Dr. Willa B. Player Lists Four Demands Of Quality Education

Speaking at an assembly celebrating the 42nd observance of American Education Week, Dr. Willa B. Player yesterday listed the demands of educational quality.

"Whose responsibility is educational quality?" she asked. "It is yours. When we face the question of our responsibility for educational quality, we can no longer take everything for granted."

"To be mature enough to be different."

"Whether you agree or disagree, the responsibility now rests with you; and there are those who agree and accept the responsibility by their actions and behavior. Whether you agree or disagree, the responsibility is yours," she added.

Continuing, Dr. Player said, "This places certain demands on us. These are the enabling forces in our lives which will help us to meet the needs of our times."

These demands or enabling forces she listed as maturity, discipline, concern, and refinement.

Elaborating on each of these, Dr. Player advised, "We have to be mature enough to be different. The mature student, who senses the need for a broad background of information and an enthusiasm that exceeds itself as we become deeply involved in learning," she added, "to illustrate this in our personal behavior."

Student Council Launches Drive For Textbooks

As part of its overall program for the year, the Student Government Association of the A&T College launched a campaign last week to purchase textbooks for the college.

"When the college student asks, "What are these demands which will help us as we meet the responsibility for educational quality? This responsibility now rests with you; it is up to you to meet these demands and use them as a tool for your personal responsibility.""

Other persons on the program were Mr. J. N. Armstrong, and Rev. Cloe McCray. Music was provided by the College choir under the direction of Howard Pearson.

An additional activity was a dance which at Mr. J. N. Armstrong, supervisor of Guilford County Schools, was the guest speaker.

Dr. Player discussed the attributes of an effective teacher. An effective teacher has a philosophy that can be changed and that can be explained to lay people in terms that they can understand, said the speaker.

A Question Of Ethics.

Sunday morning, enroute to church, a member of the A&T College Student Body reported having stopped at Sid's Curb Market to make a small purchase before continuing his journey to church. According to the individual, the crowded conditions in the store warranted him to look on a shelf and knock one of them over. After accidentally knocking the article over, the student said that he was told by the owner of Sid's Curb Market that he would have to pay for the item. When he refused, he was then threatened with arrest.

This and several other incidents of a similar nature that have come to our attention, all coming from the same stripe of business that Sid's Curb Market is located in, cause us to raise certain questions that every student should search themselves and find answers for.

We wonder if the students of this college, who are the majority of our patrons, if for their own good, are they willing to be subjected to this type of indignity? Are we willing to be threatened with arrest over the accidental breakage of such articles as those that have been mentioned? If the value of the article involved in the above incident.

Are the students at this institution willing to spend their hard-earned money and that of their parents in an atmosphere where they have been handled to our attention, all are not welcome?

We do not feel that this type of situation is willing to be allowed by the students of this institution. It is our hope that this situation will be corrected in the near future.

Students themselves are capable of solving this problem, and we feel that it is the duty of every student at this institution to erase this monster within our midst.

Local Efforts In Education

As schools throughout the nation celebrate American Education Week, it seems appropriate that we examine briefly a few of the efforts made by our students to meet the challenge of change in education.

To begin with, the record-breaking attendance of approximately 100 A&T students at the initial meeting of a Student NEA on this campus marked a much-needed revival of interest in this organization.

Next, the A&T College Union Group could organize so quickly and present a symposium to Mrs. Anne C. Graves and Mr. J. Nielsen Armstrong, co-sponsors; Dr. Charles L. Hess, president of Franklin Society, and Mr. J. Nielsen Armstrong, co-sponsors; Dr. Charles L. Hess, president of Franklin Society, and Mr. J. Nielsen Armstrong, co-sponsors; Dr. Charles L. Leaping against the long, empty flat bed that was to become the Franklin Float for homecoming, Al Hayes, president of Phi Kappa Psi, called, "Let's hit those streets not until the big weekend. We won't leave until we win the theme award. This year we're doubling exams and plans for sweepstakes.

Bulldogs Stomp Trojans 32-8

The A&T Aggies played their final home game here last Saturday, November 14, 1962, with a 32-8 victory over the Virginia State Trojans. The Aggies had the balance of the game and scored the Trojans only T.D. of the day. The try for the extra point was good. State players scored two points as they blocked an Aggie punt in the end zone. The score was A&T 32, Virginia State 8.

GLOOM AT THE TOP

Oh, sure, you've been busy, what with going to classes, doing your homework, catching night crawlers, getting married—but must you pause for just a moment and give thought to that dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill? He is feeling the same pressure, all right. . . . (It is interesting to note here that college presidents are all referred to as "Prexy." Similarly called "Trixie" are the trustees.)

It is the Prexy's sad fate to be forever a stranger to your打入, never to know you personally. So you must imagine him when reading about him. He is a dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill. He is the appealingest, endearingest, winsomest group in the entire institution. He can only gaze wistfully out the window of his big white house on the hill and watch you at your classes, games and sports and yearn with all his tormented heart to bask in your achievement. . . . But I digress. We were speaking of the Prexy, a personage at all times and climes and conditions are called "Prexy". Similarly, trustees are called "Trixie." I refer, of course, to the Prexy.

Well sir, you will have many a good chuckle about that, "But I don't have a flip-top," he will say. "In my swimming pool, you mean," he will say. "Please do," he will say. "But next time, if you can possibly manage it, try not to come at four in the morning." Then you send him out of his vest and scamper goatlike around him until he is laughing merrily along with you.

Then hand him a package and say, "A little gift for you, sir." "For me?" he will say, lowering his lid. "You shouldn't have ..."

"Yes, I should," you will say, "because this package is a cigarette at Marlboro Cigarettes, and whenever I think of Marlboro, I think of you." "Why, hey!" he will say curiously.
