Dr. Edward W. Brice Is Guest Speaker At A&T's Founders' Day Celebration McKinney And Kelly Receive Honors

Dr. Edward W. Brice, director of the Adult Education Branch of the United States Office of Education told Founders' Day audience last week that, "We cannot live peacefully in an undirected world."

He was delivering the main address at the program which marked the 73rd anniversary of the college.

"Clearly," Dr. Brice said, "We cannot expect to live peacefully in a world with slums overflowing with tension and hate, nor can we impose peace and understanding in such a world with H-Bombs and missiles." "If we are to accept fully our position of moral leadership, we must join in an all-out attack on poverty, disease, ignorance, and oppression wherever they exist."

Speaking from the theme, "The Undirected World Society," he urged students to prepare now for participation in the "Great Society" envisioned by President Johnson.

The program also featured the presentation of the annual Alumni Service Award. The award went to Joseph C. McKinney of Washington, D. C., who was selected by the A&T College General Alumni Association for "Outstanding service to the Alma Mater and to the Alumni Association."

Mr. McKinney is an engineer-supervisor at the National Security

Agency at Fort George G. Meade in Maryland. The presentation was made by C. C. Griffin, chairman of the Alumni Awards Committee.

Prior to the 9:00 A.M. Founders' Day Program there was a formal Army-Air Force Review on the drill field adjacent to Campbell Hall.

At a luncheon which followed the program, Mrs. Carrye H. Kelly, associate professor of English, was honored. She was presented a certificate in commendation for outstanding service to the college with particular reference to a history of the college, "Profiles of Five Administrators," which she authored. Dr. Dowdy made the presentation.

Attention: Seniors Juniors

Seniors will be given a final opportunity to have pictures made for the yearbook on Tuesday, December 15, from 1:30 to 5:30 and from 6:30 to 9:00. No more portraits will be taken after this date.

Any senior who failed to submit his choice of proof to be used may do so Tuesday, December 15, from 1:30 to 5:30 and from 6:30 to 8:00.

Individual pictures of juniors, which are to appear in this year's AYANTEE, will be taken immediately following the Christmas holidays. Dates for junior pictures will be posted.

Dean Speaks At AEW Luncheon On Quest For Self Fulfillment Mrs. Koontz Introduces Series

"There is no short cut to the realization of self-fulfillment; it (the quest for self-fulfillment) requires blood, sweat, and tears," students and faculty members attending the annual American Education Week luncheon given by the American Education Week Committee were told a few days ago.

The speaker was Dr. Prezell R. Robinson of Raleigh, executive dean, Saint Augustine's College.

"School, for most individuals is an avenue to finding out what exists — it helps one seek out his own abilities, interests, and aptitudes," Dr. Robinson told approximately 35 teachers and prospective teachers attending the luncheon in Murphy Hall.

He told the group further that, "Education is a sound investment for it helps us to prepare for the changes which are going on around us."

Dr. Robinson listed these as some of the questions brought about through education — Has life meaning? Is there significance in human effort? and Does human effort build so that something abides? He encouraged the luncheon party to read some of the great literary works such as the Parthenon, the Acropolis, and the works of Shakespeare.

"These works give insight into the questions and problems which credit and sustain the progress and occupations of the world as we seek self-fulfillment," he said.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz, president elect of the Department of Classroom Teachers of the National Education Association, gave the keynote address for the A&T College observance of American Education Week during regular vesper hour in Harrison Auditorium.

Speaking from the subject, Education Can Pay Dividends, Mrs. Koontz said that education can pay handsome dividends if it provides emotional strength for the person and if it is kept in proper perspective.

She listed five requirements necessary for one to receive the fullest benefits from his education. This included Preparedness for the job one wishes to accomplish; Enthusiasm for one's work; Initiative through which one can make his job more meaningful; Dependability, even in the little things; and Pride in accomplishment which would compel one to make changes.

English Dept. Sets Institute For Friday

The fourth annual Language Arts Institute, a program sponsored by the A&T College Department of English, will be held at the college on Friday, November 20.

The one-day session will feature as consultants, Dr. J. Saunders Redding, professor of English at Hampton Institute, now on leave at the University of North Carolina-Duke University Cooperative Fellowship Program, and Mrs. Joan Newman, Raleigh, state supervisor of English.

More than 100 teachers of English, from both, high schools and colleges, are expected to attend.

The institute proposes to consider problems confronting colleges and secondary teachers in lifting the level of instruction and enriching both the college and high school students.

The meet is being arranged under the supervision of a committee headed by Mrs. Carrye Hill Kelly, assistant professor of English.

Ensign William Thigpen, left, a 1963 graduate of A&T College, returned to the campus last week on a visit, enroute to his assignment at Midway Island. A native of Fayetteville, he was recently commissioned under the Pre-Flight Program.

AF-ROTC Cadet Makes Solo Flight With Little Time At Dual Controls

Air Force ROTC Cadet Major James E. White of Goldsboro made a solo flight after only five hours and twenty-five minutes of dual instruction.

"This was a remarkable feat indicating extremely high aptitude and motivation toward aeronautical skills," said his instructor.

Most pilot prospects require from nine to ten hours at dual controls.

"A highly motivated flyer," is the way Major S. E. Massenburg, an Air Force pilot and assistant professor of Air Science, describes White. In charge of the Flight Instruction Program at A&T, Major Massenburg added that, in his 13 years of flying, he has never seen a student advance so rapidly.

White, an electrical engineering major, was instructed by Jeff Spencer, a flying instructor at the Greensboro - High Point - Winston - Salem Airport, with whom the Air Force maintains a contract for flight instruction for A&T College cadets.

The Flight Instruction Program is designed by the United States Air Force to give senior Air Force ROTC cadets 36½ hours of flight training which leads to a private pilot's license.

When cadets have completed this program, they are eligible to enter flight training with USAF in modern Jet aircraft.

This part of the AFROTC training program is free for selected cadets while a comparable program would cost $600 to $1,000 in civilian life. The Air Force is using this program as a means of selecting pilots that will fly current Air Force Weapons Systems.

The program here at A&T will graduate 12-14 pilots during this academic year.

Col. Ralph D. Crosby, left, Fort Monroe, Va., a representative of the Continental Army Corps (CONARC) visited at A&T College last week. He talks with Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college, and Lt. Col. William Goode, professor of military science and commander of the A&T Army ROTC Detachment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Koontz, right, Salisbury, president-elect, of the Classroom Teachers Association, National Education Association, who last week keynoted the observance of American Education Week at A&T College, is welcomed to the A&T campus by Miss Allegray Wilder, Belhaven, "Miss A&T," and state president of the Student National Education at right.

Faculty Publications

"Books are the treasured wealth of the world, the fit inheritance of generations and nations.

This statement by Thoreau is being upheld increasingly at A&T by the contributions that have been made to the world's treasury of books.

During the past few years a number of professors at A&T have written a number of books which have added to the continued progress in education and contemporary affairs.

Among those who have put their works into print recently have been Mrs. Carrye H. Kelley, Dr. Darwin T. Turner, and Dr. Albert Spruill.

Mrs. Kelley, who is an alumna of A&T College and a member of the college faculty for twenty-five years, is author of the recently published book, Profiles of Five Administrators. The book chronicles the administrations of five A&T presidents.

Dr. Turner's work is entitled KATHARSIS; and Dr. Spruill's book, titled Great Recollections from Aggeland, is an account of the history and development of A&T, tales about the administration, the faculty, students and alumni.

Mrs. Kelley's book is of great significance to A&T because it will be incorporated into the college catalogue. This is a significant contribution to the history of the college since present, past, and future students will have an opportunity to obtain a vivid developmental history of the institution.

Mrs. Kelley's advice to the aspiring writer is indeed timely when she says "start writing now and continue to write every day, even if it has to be about the weather. Begin now."

Dr. Spruill's publication will also prove to be of immense interest to all those who associate with A&T.

We also commend the efforts of other members of the Aggie family who are contributing through their penmanship to progress.

We hope all the students will read these books and others which are the works of our own educators. Charity begins at home

As We Give Thanks

"Come ye thankful people come,
Raise the song of harvest home
All is safely gathered in Ere the Winter's storms begin..."

The lines above will be among countless others that will be expressed this week as we once again celebrate Thanksgiving. We indeed have many things for which we ought to be thankful.

As another song writer said, "We plough the fields and scatter the good seed on the land, but it is fed and watered by God's almighty hand." Many people will claim that science has unfolded the mysteries of nature which are responsible for growth and the resultant abundance which we enjoy, without the intervention of any omnipresent guiding spirit.

The fallacy of such a claim is evidenced by the fact that man has never been able to understand fully the complex phenomena involved in the fruits which result in man's toil.

There are millions of people who may not have the opportunities for self-realization which we enjoy. This is a cause for humility and sober reflection on the part of everyone.

Let us ask ourselves whether we really deserve the fruits of progress. What contributions have we made to the developments in our communities or for our own individual development?

If we have done nothing worthwhile, we still have something to be thankful for — the mere fact of our existence. We do, therefore, have the opportunity to make foot-prints on the sands of time.

Let us remember those who have not had opportunities which we now misuse and let us be thankful to the Almighty by contributing to fight against moral decay, social injustice, and selfishness, among other things which are driving man toward that abyss of destruction.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Homecoming

Editors of THE REGISTER:

I feel that the homecoming activities were very nice and whoever arranged such a varied calendar of events should be highly commended. Student behavior also was at its best, and I hope the administrative unit of the school will agree that the students accepted their responsibility along with their privileges. Several schools have always allowed their students to have bonfires, mock funerals, and pre-dawn dances; however, A&T has just decided to join the ranks.

The parade, in my opinion was much better than it was last year; however, organizations should pay special attention to their choice of colors. I should like to cite the example of "Miss Morgan." The picture she presented would have been much more attractive had she not worn the same color as that of the car in which she rode. The Sunday School and fraternities are to be commended for the originality shown in their floats.

There was one thing about the half-time activities which bothered me. I'm not sure if it were planned or not, but the parade of queens during half-time distracted attention from Morgan State Band's performance. Sometimes the band could not be heard because the loud overtones of the announcer drowned it out. To me this showed disrespect for Morgan's performance. When Morgan first began its alma mater, many people did not stand because they did not know what was happening. Morgan is our rival, and we should respect them more because of this fact. I think the arrangement of their performance should have been announced just as that of A&T's was. They, too should have had the opportunity to have the undivided attention of the audience.

Communications

Editors of THE REGISTER:

At any institution of learning you will find unfavorable conditions counteracting the favorable ones. So is it on our campus.

Unfortunately one of our most unfavorable conditions is the lack of communication services on our campus. Because of this, there has been somewhat of a bad relationship between students and teachers. Many things happen throughout the day which, in many instances, only a few students hear about. Many important meetings have been missed because of poor communication services. Indeed, this is no advantage to the student.

Fortunately, plans are in the making for a better communication system on our campus. From what I can understand, students

A payday in Europe can help

WORK IN EUROPE

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg — Every registered student can get a job in Europe through the American Student Information Service, and the first 5000 applicants receive $250 travel grants. It is possible to earn $300 a month from a job selection that includes lifeguarding, child care and other resort work, office, sales, ship-board, farm and factory work. Job and travel grant applications and complete details are available in a 36-page illustrated booklet which students may obtain by sending $2 (for the booklet and airmail postage) to Dept. N, ASIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

will soon be able to turn on their radios and tune in to their own closed-circuit radio station which will be located here on campus.

If this is true, our problem of communication should be almost solved. At least, this will be a beginning point.

Editors of THE REGISTER:

I would like to commend the cafeteria personnel on the excellent job they have done in solving the feeding problem. When I first arrived at A&T, it was impossible to leave one class, eat, and be on time for the next class. Because of the efficient staff and co-workers, it is now possible to eat at any time without waiting all day in a long line.

Congratulations

Editors of THE REGISTER:

I would like to congratulate the team on outstanding performance that was exerted in the homecoming and classic games. I also would like to give words of praise to the head coach, other coaches and other persons who are affiliated with the team.

Campus Movies

Editors of THE REGISTER:

Sometimes I attend campus movies, you know, like lots of other students here. I attended one this past Saturday night. It was an adequately entertaining show, a good story. The spectating students were reacting to the movie in an orderly manner until a specific incident happened. A black man appeared on the screen, in a non-comical scene and this brought howling, ridiculing laughter from the students watching. This was not the first time that I have seen this happen. I have seen them mockingly laughed at on the big screen here before. This puzzles, frightens, dispirits me.

These ridiculing students reminded me of a man named John Henry Irwing driving a spike into the ground with a large hammer. The students are John Henry; the hammer is the image that most white Americans have assigned to Negroes; the spike is Negroes being driven into the ground. You get it now, don't you? Negroes ridiculously driving Negroes into a hole in the ground. Is there a foreseeable end to this blindness?

When will we ever learn? When will we ever learn that to be a Negro is not to be a scoffing symbol. It is to be a genius of man found upon this earth as talented and as beautiful as any other genus.

Core Statement

On Elections

The following statement on the outcome of the national election has been issued by CORE National Director James Farmer.

"The American people have shown their good sense. They have voted on the basis of issues and not of prejudice. They have repudiated the Goldwaterites who have themselves repudiated America's traditions and her hopes.

"We in CORE are proud of the constructive role played by hundreds of thousands of Negro voters, many of whom have made great sacrifices to enroll and vote. We believe that we have provided the margin of victory in such southern states as Florida, Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina.

"We offer our support to President Johnson and Vice-President Humphrey in building the Good Society for all our citizens. We urge all of those elected to go about the constructive tasks of building that society at every level of government — federal, state and local. We must open up new avenues to peaceful settlements abroad, eliminate poverty and sectionalism at home. In civil rights there must be federal protection for those risking their lives to secure the vote and the rights granted all citizens by our Constitution.

"We also call upon the new Congress to so organize itself that those who have publicly repudiated the Democratic party will be repudiated by it. We urge that Representative John Bell Williams of Mississippi and Representative Albert Watson of South Carolina be denied membership in the Democratic caucus."

Early Marriage And Its Effects

THE VIEW, Mount St. Mary's College, Los Angeles, California, has this to say:

Early marriage puts an end to what is known as the freedom of youth. So, too, does early engagement in public affairs.

Of course, if you equate the freedom of youth with freedom from everything, then it might be just as well to make a bee-line for the homestead or the marketplace. Better to be involved in some responsibility than to be just twiddling your thumbs.

But if it should be that the freedom of youth is freedom for something, then it might be just a little bit unfortunate that so often it gets thrown away in a scramble for husbands or hustings.

From what is the freedom of youth? From furious debate, argument, study, reading about the foundations of marriage and taking care.

From what is the freedom of youth? From marriage and taking care of society.

It is not for making up one's mind and coming to conclusions and swinging into action. It is free-

Holland Hall Women's Council Entertains Upper Volta Leader

Four women leaders from the Republic of Upper Volta in West Africa, who were visiting Greensboro, were guests of honor at an informal reception sponsored by the Women's Council in Holland Hall on Sunday, November 8.

The four leaders were accompanied by Mrs. Catherine G. Hurley, official escort from the U. S. State Department; Mrs. Margaret Brooks, interpreter for the African leaders; Miss Geneva Holmes, official escort from A&T College; and Dr. Charles A. Fountain, also from A&T College, official contact for the group.

Resplendent in their national dress, the African women were received by Mrs. E. B. Johnson, dean of women.

Earlier representatives of the Women's Council led by Miss A&T, Allegray Wilder, and President of the Council, Patricia Lawson, had waited patiently to receive the guests.

The visitors arrived in the United States in October and they have already been to Washington, D. C. and a number of states. Their visit is sponsored by the Agency for International Development in co-operation with the Upper Volta government. The purpose of the visit to the United States is to give them some acquaintance with American institutions, the role of American women in different activities, and to see the possibilities of developing programs for Voltaic women in the U. S. that might prepare them more fully to participate in the national life of this country.

While in Greensboro the visitors attended a discussion on Nutrition and reviewed Health Research facilities in Hines Hall. They also viewed a public-supported nursery school, its activities, and learned its history and development.

They visited Charles Moore School and observed elementary education program. Before they leave today, the Africans will have reviewed the programs of home agents in North Carolina, toured the Public Health Department and visited textile furniture, and photo-advertising facilities in High Point.

The visitors included Mme. Regina Lone, a primary school teacher; Mme. Fatimata Traore, head mistress girls' school, and wife of the Upper Volta, Secretary of Commerce; Mme. Nassira Overdraogo, chief midwife, Onagadongou Hospital; and Mlle. Marie Balima, social worker.

dom for holding off as long as possible from care the while one courses madly through the arts and sciences, through philosophy and theology, carefree. No care at all? Care to learn how to examine all things.

But surely, experience is the best teacher? True. Yet to benefit from its teaching you must be an apt pupil, and to be an apt pupil you must have developed a mind capable of examining.

Forget the summer romance, then. Take those national congresses with a pinch of salt. Get back into your ivory towers. The rest can wait.

AE Week Forum Presents Film On Motivation

On Thursday evening, November 12, the Professional Forum presented Motivations for Learning in the Bluford Library Auditorium, as part of the American Education Week celebration.

Dr. A. E. Gore, professor of education and psychology, presided with Franklin McCain, a student teacher at Carver Vocational High School, as moderator. Dr. Gore stated that the realm of class instruction is the greatest weakness among teachers.

The audience, consisting mostly of students who are interested in education, was shown a film, Motivating the Class. The film centered around a student doing his student teaching and the many problems that are a part of it.

The program was continued with panel and question and answer periods. Such questions were discussed as, "What are the implications for good teaching?" One that brought much attention was, "Can a teacher motivate a student?" The panel participants were Dr. Charles Pickney, Mrs. Georgiana Stamps, Mr. James Dawkins, Mr. A. P. Bell, Miss Lady Eubanks, Mr. James Bullock, and Miss Peggy Degraffinreid from the F.T.A. of Dudley High School.

A social hour sponsored by the Student N. E. A. closed the program.

Joseph C. McKinney, right, Washington, D. C., an engineer supervisor with the National Security Administration, was cited last week with the A&T College Alumni Service Award.

C. C. Griffin, Concord, chairman of the Alumni Awards Committee, makes the presentation at the annual A&T College Founders' Day Program.

AT FOUNDERS' DAY

Ten Members Of Class Of 1948 Congratulate Class President

When Joseph C. McKinney of Washington, D. C., was honored at the college's 73rd Anniversary celebration, ten of his classmates were on hand to congratulate him.

Mr. McKinney, an engineer supervisor with the National Security Administration, was cited by the A&T General Alumni Association for his outstanding achievements as a government employee and for his efforts in behalf of the alumni program, especially in the Washington area.

A member of the Class of 1948, McKinney was president of his senior class; and, at a ten-year reunion, he was named permanent president of the class.

Sharing the platform with McKinney was Dr. Eugene Marrow, president of the A&T College Student Council 1947-48. Dr. Marrow, professor of biology here, was Founders' Day representative for the faculty.

The eleven class members present for the Founders' Day celebration were active in all phases of campus activities. Five were among the thirty-two who graduated with honors, and seven of this group won nine of the seventeen awards presented to the 244-member graduating class.

In addition to Mr. McKinney and Dr. Marrow were Mr. B. W. Harris, vice president of the senior class; Mr. A. P. Bell, president of the agricultural association; Mrs. Dorothy Simmons Cameron, editor of THE REGISTER; Mrs. Rubye Troxler Davis, Richard B. Harrison Players; Mrs. Loreno Mebane Marrow, editor of the AYANTEE; Dr. Howard Robinson, band; Mr. George C. Gail, industrial arts; Mrs. Mabel DeVaughan Cole, business; Mr. Isaac Barnett, engineering.

Other members of the Class of 1948 employed at the college are Mrs. Frances Adams Debnam, Mrs. Ethel Rasberry Wallace, and Mr. Latham Wallace.

Mrs. Carrye Hill Kelley, associate professor of English at A&T College and author of Profiles of Five Administrators, a history of A&T College, is presented a certificate in recognition of her "significant contributions in service to the college and the teaching profession."

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college, makes the presentation.

Thanksgiving

Every year around Thanksgiving Time the Religious Life Committee of A&T College spearheads a "Thanksgiving Sharing Project for Needy Families in the Greensboro area."

Again this year they are undertaking such a project. All campus organizations are being asked to participate in the project by making contributions of canned goods and other non perishable foods.

The committee suggests that organizations give such products as dry cereal, Irish potatoes, canned fruit, sugar, flour, coffee and tea, etc.

Last year, enough products were donated by campus organizations for delivery of 24 baskets of foods to homes of elderly and needy members of the Greensboro Community.

The Religious Life Committee asked that all food be brought to Harrison Auditorium on or before Monday Evening, November 23, and that each organization select a representative to work with the packing and delivering of the products on Tuesday.

Dr. Albert W. Spruill is chairman of the Religious Life Committee.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

The Aggies really started like a ball of fire down in FMU land and threw a big scare into the hearts of the Rattler fans before finally bowing to an 85° temperature and the ever-present depth of the FAMU Rattlers by the score of 46-24.

The Aggies did something that was never before heard of in Rattler land and that was to score first at the Rattlers' home.

After a pass by Rattler quarterback, Ernie Hart, was fumbled and recovered by Melvin Phillips, the Aggies had the ball on the FAMU 30 yard line.

From here the Aggies were unable to move and Al Maloney came in to attempt a field goal from the FAMU 34. Instead of a field goal, it was a fake with Gordon passing to Willie Beasley, who blasted his way to the Florida 10 before being hemmed in. The alert Clifton Matthews, trailing on the play, took the lateral from Beasley and ripped into the end zone for the first score. Maloney's P.A.T. was good; and, at the 11:20 mark, things were looking up for the Aggies.

The Rattlers were not going to give in so early as they took the ensuing kick off and scored in 10 plays. The P.A.T. was wide and the score stood at 7-6, A&T.

Again the Aggies roared back with Beasley, Matthews, Phillips and Gordon taking turns gaining almost at will against a bewildered Rattler defense. With a 3 and 6 situation from the 24, Gordon rolled out and ran to the FAMU 14. From here Gordon carried to the 4 and Beasley carried it home in two smashes, making the score after the P.A.T. by Maloney 14-6 at the quarter.

The Rattlers cut the margin to 14-8 early in the second quarter as on a bad snap from center, the ball was downed in the Aggie end zone for a safety.

The Aggie kick-off soon turned into another Rattler TD as Hart teamed up with his big end, Robinson and Jones, for two pass completions, moving the ball to the Aggie 6. An off-side penalty moved the ball to the 3 from which Felts scored and Bob Hayes carried for the 2 point conversion, making the score 16-14, FAMU.

This was a short-lived lead, however, as Al "Toe" Maloney intercepted a Hart pass and returned to the FAMU 10. After the Aggies were unable to move, Maloney booted the ball for a 23 yard field goal and a 17-16 lead with 1 minute and 14 seconds remaining in the quarter.

When Jones again kicked off, the Rattlers suffered a mental lapse and failed to recover the ball; and Ronald Francis fell on the ball at the Rattler 30. Melvin Phillips carried to the 10. Gordon passed to Francis at the 2 and Beasley roared into the end zone for a 23-16 lead. The P.A.T. by Maloney made the score 24-16 at the half.

At this point, the Rattler fans were sensing an upset in the making; but the Florida sun had taken too much out of the charges of Coach Bert Piggott. When the Aggies returned, after an extremely long half-time performance by the FAMU band, they were definitely not the same team.

Florida took advantage of this early. The Aggies received and were unable to move. Grainger came on to punt. It was taken on the 42 and raced all the way for a TD by Felts, and it was "Katie Bar the Door" for the rest of the evening, for the Rattlers were on the move. The final score was 46-24.

Al Maloney played a whale of a game before his home fans as he intercepted a pass for 30 yards, kicked a field goal of 23 yards and added 3 P.A.T.'s. This, on top of playing most of the second half at quarterback, left the fans buzzing at the game's end.

Jerry "Mack Truck" McCullough turned in a mighty performance from his guard position as he was constantly nailing Rattlers back before they could get out of the backfield and over the field, helping to anchor the Aggie defense.

Lending strong support on defense to Jerry were Elvin Bethea, Heyward McKie, Earnest Buggs, Herman Simmons, Thomas "Dog" Alston and Bill Sinclair.

The Rattler dietitians were about to refuse Ronald Wildy permission to eat because they were sure he didn't belong with the Aggie squad. He more than disproved this theory as he ran well against the big musing Rattler defenders.

It was a pleasure to see the Aggie trainers in action before game time. George Kelley and Jerry Kinnebrew were busy taping ankles, hands, arms and wrapping knees about one hour before game time. Prior to this they handled and made sure that all equipment was ready, passed out meal tickets, woke everyone for all meals; and in general, their job included making sure that all the players were well taken care of. These two did as excellent a job in Florida as they have done all year.

VIRGINIA STATE

The Virginia State Trojans are next on our list and they are fresh from a very sound 22-0 drubbing of their little brothers of Norfolk State. The Trojans are tricky and vastly improved team with a potent passing attack which could give the Aggies a little trouble.

Feelings are still running high in the Aggie camp as their men know that only State and NCC stand before them and the C.I.A.A. flag.

The Aggies are ready as they suffered no injuries in the Florida game and should take the Trojans by 18 points in this meet.

"The development of management is essential to our goal of great growth"

At the 1964 stockholders' meeting, Arjay Miller, President of Ford Motor Company, emphasized the Company's far-sighted recruitment program and its accent on developing management talent:

"One aspect of our planning is crucial to the success of everything else we do. It engages the best thoughts and efforts of our whole management team, from top to bottom, throughout the world. I am speaking of the development of management. The immediate future of our Company depends heavily upon the abilities of the people who are now key members of our management team.

"In the longer run, our future depends on what we are doing at the present time to attract and develop the people who will be making the major decisions 10 to 20 years from now. We are developing management competence in depth in order to attack the problems that will confront a company of great growth—and great growth (both in profits and sales) is exactly the goal we have established for Ford Motor Company.

"We are continuing to emphasize recruiting. Last spring, 180 of our management people devoted part of their time to recruiting outstanding graduates from colleges and universities throughout the U.S. Last year, these efforts resulted in our hiring over 1,000 graduates, 220 more than the year before.

"We are seeking and we are finding young men—and young women, too—with brains and backbone—people who have the ability and the desire to make room for themselves at the top. We give our trainees challenging assignments with as much responsibility as they can carry. We promote them as fast as they are ready. Those who are interested in easy security soon drop out. Those who have what we want stay with us, and move up quickly to increased responsibility and the pay that goes with it. Thanks to the quality of the people we are recruiting and developing, I am firmly convinced that our outlook is most promising."
