Marshall still leads the team in scoring with 181 points for 16.45 scoring average. Gray has 127 points for an average of 14.11 per game. Walt Holtzclaw's average dropped to 10.50 with 105 point output in 10 games.

A&T, as a team, has scored 369 of 787 field goal attempts for a .468 percentage and 200 of 294 free-throw attempts for a .688 percentage. Aggie cagers have cleared the boards with 584 rebounds and a game average of 53.1 and have scored 938 points for an average of 85.27 points per game.

A&T Bows To Union; Wins Over Va. State

VICTIM OF DISASTROUS ATTACK

The Virginia Union University Panthers caught fire immediately following the opening tip-off by hitting their first six shots from the floor and continued the torrid scoring pace throughout the game to trounce the A&T Aggies 114-90.

The aggressive Union quintet, with jumping Jackie Jackson doing everything from goal tending to trapping shots in mid air, completely out hustled and outran the Aggies with its fast break and swift offensive pattern.

After trailing by 15 points in the first half, the Aggies cut the lead to 7 points before Panther playmaker Eddie Simmons put on a combination floor show and scoring act to increase the Union lead to 45-32. Union led 52-45 at halftime.

A&T pulled within six points of Union in the second half but couldn't get any closer. The scoring of Warren Bruce Spraggins, who is currently leading the CIAA in scoring, kept the Aggies from tying the score.

Spraggins was high point man with 30 points on 10 field goals and 10 of 15 free throws. Simmons, who did everything with the ball but eat it, scored 28 point on 13 field goals, and two free throws. Jackson had 22 points with seven field goals and eight free throws.

Hugh Evans, who was the bright spot in the Aggie lineup with 22 points on 10 field goals and two foul shots, led the scoring for A&T. Hank Marshall had 14 points, and freshman sensation James Jackson had 10.

Union hit 44 of 77 shots from the floor for a 57.1 shooting percentage. The Panthers hit 23 of 37 shots from the floor in the second half for a 52.1% shooting percentage.

Aggie star center Herb Gray injured his ankle in the game. He had only seven points and seven rebounds when he left the game.

COMES FROM BEHIND TO NIP STATE

A tip-in by Henry Marshall with 2:15 remaining in the game put A&T ahead for good at 62-61, and the neat offensive pattern of the Aggies drew fouls from Virginia State in the waning seconds of the game to enable the North Carolinians to defeat the Trojans 68-63.

Hugh Evans stepped up to the free-throw line with a one and one situation and A&T leading by one point that resulted from Marshall's tip-in. Evans sank both free throws to give A&T a little more cushion.

The Aggies led all the way the first ten minutes of the first half, but from midway the first half right down to the final seconds it was a see-saw battle.

Freshman sensation James Jackson led the Aggies in scoring with 17 points, hitting 7 of 10 shots from the floor. He kept A&T in the game in the second half when he scored 15 points. On one torrid scoring spree, Jackson hit five consecutive jump shots. Jackson was also the leading rebounder with 15 rebounds.

Marshall and Evans had 16 points each.

Harold Deane of Va. State was the game's leading scorer with 18 points while his teammate William Lawson scored 17 points.

Both teams shot poorly from the floor. A&T scored only 27 of 63 field goal attempts for a 42.8% shooting percentage. State hit 24 of 74 attempts for 32.4% shooting percentage.

Aggies Trounce NCC Eagles

A rally late in the first half broke the ball game wide open as the A&T Aggies proved to be too much for the hapless North Carolina College Eagles by walloping them 89-67 in a CIAA game played in the Greensboro Coliseum.

It was a fairly close game most of the first half with A&T maintaining a six to eight point lead. However, with 5:30 remaining in the first half A&T rallied behind the scoring of Henry Marshall and Wylie Briggs as the Aggies scored 13 straight points before NCC called time out. A&T continued the pace and led 48-27 at halftime.

From that point on the Aggies had little to worry about as they continued to outclass the Eagles. With the hard driving layups of Hank Marshall, Wylie Briggs and Frank Turner and the accurate jump shooting of James Jackson, the Aggies kept the Eagles' defense baffled.

The Aggies used a fast break several times and as a result got numerous three point plays. Other times they worked from a set of offensive patterns in which they concentrated on shooting the close-in shots.

Marshall was top scorer of the evening with 25 points, 18 of which he scored in the first half. He hit 10 of 15 shots from the floor and he was 5-5 on the free throw line. Briggs was next with 20 points on 9 of 17 shots and two of three foul shots. Jackson pumped in 10 points while Turner had 8.

Marshall was top rebounder with 16. Briggs had 13 rebounds and Jackson had 10.

A&T hit 36 of 79 shots for 45.6% accuracy.

With three defeats riding on their backs at the midway point of the basketball season, the A&T Aggies will have to count on their freshman talent and the school spirit of the student body for a possible chance to cop the CIAA visitation (regular season) championship.

Although the Aggies have tasted defeat three times, they are still in the thick of the torrid race for the league championship. However, the local quintet cannot stand to take another loss if it's going to overtake the pace setting Winston-Salem Rams who have lost only one game.

Freshmen Cagers Shape Up

With a fine corps of freshmen such as Wylie Briggs, James Jackson, Maurice McHartley, William Harley, and Albert Blanks finally fitting into Coach Cal Irvin's plans, the Aggie cagers are beginning to form into a well-organized squad with a varied offensive attack and a ball-hawking defense.

Briggs has shown great potential as a front court man with his hard driving layups and rebounding ability. The 6' 4" forward from Boys High of Booklyn, N. Y. can also shoot a jump shot from the outside which makes him even more dangerous.

Jackson has come along strong in recent games. The "Jumping Jack" has been a strong man on the backboards. He stepped right into the lineup and filled in for the injured Herb Gray with a commendable job. The 6' 5" Charleston, S. C. lad can rebound like an experienced pro and can score underneath or on the outside with his deadly-accurate jump shot.

McHartley, a product of the Central High School of Detroit, Mich., is definitely one of the best ball-handlers in the conference. His backcourt speed makes him a hard man to stop on his drive in maneuvers.

Harley is one of the most accurate outside shooters ever to don an Aggie uniform. The 6' 5" product of Lucy Laney High of Augusta, Ga., who favors his deadly jump shot is the dream answer to a one defense. He can score from any spot on the court.

With his speed, ball handling ability, and basketball "know how," Blanks should develop into a fine playmaker. The 5' 11" guard who hails from Buffalo, N. Y. has many fine qualities that make him the ideal man to set up the Aggie offensive plays and keep the ball moving.

To sum it up, each freshman has some distinctive talent to contribute to the team. When you take each one's talent and mold it together into one unit, you have one of the best squads that can be hoped for during a rebuilding year.

School Spirit Lagging

When I entered A&T my freshman year, one of the first things I noticed was the Aggie school spirit. That school year (1958-59) A&T won championships in football, basketball, and baseball. The school spirit then was so strong that you could feel it.

Seemingly though, since A&T has won so many athletic contests it has become expected that A&T should win every athletic event. Now, when A&T loses a contest, members of the student body begin to criticize the players and the coach. Many even go so far as to bet against their own school.

Criticizing and betting against the team is not helping our cause at all.
