Dr. Jesse E. Marshall, dean of students, discusses the student union in America as he presides over the groundbreaking ceremony.

A&T Observes Three Events On Her 74th Founders' Day

A&T College broke ground for a $1,000,000 student union building, witnessed a changing of the guard for the Army ROTC, and heard an address by an alumnus during the 74th Founders' Day observance last Tuesday.

Activities began with a retirement review of approximately 1,000 Army and Air Force ROTC cadets at 8:00 A.M. on Dudley lawn in honor of Lt. Col. William Goode and his successor, Lt. Col. Harold L. Lanier.

Colonel Goode retired after 25 years of military service, four of which he spent at A&T as professor of military science. Upon retirement from the Army, Col. Goode assumed his duties as dean of men at A&T.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy, A&T president, and visiting dignitaries attended the review and went from there to Moore Gymnasium where Dr. Morris H. Tynes was the guest speaker.

Pastor of Monumental Baptist Church in Chicago and an A&T College alumnus, Dr. Tynes used as his theme "What a Difference a Day Makes." He cited outstanding events that occurred in one day — the assassination of a president, the emergence of a new leader, the 1954 Supreme Court's decision invalidating segregation in education, the Morrill Act establishing landgrant colleges, Martin Luther's affixing his 95 theses to the door of the Schlosskirche, and others.

"We are not going to do everything in one day. The Negro is not going to do everything in one day or the white man either."

Man's dilemma is that he has not learned the simple formula for getting along with each other. "We can't love other people if we don't love ourselves," he said.

Dr. Tynes said he favors the United States' involvement in Viet Nam, urged Negroes to build family life and stop illegitimacy, and called for new discipline, restraint, and challenges for today's youth.

He paid special tribute to the Jewish Faith and tradition for having contributed five of history's most decisive personalities — Moses, Jesus, Karl Marx, Sigmund Freud, and Albert Einstein. "We are confronted today with a great ideological cleavage between Communism on the one hand and Christianity and Capitalism on the other. We have had other cleavages in history between Huns and Vandals, Gots, and Romans, Moslems and Christians, Protestants and Catholics; but a reconciliation ultimately came about. I predict that within 50 years a reconciliation will take place between Communism and Capitalism," said the speaker.

He advised his audience to put God into their lives because God is the one "ultimate absolute in the universe."

Howard C. Barnhill, a public health educator in Charlotte and a 1938 A&T graduate, received the Alumni Service Award, presented by C. C. Griffin, Concord, chairman of the Alumni Awards Committee.

Home Ec. Grads To Be Certified For New Program

A&T College graduates in home economics education will, beginning in the current school year, be certified to teach in programs of vocational home economics.

Approval of the program was announced by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college. He said the college had received notification from the North Carolina Board of Education, through Dr. Charles F. Carroll, superintendent of public instruction, that A&T is now approved for preparation of teachers in vocational home economics at the undergraduate level.

A&T graduates had been previously certified to teach in regular programs of home economics, but not in the vocational programs which are supported in part by the federal government.

Trustees Adopt Policy Suggested By "Ban" Group

The A&T College Board of Trustees unanimously adopted the Speaker Ban Study Commission's recommended college speaker policy at a called meeting Wednesday.

Two trustees indicated they would prefer outright repeal of the Speaker Ban, which prohibits Communists and Fifth Amendment pleaders from speaking at public colleges. The study commission recommended amending the law to return the power to regulate speakers to the trustees of the schools.

Two other trustees questioned the right of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to remove accreditation from North Carolina's public colleges.

The speaker policy is as follows: The trustees recognize that this institution, and every part thereof, is owned by the people of North Carolina; that it is operated by duly selected representatives and personnel for the benefit of the people of our state.

"The trustees of this institution are unalterably opposed to Communist and any other ideology or form of government which has as its goal the destruction of our basic democratic institutions.

"We recognize that the total program of a college or university is committed to an orderly process of inquiry and discussion, ethical and moral excellence, objective instruction, and respect for law.

"An essential part of the education of each student at this institution is the opportunity to hear diverse viewpoints expressed by speakers properly invited to the campus.

"It is highly desirable that students have the opportunity to question, review and discuss the opinions of speakers representing a wide range of viewpoints.

"IT IS VITAL to our success in supporting our free society against all forms of totalitarianism that institutions remain free to examine these ideologies to any extent that will serve the educational purposes of our institutions and not the purposes of the enemies of our free society.

"We feel that the appearance as a visiting speaker on our campus of one who was prohibited under Chapter 12097 of the 1963 session laws (the Speaker Ban Law) or who advocates any ideology or form of government which is wholly alien to our basic democratic institutions should be infrequent and then only when it would clearly serve the advantage of education; and on such rare occasions reasonable and proper care should be exercised by the institution.

"The campuses shall not be exploited as convenient outlets of discord and strife.

Art Lecturer Hale Woodruff Visits A&T

By LEE HOUSE, JR.

Renown is the World of Art is Professor Hale Woodruff of New York University, who last Monday, spoke to small groups as well as at a general assembly at different points on campus. His main attraction, however, was his general lecture in Harrison Auditorium at 7:30 P.M. Mr. Woodruff spoke about "Art and How it Functions in Our Society."

He introduced his audience to contemporary art and its function by first describing the society in which we live. He said that society today stresses materialism and there is nothing particularly anything wrong with this. "It makes life easier to bear; our gadgets, and others." Mr. Woodruff believes that we live in a mass culture which is similar to that of the Ancient Romans who, too, had an affluent material society.

Professor Woodruff alluded to folk art, etruscan art, American Indian art and other more primitive forms as functional and utilitarian art. This, he believes, was good and is what we, in a sense, should return to. Art as we know it, he says, is art of the aristocracy. Historically, art concerned itself with the temple or church, and "monied" classes. Hence, he maintained, that art has dealt little with ordinary man, but more with

Students Discover Mail Problem A Result Of Postman's Illness

The question of what is happening to the college mail was answered late last week upon the inquiry of a few interested students.

The answer is simply that Mr. Allison Gordon, college postman, is confined to his home because of illness. In fact Mr. Gordon has been ill for approximately three weeks, and no one has been able to keep the mail moving as Mr. Gordon did.

Freshman students possibly had not had an opportunity to meet Mr. Gordon because his activities have been curtailed in recent years. Upperclassmen, however, and his fellow alumni knew him as a permanent part of the campus.

A member of the Class of 1929, Mr. Gordon has served the college as secretary to the dean of the school of Mechanics Arts (now Engineering) and as college postman. For many years he was considered the fastest typist on campus, and he not only knew just about everybody on campus, but he also knew whether or not individuals had received mail during a particular delivery.

He never received civil service status; but as postman for more than 3,000 students, on occasion, he has spent many an extra hour working in the mail room.

"He certainly has gone beyond the call of duty," says his immediate supervisor, Marvin B. Graeber.

Mr. Gordon was honored in 1955 by the AYANTEE staff which

Auto Safety Imperative

TWO WEEKS — TWO ACCIDENTS

By LEE HOUSE, JR.

A&T College has been the site of two accidents within a span of two weeks. Student assailants as well as student victims were involved.

Saturday, October 30, at approximately 10:00 A.M. Joseph Battle was struck by a student vehicle on campus between Scott and Cooper Hall. Battle received moderate internal and external injuries.

On Saturday, November 6, less than two weeks later, another accident loomed on campus. At approximately 9:00 P.M., Saturday, November 6, Wilbert Camm was struck by a student vehicle on campus between Holland and Curtis Halls on Laurel Street. These two accidents have similar characteristics in that they not only happened on campus in proximity, but, seemingly thus far, by student hit-and-run drivers. Battle was treated in L. Richardson Hospital for six days. Camm is now a patient in L. Richardson. Both Battle and Camm are residents of Scott Hall — rooms 2048 and 2028 respectively.

The occurrence of these accidents has necessitated the stepped-up interest in campus safety. This very article is but a tenant of the grand appeal, on the part of the college, to all concerned to adhere to a policy of safety and relations conducive thereof.

There are hundreds of cars traveling on campus daily. This in itself produces a maze of difficulties. As students scatter and scramble to and from classes, cars zoom and boom through, around and ever so often, as lately, over students. There are no traffic stop-lights, and seemingly a minimum of signs and/or regulators of traffic. Nevertheless, virtue should always triumph over vice. The A&T College student should be able to discriminate between the do's and don't's for the pedestrian as well as the motorist. The keenly alert mind is usually the free and healthy mind, "accident free" included. This applies to both the walking and riding individual. The motorist, however, should never fail to exercise good judgment, competent skill, pertinent attentiveness, or courtesy, since pedestrians are said always to have the right of way.

In view of our crucial situation concerning campus auto safety, let us, Aggies, strive diligently through preventive and precautions methods to reinstate realistically and idealistically an atmosphere of safety on our campus. Drive, walk, and act (on a whole) safely — "the life you save, may be your own"!

Policy Of THE REGISTER

It is the policy of THE REGISTER to print any worthwhile information or news that affects A&T College, its students, its faculty, and its alumni.

It is also the policy of THE REGISTER to take a stand on controversial issues that affect the college community whether they be administration-student or student-student issues. However, it must be said here that we can do nothing if we don't know your grievances or, just as important, your praises.

We encourage you to write letters to the editor giving us your opinion of the varied aspects of academic life and social life at A&T; however the editor reserves the right to edit all letters to be printed.

Another point that should be brought out now is that THE REGISTER is not concerned with national or international news that does not directly apply to A&T. One can read this news in the daily papers or hear it on the radio or on the television. Instead we are more concerned with the news of the college.

There are many clubs and organizations on campus. If it seems that some clubs are getting more attention than others, it is because they publicize their organizations. If your organization has any news of interest, please let us know so we can print it. Our staff is not large enough to solicit such news.

THE REGISTER is in no way connected to or in competition with the Student Government and, therefore, is not obligated to support its decisions. This is in keeping with the right of freedom of the press. Furthermore, information printed in THE REGISTER does not necessarily reflect the views of the administration.

The members of the staff have worked hard to make the paper a success thus far. Our job will be easier with your help.

Rain Or Shine Outfit

By PHENIE DYE

As most of us know, our school is located in an unpredictable climate. This type of climate is very changeable. Today, it may be hot, but who knows what tomorrow will be? It might rain or snow, so it is time to start thinking about that London Fog, the knee boots, gloves and umbrella.

The London Fog has a shirt collar, four buttons down the front, and a button on each sleeve. The coat may or may not have a lining. The most common colors are army green, off-white, and blue.

The boots come to the knee and may or may not have a heel on them. Some are made with a zipper up the back, side or front. They may also be turned down from the top. They can be made so that you may or may not wear shoes with them. Usually the boots are black or brown.

The umbrella and gloves should match the coat and boots.

FOUNDERS' DAY MESSAGE

"What A Difference A Day Makes"

By EULA BATTLE

Many persons heard the inspiring message delivered by Dr. Tynes at the Annual Founders' Day Convocation.

His was a very timely message — "What A Difference A Day Makes." Because the twenty-four little hours contained within one day can and do make a great deal of difference, one should be mindful of how he spends his time.

Not everything one wishes to do can be done in a day. However, one should be able to build today on yesterday in an effort to create a better tomorrow. What one is today depends on what he did yesterday, and his tomorrow depends on his today. This is in keeping with the adage "Live each today as if it were your last."

Dr. Tynes also stated that there is no simple formula for getting along with others. The starting point, however, is learning to get along with ourselves. This can be exemplified in campus life. Students who are unable to cope with their own problems and live with themselves cannot hope to get along with their roommates.

Young adults should heed Dr. Tynes' appeal for discipline and restraint in social affairs so as to build family life and dispel illegitimacy. This is a must if the leaders of tomorrow plan to set an example for the generation which follows.

Instructors, too, should take heed the words of Dr. Tynes. They should take the student where they find him and carry him as far as he can go. Many instructors seem not to realize that students come to the college from many different cultural backgrounds. Many students are not equipped to travel at the pace which instructors insist on taking them.

The timelessness of Dr. Tynes message cannot be held too high. He gave some very good points which should be taken into consideration by students and teachers alike.

Postman's Illness

"For more years than our generation cares to remember, the same cheerful, assuring, diminutive figure has filled a niche in the hearts of the A&T College family. Regardless of what the occasion demanded, whether it was a kind word, a bit of advice, or an expression of gaiety, this friendly personality was there to provide it. So much a part of the college is he that to remove him would be to erase what in essence rivals the great traditions of the universe. None, we dare say, has won more friends, has memorized more personalities, has viewed more expressions of joy and sorrow than has this small man with the big heart who controls the campus mail.

"He has lived up to the highest traditions of the postal service as reflected in its motto, 'Neither sleet, nor snow, nor gloom of night can stay these couriers from the safe completion of their appointed rounds'."

Dean Of Students Seeks Nominees For "Who's Who In American Colleges"

A&T College has been requested to participate in nominating students for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Deans of schools have been requested to submit names of outstanding students for consideration. Scholarship will be a most outstanding factor in consideration, but leadership and citizenship are also very important.

This year a democratic facet has been returned. Students who feel that they have qualifications and requirements for being considered for nomination, may make it known to the dean of students.

This, of course, is a senior exclusive on this campus, but lower classmen are encouraged to strive now for qualification in the future. The appearance of one's name in "Who's Who . . ." is "the" recognizable achievement in one's college career.

First Runner-Up Becomes Queen Of Sophomores

Doris Johnson, first runner-up to Miss Sophomore, in last year's elections, will reign on the throne in the temporary absence of Miss Patterson. Miss Johnson is a sophomore nursing student from Wilmington, N. C. During her first year here, she achieved classification as an honor student.

Miss Johnson is very active in the Teloca Club, the Pentecostal Fellowship and the Cape Fear Club. Last year she was honored as being one of the Spinx Club Sweethearts at the annual Black and White Ball.

Upon ascending to the sophomore throne, Miss Johnson says, "I will strive to uphold the honor, dignity and expectations of this position to my fullest extent."

Art Lecturer

things of fancy and the elitist. Anything that has worth must serve the problems of mankind and seek to elevate or, at least, lessen their burden. Mr. Woodruff raised, rhetorically the question: did the humanistic movement humanize humans? He inferred that contemporary art has become light and concerned with popular environment. He said that "op art" and "pop art" as well as "cubism," "dotism," "abstractism" are characteristic of the twentieth century. There is yet, however, he said, a characteristic lacking, one which embodies the realistic common good. He asserted that since, the masters of our time like Picasso, Baroque, and Matisse art still remains "art of the aristocracy." He said that now art cannot really enrich or enlarge upon human fulfillment. He believes that the function of art should now be immediate and utilitarian.

Professor Woodruff maintained that education is now the hope of "sensitizing" mankind, that is making him more sensitive to ideas, his fellowman, and himself. Art, he said, is the one area where sensitivity can be gained. The artist urged his audience to re-evaluate and re-examine the role of art in society, for "Culture never comes from the outside; it comes from the inside."

Industry Offers Study And Work In Balance

By WILLIE RANDOLPH

A&T College's Vocational Industrial Educational School of Industry offers a balanced program of studies and work experience that have the common objective of producing competent workers. This program develops skills, abilities, understandings, attitudes and working habits and imparts knowledge or information needed by individuals who desire to enter and make progress in employment.

The goal is an American who, as a worker, is competent economically, socially, physically, and emotionally. The greatest asset of America is not its reserve of natural resources, but the skills and occupational competencies of the workers and the potential productivity of the young preparing to enter employment. This asset is enhanced by the School of Industry's vocational industrial education programs which assist individuals to increase their productive capacity and earning power.

Education in a democracy is properly expected to meet the fundamental needs of the individual and of society. The genius of American education has been its unity with diversity. A democracy must be concerned with providing for all people the kinds and levels of education most appropriate to their needs. The wealth, strength, and safety of America depends chiefly on the economic and civic productivity of the educated man. Education should fit for total service to society.

The School of Industry of A&T College offers training in the following areas: automotive technology, electronic technology, drafting technology, mechanical technology, building construction technology, and related areas.

Upon completion of either one of the above studies, one is qualified to receive a Bachelor of Science Degree. He is then qualified to work in many of the technical fields including teaching in the secondary schools. — Prior to this year under the program of the Technical Institute — this was not possible. One could work technically but not in the technology field.

Ninety-seven students are presently enrolled in these new programs.

BYLAWS

1. Robert's Rules of Order shall be the Student Government Association's authority on parliamentary procedure.
2. All elections shall be by secret ballot.
3. The Student Government Association shall pass upon such bylaws considered necessary by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the Student Government Association.

Aggies Face Va. State Trojans, Noted For Sharp-Passing Attack

By EARNEST FULTON

Tomorrow the Aggies will travel to Petersburg, Virginia to battle the Virginia State College Trojans. Game time is 1:30 P.M. The Aggies will have to win this game if they are not to be buried deeper into the C. I. A. A. first division cellar. Last Saturday they lost to Florida A&M by a score of 28-14. The game was played fairly evenly. The Rattlers did not dominate the statistics as was expected. If the Aggies had gotten a few breaks, they would have been able to pull out at least a tie. Tomorrow the Aggies will face what one might consider the best duo of quarterbacks in C.I.A.A. in Ed Golder and Al Banks. Virginia State will probably present a sharp-passing attack. Their leading receiver is split-end Harry Sharper, a 6'2", 215 pound sophomore from Columbia, South Carolina. Sharper is leading the C.I.A.A. in pass receptions.

The Trojans operate from a pro-style T formation with a flanker and a split end. The other end is called a tight end. The tight end is used mostly for blocking purposes and as a receiver in short-yardage situations. In this type of formation, only two running backs are left behind the quarterback.

The Trojans won their last game by beating Norfolk State by a score of 21-6. The Aggies should be able to win if they don't make any costly mistakes. Their defensive line is strong enough to apply and to maintain pressure on the Trojan quarterbacks, and that is the way to stop a passing-minded team.

In other CIAA action last week, Maryland state lost to South Carolina State by a score of 17-14. Elizabeth City State stopped Fayetteville State with a score of 22-8; Shaw knocked over Hampton Institute by a score of 20-14. Livingstone beat Howard 41-14. Virginia State beat Norfolk State by a score of 21-6. There will be a full slate of games in the C.I.A.A. tomorrow. Delaware State takes on Maryland State in Dover, Delaware. Maryland State should come out on top. Elizabeth City plays host to Livingstone in a battle of second division teams.

Virginia Union travels to Durham to battle the N. C. C. Eagles. The Panthers of Virginia Union should win in a close game. Johnson C. Smith entertains Saint Augustine's in Charlotte. Smith has really come on strong since she lost her first four games, but Saint Augustine's should win in another close game. Winston-Salem visits Raleigh to test Shaw's pass defense with James Milner's passes. The Rams will discover that Shaw's pass defense is pretty tight and will lose in a hard hitting battle.

As Florida A&M Takes It 28-14

By EARNEST FULTON

The Aggies were defeated last Saturday by a "non-traditional" Florida A&M team. The final score was 28-14.

The Aggies were beaten by their own mistakes with an occasional hand from the Rattlers. The defense actually gave up only one Rattlers' touchdown on a drive. The other Florida scores came on intercepted passes and a blocked punt which was recovered on A&T's five-yard line.

In the early moments of the game A&T drove deep into Florida A&M's territory on a sustained drive. With the ball on the Rattlers' ten-yard line, quarterback John Granger threw a pass which was intercepted and returned 95 yards for a touchdown. The kick for the extra point was good and Florida A&M led 7-0.

Florida scored its second touchdown as a result of a blocked Aggie punt which was recovered on A&T's five-yard line. From there Gene Thomas, the Rattlers' halfback scored on a burst through the middle of the line. The extra-point kick was good and Florida A&M led 14-0.

Aggies scored their first touchdown on a 70-yard drive led by quarterback Willie Pearson. Pearson took over control of the team from Granger. The score came on a 10-yard burst by Mike Johnson. He took the hand off from Pearson and shot through a hole in the line made by William Sinclair and Jerry McCullough. The drive which started on the Aggie 30-yard line featured strong running by Melvin Phillips, Willie Vaughn and Pearson. Johnson scored the extra points on a pass reception from Pearson. The half ended with the score: Florida 14, A&T 8.

Rattlers scored their third touchdown on a 77-yard drive which culminated with Anderson, the Rattlers' fullback, scoring from 10 yards out. The kick for the extra point was no good. The score: Florida 20-A&T 8.
