"The Cream of College News"

Education Week To Be Observed At College

The 42nd Annual American Education Week will be observed here November 11 through 17.

Mr. J. Niel Armstrong recently stated that the basic purpose of the week is to make every American aware of the important role education plays in a democracy. Mr. Armstrong, who is chairman of the special planning committee, also said that observance seeks to help Americans to realize that good schools and colleges are their responsibility.

A highlight of the observance on this campus will be a speech by Dr. Willa Player, president of Bennett College, Tuesday, November 13, in Harrison Auditorium.

Other activities planned for Tuesday include an address by Mr. J. Earl Whitley at an educational luncheon. Mr. Whitley is supervisor of Guilford County Schools. Educational movies will also be shown in 101 Hodgkin Hall.

On Wednesday, the student NEA will present a symposium in 101 Hodgkin Hall. Scheduled for 7:30 P.M., the symposium will center on the theme "Significant Educational Issues of Our Times." Members of the symposium are Betty Barr, Shirley Bell, Andrew Willis, Hortense Hart, and James Evans.

Educational exhibits will be on display in Bluford Library and Hodgkin Hall throughout the week.

In addition to Mr. Armstrong, other members of the planning committee are Dr. Alfonso E. Gore, Mrs. Anne Graves, Dr. Dorothy Prince, and Mr. Harold Mazyck.

An outgrowth of World War I, the weekly observance was initiated by the National Education Association and the American Legion. Every November, the week which includes Veterans Day is set aside as American Education Week.

Today, the observance has four sponsors, the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the United States Office of Education.

"Education Meets the Challenge of Change" has been selected as this year's theme. Keyed to this general theme, the activities of the

College Will Be Testing Center For Nationwide Examination

A&T College has been designated as a testing center for the 1963 nationwide administration of the National Teacher Examinations.

Applications for the examinations and bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing representative test questions are available. These may be secured from the Department of Education and Psychology.

Dr. Charles L. Hayes, chairman of the department, advises that prospective teachers planning to take the tests should secure an application blank and a bulletin of information as promptly as possible.

The examinations are administered annually by the Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey. The designation of A&T as a testing center gives prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests.

College seniors who are preparing to teach are eligible to take the tests. Teachers who are applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations along with their other credentials are also eligible.

At the one-day testing session, a candidate may take the Common Examinations; these include tests in professional information, general culture, English expression, and nonverbal reasoning. In addition, each candidate may take one

College Forms Scholarship Foundation

Action has been initiated for the launching of a scholarship fund campaign for the A&T College Endowment Fund. Kick-off for the campaign has been set for January, 1963.

The Endowment Fund will provide funds for scholarships for qualified students who are financially unable to attend college.

In a recent interview, Dr. L. C. Dowdy said, "The only way to raise the scholarship at this college is to bring more topnotch students here. The Endowment Fund would serve that purpose."

"The 1957 Legislature of North Carolina approved the establishment of an Endowment Fund for The Agricultural and Technical College and the College received a charter to this effect," said Dr. Dowdy.

A revision of the Bylaws of the board of Trustees in 1962 authorized the establishment of a permanent endowment fund. This fund was to provide money for scholarships and for other emergencies.

Dr. Dowdy's resolution to activate the Endowment Fund was presented and approved at a special meeting of the Trustees May 18, 1962.

In his report, President Dowdy stated that bright students are becoming increasingly interested in the many opportunities afforded by a college education. This is especially true in the critical areas of science, mathematics, nursing, engineering, and technology, he told the board.

The Fund is to be administered by a five-member board of trustees. One of these members will be the chairman of the College Board of Trustees who will also serve as chairman of the board for the Fund. The present acting president will be the second member. Additional members may or may not be selected from the A&T College Board.

The director of the Foundation will be selected from the present staff at the College.

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy Publishes Work On Teaching

News recently reached the college that Dr. L. C. Dowdy has published an article in "Improving College and University Teaching," an international quarterly journal published by the University of Oregon.

The article entitled, "Seven Principles Underlying Academic Planning," appeared in the summer edition of the publication.

In the article Dr. Dowdy emphasized the fact that faculty training, intelligence, interest, and manpower are sources of ideas for academic planning.

The article pointed out that the seven principles essential to academic planning are the following:

- I Academic planning should be preceded by a clear definition of philosophy, objectives, and future directions of the institutions.
- II Faculty participation in every phase of the planning process should be realized.
- III There should be close scrutinization of the existing academic program.
- IV Academic planning should be long range in its scope.
- V Future societal demands, needs, and changes in the economy should be considered.
- VI A plan should be made to provide released time for those involved in planning.
- VII To be successful, academic planning should take place in a permissive climate which would cause those who participate to feel comfortable in the expression of their ideas.

Dr. Dowdy told reporters that he is scheduled to write two more articles for the same publication.

The author is a graduate of Allen University where he received his A.B. degree. He received his M.A. degree from Indiana State College, and holds the Litt.D. degree from Allen University.

Dr. Arthur Jackson Is Elected To High Office At Conference

Dr. Arthur F. Jackson, director of Guidance, was named vice president of the North Carolina College Conference November 2.

The Forty-Second Annual Meeting of the Conference, held at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh November 1 and 2, marked the first time that representatives from predominantly Negro colleges have met as official members of the body.

Last year, when both the North Carolina Negro College Conference and the North Carolina College Conference met in the same town, some members of the Negro Conference attended the North Carolina College Conference as visitors. This year the merger of the two groups was officially effected.

The dominant purpose of the College Conference is "to further the cause of higher education in North Carolina."

"To promote effectively this desire and desirable, 'furtherance,' a variety of activities is necessary. At the heart of it must be the continuing effort, through discussion and voluntary agreement, to determine the proper aims, programs, and procedures that will insure our people the inestimable service available only through higher education, to identify and attest the rendering of such service by member institutions, and to discountenance, as may seem advisable, whatever would restrict or invalidate this service."

Along this line, the Conference sets up certain minimum requirements for accreditation by, and memberships in, the Conference.

"In determining the accreditation of a college, emphasis will be placed on the prevailing scholastic tone of the institution, the requirements for admission and for degrees. . . the discretion in granting honorary degrees, the character of the curriculum, the efficiency of its instructional program, and its record in stimulating and preparing students to do satisfactory work in recognized graduate and professional schools."

Other officers elected at the Conference were Dr. J. Earl Danieley of Elon College, president, and Dr. J. P. Freeman of the State Department of Public Instruction, secretary-treasurer.

Kappa Epsilon Is Established At A & T College

Kappa Epsilon Society, a new organization for students in home economics, has been established on this campus.

Designed for interested and qualified home economics students, Kappa Epsilon was officially established October 30. The goals of the society are the following:

1. To stimulate interest in the field of home economics;
2. To promote family relationship between majors in any field of home economics;
3. To promote and encourage high attainment in scholarship; and
4. To expose students to current trends in home economics.

The organization's initial program included a welcome address by Miss Myrtle Smith, the group's faculty adviser. A discussion of the goals of the organization by Ivy Woolecock, Ruby Gale, Mary Roberts, and Minnie Ruffin was also presented. In addition, the group accepted a constitution which had been drawn up by the executive committee.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy also spoke briefly for the occasion.

Officers of Kappa Epsilon are Arthur M. Rice, president; Florence McKeaten, vice president; Minnie Ruffin, secretary; Patricia Lawson, assistant secretary; and Robert Patterson, treasurer. Members of the executive committee are Arthur M. Rice, Ruby Gayle, Mary Roberts, Elizabeth Sanders, Patricia Farr, and Minnie Ruffin.

The Society was established under the supervision of Mrs. Clara V. Evans, chairman of the Home Economics Department, and other members of the staff.

Air Force Unit Will Interview Students Nov. 14

Major Willis Hubert, professor of Air Science, recently announced that an Air Force Recruiting Service team will visit A&T College Wednesday, November 14.

The recruiting team will be visiting the college for the purpose of interviewing seniors who are not members of the Air Force or Army ROTC and to provide them with information pertaining to the availability of Air Force Officer Commissions through the Officer Training School program.

Under this program, male and female seniors may qualify for careers in a wide variety of fields. Graduate of the three-month officer training course will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the United States Air Force.

Persons interested in careers in the Air Force and opportunities to earn postgraduate degrees while in the service of their country should contact the recruiting team which will be in the Cooper Hall Lounge, Wednesday, November 14.

The Ghost Now Lurks...

In just short of three weeks, the old ghost of final exams will be hovering over the campus. This haunted time will be the season for much frantic and haphazard working and thinking among those individuals who spent a whole quarter being somebody special. It will be a time of PONY feeding, examination snitching, last minute copying, midnight oil and any number of things that we can think of that unthinking students have come to believe will be of help to them.

We can see the wise students who have already prepared for their final examinations. In fact, they started as soon as the quarter began. They started the first day that school began. These students will not be outside of the classroom buildings at 2:00 a.m. the morning before the examinations begin trying to locate discarded examination stencils. They will not miss their night's sleep because they must stay up and try to decide upon a new method of taking their PONY (or HORSE, if you prefer) into class without the instructor noticing.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy recently made the statement that he hopes the students this year will show some progress in their academic prowess. We wonder how many will find that they have made any progress. We wonder how many will be able to walk into the examination room on exam day confident that they can pass the examination set for them. We wonder if the students of this institution have accepted the challenge of Academic Excellence.

We are of the opinion, that if an individual starts now to study to try to catch up on some of the things that he might have missed for one reason or another, that when the time comes for final exams, he will be in much better shape than if he waits until a couple of days before final exams to start trying to learn all of the things that he missed during the quarter.

We Too Are Guilty...

Throughout the nation, there is presently a cry for racial equality, for the elimination of racial segregation. In most cases these are from the Negroes of America.

Looking at the Negro, we are forced to admit that we too are segregationists. We have things that we call "ours." We have newspapers, restaurants, movies, hotels, and other institutions; and, whether we admit it or not, we do not welcome members of the other races. We are somewhat hesitant about accepting members of other races as just other persons. We are suspicious of a member of another race, who comes into one of "our" restaurants to seek food. We confine our newspapers to news only about the Negro community. Many of "our" hotels say no to members of the other races. Yet, we protest the same action when we come face to face with it.

We do not condone this action, for we feel that integration works both ways. We feel that if integration is to be successful, we must not only fight for the opportunity or right to obtain service at any place that we wish, but we must also turn the tables and learn to accept the peoples of other races in our institutions. We must be willing to integrate when the opportunity presents itself.

We are reminded of several occasions in our brief history when there have been mixed racial groups and the members of our race tied themselves into some small group with the excuse "I like to be with my own kind", yet not defining what their kind is.

We contend that integration is a two way street; and in order for it to be successful on either side, we must also be willing to go a step in the right direction. We must be willing to integrate our own institutions. We must be willing to accept the challenge of being a part of an integrated group.

How To Fail In Easy Lessons

By CHARLES H. TURNER, II

Books upon Books have been written about the art of passing courses in college. But did you not know that there is another course (not in the college curriculum of course.)?

Yes I've made quite a study during the last two years and have drawn up the basic methods of thinking, which I now impart to you.

First of all, upon arriving at A&T college you must learn how to stay up late every night and drink lots of coffee—good, strong, and black. Then you must learn how to play "bid whist" and "pinochle". Learn how to hate books, all kinds of books, except comic books and anything that Perry Mason or Ben Casey may do. You are doing fine now and on your way toward a successful failure.

Never climb those steps leading to the library; it may be detrimental to your failure. But of course, if a girl asks you to meet her, that is different. Attend all good movies, especially on week nights. Learn to use all facilities of the gym, television room, and canteen. A&T should offer a degree in canteenology. Well, by now you can see it is no easy task, huh? But you're doing excellently. Learn to sleep in class? Don't take notes.

Don't buy a textbook, paper, or pen. Get two young ladies to help occupy your spare time.

Follow these easy rules for one whole quarter and you will be surprised to see your grades when you receive them, and you will top the list of those who will be asked not to return to college until you have learned the purpose of college.

The decision, to fail or not to fail, is yours to make.

Uncomfortable Seat Cushion

By ANNINIAS SMITH

Who would be so rude as to sit on the President's hat? Well one student was.

It all happened the Sunday of the Alumni Worship Service which was the climax of the homecoming activities.

Being late, this student, whom we shall call Jones, rushed into Harrison Auditorium to a front row and sat down without noticing that something was in the seat. After being seated for a short time, however, Jones noticed that the seat was getting uncomfortable.

Upon checking, he discovered a brown hat with a narrow brim. Jones looked back to see who was sitting behind him and his eyes fell on the face of none other than Dr. L. C. Dowdy, president of A&T College. Jones was astonished.

Looking around to see if anyone were looking at him, Jones carefully pulled the hat from behind him, straightened it out, and held it until the service was over.

At the end of the service, Jones sheepishly turned around, presented the hat to Dr. Dowdy, and apologized for having sat on it.

Dr. Dowdy smiled and replied, "Well, it doesn't look like it."

Fashions

By PHENIE DYE

Now that winter and the holiday season are approaching, let's dress up with the latest fashions. Our regular activities are still with us, but there will be extra added activities such as parties and dinners.

For the regular activities the added styles include the hand-knit, straight sleeveless sweater. A string of hard crocheted scallops adorns the bateau neckline, and cropped hemline. The sweater of hand-loomed wool makes a perfect pair-up with pants or a skirt. It comes in red, blue, or black.

The V-neck cardigan that can be worn with a turtle-neck sweater or a print ascot hits the style in brown, orange, and many other colors. The blue diamond knit is a knockout cardigan with beautifully defined stitches. This sweater has an extra bounce and depth of color. It appears in cornflower white, azalea, or black.

The bulky sweater comes in a shaker wool jacket with a magnified wing collar. The wool plaid still holds a great touch in fashion. It comes as a lively combination of black and white. This dazzling color scheme is shapely care-free wool. Only the color thirsty-natural-wool gives black its jet-deep intensity and white its snap and clarity. The skirt is black-wrap leather-bound with a leather-bound cardigan neck overblouse that has wool knit sleeves.

To look your best at the party, the winter colors bring a bright sizzle. For that evening of razzle-dazzle, take home one of the scintillating firefly dresses. They shoot glittering silver sparks twinkling in the midnight blue and catch the gleams of light to give off diamond sparkles. Like real gold it gleams also. The sizzle appears above the waistline and the delicious contrast of softly flowing chiffon or shaped satin skirt appears below the waistline.

To top the holiday activities the Darsant organza comes with holiday dazzles that sparks up the festive scene. Wear the strapless taffeta with feathery sprays of sequins and beads embroidered on the waist, hugging bodice and bell skirt.

Colors for the coming holidays are white, festive pink, party aqua, frost pink, and minute blue.

A Prayer For Peace

Submitted by The Archonians

Dear Father, whom we cannot see,
We know that thou art near:
with longing hearts we turn to thee,
And ask that thou wilt set us free
From war and hate and fear.

Dear Father, king of love and peace,
We know that thou art strong:
Make conflicts everywhere to cease,
Let mercy everywhere increase,
And kindness conquer wrong.

Dear Father, Lord of sea and land,
We know that thou art wise:
Oh, make the nations understand
That only by thy guiding hand
Can splendid peace arise.

— John Oxenham

They shall beat their swords into plowshares,
And their spears into pruninghooks: nation
Shall not lift up sword against nation,
Neither shall they learn war anymore.

— Isa. 2:4

Casting To Begin For Winter Production

The Richard B. Harrison Players will hold tryouts for the second production, "Our Town" on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, November 12, 13, and 14 at 7:00 in room 102, Hodgkin Hall.

This play is being directed by Professor John Marshall Stevenson, executive director of the Harrison Players. "Our Town" will utilize the talents of seventeen men and seven women, plus extras.

The play promises to provide its audience with a unique theater experience in that it will be performed on a completely bare stage. This is an innovation which is more demanding upon the actors' ability to interpret the respective roles. "Our Town," written by Thornton Wilder, won the 1939 Pulitzer Prize and promises to be one of the most outstanding productions ever staged by the Harrison Players.

The director invites all members of the Harrison Players and those interested in affiliating themselves to come to the tryouts.

In an effort to promote and enhance cultural appreciation of the arts, members of the Richard B. Harrison Players are sponsoring their second theater party on November 15. The group will journey to the Greensboro Civic Auditorium to see "Caravan."

Those students interested in attending the performance should submit their names to Mrs. Sandra Motz, associate director of the Harrison Players. Her office is in room 116, Hodgkin Hall.

Admissions for the show range from $2.00 to $5.00 dollars. The money must be paid by November 12. Transportation will be provided for those wishing to attend.

HIGH TEST, LOW TEST, NO TEST

Just the other night I was saying to the little woman, "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" (The little woman, incidentally, is not, as you might think, my wife. My wife is far from a little woman. She is, in fact, almost seven feet high and heavily muscled. She is a full-blooded Chiricahua Apache and holds the world's hammer-throw record. The little woman I referred to is someone we found crouching under the sofa when we moved into our apartment several years ago, and there she has remained ever since. She never speaks, except to make a kind of guttural clicking sound when she is hungry. Actually, she is not too much fun to have around, but with my wife away at track meets most of the time, at least it gives me somebody to talk to.)

But I digress. "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" I said the other night to the little woman, and then I said, "Yes, Max, I do think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized." (As I have explained, the little woman does not speak, so when we have conversations, I am forced to do both parts.)

Actually, she is not too much fun to have around

Get on the BRANDWAGON ... it's lots of fun!

To get back to tests—sure, they're important, but let's not allow them to get too important. There are, after all, many qualities and talents that simply can't be measured by quizzes. Is it right to penalize a gifted student whose gifts don't happen to be of the academic variety? Like, for instance, Gregor Sigafoos?

Gregor, a freshman at the New Hampshire College of Tanning and Belles Lettres, has never passed a single test; yet all who know him agree that he is studded with talent like a ham with cloves. He can, for example, sleep standing up. He can do a perfect imitation of a scarlet tanager. (I don't mean just do the bird calls; I mean he can fly South in the winter.) He can pick up B-B's with his toes. He can say "Toy boat" three times fast. He can build a rude telephone out of two empty Marlboro packs and 100 yards of butcher's twine. (Of all his impressive accomplishments, this last is the one Gregor likes to do best—not building the telephone, but emptying the Marlboro packs. Gregor doesn't just dump the Marlboros out of the pack. He smokes them one at a time—settling back, getting comfortable, savoring each tasty puff. As Gregor often says with a winsome smile, "By George, the makers of Marlboro took their time finding this fine flavor, this great filter, and by George, I'm going to take my time enjoying 'em!")

Well, sir, there you have Gregor Sigafoos—artist, humanist, philosopher, Marlboro smoker, and freshman since 1939. Will the world—so desperately in need of talent—ever benefit from Gregor's great gifts? Alas, no. He is in college to stay.

But even more tragic for mankind is the case of Anna Livia Plurabelle. Anna Livia, a classmate of Gregor's, had no talent, no gifts, no brains, no personality. All she had was a knack for taking tests. She would cram like crazy before a test, always get a perfect score, and then promptly forget everything she had learned. Naturally, she graduated with highest honors and degrees by the dozen, but the sad fact is that she left college no more educated, no more prepared to cope with the world, than when she entered. Today, a broken woman, she crouches under my sofa.

And speaking of tests, we makers of Marlboro put our cigarette through an impressive number before, we send it to the market. But ultimately, there is only one test that counts: Do YOU like it? We think you will.

Beside the sparkling waters of a freely running brook
A man is crying,
For he has had a great and rare vision
He has seen life,
And the image has made him thus

The black night has erupted into a thousand stars
Each carrying an image that is worth living a lifetime to see
He has seen the gold, the brown, and the mauve
Of autumn leaves, falling to paint the earth
And watched them live again
In trees, grass, and flowers

The music from the purest soul
Has touched his ears, and enfolded him in its arms
The stillness of the night
Has whispered to him of tomorrow,
Great rolling waves of the sea
Have shorn the cliffs of his senses
To lay bare the fragile lacework of love

The morning sun has shone brightly on his face
And has bounced silvery off the dew
Then rained thru the clouds — great white wonders lolling
Upon the sky
He has touched the desert sand and the ice mountains
Between men,
Oh, but he has seen more, much more
Death, filth, poverty, have ridden bare before him
Hate, envy, violence stood naked
Men killed by the thousands,
Children abandoned, nations starving,
Truths, half-truths, no-truths strewn everywhere
Hate, enmity, mistrust . . . a nightmare of sorrow
Gave face to these.

"How can there be death, when life is everywhere?
Filth, when all is beautiful?
Poverty when all are free?
How can there be hate when life is love?
Envy when all have life?
Violence when life is peace?"

Quest as he may, he heard silence . . .
"Where were my eyes that I did not see?
My ears that I did not hear?
My heart that I did not feel?
Where was my mind that I never thought . . ."

Quest as he may
The brook flows silently,

And a man is crying . . . crying . . . crying . . .

KAMPUS BEAT

By LEWIE

Lewie's Delight

In about three short weeks, an old ghost will be haunting all of the students at Aggie Land. . . It will be final exam time. Many rooms will take on a somewhat grocery store appearance; the merchandise will be mostly coffee though . . . The stables will be filled with hay . . . The Ponies must be well fed, you know . . . They will be forced to carry great weight throughout the three-day ordeal.

Corner of Lindsay And Laurel Streets: The other day I saw several students trying to cross at the famous intersection . . . It seemed that they didn't realize that they were supposed to cross between the white lines . . . They were crossing diagonally across the street which could very well jeopardize their chance for a long livelihood.

Broken Laws: Now I wonder where I could have been when they passed that law. I mean the one requiring fellows to wear coats and ties to the dances, but allowing young ladies to wear bobby socks . . . OH, it must have been while I was away at the convention opposed to young men "dressing up" to dance with young ladies in "work clothes".

Things We Could Use: A great number of our students on on the fall quarter Honor Roll . . . More members of the college family striving for academic excellence . . . Majors in journalism and printing. . . A few more parking spaces near the class room buildings around campus.

Things I Remember: When the results of Aggie Games were not on the front page of the Greensboro Daily News . . . When the decorum in the dormitories was not up to par with present conditions . . . When the student government was a governing body and not just an elite club. . . When A&T College was active in N S A . . . When the qualifications for making Who's Who was not just a 3.00 average.

The Winners

By GEORGE RALEIGH

For his poem, The Reign of Darkness, Randolph Jones won second prize in the recent writing contest sponsored by the English Department. Although the poem suffers from general weaknesses of language, and the stilted effect that rhyme usually produces, it does have a feeling of grandeur that is vaguely remindful of the epic poetry of Homer. Congratulations to Jones.

Django DeGree won first prize for a poem of his, A Passing Thought, that appeared in an earlier edition of The Literary Scene. Meanwhile, he has written another poem which he thinks is the best he has ever written. It was written he says further, on a day "when the whole span of life seemed clear to me."

DeGree has shown, by his previous poetry, how good his vision is, and here, in The Image, he continues to exhibit his best side.

"The Greatest Man Alive"

PLAY REVIEW

By GEORGE RALEIGH

The Greatest Man Alive ! !

By TONY WEBSTER

Aside from the usual boisterous conglomeration of animal life scattered in the audience, playgoers were treated to a thoroughly delightful evening on Wednesday, October 31, by the Harrison players.

Though there were a few flaws in the play and moments of hesitation by the performers, the highly amusing, and sometimes downright uproarious dialogue and fine acting fully diminished any misgivings by even the most exacting critic.

Briefly, the play concerns the attempted suicide by hanging, of a sly, but lovable old gentleman, played excellently by Herman Thomas, in order to gain recognition from a world he thinks has ignored him. He is interrupted in his attempt by his friend, Tom Hopkins ably and cleverly performed by Harvey Stone.

Continuing the interruption is a girl, Peggy Thomas, who comes to the door to offer old Mr. Benedict an opportunity to try samples of a breakfast food. What develops is the most refreshing comedy to tickle the funnybones of A&T audiences within the memory of this reviewer.

Our hats are off to the entire cast and its director, Mrs. Sandra Motz, for a most enjoyable evening. If following productions come up to the standards achieved in The Greatest Man Alive!!, the Harrison players and the accompanying audiences have a very promising year ahead of them.

The Reign Of Darkness

By RANDOLPH JONES

At twilight when the light is gone
she descends again to her earthly throne,
To reign once more over field and plain
Valley, mountain and lone terrain. While she grips
The world with her deathly hold, the owl's
Great wings unfold. He silently soars through her silken vil
And the wolf howls out his lonesome wail. The lesser beats sleep
And slumber, for unto her presence they dare not blunder.
The moon is her companion, the stars are her friends, the Ghosts and goblins of the dark are her dreaded fiends.
As she covers the earth with her raven-hued Cloak, hundreds die by tooth, claw, and dagger stroke. But Suddenly she is filled with fright, for she sees her ancient enemy revealing light. They clash in a battle, a battle to the Death, but soon she is forced to give in and let go and fall Defeated to her mightier foe. She has lost again the battle she Can never win — The eternal battle with the dawn, the battle she has never won.

LIEUTENANT JOHN MONTEFUSCO, HISTORY MAJOR, CLASS OF '61

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers' Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn't realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I'll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn't the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn't trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take my word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I've learned. And let's face it, where can anybody my age step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Look, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It'll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so."

Enrollment At The College Increases By Two Hundred

There has been a considerable increase in the enrollment here at A&T.

The total enrollment at A&T College has reached 2940 students this year. This is an increase of approximately 200 students over last year's total. The male students still outnumber the female students, but the ratio has been slightly reduced. It is now about 2 to 1.

Leading the departmental enrollment is the School of Education and General Studies. It has 1047 students. The School of Engineering is second with 952 students. It is surprising to note that there are 285 women enrolled in this department. The School of Agriculture, the Technical Institute and the School of Nursing are last. They have enrollments of 662, 178, and 91 students respectively.

The freshman class leads the student body in enrollment. It makes up about 1/4 of the total population with an enrollment of 915. The number of students decreases with the classification. There are 711 sophomores, 431 juniors, 412 seniors, 162 special students, and 309 graduate students.

The field of business has the most students with an enrollment of 361. The majority of them are concentrated in business administration and business education. There are only a few registered in the areas of secretarial science.

Engineering is next in enrollment with 316 students. The majority of these are seeking majors in electrical engineering. Architectural engineering and mechanical engineering constitute only about one half of the total enrollment in this department.

The other general departmental fields have somewhat smaller enrollments. Among others, biology has an enrollment of 259 and applied sociology an enrollment of 235.

A & T Rifle Team Places Second At FAMU

The A&T R.O.T.C. Varsity Rifle Team placed second in a three team match last weekend at Florida A&M University.

Harold Brown was the high scorer for the Aggie marksmen. Other teams shooting were from Florida A&M University and Tuskegee Institute.

With Brown scoring a total of 269 points, A&T placed second in the meet with 1310 points out of a possible 1500. Tuskegee, with a team score of 1354 points, placed first, and Florida A&M was last with a score of 1274.

The score represented a season's high for the team. In addition to Brown, other cadets firing and their scores included: George McCain, 267; Leslie Gay, 260; Charles Bates, 262; and Theodore Kennedy, 256. Other members making the trip were Anthony Robinson and Lawrence Spencer.

With most of its members inexperienced, the team presently has a record of one win and three losses. Its next match is Saturday, November 10, against the team from Virginia State College.

Florida A & M Turns Back Aggies By Decisive 38 To 6

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 3 — Undeclared Florida A&M shocked North Carolina A&T with three touchdowns in the second quarter and went on to route the Aggies 38-6 in an intersectional football game here today. Quarterback James Tullis completely dominated the Rattler's victory as he accounted for two A&M touchdowns personally, and also passed for three extra points.

The Aggies' only score came in the first quarter after A&T had marched 71 yards with the running of halfback Clifton Matthews sparking this drive. Matthews broke lose for 21 yards, bringing the ball to the eight-yard line. Three plays later, Quarterback Cornell Gordon tallied from eight yards out after he could not get a pass away.

Rain, which lasted the entire game, did not seem to bother the Rattler offense. A&M picked up 230 yards on the ground in the first half, but a fired-up Aggie defense held the Rattlers to only 70 yards in the second span.

Tullis, a 6-4, 204 pound senior, hit four of 10 passes for the day, and his exceptional play entered into every A&M score. Tullis set up the first Rattler score with a 20-yard pass to Austin Wise which enabled Robert Paremore to tally from six yards out to put Florida ahead to stay.

Paremore also did an outstanding job for the victorious A&M cause. He scored twice for the Rattlers, and was an offensive standout with his powerful running.

A strong A&M line held the Aggies to a meager 70 yards rushing. Tackles Alexander Gains and William Sinclair spearheaded the Rattlers defense which forced A&T to take to the air, netting only 88 yards in this department.

A&T now holds a 5-2 record for the season after today's loss. Undeclared Florida now sports a 6-0 mark.

Another disappointment for the few Aggie followers who braved the cold, wet weather was the injury of senior co-captain Richard Westmoreland. He was hurt late in the fourth quarter, and the extent of his leg injuries was not known.
