less than those offered to persons in the same fields a year ago.

According to the U. S. News and World Report, for the first time this year, the report (made annually by the College Placement Council) show offers in some fields which have previously been covered in broad categories.

The report shows the graduate in liberal arts earning $520 a month; the graduate in biological sciences, $465 a month; and the graduate in mathematics, $553 per month, while the graduate in physics will receive $593 per month. The graduate in other physical sciences will receive an average of $607 per month.

For the persons graduating with the masters degree, the salaries will be substantially higher than for those who have only the B.S. degree. The masters degree holder in business administration will receive $188 per month more; electrical engineering, $132; and physics, $100.

This survey, the first to be made during the recruiting season, is based on offers actually made to students who are nearing graduation.

Army ROTC Reorganizes Battle Group

To start the new year, the Army ROTC Battalion has been reorganized. The reorganization is designed to give cadets a chance to display their capabilities in varied positions; this, it is hoped, will result in the realization of their full potential.

Only senior cadets were affected by the recent shakeup. Under the new chain-of-command, James Davis has been assigned corps commander. Davis, a senior from Kinston, replaces Alfred Catlin who has been reassigned to the position of battalion executive officer. Stevon Sutton has been elevated to the corps staff.

On the battalion staff level, David Foye remains commander. His staff is composed of James Bristow, S1; Ronald Booker, S2; Robert Riddick, S3; James Malloy, S4; and Charles Keck, asst. S4.

Other reassignments include: Wylie Harris, commander of Co. A; Richard Westmoreland, commander of Co. B; Rodney Davis, commander of Co. C; and Clyde Taylor, commander of Hq. and Hq. Company.

Also, Carroll Sykes, Co. C; James Garrett, Co. B; Sandy Royster, Co. A; Lloyd Smith, Co. C; Bobby Parker, Co. A; Willie Riche, Co. A; Lloyd Smith, Co. C; David Howell, Hq. and Hq. Co.; and Ralph Hunt, Co. A.

The cadets are currently mapping plans for the remainder of the year. Future activities and events include the ROTC Ball, Field Day, Mother's Day, and the annual inspection.

Chapel Address Is Delivered By Alumnus Of A & T College

If the Supreme Court renders a decision favorable to defendants in the famed "sit-in" cases, it will be most far reaching civil rights decision in the history of the country, according to a Greensboro attorney.

The speaker was J. Kenneth Lee, A&T Alumnus, who delivered the main address at Harrison Auditorium Tuesday morning, January 8. His appearance was one of a series of lectures entitled, "Significant Issues of Our Times," being presented at the college. He spoke on the subject from the perspective of a lawyer.

Detailing the developments in the Supreme Court hearing of the "sit-in" cases, he told the audience that more than 100 lawyers, both white and Negro, were in Washington last November to collaborate on the cases which involved more than 1,700 arrests.

He described court decisions which deny that ownership of property which gives the owner the right to use property always as he wishes, which deny the use of police authority in the enforcement of laws where the privileges are given to one class of citizens and deny to the others, and which have declared such law unconstitutional.

Board Member's Body Found In Lake

The body of Dr. Murray Brooks Davis, member of the A&T College Board was recovered from 20 feet of freezing water at 2 P.M. yesterday — six hours after his car had plunged into an arm of High Point Lake.

Dr. Davis had spent Sunday night in Durham following a meeting and was on his way home when the accident occurred. The physician had a heart history and had been a hospital patient last year because of a cardiac condition.

AUTOPSY SET

Exact cause of death had not been determined tonight. An autopsy will be held sometime today at Wesley Long Hospital in Greensboro.

Dr. Davis was a member of the staff of High Point Memorial Hospital.

In 1953 he was appointed by Gov. Kerr Scott to the Board of Trustees of A&T College, a post which he held at the time of his death. He received his medical degree at Howard University in Washington.

In 1957 Gov. Luther Hodges named Dr. Davis to the State Prison Commission. He was still a member and the only Negro to have served on that board.

Surviving are his wife, Gwendolyn, a son, Murray Brooks Davis, Jr., and a daughter, Gwynette, of the home, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Davis of High Point.

Secretary Of Labor Announces Essay Contest For Students

Secretary of Labor, W. Willard Wirtz has announced that a major 1963 essay contest for college students will be tied to the U. S. Department of Labor's 50th anniversary year.

He made the announcement following a conference with Robert Pauley, President of the American Broadcasting Company radio network; George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, and ABC news commentator, Edward P. Morgan.

The contest is an annual feature of Morgan's broadcast which is sponsored by the AFL-CIO over ABC radio network.

The 1963 essay topic will be "Youth's Challenge in the Labor Market of the 60's." The contest is open to all undergraduate college students and prizes, contest rules and judges' names will be announced.

In reference to this contest the Emancipation Proclamation Is Observed

"The Negro, brought to these shores 100 years ago to help solve the white man's problems, is now considered the nation's problem," an audience at A&T College was told last week.

The speaker was Reverend Cleo M. McCoy, director of the A&T Chapel. He was delivering the main address at the observance of the centennial of the Emancipation held at the Harrison Auditorium on January 6.

Speaking from the subject, "Our Position in America After 100 Years of Emancipation," he told the audience that the absence of a vocal "middle ground" is making more complex the solution of our race problems. He said the wide differences between ardent segregationists and integrationists create a situation which makes it difficult for any thought between the extremes to get together for a solution.

He described as the greatest needs of the day (1) a fuller realization on the part of Negro college students for their becoming concerned about the great issues and realities of life and dedication of energies and talents to preparation for leadership, and (2) a realization by Negro and white leaders in local communities that genuine channels of communication must be developed before harmony can prevail.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy, acting president, presided, and Dr. Virgil C. Stroud, professor of history and acting chairman of the Department of Social Sciences, spoke on the purpose of the program.

The program was held in cooperation with the national project sponsored by the U. S. Civil Rights Commission, Washington, D. C.

Secretary of Labor made the following statements:

"I am delighted that Mr. Pauley and Mr. Morgan have selected for the 1963 essay contest a topic so appropriate to the anniversary celebration of the United States Department of Labor. One of the deepest concerns here in the Department is for the proper development of American youth in an era of increasing technological change, occupational specialization, scientific advance, and job qualifications of an ever-growing complexity."

"A major theme in our anniversary celebration year will be defining manpower development, with particular regard to youth, as the key that unlocks the full potential for growth of our economy in the years ahead. Young people today are very conscious, I believe, of their responsibilities in a rapidly changing world. Efforts like the Edward P. Morgan Essay Contest encourage thoughtful considerations by American youth of their own contributions to our nation's goals."

"The Department is celebrating an anniversary. The young people of America will, I am sure, be celebrating a brilliant future for themselves and their country if we are all wise enough to make it so. I heartily welcome the announcement of this Essay Contest and its effort to increase our young people's awareness of their place in tomorrow's world."

Dental Care Now Available To Veterans

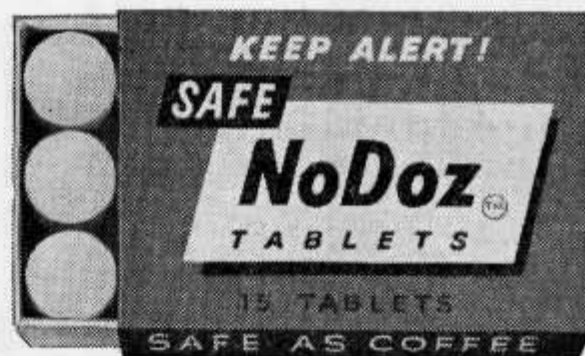

A law, effective August 14, 1962, made provisions for dental treatment for peacetime veterans.

J. D. Deramus, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office, pointed out that veterans with service connected dental conditions that existed when they were discharged may now obtain treatment for a one-time correction of the condition. The veterans must however, apply within one year after their discharge.

These conditions do not apply to veterans with dental conditions resulting from accidental injury in the line of duty. The veteran, in this case, is not required to apply within one year after his discharge, nor does his treatment have to be limited to a one-time correction.

Veterans who are eligible for treatment should contact their nearest VA regional office for assistance.

Persons who filed applications before August 14, 1962, must submit new applications.

Aggies Defeat Virginia State To Gain First Place In CIAA

By ERNEST GAINER

Over the past week, the A&T Aggies moved into first place in the CIAA by defeating preseason favorite, Virginia State in a season thriller 76-74. This past weekend the Aggies placed a tighter claim on first place by downing Fayetteville State for the second time this season 76-50 and a stubborn team at Shaw 68-63.

James Jackson, 6' 5" Junior from Charleston and leading scorer for the mighty Aggies, seems to be one of the main reasons why the Aggies are thus far undefeated in conference play.

Before an overcrowded house of Aggies, Jackson, center for the mighty Bulldogs hit a jump shot that left many fans holding their breath as the ball rolled lazily around the rim and finally dropped to give the Aggies one of their most important victories of the season.

Taking charge at the buzzer, the team scored 16 as compared to a mere 3 by the visitors. However at halftime the Aggies lead was cut to 8.

Hugh Evans, Co-Captain was high scoring man for the game with 24 points, 18 of which came in the first half of play. Maurice McHartley scored 23 points to share top honors with Evans. McHartley's points came in the final stage of the game which proved to be very vital at the end. Jackson followed with 14.

The team had a good night at the foul line as they sank 20, while State only collected 8. The Aggies also controlled the backboards with strong rebounding by Shed and Mulcare.

Bulldogs Top Fayetteville By 26 Points

With the remarkable shooting of James Jackson and the rebounding efforts of Nevil Shed and Irvin Mulcare, the league leading Aggies topped Fayetteville State 76-50, in a CIAA contest held at Fayetteville. Jackson and Shed led the scoring by dumping 38 points together. Other members scoring were Evans 10, McHartley 9, Holland 6, Allen 6, Powell and Skinner 4, Mulcare 2, and Hickson 1.

The Bears of Shaw played a possessive game as they held the Aggies to only 25 points at half-time and had a lead of 7 - 32-25. The Aggie Fifteen trailed most of the game and began their usual fancy ball handling and fast breaks with 3 minutes left in the game and scoring 6 points was enough for another Aggie victory.

Four of the starting five placed in the double figures. Jackson 15, McHartley 16, Evans 13, and Mulcare 10.
