Two Architects Display Sketch Of Student U.

Preliminary plans have been drawn up for the college's proposed student union building. At a meeting of the student assembly, the architects presented their plans. A preliminary sketch of the floor plan for the proposed building was presented.

To be superimposed over Brown Hall, the structure will consist of three stories. A center, the auditorium, will be located on the second floor, a study area on the third floor, and the third floors, as on the present student union building, will house the student association and the officers of the student union.

The structure is to be erected on the present student union building. The present student union building will be razed and the new student union building will be constructed in its place.

To be constructed of reinforced concrete, the building will be three stories high. The center of the building will be a large auditorium. The auditorium will be used for student assembly and other activities. The auditorium will be equipped with the latest in audio-visual equipment.

What Makes A College Great?

What makes a college great? Surely this is a question which should be considered by all of us who are involved in an academic institution. Of course, there are many different aspects to it. But without a serious attempt to answer this pertinent question can we hope to raise the standards of the institution which produces us?

The first step in answering this most important query is naturally rooted in what college really is.

A PLACE OF INTELLECTUAL ACTIVITY

College is more than a superlative series of escape and occupation. More important, it is a place of intellectual activity geared to meet the needs of an ever-changing society. It is a community in which individuals develop not only socially, but academically. It is a place where one may make preparations for life’s work.

Once realizing what college really is, one must next turn his attention to those means by which he and others involved in such a situation may make the college a better one, or in the words of Dr. Proctor, do those things which make a college great.

ATTITUDE IMPORTANT

As a college community, A&T, along with its sons and daughters, must be cognizant of the great demands placed upon it. When Aggie products are called into the mainstream of society, they must be eager and capable of taking the giant step.

TOTAL USE OF ALL FACILITIES

How can this giant stride be best effected. The answer lies in making complete and total use of the existing facilities at this institution which produces us. To continue in greatness, we must make judicious use of the books in the Rubidoo Library, utilize the laboratories in Hines Hall, frequent Franklin Hall.

But while we must use that which we have to the utmost, we must never be satisfied to the degree that we are content with what we have. Rather our quest for greatness should prod us to demand and to receive improvements.

The time should come when as many people attend vespers as possible. Vespers where we may meet and exchange ideas. People at a concert as crowd into the stadium for a football game, when the number of those making the honor roll will far surpass the number making the failing list, when more of our graduates receive grants and fellowships for graduate school, when more money is spent for academic scholarships, when we understand that for academic scholarship is rooted in what college really is.

Fashions

By Eula Jones

What makes a fashion? High style! High fashion!

These items are the breath of the day. They are the fashion set. They are what people are wearing and saying are fashionable. And there are many of them.

The aim is to have the right thing for any occasion, not just "that one time," but to have something so unique, so adequate, so knowledgeable that it should come soon, for A&T is definitely on the road from realizing its fullest potential.

A good comment on this comes from Mr. Horace. "In fact it is to be in at home in the world, at home in one’s epoch, it is to build for the foundation of psychic peace.”

We think that fashion plays no part in your life. Look in the mirror. You are who you are. Whatever you wear, no matter how you make yourself up, is all part of who you are. Just another aspect of you.

Aggies Dominate Fort Eustis
In First Contest Of Season

The powerful A&T Aggies completely dominated play in their opening game and trounced the Fort Eustis (Va.) Marines, 26-0, on Saturday, October 5.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak against service teams for the Aggies as they had been down in a row in the Sunshine State.

From the opening kickoff off, the Aggies were not to be denied. Coach Piggott used the opening kick and handed it back to the Aggies' Judyard line where quarterback, Cornell Gordon, who played on an excellent game both offensively and defensively, took over.

Gordon handed off to Matthews who found a gap and rode in. To the right side of the Wheel's line and called for 10 yards to the Aggie 40. Gordon then dropped back and fired to Porter, who turned his way to the Wheels' 20. Gordon gave Joe to Lee who carried it to the 12. Lee took angle and went to the face. After Matthews was stopped for no gain, Gordon pitched out to Sugar Hart who carried the ball into their yard line. The PAT by Al Maloney was good and the game was 7-0 at the end of the first period.

Up, Urbani kicked off for the Aggies. The ball was taken on their 40 yard line by Ben Charles from Charlotte and a star in last season's Shrine Bowl game in New-Orleans. Coach Piggott is confident in his prediction that the Aggies will come back to life into the way it looks in this contest and the Aggies go on along the Aggie band-sagers.

Aggies-Bears
Set To Clash
In Night Tilt

Kickoff time for the football clash between the Aggies and Shaw University Bears, Thursday night, October 10, has been changed.

The game, the opening home contest for the Aggies, who have been having some trouble with their speed and field goals, is not as important as the opening contest against Tennessee A&I.

The Bears who will arrive on campus, the way it has been going, should hold Tennessee in check and the Aggie confidence will be victorious and up to a 20 to 1 mark. The game will be played against a backdrop of the exciting contest of last season between the Aggies and the Bears in the Aggie bowl in Greensboro.

No big upsets are expected if the Aggies win this contest which is a release game for the Aggies.

Howard Ferguson, the Aggies' quarterback, who was injured against Tennessee A&I, has cleared out to return to the starting lineup.
