A&T Professors Earn Doctorates

Rejoin Faculty In Spring

Sidney E. Evans and Mrs. Pearl Garrett have been awarded Doctor of Philosophy degrees by the University of Minnesota. They will rejoin A&T's faculty next term.

The return of the two will raise to 17 the number of new Ph. D. degree holders employed at the university this spring term.

Dr. Evans, an associate professor of economics, has been on leave from A&T the past two years. He also holds degrees from Virginia State College and Indiana State University.

His dissertation was "An Analysis of the Costs and Benefits of Community for Employment in the Appalachian Region of Ohio.

Dr. Evans is married to the former Alma Clouds of Macon, Miss. The Evans have two children, Curt, 14, a student at A&T; and Sidney Jr., 12. Dr. Evans is a member of the American City's Chapter Honor Members For Service

Marvin R. Gruber, superintendent of schools in the City of State College, has been named winner of the first Service Award presented by the University's Gate City Alumni Chapter.

Gruber, a graduate of A&T, has been active in the Chapter's fund-raising activities. He is currently on the committee sponsoring a campaign to raise $15,000 for scholarships.

The nominating sub-committee was chaired by Dr. W. A. Bledsoe, assistant professor of political science and development at Winston-Salem State College.

Dr. Robert Colwell, secretary of the committee, said that the good alumni is to be sumbered, informed, involved, and committed in society. "To become concerned is to become dissatisfied with one's environment," he added.

Other awards presented included the "Miss Gate City" award to Miss M. D. Grimsley, and a memorial scholarship award to Miss Virginia E. Cooper. The "Miss Bulldogs and Greens" award was presented to Mrs. Educible C. Crumbliss.

Others taking part in the program included Mrs. Dora Coons, chapter president; Dr. A. D. Bell, the campus Dean; and Dr. L. C. Dcey, president of A&T.

A&T Awards $40,000 For Study

By U. S. Office Of Education

A&T State University has been awarded a $40,000 grant by the U. S. Office of Education. The money will be used to establish an experimental institute for graduate study in agronomy.

In making the announcement, President Lewis C. Dowdy said that the institute will be established at the university next semester.

Dr. Dowdy also announced that the institute's first project will be a research study in the English language on "The Eyesore of The Week." The study will be conducted by Martin D. Beachy, a graduate student at A&T from June 1 to July 16.

The institute's first project will primarily be teaching college teachers who instruct courses on the English language. To achieve this, the institute will hold workshops and seminars.

The $40,000 grant will be used primarily for graduate fellowships and scholarships for students who will study modern linguistics, but are normally expected to attend graduate schools.

"Teachers interested in participating in the institute may form a fellowship, and application forms from Dr. J. B. B. J. T. (Continued on Page 6)
In Spite Of It All

Pre-registration procedures are over and students are looking forward to a speedy and pleasant Spring registration. Of course, there are those who did not complete the pre-registration procedures. Their failure to pre-register is due to multiple causes. First, and perhaps most important, the students conducting pre-registration was evident. What a student to do when the computer fails to make a pre-registration form for him? This added to the difficulty and caused a delay in many instances.

Students who could not find their advisers were at a total loss. It is too late to print this as a breaking news story, but it has also increased the number of lines, added to the confusion, but it has also increased the number of lines, added to the committee of which A&T is an active part.

Their failure to pre-register is due to multiple causes. First, they are not in the habit of keeping those office hours. Students who could not find their advisers were at a total loss. It has increased the number of lines, added to the confusion, but it has also increased the number of lines, added to the committee of which A&T is an active part.

No thoughts of optimism are sought here — simply cooperation from everybody concerned can’t do any harm. There has been an improvement the new methods will render. Thus people who smell roses are not in the habit of keeping those office hours. Students who could not find their advisers were at a total loss. It has increased the number of lines, added to the confusion, but it has also increased the number of lines, added to the committee of which A&T is an active part.
The '68 Change
In Fashion Is Challenging

by PAMELA J. WALL

1968 hair has surprisingly taken a new turn. From the sleekly straight blunt look, it has turned into a hoarse of soft, iridescent curls. They remind you a little of the curls of the late 60's, but the curls of the 60's are not as close to the head as the '68 curls are as they are framed as those of the '60's. The '68 curls are smooth and fresh and bounce no matter what length the hair is.

Make-up has a mysterious and faintly involved look. Eyes are darker and softer. Cheeks are blushed just enough into a healthy glow, and lips are darker and shiner, giving the entire face a new natural look.

1968 clothes are not matched but put together so that everything blends in. The dominating colors put together so that everything black. Clothes suggests waistlines this winter are navy, grey, and a new natural look.

Young Negro Talent Breakthrough White Monopoly

The struggle of the young Negro creative person to break through the white monopoly of the arts in the United States as told with an authoritative cadence in the November-January issue of Readers & Writers magazine. A Negro playwright and a Negro dancer are profiled by a white film reviewer in describing the distinctionless wall of artistic prejudice and indifference as well as the void that exists where the Negro artist should be. "The Negro Experience in the Arts" is the theme of this latest issue of Readers & Writers, which circulates on campuses in 30 American states, and off campuses and overseas.

A young Negro Howard University student, who was at home in Baltimore during the riots earlier this year, tells in a series of letters her reactions to the violence, and her firm opinion as to its causes and the potential for removing them. There are also profiled a set of short poems in the form of church hymns entitled "Ghetto Service." Students from Yale, University of Michigan, Ohio State, California, New York University, Columbia, and other schools also present their personal experiences and views.

Original paintings, poetry, short stories, a play, and essays by Negro and white students boldly dismantle the magazine, which regularly features creative works by college students. Not only are they showcased in the magazine, but also in the late Langston Hughes, one of the best-known American Negro writers. His first short story, which was found by Readers and Writers in an obscure Harlem newspaper of the 1920's, is reprinted in Famous Authors First, a regular feature. The story is accompanied by a critical analysis by Professor James A. Engstrom, who teaches Negro poety in the City College of New York.

Readers and Writers is the only professional magazine in the United States dedicated primarily to publishing on a regular basis the best creative work of talented college students in the field of literature and to featuring the outstanding work of others. In this way, E&W serves as a community link between campuses so that students and faculty can see what is done and admired by their contemporaries throughout the country. E&W is in its second year of publication. E&W is available at many university bookstores, as well as on-campus bookstores and newspapers all over the country. A year's subscription of six issues is only $1.50.

Now They're Burning Library Cards

By LARRY WRENN

I couldn't sleep. I had spent a lot of time looking for a part-time holiday job. Traditionally, I had applied at L. Richardson for a part-time doctor's job, but I wasn't hired. I hadn't heard from President Johnson either. I wrote him a new letter of application now. I really did want to work on his cabinet during the Christmas rush. I used Christmas money so badly that I may apply to be a governor in Georgia. They need one. So I can't sleep. Christmas is approaching. I can panic, break, and failing French.

Then suddenly I got a job! Chairman of the board at A&T. I had a staff of 3 assistants, with no downtime. They were ready and willing to do anything that I dictated.

"It is a previous situation. Many students have protested by burning their library cards. Yes, on the end, go over to the library and tell them to find out what books they don't have, and make them order them. As you well know many of the books listed in the card catalogue are not on the shelves."

He snapped to attention, said "yes, sir!", made an about-face and left.

I liked the efficiency. My voice became slightly more brisk. "You on the end there. Make maintenance fix all the clocks and replace the strableness which they raised in front of Hodgin Hall."

He snapped to attention, yes sir-, and made the proper exit. Someone remarked to me yesterday, "We've come not to an education, not to breed war mongers. You will the pink belt, go to Campbell and find out if it is necessary to retain the two-year program, and why it has to be mandatory."

"And you with the silly hat on. What's your name?"

"Stanley Johnson."

"You listen in on some of the radiocasts, think in carefully everything that you say or do, try to realize how it affects society and the future, and print your thoughts in the paper. Right."

"He didn't say you sit or exist properly, but nevertheless I think he will do a good job."

"You on the end go to the Register's office. I knew I was doing something important now, and if you find nobody doing it, find out what they are doing, find out what they are doing wrong?" He started to make his exit. "No. on second thought the situation over there is hopeless, fire them all, destroy all records and start all over again."

"You in the middle. I only had two poor kids; they looked at each other, not knowing whom I was talking to. "All right yes to the left of the middle, listen up. I've received several complaints concerning the business department. You go over there and investigate the situation over there."

"You go over there and investigate the . . . "

My sentence was cut off by a roll-dee-tat-a machine gun. A short pain in my stomach. I reach up to straighten my tie so I'd look nice for my own funeral. But I don't have a tie on. It's a pajama shirt. My eyes adjust to the darkness of the east where a giant marshmallow caused by eating in Brown Hall. Morning. Wide-awake, jobless, and still failing French.

I have strange dreams. The other night I dreamed I ate a giant marshmallow. When I woke up, my pillow was gone.

But I don't have a tie on. It's a pajama shirt. My eyes adjust to the darkness of the east where a giant marshmallow caused by eating in Brown Hall. Morning. Wide-awake, jobless, and still failing French.
A MESSAGE EXCLUSIVELY FOR ENGINEERING GRADUATES WHO ARE LOOKING FOR RESPONSIBILITY:

At Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, we are selectively seeking engineering graduates with executive potential who are able and willing to share the heavy responsibilities in our business of building and operating the facilities for transmission of billions of cubic feet of Natural Gas each year from the gas fields of the Southwest to millions of homes and thousands of industries in the Midwest usage areas... a business which demands outstanding engineering talent.

THE MEN WE WANT are distinctively creative, with a desire to direct their energies and capabilities into services of significance. They are men who prefer to work with a compact, knowledgeable group rather than be lost in a large but non-singularized staff. They are dedicated men who want to develop careers in a growing industry where individual achievement is still recognized and rewarded on the strength of merit.

At NGPL, furthermore, there are excellent career openings for qualified men regardless of their engineering specialties—agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical or petroleum.

In Missouri, or anywhere else, there is no compromise with quality in Personna or in Personna's partner in the making of blades — Personna Steel Bladers. They are as skilled in the art of making your check if I omit to mention their product. Better yet, you, that it is for you for the price of Personna, for it is a razor blade that shaves you cleanly, a shaving blade that leaves you shaving. It is a thin, sharp, razor blade that leaves you shave-free, a blade that leaves you clean, comfortable. If you are tired of facial lapses, or in your mind. By Mr. Arthur late in the season.

Another clever little trick to fix the year 1968 in your mind is to remember that 1963 spilled backwards is 1983.
