College girls hang out in snack bars, the corner, and assorted smoke-filled rooms. And in these bars, sweaters, and sweaters...

We have the bouclé and wool knitted into a pullower with a white and brown pattern. The sweater is on a plant on a pullover of a white and brown pattern.

Then we have the alpaca, and wool knitted into a pullower with a white and brown pattern. The sweater is on a plant on a pullover of a white and brown pattern.

Have you seen the sweater knitted with a white and brown pattern? It has French cuffs. It can easily be matched with the alpaca.

The sweater blazer is getting a lot of attention. The shoulder line is thin. It is worn well with light trousers.

There is the "teddy" laced with a white and brown pattern. It has a terry cloth lining in a variety of colors. One of the popular colors this year is cranberry.

Contrasting this with what a library should be, one finds a lack of the quietude and intellectual activity which is con- critical to the spawing of ideas. There are no satisfactory places on campus for one to meet his friends, but must we make use of the library for this purpose? Must we insist upon depriving others of the atmosphere which surrounds the books and periodicals — or whether we merely want it as a place of refuge?

The addition of a student union building to the college landscape should help to eliminate the present crisis. The opening of other facilities to general college use will also be a step in the right direction.

But until such steps are taken, we must decide whether we want the building, named in honor of late President Blu- dance, to be iust as easily achieved. But if we are to use the structure as a cure-all for the deficiencies in student life, we want the building, named in honor of late President Blu-

Never before have I seen a book in which every seventh word is a word of significance. The book, you know, is a word of significance. If the reader is to enrich himself, he must read the book. This cannot be achieved by study alone. The reader must learn to read the books and periodicals as a whole. It is a whole which the books and periodicals — or whether we merely want it as a place of refuge?

It is a whole which the books and periodicals — or whether we merely want it as a place of refuge?

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES

By now most of the freshmen are well acquainted with the social organizations maintained on campus. These organizations serve a variety of purposes. They provide an opportunity for freshmen to become acquainted with upper-classmen and to develop a sense of belonging. Additionally, these organizations offer opportunities for leadership and participation in community service.

Organizations Form Part Of Total College Life

An essential part of A&T life is the student organizations that have developed on campus. These organizations range from the social organizations like fraternities and sororities to the religious affiliations like the Newman Club. The following sections will briefly discuss some of the important bodies on campus.

Student Council

The Student Council is an important body on campus. Composed of juniors and seniors, they are the official body that represents the students. Among the many affairs sponsored by the Student Council are the annual Student Union Ball and the Christmas Program. Throughout the year, the BSU provides a well-rounded program of religious and cultural activities. Thework is a story dealing with the Sunday School, the Fellowship, and other activities which are open to all students.

The Student Government Associations

The Student Government Associations are composed of the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. These organizations have a variety of functions. They are responsible for the student body's welfare and for representing the students' interests to the administration. The Student Government Associations are also responsible for maintaining order on campus and for enforcing campus regulations.

MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS

As a military institution, A&T has a rich history with military organizations. The ROTC offers a wealth of opportunity for participation in addition to providing leadership and training. The program also allows its participants to fulfill potential and social potential to the best of their abilities.

Ricky Angelo is proud of the contributions made by A&T's ROTC. His ROTC unit, the 50th Battery, D.C. National Guard, has given A&T the reputation for producing good leaders. The ROTC can be proud of the work it has done.

Open to any student interested in military service, A&T's ROTC has a variety of missions creating plans making for the publication of the magazine composed of various groups.

Two New Members Join Army ROTC Instructors

Army ROTC instructional group has bolstered this year by the addition of two new members. Captain Donald Parks, an instructor of the Army ROTC, has joined the unit and will be the new instructor. Parks is a member of the Army Reserve and has served the last ten years. He is a graduate of North Carolina State University with a degree in Civil Engineering.

Prior to reporting to his present assignment, the new cadre member has served a four-year tour of duty in the U.S. Army, including a tour in Vietnam. Parks has also served as a captain in the 1st Airborne Division. In addition, Parks is a member of the Army ROTC instructor's career course.

Captain Tiry is a native of New York, New York, and is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in art and military engineering.

Tiry will be included in the A&T. Captain Tiry had served in Korea with the 25th Infantry Division and with the 101st Airborne Division. In addition, he is a member of the Army ROTC instructor's career course.

The new cadre member is married and the father of two children.

Among the first tasks of the new cadre member will be the training of new ROTC cadets. This training will be directed by John M. Stevenson, executive director of the United States Army ROTC program. The training will be assisted by John M. Stevenson, who has been active in the ROTC program for the past two years and has appeared in five films. He will be responsible for the first cadre at directing the training. The instruction is for the best performance by new cadets, who will be under the direction of Mr. Tiry.

In addition to furthering the goals of the Army ROTC, Tiry also plans to continue with the production of his book, Dr. Who's Who in America.

A&T College has been following these established guidelines in developing regular growth studies and Town and Country Minstrels for the local community. While the attention has been given to the development of a national cadre in the institute programs, the "State of the Conference" will provide the church administration with the facts and figures which are being done for the local pastors.

$14,491 Grant

A&T College has received a $14,491 grant from the National Science Foundation, a total of $22,025, to support the work of the program. The grant will be used to support the costs of operating the program, including salaries, supplies, and travel costs.

The Aggies suffered no major injuries in the A&T affair and should be ready to tangle with the Bear. A&T has a balanced defense and will be ready to match this year's defense. The Aggies defeated the Bear 3-10 last year and Aggie fans are looking forward to this year's game.

Air Force ROTC Accepts Colors

For 1963-1964

The joint Army-Air Force ROTC Corps held its annual orientation parade and reception in the Arkansas Auditorium. An affair which is held at the beginning of each year, the program is designed to introduce the cadets to the purposes of ROTC. The command officer, general training, administrative objectives, and functions of the service. It is also the occasion at which the promotion of cadets and appointment to the services are announced. This year this responsibility falls on the Air Force side, so Cadet commandant Ronald Ruffin, and Major John M. Wren, professor of Military Science, will be in charge.

In a column the cadets and staff colors were turned over from the Army to the Air Force unit “to guard respect, and display with reverence.”

Back year's performers and officers leadership alternates from the Army to the Air Force. The unit which is given overall responsibility for Corps function is given control of the colors. This year's responsibility falls on the Air Force side, so Cadet commandant Ronald Ruffin, and Major John M. Wren, professor of Military Science, will be in charge.

As Corps commandant Ruffin will be responsible for what the Corps does or fails to do. It will be his duty to have this staff (the Corps unit) plan and to coordinate cadet freshmen. He will date 4-3-64 from the group. The commandant staff commonCadet John Smith, J-3, and southwest leader Luke Gordon, J-4. The service will be conducted by Cadet Major Cornell and a group of Army ROTC officers. The service will be conducted by Cadet Major Cornell of Arkansas and a group of Army ROTC officers.
