"Negro Colleges Not Disaster Areas" Says Southern Association Head

Dr. Gordon Sweet, executive secretary of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, visited the campus this week and spoke Monday at the Corporation Luncheon. Dr. Sweet said that he did not believe what some writers have said. "Negro colleges are not academic--areas--some of them are better than others."

"The awakened Negro colleges are the only ones that can do the massive education job that is needed by Negroes. There is a need for colleges which will serve the Negroes of the campus so they can adjust in the social demands placed upon them."

"The Negro colleges will help close the cultural and educational gaps which keep young Negro men out of our colleges. They train teachers and make every graduate a competent person who has had his neighborhood and to the campus so that the students can take advantage of the tremendous opportunities that have been opened up to them."

Dr. Sweet pointed out that "only recently have Negro colleges been able to grapple with the obligations that have been put upon them. They have not had the types of business management that they have had to operate. They have had to operate under all state constitutional prohibitions and policies and only recently have they had the opportunity to function under school quality programs as outlined by Dr. Hawkins."

With references to developing a good atmosphere on campus, Dr. Sweet said he believed the "color of a college is not important, but it's a matter of getting the needed money for education."

"Beat Goes On" As Dorm Misses New Furniture

BY HILLARD B. RINES, JR.

W. Kerr Scott Hall lost a two-seat sofa last weekend. The canvas part was part of the newly-arrived furniture for Scott and Cooper men's rooms to replace upholstered furniture for other rooms in the dormitory.

Vilipip Boone, assistant dean of men and Kent Scott of Scott Hall stated that the furniture was taken between the hours of 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. Saturday morning. The dean of men, "At this point I would not be justified in making any comments." However, he did say, "I think it's the job of the people who are proven to be taking this type of thing from us to take care of their dormitory by not bringing any consumable person into the dormitory and the only way to prevent this type of thing from happening would be for the students to be responsible for their dormitory."

"It is not the first time during the night that all of the occupants of W. Kerr Scott Hall could not sleep because there were always someone in the hall for some reason or another and an observant student could possibly have prevented this type of thing from happening."

Eugene Boone stated, "The students that are supposed to be taking care of this is not squashed. It is a two way street and we always have someone in the building for some reason or another and an observant student could possibly have prevented this type of thing from happening."

"I think one thing could help in getting the dormitories back in order," Boone said. "I think one thing would be to raise the mil. However, FEA urges."

"The current Florida school crisis continues to bubble. On December 28, FEA delegates to the state legislature to take some action. On December 19, Gov. Claude A. Kirk, Jr., said that he would call a special session of the legislature to act. Although the Florida Education Association in Tallahassee remains apprehensive about a special session of the legislature to take action, the report was generally approved by FEA, what Florida teachers object to is the fact that the report does not suggest sources of funds for the school improvements it urges.

Meanwhile, Governor Kirk has further complicated the problem by announcing that he would like to take the matter of a tax increase to the public via a state-wide referendum. After many people who want to put on themselves, they're welcome to do so." The FEA General Convention has adopted a resolution opposing such a referendum as a condition for additional federal funds. Indeed, FEA urged removal of all state constitutional prohibitions against the use of any type of tax, including the income tax.

The California school crisis began in March 1963, at which time FEA urged the 1963 session of the state legislature to take steps to improve school conditions. When that legislature failed to act positively, FEA said an NNE investigation of state school conditions will be done, and that if preventive measures were not taken, there would be no furniture for parents to sit on when they come for visits.

A&T Foundation Hosts Corporation For 4-Year Drive

Approximately fifty Greensboro corporations were represented at a special luncheon held to kick-off a million dollar drive for the A&T State University Foundation.

In presenting the challenge, Dr. L. C. Dowdy, president, said that only educational innovation must be developed through "long range planning as opposed to reacting to crises." He went on to say that A&T will have to have the leadership, courage, and determination to organize and execute the most sensitive academic program." One of the areas requiring immediate action as noted by Dr. Dowdy was the "release of faculty members who do not meet the academic challenge."

Dr. Dowdy then outlined the Foundation's aim to raise $8,000,000 over the next four-year period with one-third coming from an untaxed foundation, one-third from the Alumni Association, and the final third from the Greensboro corporations represented at the luncheon.

Howard Barnhill, the National President of the General Alumni Association, accepted the challenge on behalf of the Alumni. Dr. Dowdy indicated that the money will be used for student scholarships, research projects, faculty fellowships, and as supplements to faculty salaries.

Draft Could Become Top Issue In Next Presidential Election

WASHINGTON (C.P.) — Although Congress has extended the draft for four more years, the Selective Service System still may become a campaign issue in the nation's Presidential election.

It is highly doubtful that either the Democratic or Republican candidates will pledge to abolish the draft. Theículo possible that one or both parties will attempt to make military service a matter of public opinion by calling it a "righteous" one.

"The money represents payment on $3,000 student leaders have effectively used their influence and presently with Burlington Industries.

"The money will be used for student scholarships, research projects, faculty fellowships, and as supplements to faculty salaries.

The Essence Of The Bonnie Look

by William Mac Leach

From the movie "Bonnie and Clyde," we see the Bonnie look as the modern fashion fad. Patsy Denman, who was inspired by Bonnie Parker's costume, has designed a pink cardigan suit that she calls a "Bobby". The suit is of pink wool worsted. The ensemble is tailored bitches that always sometimes, make femininity more feminine.

Gayle Kilpatrick has designed a mini skirt in navy and white stripes. The mini skirt is complemented by a white cardigan with a short pleated skirt. The ensemble is complete with a "Bobby".

Clyde "Bonnie and Clyde" is the movie. The "Bonnie and Clyde" look doesn't mean a lot to a great many people when they cast their votes. However, this look is becoming more and more popular. The Bonnie look is being adopted by many women as a fashion statement.

The Bonnie look is becoming more and more popular. The Bonnie look is being adopted by many women as a fashion statement. However, it is important to remember that the Bonnie look is not just a fashion statement. It is also a political statement. The Bonnie look is being worn as a sign of solidarity with the causes that Bonnie and Clyde stood for. The Bonnie look is being worn as a sign of support for the students who are fighting for their rights.

They really laid one 1 I 1...
The Old Lady And The Mountain
By LARRY WREN

The man’s conversation shifted to the supernatural, talking wars off, talking fire out of people, and encountering. I had been a student for man for many years, and I had also encountered a creature; he just wasn’t the type who had magical powers. His eyes were glaringly serious; mine hardly matched his until he did joke.

"You can move a mountain if you really believe," he stated convincingly.

"Can you move a mountain? I implored.

"Yes, if I really tried," he said forcefully.

My materialism span. Why don’t you start on something small, like furniture? Moving furniture, I’ll bake you financial. We can put United Van Lines out of business in no time. Make a fortune?"

"You don’t believe in all that, do you? — it’s true, one can move a mountain if he really believes. He was displayed at my inherent attitude towards superstition. His loose change and he believed his fantastic, but supposed superstition. His tone changed and he inquired.

"Can you move a mountain? I really do believe," I said.

"Then you really believe, you could move a mountain. And she wanted sunshine, because of the mountain."

Dave Brubeck Quartet

The passing of the Dave Brubeck made many a wart from smallness until eleven o’clock because of the mountain. At sunrise, she went outside, and, slowly, “She stayed up all night” he continued, “proving fervently that, the mountain be moved. She used magic water and a mysterious ritual with herbs, which she learned from an old Indian woman. After trying all night to move that mountain, she was exhausted, but she couldn’t sleep. At sunrise, she went out side, and, do you know what?"

"No, please tell me; I can’t stand the suspense."

"In a low voice, he continued quietly, "She won’t believe this, but it is true, after chanting the rite and using the herbs, we went outside to watch the sunrise emerge. We couldn’t see the sun before, because of the mountain."

How cruel this world can be.

Nature, you are a hideous bitch—

It’s dusk

Of another naked day.

Cursed be the beams from the heaven above;

Showers bear blame for wetting me soak,

Cursed be the beams from the heaven above;

Showers bear blame for wetting me soak, —

And storms only my temperament provoke!

The passing of the Dave Brubeck proved to countless people, and in the process of learning, one has to get their mail ... I could pick them up. She went out side to get their mail ... I could pick them up.

Earth, you are a hideous bitch—

How cruel this world can be.

How cruel this world can be.

How cruel this world can be.

How cruel that world can be,

God’s given my son back to me,

And she’s not even sleepy.

Some time has passed and so, my soul;

The passing of the Dave Brubeck proved to countless people, and in the process of learning, one has to engage in accusations of their injustices. Dr. Marshall said, “I imagine that students do not report these serious incidents because they do not want any green cheese.” (chuckle)

Perhaps they act with reluctance because they do not wish to engage in accusations of their peers. Also, they may be afraid of getting involved with a criminal case and having to testify. Those who have experiences refuse to inform authorities of such mishaps because they fear that their identification may lead to a severe reaction by family individuals. Nevertheless, he believes that students who have completed courses should be given an opportunity to carry out his duty of making people aware.

I am requesting that consideration be given to this matter by whatever body or individual responsible for executing said policy. I make the above request because there exists a great distortion in the students' overall ability. There should be no concern as to how many times an individual fails before he is asked or fails before he succeeds as long as is the end success status.

Further, I am sure that a change of policy would bolster the students' ego and present a true reading of the University's training procedures.

The Rising Cost Of Education And Good Jobs

BY VALERIA E. LOWE

A new year brings in new surprises. Indeed, college-bound students, college students, and parents are in for a surprise. College fees may go up again.

According to information published by the Office of Institutional Research, state university budget requests will determine whether institutions will be able to hold the line against mounting costs or whether they'll have to raise charges to offset budget cuts. The cause is that, despite recorded appropriations, the needs of public higher education have been cut, stripping the support of state governments. The enrollment boom, increased graduate study, inflation, rising salaries and expensive equipment contribute to the escalating operating costs.

What can be done to stop this?

The University of Tennessee has planned to ask the state legislature to restore appropriations cut in 1967. If these appropriations are restored, then the hike may not be so great. Along with appropriations and gifts, Federal grants, and other private sources will be needed to keep the cost down.

How will the hike affect school enrollments? According to a survey taken by the A. C. R. (American Council on Education), the low cost was listed as a major influence among student choices of institutions. With this, it brought out the nationally median family income, $5,982 and the median college student family income, $8,985. Nationally, 24.3 percent of all families fall in a bracket of $4,000 or lower. Only 5.9 percent of families of college students fall in this bracket. What happens then to youths of low income families who cannot afford high education costs? They are left out while a good education goes down the drain.

Bowling League Nears Goal In Forty-Eight Game Series

By JOHNNY CEE WILLIAMS

The Aggie Bowling League consisting of four teams has played thirty-two of a forty-eight game series held each week as the student union.

The four teams were organized at the beginning of the fall semester of 1967, under the advisement of Petty McKee, chairman of the department of the Memorial Union.

The teams which make up the league are the Ten-pins, Hucks, Spartans, and the Sea-Hawks, with captains Thomas Brewer, Tony Smith respectively.

The Ten-pins, with a 22-10 record are currently first place in the forty-eight game series, followed second place being held by the Hucks with a 19-14 record.

The highest individual average is currently held by Thomas Brewer, captain of the Ten-pins with a 17-15 record, second highest held by Hannan Gosebore of the Hucks with a 16-2 record.

The Alpha Pi chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority will present plaques to the first place team, and also the individuals with the highest averages at the end of the forty-eight game series.

Dr. Marshall was also asked why he thought anyone would even want to steal valuable merchandise from an institution, of all places. He replied that money is usually of key importance, which is understandable true to the desperate student. But, he said, there is no actual evidence that the students are engaging in these affairs. He also believed that some students may claim just to let the authorities and others know that stealing can be done right under everyone’s noses. It is not uncommon how anyone can steal without having a guilty conscience. Some substantiating evidence that a few individuals are unconcerned with their conscience is due to the fact that some materials were recently stolen from the Sigma Chi Union. Dr. Marshall said, “Now, why in the world would anyone want to steal meditation candles and candleholders out of the meditation room?”

As may be suspected, this matter has burglarized to quite serious. It is hoped that everyone will take into consideration what Dr. Marshall has advised.

“All for the wise: He who knows of wrong doing and knows that he knows, but does not tell as a coward, but he who knows of wrong doing and is afraid to tell authorities that he knows is a base & Abad!”

into self parody. He was at his peak in 1960-61 when his "Time Further Out" and "Time Further Out" albums were released. The "Time Further Out" contained one of his most completely good pieces, "Blue Shadows In The Street." A 3/8 piece beginning in a minor key, the melody is based on major-sevenths and flatted-sevenths, which are often suspended. Syntetically the melody is reminiscent of Stravinsky’s “Chutes Bridge.” "Blue Shadows" is introduced by a sudden change from minor to dominant seventh, then to sub dominant for a pedal change in introducing Desmond’s break. His most tasteful solo is hauntingly lyrical, filled with Getz-type arpeggios and is quite worthy of fine DOWNBEAT stars. Brubeck returns with an interesting improvisation ornamented by a sidemen Merullo, who is sounding 3/4 on his snare with high school proficiency.
