As American Education Week.

The 42nd Annual American Education Week is to be observed here November 11 through 17, 1962.

Mr. J. Niel Armstrong recently stated that the basic purpose of the week is to make every American aware of the importance of education.

Mr. Armstrong also stated that one of the special planning committees has been formed to help Americans to realize that good education is one of their responsibilities.

The theme of the observance on this campus will be a speech by Mr. W. H. Wilson, Superintendent of Guilford County Schools.

Mr. Wilson will speak Friday, November 16, in Harrison Auditorium.

Other activities planned for the observance include the assistance of Mr. J. Earl Whitley at an education lecture at 7:30 p.m. in Hodgen Hall.

The Tuesday's observance on World War I, toted by the National Education Association and the American Legion.

A:N outgrowth of World War I, the 1918-1919 influenza epidemic, was observed by the National Education Association.

Every November the week which begins on the Sunday before the Saturday in which November 11, American Education Week is observed.

Kappa Epsilon is Established At A&T College

Kappa Epsilon Society, a new organization for students in home economics, has been established at this institution.

Designed for interested and qualified students majoring in home economics, Kappa Epsilon was officially established October 12. The goals of the society are the following:

I. To advance the study of the home economics field.

II. To establish and maintain relationships between majors in this field of home economics.

III. To promote and encourage high attainment in scholarship.

IV. To encourage students to continue studies in home economics.

V. To advance the education of the institution as a whole.

The list of nominees was recently released by Dr. J. H. Robinson, chairman of the Home Economics Department.

The University of Pennsylvania, and Ramapo College have been invited to participate in the activities of the society.

The organization's initial program included a welcome address by Dr. J. H. Robinson.

The group is open to all students majoring in home economics.

Two more meetings will be held before the end of the semester.

At the one-day testing session, a candidate must take the Common Entrance Examination; these tests in general education, general cultural, English expression, and vocational reasoning. In addition, each candidate may take one or two of thirteen optional examinations in the field of education.

3 A&T Students Are Nominated For Grants

Sixteen students in the College of Education are being considered for the following grants:

I. A&T freshman scholarship.

II. A&T sophomore scholarship.

III. A&T junior scholarship.

The list of nominees was recently released by the Office of the Dean of Education.

Two more meetings will be held before the end of the semester.

The Ghost Now Lurks...

In just short of three weeks, the old ghost of final exams will be hovering over the campus. This haunted time will be the season for much frantic and haphazard working and thinking among those individuals who spend a whole quarter being somebody special. It will be a time of PONY feeding, examining, snitching, last minute copying, midnight oil and any number of things that we can think of that unthinking students have come to believe will be of help to them.

We can see the wise students who have already prepared for their final exams. In fact, they started as soon as the quarter began. They started the first day that school began. These students were not outside of the classroom buildings at 2:30 a.m. the morning before the examinations began trying to locate discarded examination stencils. These examinations begin trying to locate discarded examination stencils. The real secret of the examination is to find a fresh examination. It will be a time of PONY feeding, soon as the quarter began. They started the first day that school began. In fact, they started as soon as the quarter began. This will be a time of PONY feeding, soon as the quarter began. They started the first day that school began. In fact, they started as soon as the quarter began. This will be a time of PONY feeding, soon as the quarter began.

We are of the opinion, that if an individual starts now to study to try to catch up on some of the things that he missed, he will find that another, that when the time comes for final exams, he will be in much better shape than if he waited until a couple of days before final exams to start trying to learn all of the things that he missed during the quarter.

We Too Are Guilty...

Throughout the nation, there is presently a cry for racial equality. A cry for the elimination of racial segregation. In most cases these are from the Negroes of America. Looking at the Negroes, we are forced to admit that we are segregationists. We have things that we call "ours." We have newspapers, restaurants, movies, hotels, and other institutions; and, whether we admit it or not, we do not welcome members of the other races. We are somewhat hesitant about accepting members of other races as just other persons. We are suspicious of a member of another race, who comes into one of "our" restaurants to seek food. We confine our newspapers to news only about the Negro community. Many of "our" hotels say no to members of the other races. Yet, we protest the same action when we come face to face with it.

We do not condone this action, for we feel that integration works both ways. We feel that if integration is to be successful, we must not only fight for the opportunity or right to obtain services at any place that we wish, but we must also turn the tables and learn to accept the peoples of other races in our institutions. We must be willing to integrate when the opportunity presents itself.

We are reminded of several occasions in our brief history where there have been mixed racial groups and the members of our race tied themselves into some small group with the excuse "I like to be with my own kind," yet not defining what that means.

We contend that integration is a two way street; and in order for it to be successful on either side, we must also be willing to go a step in the right direction. We must be willing to integrate our own institutions. We must be willing to accept the challenge of being a part of an integrated group.

How To Fail In Easy Lessons

By CHARLES R. TURNER, II

Books upon Books have been written about the art of passing courses in college. But did you not know that there is another course (not in the college curriculum of course)?

Yes! I’ve made quite a study of the last two years and have drawn up the basic methods of thinking, which I now impart to you.

First of all, upon arriving at A&T college you must learn how to study up late every night and drink lots of coffee—good, strong, and black. Then you must learn how to play "bid whist" and "pinochle." Learn how to hate books, all kinds of books, except comic books and anything that Perry Mason or Ben Casey may do. You are doing fine now and on your way toward a successful failure.

Never alternates these steps leading to the library; it may be detrimental to your failure. But of course, if a girl asks you to meet her, that is different. Attend all good movies, especially on week nights. Learn to use all facilities of the gym, television room, and canteen. A&T should offer a degree in canteenology. Well, by now you can see it is no easy task. But you’re doing excellently. Learn to sleep in class! Don’t take notes.

Don’t buy a textbook, paper, or pen. Get two young ladies to help occupy your spare time.

Follow these easy rules for one whole quarter and you will be surprised to see your grades when you receive them, and you will top the list of those who will be asked not to return to college until you have learned the purpose of college.

The decision, to fail or not to fail, is yours to make.

Uncomfortable Seat Cushion

By ANNINIAS SMITH

Who would be so rude as to sit on the President’s hat? Well one student was. It all happened the Sunday of the Alumni Worship Service when it was the climax of the homecoming activities.

Being late, this student, whom we shall call Jones, rushed into Harrison Auditorium to a front row seat, though he noticed something was in the seat. After being seated for a short time, however, Jones noticed that the seat was getting uncomfortable.

Upon checking, he discovered a brown hat with a narrow brim. Jones looked back to see who it was, turned around and noticed that Jones was the face of none other than Dr. L. C. Dowdy, president of A&T College. Jones was astonished.

Looking around to see if anyone was looking at him, Jones carefully pulled the hat from behind, straightened it out, and held it until the service was over.

At the end of the services, Jones sheepishly turned around, presented the hat to Dr. Dowdy, and apologized for having sat on it.

Dr. Dowdy smiled and replied, "Well, it doesn’t look like it."
Audio-Visual Education Workshops Are Scheduled For Faculty Members

Audio-Visual Education workshops have been scheduled for members of the college faculty beginning Monday.

The Workshops will be conducted during night classes, and one workshop each week will be scheduled for the coming winter. The Workshops will be concerned with the utilization of projection, bulletin boards, charts, photos, etc. The first workshop has been set for Monday, November 12, in the conference room of the F. D. Bluford Library. Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of graduate materials.

The schedule for the workshops: November 12 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. Leroy Holmes, co-director of the workshops, and Mr. James McCoy are consultants for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

November 19 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

November 26 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

December 3 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

December 10 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

December 17 - Faculty members in audio-visual work, Mr. James McCoy is consultant for the workshop which will cover the utilization of course materials. The session will last from 10:30 to 1:30.

Audio-Visual Education Week

Audio-Visual Education Week is sponsored by the F. D. Bluford Library. Dr. Ralph L. Wooden, professor of Audio-visual Education, is coordinator of the workshops.

Casting To Begin For Winter Production

The Richard B. Harrison Players will hold tryouts for the second production, "Our Town" on November 12, 13, and 14 at 7:00 p.m. in the Dr. Robert Byrd Theatre. The play is being directed by Professor John Marshall Stevenson, executive director of the Harrison Players. "Our Town" will utilize the talents of seventeen men and seven women, plus extras.

The play promises to provide its audiences with a unique theater experience in that it will be performed on a completely bare stage. This is an innovation which is more demanding upon the actors' ability to interpret the respective roles. "Our Town," written by Thornton Wilder, won the 1938 Pulitzer Prize and promises to be one of the most outstanding productions ever staged by the Harrison Players.

The directors invite all members of the Harrison Players and those interested in affiliating themselves to come to the tryouts.

The play will be performed on Friday and Saturday, November 12 and 13, at 7:00 p.m. Each night two acts will be presented, one at 7:00 p.m. and a second at 10:00 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Mrs. Lacy Simmons; geography, Mr. J. A. Lee; history, Mr. M. F. Lynch; economics, Mr. E. D. W. Watson; Mr. T. C. Altmann, professor of Audio-visual Education, is coordinator of the workshops.

HIGH TEST, LOW TEST, NO TEST

But the other night I was saying to the little woman, "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" (The little woman, incidentally, is not, as you might think, my wife. My wife is far from a little woman. She is a tall, thin, almost scrawny-looking individual who gives the impression of being a year or two older than her actual age.) But I digress. "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" I said the other night. Most little women are, I think, of the opinion that the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized. (As I have explained, the little woman was not speaking, so when we have conversations, I am forced to do both parts.)

Gregor, a freshman at the New Hampshire College of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, has never passed a single test; yet all who know him agree that he is a studious, hard-working, intelligent, and talented individual. Furthermore, he is one of the most talented individuals to be of the academic variety. Like, for instance, Gregor Signs. (Author of "I Was a Teen-age Dwarf", "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis", etc.)

The Image

By DJANGO DEGREE

Beside the sparkling waters of a freely running brook
A man is crying,
For he has lost a great and rare vision.
He has seen life,
And the image has made him thus.

The black night has sprung to a thousand stars
Each carrying an image that is worth living a lifetime to see.
He has seen the brown, and the maw of autumn leaves, failing to paint the earth
A work of journalism and printing.

The music from the forest soul
Has touched his soul, and fulfilled him in its aims.
The stillness of the night
Has whispered to him of tomorrow,
Great rolling waves of the sea
Have shown him the skill of his ocean
To lay bare the fragile loveliness of love.

The morning sun has shone brightly on his face
And has basted silvery over the earth.
Thus rainwashed lies the dawn—great white violets telling
Upon the sky.
He has touched the desert sand and the ice mountains
Between men.
Oh, but he has seen more, much more.
Death, kind, poverty, have ridden bare before him
Men, envy, violence, mood attacks.

Dead killed by the thousands,
Children abandoned, nations starving,
Truths, half-truths, non-truths strewn everywhere
Hate, envy, mistrust—... a nightmare of sorrow
Gave face to these.

"How can there be death, when life is everywhere?
Must, when all is beautiful?
Poverty when all are free?
How can there be hate when life is love?
Evil when all have lived?
Severance when life is peace?"

Quest as he may, he heard silence
"Where were my eyes that I did not see?
My ears that I did not hear?
My heart that I did not feel?
Where was my mind that I never thought?

Quest as he may, the brook flows silently,
And a man is crying... crying... crying...

Hatred,-envy, mistrust .... a nightmare of sorrow

Great rolling waves of the sea

From the smallest of the students trying to cross at the famous intersection...

Upon the sky.

They were crossing diagonally across the street which could very well jeopardize their lives.

The Winners

By GEORGE RALEIGH

For his poem, The Reign of Darkness, Randolph Jones won second prize in the recent writing contest sponsored by the English Department. Although the poem suffers from general weaknesses of language and style that rhyme usually produces, it does have a feeling of grandeur that is vaguely reminiscent of the poetry of Homer. Congratulations to Jones.

Elitaire’s was first prize for a poem of his, A Passing Thought. Thomas Motz, poet and student, has won an earlier edition of The Literary Scene. Mr. Motz has a certain selectness which I think is the best he has ever written. It was written by him further a day when "...the whole span of life seemed clearer to me."

The moon is her companion, the stars are her friends, the Ghosts and goblins of the dark are her dreaded friends.

“If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers’ Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn’t realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I’ll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn’t the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn’t trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take your word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I’ve learned. And let’s face it, where can anybody get a college step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Lock, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It’ll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so.”
Enrollment At The College Increases By Two Hundred

There has been a considerable increase in the enrollment here at A&M. The total enrollment of A&M College has reached 2940 students this year. This is an increase of approximately 200 students over last year's total. The male students roll out twice as many female students, but the ratio has been slightly reduced. It is now about 2 to 1.

Leading the departmental enrollments is the School of Education and General Studies. It has 1047 students. The School of Engineering is second with 316 students. It is expected that this number will increase even more since 230 women enrolled in this department. The School of Agriculture, the Technical Institute, and the School of Nursing are last. They have enrollments of 622, 178, and 91 students respectively.

A-T Rifle Team Places Second At FAMU

The A-T R.O.T.C. Varsity Rifle Team scored second in a three team match last weekend at Florida A&M University. Harold Brown was the high scorer for the Aggie marksmen. Other teams shooting were from Florida A&M University and Tuskegee Institute.

With Brown scoring a total of 290 points, A-T placed second in the most with 1250 points out of a possible 1500. Tuskegee, with a team score of 1454 points, placed first, and Florida A&M was last with a score of 1219.

The score represented a season's high for the team. In addition to Brown, other cadets firing and their scores included: George McCall, 287; Leslie Gay, 287; Charles Bates, 282; and Theodore Kennedy, 281. Other members making the trip were Anthony Robinson and Lawrence Spencer.

With most of its members experienced, the team presently has a record of one win and three losses. Its next match is March 28.

Florida A & M Turns Back Aggies By Decisive 38 To 6

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 3

Unndefeated Florida A&M shocked North Carolina A&T with three touchdowns in the second quarter and went on to route the Aggies 84-6 in an intersectional football game here today. Quarterback James Tullis completely dominated the Rattler's victory as he accounted for two A&M touchdowns personally, and also passed for three extra points.

The Aggies' only score came in the first quarter after A&T had marched 71 yards with the running of halfback William Matthews marking this drive. Matthews broke loose for 22 yards, bringing the ball to the eight-yard line. Three plays later, Quarterback Donny Gordon fumbled from eight yards out after he could not get a pass away.

Rain, which lasted the entire game, did not seem to bother the Rattler offense. A&M picked up 230 yards on the ground in the first half, but a fired-up Aggie defense held the Rattlers to only 70 yards in the second span.

Tullis, a 6-4, 204-pound senior, hit four of 10 passes for the day, and his exceptional play entered into every A&M score. Tullis set up the first Rattler score with a 22-yard pass to Howard Ham who gave his team a 6-3 lead at the half.

In the second half, Tullis added two additional touchdowns as he hit four of 10 passes for 88 yards. The Aggies' only other score came in the second half when Harold Brown broke loose for 47 yards on an option play for a 12-6 lead.

Florida A&M is 6-0 and North Carolina A&T is 5-2.
