College Receives $6,160 Grant To Continue Research Projects

A grant of $6,160 has been awarded to A&T College by the National Science Foundation to support an undergraduate research participation program.

The grant of the research was announced this week by Dr. L. C. DuBois, professor of history, who said that the funds would be used to continue projects now being conducted in the Department of Home Economics.

The new grant provides stipends of $50 per week for eight weeks for students who will be involved in the study for eight weeks during the summer, enabling them to continue the work during the final academic year, and costs of equipment and supplies.

The purpose of the program is to offer research experience to undergraduates under the direction of college faculty.

The need for the summer program to continue the work during the final academic year was met by a grant from the National Science Foundation to support the undergraduate research participation program (URPP) in the Department of Home Economics.

Students will be supervised by Dr. Gerald A. Edwards, professor of Food Science; Dr. Cecile H. Edwards, professor of Home Economics; and Miss Evelyn G. L. Blake, instructor in Home Economics.

The grant will provide stipends of $50 per week for eight weeks for students who will be involved in the study for eight weeks during the summer, enabling them to continue the work during the final academic year, and costs of equipment and supplies.

To Produce Double-Cast Play

The Richard B. Harrison Players at A&T are preparing to present a double-cast production of "Magnificent Obsession," a dramatic version of the novel by Lloyd C. Douglass and Gabrielle T. White, which is based on the life of Doctor's. The show will be presented in two casts, with the first cast playing on March 27 and the second cast playing on March 28.

Dr. W. J. Hughes, Jr., is president of A&T College, and Dr. Malcolm Pyle is chairman of the Department of Home Economics.

The annual Women's Weekend at A&T College is planned for this weekend, with a main address by a top government official on March 27. The event will feature the annual banquet, speaker for the occasion will be Mr. B. F. Harrison, an associate director.

ROTC Drill Unit

The ROTC Drill Unit Places First in Drill Meet

Winning trophies is becoming an everyday affair for the Air Force ROTC Drill Team. Because of the unit's performance, the unit has been expanded to showcase its capabilities.

The Raiders have been invited to compete in a competition last year that both the Raiders and the West Point Cadets had to compete in. The Raiders were also invited to compete in the Cherry Blossom Festival Drum Competitions in Washington, D.C., and Northeastern University placed second in the competition.

Dr. Proctor Addresses Group Of State Extensions Agents

The American Negro has an important challenge to prevent a color division in the world, an audience at A&T College was told last week.

Dr. Proctor explained that the Negro has not been able to take a full and active role in the present important international matters.

Citizens Of Two Counties Plead For Civic Education Program

BY TOMMY C. GADDIE

Last Thursday this reporter was granted an interview with two prominent citizens of Warren and Franklin counties, who are persons who are willing to give their time and effort to carry on civic education.

In order to fully appreciate this account of the somewhat pathetic situation existing in Warren and Franklin counties it will be best to inform you that Warren County is predominately Negro. Economically enough, it has only 1.1 percent of its Negro citizens registered to vote. In addition, only 10 percent of the Negroes who graduate from the high schools there are able to vote.

Upon attending a meeting designed to investigate and lay ground work for the type of projects which the Negro Citizens of Warren and Franklin counties are interested in, this reporter was given a warm reception by those present at the meeting and they found them willing to talk freely about the conditions in the community.

While attending the meeting and talking to some of those present after the meeting, this reporter discovered that the Negroes of the two counties are striving to improve the lot of their community.

In the hope of fostering civic education in the community, the Negroes of the two counties have organized a Civic Education Association.

The speaker said that the Negroes of the two counties have organized a Civic Education Association in the hope of fostering civic education in the community.

In this second and final installment on the article "Why Do We Sleep," let us take a look at the subject of sleep and its importance. Sleep has been described as a person waking up from sleep, but we have an idea about the importance of sleep.

We are aware of the fact that preparing for many functions and activities is to make sure that people are not awake for too long. This is because people who are awake for too long have been shown to be at risk of accidents or other serious problems.

A recent study on sleep patterns has shown that people who are not getting enough sleep are more likely to experience problems with their memory and their ability to concentrate.

In the United States, the average adult gets about six to eight hours of sleep per night, but the amount of sleep that people need can vary widely from person to person. Some people may need more sleep than others, and some people may need less sleep.

There is a growing body of evidence that suggests that sleep is important for physical health as well as mental health. For example, studies have shown that people who get enough sleep are less likely to develop chronic conditions such as heart disease and diabetes.

The human body is designed to sleep for most of the night, and it is during this time that the body repairs and rest. It is important to get enough sleep, as it can help to improve overall health and well-being.

We should all strive to get enough sleep every night, as it is important for our health and well-being. By making sure that we get enough sleep, we can help to prevent a range of health problems and improve our overall quality of life.

Student NEA Sends Delegates To Confab In Fayetteville

Six members of the Student National Education Association from A&T College attended the Student Leadership Conference at Fayetteville State Teachers College Monday, March 10. The students representing A&T were Allegrey Walker, Gloria Carter, Larry Grady, Walter Elmore, R. Ralph Lee, and O. E. Graham. Graham is president of the James B. Dudley Chapter at A&T College. They were accompanied by Mrs. Anna C. Graves, advisor to the group.

The theme for the conference was "Blueprints for Action." The conference was composed of representatives from Johnson C. Smith University, Shaw University, Fayetteville Technical College, Fayetteville State Teachers College, A&T College, and North Carolina College. Representatives from several other schools were divided into groups to discuss several issues facing student NEA chapters throughout the state.

Student Council News

At the last meeting of the Student Council, Leonard Hansman presented a plan for students to contribute $1.00 to the Student Council Scholarship Fund. Under this plan, the Student Council would serve to supplement the funds that are to be contributed by members of the faculty and others interested in the college.

According to reports received from persons at the meeting, the amount of business conducted at the meeting was limited because the meeting was held after the mid-term examinations. In addition, the vice-president would not be back at A&T College this year. Cary Bell was installed as vice-president of the council, since the position had been vacated by the resignation of another member.

Citizens Request Civic Education Aid

A talk with still another citizen revealed that candidates for political offices are elected not on the basis of their qualifications but on the basis of their need for a job. This was illustrated from an incident in a recent election where a person who had just finished voting was heard saying, "I know that the other candidate is better qualified, but I voted for the one that I did because he has so many children and the other candidate has only two."
