Discussions To Headline Schedule Of Activities For Language Arts Week

A new book, authored by an A&T College professor, has been favorably commented on by the publishers.

In his new book, Dr. Virgil Stroud, professor of government, has been favorably commented on by the publishers.

The book is a study of the actions and freedom of the Afro-American, a study in effectiveness of the American system of government. Throughout the book is the theme of freedom as a human right, and an analysis of the factors that contribute to the realization of freedom. Milk Bottles

Have you had the top from your bottle of milk before leaving the lunch line in Brown or Murphy Hall? If you have, you are perhaps a minority; or, if you are like some people, you were a bit annoyed. Perhaps you even refused to comply until you had received a full explanation.

If you did receive an explanation, it probably went something like this: "Students have been taking away empty milk bottles from the dining halls. The move is intended to help relieve the problem.

The more than is designed to help relieve a situation which has plagued the dining halls for years: the removal of property by students for personal use. The loss of silverware in the last couple of years has been even more gratifying. The logic behind the dining hall's most recent attempt to curtail such practices is that any one would hesitate to transact business with a person known to steal property.

The loss of property is not only a matter of dollars. No wonder we cannot have milk at each meal. Even those who commit the offenses. Obviously there are students who is responsible for some of our many complaints. Students really complain of deficiencies on behalf of the dining halls. Their complaint that the food is of poor quality. They complain that they have to eat ice cream with forks or that sometimes they have to wait and wait for a bottle to be cut off. Adequate explanation and logic? Perhaps. At any rate, it emphasizes the problem and brings into focus the question of who is responsible for our complaints. Can the dining halls management and administration continually supply and replace silver and bottles which are taken from the dining halls? It stands to reason that the student leadership will be put on notice.

Some of our complaints are justifiable; others are not. How can we complain of insufficient equipment in the dining halls when the amount of the missing equipment may be found in our dormitories? That six crates of milk bottles were removed in one week is an indication of the problem. When a bottle such a less quickly adds up to many dollars. No wonder we cannot have milk at each meal. Even if it were available for students, it would not be available for students who, at a bottle situation then brings into question just who is responsible for our complaints. Can the dining halls management and administration continually supply and replace silver and bottles which are taken from the dining halls? It stands to reason that the student leadership will be put on notice. The obvious answer is no. This is one instance in which students bear the responsibility. The bad part of the whole deal is that, even if the student doesn't commit the offense, the risk of removing property and to return that which have already taken.

A Man's World

Is A&T College already but surely losing its distinction of being a man's world? Most available evidence tends to indicate a trend in that direction. The latest report from the Office of Admissions is the last bit of evidence to be added. Although the report made no mention of the ratio of men to women enrolled at the college, it did divide the total into subtotals by sex.

The report listed 1770 undergraduate males and 958 undergraduate females. This list will permit the computation of percentages: in fact, it is almost two to one. But, if one considers that there has been a slight but steady decrease in the last couple of years, the figure begins to shrink a little. Even in the course of one quarter it decreased 02. Not a large decrease, but start adding these up and see how long it will last.

There are of course other indications. Women have more than their share on the honor rolls. (Unfortunately on the failing lists too), and more and more women in the leadership.

While the candidacy of Senator Margaret Chase Smith for the Presidency might not be a cause for much light at the A&T College, it is at least a hopeful sign.

Student Nurse Finds U. S. Army
Ample Provider

Gwendolyn Wilson, a senior in the Student Nurse program at the University of South Carolina, has scored higher in the Armed Forces Qualification Test (AFQT) than the previous year. She plans to apply for the U. S. Army Nurse Corps after graduation. Wilson is currently a second lieutenant in the University of South Carolina R.O.T.C. Detachment and is a member of the Baptist Student Union. She has been active in the organization for two years and is considered by her colleagues as the "Mighty Three" of the Student Nurse program.

Director Of Chapel Is Invited To Attend Important Meetings

Reverend Cleo M. McCoy, director of the chapel of the University of South Carolina located in the pedestrian tunnel on the campus, has been invited to attend several important meetings during the next few weeks. McCoy was invited to participate in the annual meeting of the Baptist Student Union, to attend a workshop on student leadership, and to meet with the National Council of Churches in Cincinnati on February 12.

The program was under the direction of Mr. J. O. Johnson, assistant professor of sociology, and Dr. R. W. Miller, secretary of the National Council of Churches.

On February 14, Reverend McCoy will meet with Dr. Phillip Hyatt, program director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Dr. R. W. Miller, secretary of the committee on Agrarian Relations for the Conference on Rural Community Development.

Organizations

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Baptist Student Union is an agency of the Board of Christian Education of the Southern Baptist Convention.

In the late 1960s, the Student Nurse program began to gain recognition. Wilson was a member of the Baptist Student Union and attended several conferences during her senior year. She continued her involvement with the organization after graduation and has been active in the group ever since.

Visit To White House Climaxes College Editor's Conference

A reception at the White House for the first time as hostess opened the annual College Editor's Conference on International Affairs. Miss Wilson, who had been a member of the conference staff for two years, was named to the position by the editor of the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver F. Wallace, graduate students at the University of South Carolina, were guests of the conference. Mrs. Wallace was named as the "Mighty Three" of the Student Nurse program for her contributions to the conference.

Other Editors Are Writing...Plagiarism Probe

(AVP) — Most Business students have heard of plagiarism. However, plagiarism is a major problem at the University of South Carolina, and it is a serious offense. The editor of the AVP, James Wescheler, is investigating the matter.

Aggie Grid Teams Ranked 12th

Florida A&M, coached by John C. Smith, has had 100 wins over 13 seasons since 1950, averaging one loss per year. The Aggies have been the leading team in the Southwestern Athletic Conference for years, last year for good reason. With the loss of star players like Briggs and Jackson, and Mulcare also merit attention. Played sparingly, thus far, Mulcare has the highest averages in their respective classes. The four were City P. Jackson, 4.0; Howard B. Davis, 3.6; Reginald Milestone, junior, running back with 3.4; and James Greenlee, sophomore, history, 3.2. From Kentucky, Thomas is a star freshman, biology, Greensboro. Each received a scholarship.
