Cooper Hall Recreation Room

Station For Blood Donation

“Have you ever donated blood before?”

“No!”

Well this won’t hurt at all.”

This dialogue was one which was commonly heard in the reception room of Cooper Hall when the Red Cross Bloodmobile made its annual visit to the college.

Whether it was for most of the day, more than three hundred members of the Apple Class donated to the blood donation program.

An actual count showed 427 pints donated. Approximately twenty-five potential donors were turned back for medical or physical reasons, another fifty were turned back when the unit was forced to close when it ran out of blood.

The Bloodmobile contacted the local hospital of the blood donated. One hundred eightynine pints or 72 percent was donated by the cadets. Army Reserve Officers Training Corps and Air Force cadets accounted for 30 percent of the units donating the highest number of pints, the Army will receive a five per cent bonus to help field day competition.

For donating the highest amount among the individual Army units, Company A has received an excuse for drill for one week. All donors were granted a two hour excuse from classes.

The Bloodmobile visited the campus as a part of the Piedmont Carolina Regional Blood Program. Established in September, 1964, the program collects, processes, and distributes blood to meet the needs of patients in hospitals served by the program.

An individual donating blood will receive a card which entitles him and his immediate family and dependents to receive blood as needed for a period of six months after the date of the donation.

Major William Good, professor of Military Science, served as the president of the blood bank program.

Dr. Dowdy Names Honors Program Committee

By ALOMA PYETON

A committee to institute an honors program for qualified students at A&T College has been appointed by Dr. L. C. Dowdy.

The committee members are Erell Blair, Recruit Richard, Mrs. Anita Rivera, Dr. Gladys Hoy, Mr. J. S. Shaw, Dr. Juanita Taylor, Dr. Darrell Tew, and Dr. Samuel von Wittlitz.

An honor program workshop has been set up in the office of Student Services, Downs Building.

Students who qualify will be notified to come to the interviews.

Some of the interviews, according to information obtained by the committee are a college whose honors day, criteria for the students who are to take part in the program, and possibly offer scholarships for deserving students.

The workshop will be held January 15th.

New Program To Be Slated For AFROTC

Legislation to authorize major changes in the USAF Reserve Officer’s Training Corps (AFROTC) program is expected to reach Congress this month. The legislation, which is a part of this year’s on-campus program with a $200 scholarship and will be known as the “AFROTC.”

If the legislation is enacted, the local Air Force ROTC unit at A&T College, the only one on campus beginning with school year 1965-66 and dropping Air Science 1 (freshmen year training) and Air Science 2 (sophomore year training) beginning school year 1966-67, the AFROTC program would be an entire voluntary basis beginning in September, 1964. Scholarship programs would provide for a reduced tuition, refund of Cadet funds upon enrollment in September, 1964.

The Air Force has been serving as executive agent for the Defense Department in the implementation of the legislative proposals which will affect Reserve Officers Training Corps units as 178 colleges and universities that represent 58 percent of the fifty states.

The AFROTC is still the largest single officer procurement program in the Air Force at the present time.

The Air Force ROTC program was the forerunner of the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920 by providing a financial incentive and motivate large numbers of college students to serve in the air force as an inactive reserve force.

In recent years a gradual shift of the initial requirement to produce officers for the inactive reserve has taken place. Today’s requirement and the requirements (CONTINUED ON PAGE 3)

FOR COEDS

BY FRIENIE DYE

Spring makes it all, simmer, simmer. The really look is all, with scarlet and rose colored minidress, mellow, muted gold, wine, and navy blue, all designed to be fun and flirty.

The fisherman pullover, a favorite of the model, is a sailor's delight. It is a sweater that is both fashionable and comfortable. It is a perfect choice for a casual afternoon out on the town.

The column cast is a slender, elegant silhouette. It is a classic design that never goes out of style. It is a perfect choice for a formal occasion.

The Jazz Goes Collegiate

By CHARLES H. TURNER, II

In all arts, violent changes occur with frightening regularity. But also, there are changes in style and fashions, changes that do not always follow the same path. Jazz, a music that has been evolving since the early 1920s, is no exception.

The jazz musician, recognizing its fruits, will turn out finally to be what its rules demand. The musician, recognizing its fruits, will turn out finally to be what its rules demand. The musician, recognizing its fruits, will turn out finally to be what its rules demand. The musician, recognizing its fruits, will turn out finally to be what its rules demand.
Looking At Africa

NYASALAND IS SELF-GOVERNING

"The sun never sets on the British Empire," has the poet said, gated to the limbo of forgetfulness.

Interest of the majority of the Nyasaland existed as a separate rule for over 70 years. Until early next year.

In 1959 there were political disturbances and was elected president of the African lawyer, and its leaders, including Dr. Banda, Orton Chirwa, Nyasaland's first African lawyer, and Alan Banda.

Youth Day Speaker Is Freshman

William Rice, a freshman here, was one of the two speakers at the Youth Day speakers' forum held in the United Institutional Baptist Church, Pretoria.

Rice spoke on the topic "Follow Me," a challenge that Christ presented before the Disciples. In his speech, Rice stated that we must not hold back anything from God. "Give to Him all you have and He will return it to you," he also compared the youth with the adult students standing with Christ.

Rice presented a number of questions. Among them were these: "Are the demands too great?" "Is Jesus asking too much?"

"Rice is a very active member of the Mount Olive Baptist Church in Newton. His course as a Sunday School teacher has received him to be appointed a junior deacon.

The Officer Education Program outlined in the proposed legislation has been designed to place all Air Force personnel in a better competitive position for graduate studies in the stiffening competitive atmosphere on today's college campuses.

Major features of the OEP call for:

1. Orientation of the entire program to the production of professional military officers to serve for career, to include a day-on-course curriculum designed to give during the junior and senior years.

3. Three hours of classroom instruction per week for each semester of the two-year program.

4. Two summer training periods, one during the summer prior to entry into the program and one following graduation.

5. A scholarship of approximately $10,000 for each selected cadet, for commission and for career.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

The campus Sunday School is now making plans for the celebration of National Sunday School Week which will be in April this year. During this week, the Sunday School will take part in forums and group discussions, all purposed to emphasize the significance of this nation-wide organization.

The Sunday School at A&T College is non-denominational. It is open to people of any religious belief. It is devoted to the broadening of the students' Christian beliefs. It offers a forum for discussion of the Bible, particularly the teachings of Christ, as related to everyday life. The students individually air out their views and problems affecting both their spiritual and social lives. But it is not all Bible discussion in the Sunday School. It is also a devotion to serving the physical needs of the college community and its environs. At the end of last year the Sunday School held the collection of food-stuffs which were distributed to needy people of the community.

At Christmas a play entitled "The Mind of Christ," written by the adviser, Dr. Albert Spruiu, was staged by members of the Sunday School. During Religious Emphasis Week last month, the Sunday School played a large part in the administration of the daily devotional service. The Sunday School also plans to hold a retreat and a picnic during the spring.

Winston-Salem Downs Aggies 71-64 In CIAA Thriller

Winston-Salem Teachers College grabbed a thriller, Ti to 64, over A&T College's Aggies in a basketball game played in the Coliseum here February 20. A&T's Aggies out of a brief stay in first place in the CIAA conference early.

Before the game, the Aggies were leading Virginia State College's Trojans to by percentage points in the Dickenson rating system used by the conference.

The loss altered A&T hopes for the conference's championship crown, with the Rams from Winston-Salem moving into the frontrunners. The Rams have two games remaining, both against second-division teams. A&T has three games left, with at least one and possibly two against first-division competition.

In winning, the Rams took over top place in the CIAA on a 14-3 record. A&T has a 14-4 mark. By winning the game, the Rams can gain top seeding for the conference tournament to be played in Winston-Salem March 1-3.

Mike Smith topped the Winston-Salem scoring with 21 points while Ted Batchelor contributed 18 and Willie Curry 12. James Jackson of A&T led all scorers with 26 points. Hugh Evans had 12 for the Aggies.

Both teams were cold at the start of the contest and 2:30 was gone before Winston-Salem grabbed the first basket of the game. The Rams were leading 21-20 when Evans made the Rams 4:40 lead before Evans went down for the A&T's first shot with 4:30 gone.

By the halfway point of the first period, the Rams were leading at 15-12, their biggest margin of the evening.
