King Biography
To Benefit SCLC

By LILLIE MILLER

First proclaimed in 1958, National Library Week reached the 1968 celebration, and with it the 1968. All over the nation, people of various ages, races, and creeds recognize the importance of reading, emphasize the need for a more informed America.

The objectives of National Library Week, according to the American Library Association, is to remind the American people that reading can help them become a part of a greater sense of purpose and meaning in their lives, to urge them to see more fully the libraries of all kinds in which the greatest aim is to set apart a time when the public, cognizant of the fact that

The library staff hopes that the celebration of National Library Week has made the students and faculty and general public, cognizant of the fact that the library is open more than the time, we must "Wake up and read."

The 30-voice A&T State University choir, conducted by Howe and T. Pearson, has completed its annual spring tour of the Eastern Seaboard.

The singers had appeared scheduled in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York prior to returning to the campus.

Through the years, the A&T choir has been known as one of the finest groups in the nation. Members of the choir are, fully dedicated, from the University's 4,600 students. More than 30 per­cent of this year's choir members are music majors.

He holds a master's degree from Western Michigan University, and is a candidate for the doctorate in conducting. He has been chairman of the Music De­partment at the University since the early 1960's.

The choir's program this season featured music of Handel, Bach, Mendelssohn, as well as British and American folk tunes and spirituals.

Choir members are Barbara Cobb-Milovick, Azailee Kibom, Greensboro, N.C; J. C. Waters, Charlotte, S.C.; and Timothy Blacklock, Indianapolis, Ind.

Waging War
by PRINCE LEGGE

Recently we have been protesting against many systems and the world's policies. Such a protest might be considered as a right to exercise our freedom of speech and assembly, if it is just and justifiable for those who are fighting for a cause that they believe in. However, when such protests become violent or destructive, they can be viewed as a threat to public order and safety.

We have been observing changes in the media and the education system. A free press is a cornerstone of a democratic society, allowing citizens to access information and hold their leaders accountable. However, when the press becomes beholden to corporate interests or government censorship, it can lose its independence and become a tool for manipulation.

The Register and its staff members have been the victims of several attacks, but they have all been ignored because the students revealed explicit evidence that they have not been reading the paper and made no attempt to refute the allegations. We are concerned that the administration is attempting to control the information that is presented to the students.

It is time for some self-defense to be considered. The Register and its staff need to be heard and respected as legitimate voices in the community. We are prepared to assert that the accusers have definitely made no investigation of the factual information provided by our newspaper. The Register will continue to provide a platform for those who wish to express their views, as it has always done in the past.

The administration's actions have caused us to question the credibility of our university and its commitment to our rights and freedoms. We believe that the Register and its staff members should be given the opportunity to address these concerns and to continue their work in the service of our community.

In the light of the tragic event of the assassination of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., as well as the recent events in Selma, we wish to express our profound sorrow of loss. As members of the Baptist General Conference and as present and future pastors, we wish to express our sense of shock and our inade­quate involvement in concrete social issues. In the face of this tragedy, we seek direction and leadership. We call on the Christians of the Baptist General Conference to break out of our isolation and to actively seek to be the body of Christ in our society. What can the concerned evangelical pastor do? We believe that there is a way to make the following few recommendations:

1. The Conference give concrete and definite leadership to its pastors in order that they might lead boldly into the human rights movement.

2. A Board of Social Responsibility be established as part of our United Mission for Christ.

3. The Conference and the local churches openly make known the way of God. A ministry of reconciliation comes to all races, including Negroes, and that funds are available to students in need of financial aid.

We the students of Bethel Theological Seminary affirm our faith in the Scriptures and recognize that nothing must divert us from our responsibility to preach the gospel of a personal faith in Jesus Christ. We affirm the fact that Christ loved people in the place where He became totally involved with them in the exercise of love. In the knowledge of the discriminatoryclassrooms. The Register and its staff have been an active force in the point of drive for those who rejected his message and His love. The compassion and love of Christ at times interfered with his message of the Kingdom. We who bear the name of Christ cannot do any less that follow the example of our crucified Lord. But God shows his love for us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Romans 5:8.

We hereby apologize and seek the forgiveness of the non-white segment of our society which has needlessly suffered because of our prejudices. It is indeed a tragedy when it takes a death to awaken us to the folly of our pride.

Phyllis Banks
Seeks Trea. Of Senior Class

"Fellow classmates, I am seeking the office of treasurer and representative of the Senior Class. For the past three years I have been active in several clubs and organizations. As a member of the class, I think I can be of great help to the class if I am elected to the office," said Phyllis Banks.

"If I am elected treasurer of the "Class of '69," I will perform my duty in the best interest of the class as well as the university community. It is my aim to set forth an honest effort to bring to the class financial security. In the past my class has lagged behind all the other classes in several ways. One reason for this slow pace was that the class treasury was neglected. I will work along with the other elected officers to bring a top rate class by June 1969."

If the class benefits, then the whole university will profit. Speaking of the university, I would like to add that one of my suggested projects will be to leave the money something that all the members of the Aggie family, now and later, will recognize as the gift from the Class of '69, given to the school as a small token of appreciation."

"The past election time in A&T. Unlike the past, all Aggies are being called upon to make a quick decision which will affect their school life next year. It is important to choose good rep­resentatives who will be willing to face the challenges of the future. I am campaigning for the position of Miss A&T to State University. I realize that this position is quite a responsible one and that the young lady who holds it must pos­sess certain qualities which in­clude personality, character, and scholarship, just to name a few. I realize that the decision will be quite difficult since my competi­tion is so worthy. However, if I am chosen by you, you can be sure that I will live up to your expectations."
Men's Fashion: The Peacock Revolution

By W. MAL LEACH

What's in for men? The answer can depend upon a single word: everything. And what a delightful state of affairs that is. Sensible, casual, sporty, and conservative dark suit and tie may be the order of the day for the American male but the domain of appearance has moved into the realm of everyday living with a vengeance, and styles. This year will certainly be remembered as a year where the great year of fashion emanation from England and Europe has been absorbed in America. Modelling, the prevalence of mod fashions, wardrobes are Mandarins, kilts, zoot suits, neckties, culottes, Nehru jackets, and Guru sandals are for sale in the stores. And oh, they'll become familiar ones as men adopt these styles.

Ever since the 1940s there has been labeled a "Peacock Revolution" by one or another social observer, for some time, but this spring will mark the bursting forth of some... they'll become familiar ones as men adopt these styles.

Writing for the newspaper producer from Morning Herald, Bernard Gavzer has noted for some time, but this spring will mark the bursting forth of some... they'll become familiar ones as men adopt these styles. "Soul is real," he writes, "and in the land of brilliantly glamorous men of other centuries, when the masculine mode was, for example, a sword-bearer, ruffled collar, light-trimmed head dress, and of course a powdered wig with powdered lace, fashionable trousers, massive silver jewelry. The new things and adopt some of the newest, too. And his..."

The editor of Gentleman's Quarterly, Everett Martin notes that reactionism is in the revolution, will not cause styles to go back to drabness. "Men are becoming aware that they have on esthetic choices and as far as we can see it's not a choice they abandon."

Bop-de-bop, bop, bop, bop, bop, bop. Beautiful men. Those are beautiful people. Yeah. But when I go downtown to Thirty-Fourth Street, everybody's watchin' the same; you say?" Don't tell you nothing about who they are. Polyesters. That's what it is. Like a flower is a breeze. The..."
Steve Parson Plays Big Role
In Aggies Early Wins

Even before the current baseball season got underway, A&T coach Mel Groomes had his eye on Freshman prospect Steve Parson from Buffalo, New York. Parson had little difficulty in becoming the Aggies' starting second baseman, and after little more than two weeks' play, is the team's top hitter with a .615 average.

Parson has connected on eight of the 13 times he has been at bat and is one reason the Aggies owned a 4-2 record going into the Easter break.

On their first road trip of the season, A&T dropped a 7-5 decision to Hampton Institute, then bounced back to whip the Pirates, 10-5. The Aggies downed Norfolk State 12-5 on the same trip.

Several postponements have caused a reshuffling of the A&T schedule.
