Annual Observance Honors Top Students

By DIANE BANNER

"They are out to get you every if you are ready...to compete in a world of ever-increasing demand," said Dr. Isaac H. Miller, registrar, at the dedication of the Alpha Kappa Honor Society, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, at A&T in Greensboro, N. C., Saturday afternoon.

Initiation of thirteen A&T and one from Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., took place at the President's Mid-Term Conference before an audience of more than 275. Involved were Mortimer G. L. Gilmore, national presiding; Dr. Charles R. Riddle, national parliamentarian; Mrs. Elizabeth Schmalz, chairman; and Mrs. Charles Banner of Lenoir.

Mrs. Doris Canada, president of the Gate City Chapter of the A&T College Student Senate, addressed the group and stated that the new program is advantageous to persons who have deep convictions and commitments — people who are committed to achieving the dignity of self.

By DR. STEVENSON

Dr. Daniel outlined five points for the young person of today to follow. The first point is self-reliance, in itself a battle in itself. The second is to maintain the ability to face the new world on one's feet on the ground. He strongly urged the students to strive for academic excellence; for achievement, in order to live up to the challenge of potentiality.

Dr. Miller concluded his address by emphasizing the fact that "we must build up and not tear down. We must propose, not destroy." The ranking students, according to Dr. A. C. Gore of A&T as co-director, will be brought in during the summer on a continuing basis to carry on the work begun at the time of the A&T's annual Alumni Program.

A&T and UNC-G Will Cooperate

In Upward Bound

A grant of $175,000 from the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity will make possible annual Upward Bound programs here during 1967-68 for 125 deprived North Carolina students.

Under the new grant, University of North Carolina at Greensboro and North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College will cooperate in the development and advancement of eight minority students each year in the Upward Bound Program. The Upward Bound Program is an academic enrichment program for economically and educationally disadvantaged minority students who are interested in the nearly 50 percent of the population who are presently excluded from higher education.

The Upward Bound Program is designed to enable the economically and educationally disadvantaged minority students who are interested in higher education to learn to develop the academic skills and self-confidence necessary for a successful transition to higher education. The students will come from the North Carolina Sate College System, the University of North Carolina System, and the North Carolina Technical College System.

What To Wear With You

By WILLIE LEACH

In the March issue of Glamour, a very popular fashion magazine, I read the very interesting article "What To Wear With You". The article went into specific details about just what a well-dressed young lady should wear. Here is what "Glamour" had to say.

"The candidates for Miss A&T will begin smiling and battering the paleness, carry it all the way through down to your stockings, and shoes. For instance, if you want the pale mauve pink last day, perhaps only one shoe, and many students still find a whole look to the other. For summer, the lightest pale is the only thing you can't do with... for some little heightening or distinction of a bit more glimmer and... for little bags are in, the big handbag is the forerunner of a bit more free spirit and would... If little bags are in, the big bags..."

Discover Thyself

By Harold G. Glaser

March Man, why is it you hide your face? Don't dream your manner is so strange, No, surely you have not need to fear, There are bright colors too, so daub your face with brightness, And more than that, quite remote. Speak out for what you believe is right; No change in age is to be required; The greatest moments are by thy side. You were placed here by the efforts of the student government president, he often finds that he can count them on the fingers of one hand, if he can count them at all.

Jazz And Poetry Highlight Language Arts Weeks

Persons for the affirmative were Sheila Johnson and Mary Harris, and persons for the negative side were Sandra Carlton and Jacqueline Foster, all seniors. The negative team won.

March 2 marked the final night of the Language Arts Weeks. It was at this program that Stanley Hanks, a junior economics major from Henderson, was guest speaker, doing excerpts from the late President Kennedy's inaugural Address. He included those famous words of Mr. Kennedy's, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." Hanks did a very good job ofimitating the manner of the late President.

The main feature of Wednesday night's program was the public speaking contest, in which senior spokesmen spoke on the theme, "This I Believe." First place winner was Luther Brown, who spoke on the subject "The Negro Should Accept Responsibility with Equal Rights." Second place winner was James Chestnut, who spoke of the topic "Our Country Should Be Headed Toward Peace, but to Greyness and Calmness." Capturing third place was Miss Johnnie Mebane, the only young lady at the contest, speaking on the subject of the advantages of a college education. Midway the evening, Miss L. R. Kinsey, chairman of the Language Arts Committee, defended a poem entitled, "How I Love My Country" by all her voice and speech students.

Ivy Club Entertains Children With Songs, Games, Egg Hunt

The Ivy Leaf Club of Alpha Phi Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority under the supervision of Carol Fitchett, hosted, entertain­ment of seventeen children at the Church of the Good Shepherd, March 22. The children, ranging in ages from six to nine, were from the White Oak area of the city.

Entertainment was provided through games, songs, egg hunt­ ing, and a tour of the church itself. This event was like an escape from the monotonous world. No children seemed to have been lacking this from their routines in general actions and suggestions for games. For the

First Choice, Alpha Phia Omega Springs Success In Book Project

The Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity has sponsored a book drive for The Atom, Foundation. This purpose of this drive and project was to provide books for schools and children in underprivileged Asian countries. The Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity would like to express its thanks to Bennett College Library, A&T College Chemistry Department, Agricultural Department of School of Engineering and the A&T College Bookstore for their contributions and assistance. All of these concerns and others made the book collection project total approximately 450 books. The men of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity again thank all of those who helped the drive to be a total success.

To Study And Travel In Europe

French Student Enters Program

Lolita Pazant, a sophomore French major from Beaufort, South Carolina, will travel to Europe this summer as part of the Piedmont University Center's Overseas Summer Study-Travel Program.

She had to be enrolled in a Center Member Institution, must have completed the intermediate year of language of country to be visited, must have a cumulative quality point average of 1.4 (3 point system), or 2.4 (4 point system), and must be accepted by Center's Admission Committee. Also she had to be recommended by the chairman of Foreign Languages and the Dean of the School of Education and General Studies.

The day for Lolita's departure is Monday, June 12, from New York City. While in Europe, she will visit Paris, France; Heidelberg and Luxembourg, Germany; Geneva, Switzerland; Amsterdam, Holland; London, England; and possibly Madrid, Spain. She will study for four weeks in Dijon, one of the richest art cities in Europe. She will return to the United States by the chairman of Foreign Languages and the Dean of the School of Education and General Studies.

The cost of the trip is $1,200, of which the school will give $150.

Lolita is presently reaigning as Miss Harrison Player and is our responding secretary to the group. She is also a member of the Col lege Usher Board, Student NEA, GUTS (Baptist Student Union), and is the recently-elected second vice-president of the National Association of Dramatic and Speech Arts.

Says Lolita, "I'm very happy to have been accepted into the program, and I promise to do what I can to uphold the image of a "good" Aggie. I regret only that I cannot share my experiences with many other Aggies."
