Calvin Matthews (right), president of Student Government Association, and Willie Drake, vice-president, engage in discussion at student leaders' retreat.

Retreaters Stage Mini Mass

Nearly 65 student leaders cut their vacation short to bite into the theme of the Second Annual Retreat, "Complete Awareness In Times for Complete Commitment."

But the whole meal was not going to be as tasty as some had hoped. Indigestion developed after a 10:30 P.M. panel discussion, which the leaders had decided to prolong for additional discussion. The discussion was centered around a previous film, which showed Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X and James Baldwin being interviewed by Dr. Kenneth B. Clark.

Polarity arose between staff members and students, when co-eds were asked to retire from a small group, which had met in one of the meeting rooms of the Betsy-Jeff Penn Center to discuss campus and community programs. The torch of the mini protest was carried by coeds, who decided that the pre-midnight curfew was too repressive. Men students, leaving their cottages, followed suit. Protesting students massed, centrally, on the Reidsville retreat site.

Willie Drake, vice-president of Student Government Association, said that the protest against the retreat procedures and regulation had not only stemmed from the restrained curfew, but also from boredom of retreat speakers, frequent appearance of some students on programs, and from the fact that no concrete resolutions or proposals seemed to have been formulated. Before departing for their cottages in the early morning hours, protesters decided to take four demands or resolutions back to campus: (1) discontinuation of the administration's influence on the operation of the student newspaper, THE REGISTER (This demand was dropped unanimously when the editor, Prince Legree, explained that the publication was free of external control or influence (2) a student committee be created to evaluate faculty members of the University (3) estimate of credits earned by students be forwarded during the second semester of the sophomore year, and (4) $20,000 be appropriated for the operation of the Student Government Association.

The two-day retreat was not thrown out, but student leaders decided to alter the procedures of the second day, beginning with a mini mass meeting to discuss the night's resolution.

Before the protest, students and staffers had heard Reverend L. G. Horton, Sr., president of Kittrell College, keynote address, "Being Aware and Committed to Leadership Responsibilities." The Keynote emphasized the significance of "black," "power," and "now" during the early hours of the day. Addressing the group also were Reverend William Bell, director of United Campus Ministry; Albert Smith, director of Memorial Union; Dr. Gloria Scott, director of Institutional Studies; and Hubert Gaslin, Jr., coordinator of student activities.

PROTEST IS UNNECESSARY

"I was told that when you get students together at a retreat like this, you are going to have the worst year ever at A&T, because students are going to plan to tear up things," said Dr. J. E. Marshall, dean of Student Affairs.

Dr. Marshall said that eight students remained on campus during the summer to work on student program, the retreat and the revised constitution being included. He said the students were paid and also received credits toward graduation.

Students, remaining on the campus, had participated in the planning of the retreat, which was headed by W. C. Parker, assistant dean of Student Affairs. Dr. Marshall said that the retreat, in general was planned, with reference to the evaluation of the '67-'68

Bunch Explains Increases In Health Fees

By HILLIARD B. HINES, JR.

The University's physician, Dr. Theodore Bunch, recently released information on how the increase in student health fees has been spent. Dr. Bunch has been employed as the University Physician two full years. When he came to A&T, student health fees were $18; there was an increase at the end of the 1966-67 academic year and an increase at the end of the last academic year.

In explaining for the students, who he believes should know because they are the ones who pay the bills, Dr. Bunch said the first of the two increases was used for additional medication and supplies. He said that this enabled him to give out medication at the infirmary instead of being forced to write out a prescription because of lack of supplies.

Dr. Bunch further explained that students should know these things because, according to him, "the student health service is run 100% by student fees. The state does not appropriate one penny for the operation of this facility; the state supplies the building and the students supply the money for its operation. Their fees pay the salaries of the personnel, cost of postage, electric bills, telephone bills, and other incidental bills."

In explaining what the second increase in student health fees was used for, Dr. Bunch said, "Beginning with the 1968-69 academic year, these improvements have been made:

1. The main service area has been air-conditioned.
2. Some of the patient rooms have been air-conditioned for the comfort of those whom it becomes necessary to comfort.
3. We have added one full-time nurse, extended the contract of one nurse from nine to twelve months, giving a total of seven full-time nurses with twelve month contracts.
4. We have added one full-time secretary to facilitate office matters.
5. We have added one part-time physician.

This totals up to better service for the students in that, beginning with this school year, we will be able to have two regular medical clinics per day, one lasting from 10:00 A.M. to 12:00 Noon, the other from 2 P.M. to 4 P.M., Monday through Friday. As usual, emergencies will be taken care of when they occur."

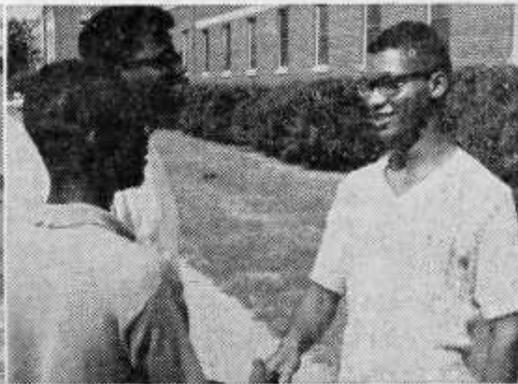

He further stated, "These changes will allow us to better serve student needs, but it should not be interpreted as a broadening of the scope of the University's health service, but as an attempt to better fulfill the already-defined scope."

Dr. Bunch also mentioned that the student health fees here remain relatively low in comparison with those at other universities.

Freshmen Up Enrollment To 4100

Charlotte Underwood (left) of Newton Grove and Hilda Barrett of Greenville find Aggieland quite pleasing as they complete their campus tour.

Freshmen Adolph Platt and Larry Sutton of Clinton find Lonnie Hancock of Rocky Mount, Va. wondering, too, and getting greater view of things on the Aggie front.

Legislators To Consider New Constitution

The only significant change in the constitution that legislators will vote on will be the qualifying grade point averages. The averages were dropped to 2.00 for all Student Government Association officers and Miss A&T. Nothing in the constitution stands fixed. When a discussion of it is held by legislators, changes could arise before the final voting takes place. Neither the discussion nor the voting has been scheduled.

The most important addition is the Student Judiciary System. Excerpts from the system follow:

ARTICLE V, Legislative Branch

Section 2. Composition — The Student Legislature shall be composed of thirty members (30), who shall be elected at a single annual election held in the spring of the school year to serve for one academic year. These members shall be apportioned among the men students living in university residence halls, the men students living off campus and the women students living off campus. The student population shall be assigned to eleven districts with a proportional number of representatives assigned to each district. The Legislature shall have the power to make necessary changes or modifications in the scheme of proportional representation stated herein.

Section 5. Powers. The Student Legislature shall have powers; a. To appropriate funds (1) to all agencies of the Student Government (2) to such extra-curricular activities as it shall deem compatible with the general welfare of the student body (provided that all funds appropriated for use but not expended during a given fiscal year shall revert to the general surplus) b. to approve or reject all appointments made by the President of the Student Government Association by a majority vote, except where otherwise designated. The Legislature may by law specify such minority appointments as it shall deem proper which shall not require approval. (c) To override a presidential veto by a two-thirds majority of those present. (e) To impeach and remove from office any elected student official, (h) To make laws governing the judicial system, establishing procedures and penalties, (i) To fix maximum and minimum penalties for each court in the judicial system.

ARTICLE VI, Judiciary

Section 2. Residence Hall Councils. A. Membership — 1. The Hall Councils shall be composed of ten (10) students elected from sections of residence halls. A chairman shall be selected by each residence hall council from its membership.

2. In order to be a member of the Residence Hall Council, a student (a) must be a full-time student in good academic standing, (b) must be a resident of the particular residence hall over which the council has jurisdiction, (c) must be of good character with no record of violation of campus rules. D. Penalties. 1. The Residence Hall Council may impose penalties up to and including dismissal from the residence hall. 2. Punishment may consist of warning, reprimand, probation, or dismissal from the residence hall. 3. If upon deliberation of a case, the Residence Hall Council feels that some punishment may be in order which is beyond its power to impose, the case will be referred to the Residence Hall Appellate Board for trial and sentencing.

Section 4. Student Judiciary Council. A. Membership. The Student Judiciary Council shall be composed of nine (9) members elected by the student body. B. Jurisdiction. The Student Judiciary Council shall have original jurisdiction in all cases which involve student behavior, major social rules, and infractions of University regulations and standards governing student conduct except residence hall regulations; C. Penalties. The Student Judiciary Council may recommend the imposition of punishment up to and including suspension. Punishment may consist of warning, reprimand, probation, suspension, or expulsion. Where penalties are to be imposed for infractions of stated University regulations and general standards governing student conduct, the guide of recommended penalties will be consulted.

Section 5. Supreme Court. B. Jurisdiction. The Student Supreme Court shall hear appeals from the Student Judiciary Council and the Residence Hall Appellate Board. As an appeals board, it shall have the authority to amend, reverse, or mitigate the punishment decided upon by the Student Judiciary Council and the Residence Hall Appellate Board.

Section 6. Pan Hellenic Council Judicial Board. B. Jurisdiction. The Pan Hellenic Council Judicial Board shall have original jurisdiction in cases involving infractions by Greek fraternities and sororities, fraternity and sorority members, or agents thereof violating rules of conduct established by the Pan Hellenic Council and the constitution approved by the University to regulate Greek Letter Organizations. The Board is authorized to waive its rights of jurisdiction and refer cases to the Coordinator of Student Activities. Infractions committed by non-Greek organizations will be reported directly to COSA for disposition or referral. D. Appeals. 1. Any decision of the Pan Hellenic Council Judicial Board may be appealed through COSA to the Dean of Student Affairs. 2. Any decision of the Dean of Student Affairs may be appealed to the President of the University for final determination. 3. Any decision on appeal may only be reversed, approved or mitigated.

ARTICLE VII, Executive

Section 1. Executive Power Vested in the President. The executive power shall be vested in the President of the Student Body, who shall have the assistance of the Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer of the Student Body elected by and from the student body at large.

Section 2. Power of the President. The President of the Student Body shall have powers; (b) To appoint an attorney general subject to the approval of the Student Legislature; (e) To veto acts of the Student Legislature, provided that he notify the Speaker of his intention in advance; (k) To initiate an impeachment proceeding in the Legislature for any elected official of the Executive Branch of the Student Government Association; (n) To make periodic State of University addresses to the student body.

ARTICLE IX, Privileges

Section 1. All members of the executive committee of the Student Government Association, Presidents and Vice-Presidents of classes (freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior), legislative, Miss A&T, and the Attorney General may attend, without charge, all campus functions open to the student body at large upon presentation of a non-transferable authorized pass. The pass shall be authorized by the Dean of Student Affairs and the President of the Student Government Association. The executive committee of each class and constituency heretofore defined shall have the power to revoke any free entry permit by majority.

G R Exams Will Be Given Next Month

Anyone preparing himself for admission to graduate school should be sure he has fulfilled all the requirements in advance. Among other things, many graduate schools now require scores from the Graduate Record Examinations.

This test is offered on October 26 and December 14 in 1968 and on January 18, February 22, April 26, and July 12, 1969. Individual applicants should be sure that they take the test in time to meet the deadlines of their intended graduate school or graduate department or fellowship granting agency.

Students at pre-fall retreat decided that everything was not the way they wanted it, so they protested as faculty and staff watched.

"Fire" On Campus Or Student Power Vs. "The System"

By PRINCE LEGREE

People across the country, who know what's really happening, or think they know, have already seen our campus, smoking, this winter. And they could just be right. J. Edgar Hoover has predicted "widespread attacks on educational institutions this fall . . . A confrontation with established authority to provoke disorder." At this year's United States National Student Association, speaker after speaker saw widespread protests in their crystal balls — and the delegations promised them. Editors at the U. S. Student Press Association Congress were smoking the same brand, the kind that lights up any time — even in pockets.

National forecasts say Vietnam War, black power, Dow Chemical Company campus recruiting, cafeteria food, curriculum changes, support for individual professors, and parietal rules which is nothing more than dormitory hours for girls and the question of student visiting living quarters of the opposite sex.

Without question, one of the greatest problems on campuses is lack of communication. There is not a free flow of thoughts and opinions from administrators to students to faculty. Indeed, if psychiatrists and inmates could sit down long enough so that they both get their turn at examining the other, everybody could leave the asylum to go home.

At the university, students, administrators, and the faculty are accused of everything but honesty, by each other, between 7 A.M. and 8 P.M., Monday through Friday. Each, sullenly, retreat at the day's end, then makes a comeback in the morning, sultry and defensively fired-up. And on the weekend, everybody does his own thing. There are no tea groups, and nobody dines together, at least not significantly. Worshipping is out of the question.

When students protest, "deep down in their hearts" they know that they are right. Here, students are cheated and insulted. Registration is a headache. Instructors are impossible — in and out of class. These situations are unfounded, and indeed, they demand immediate attention. But how should students attack these problems, if they are to reveal the true vanguards of society?

With all sincerity, we must ask ourselves if we are a spoiled generation, reacting to the slightest frustration with an angry or infantile response or if we are fooling ourselves in demanding immediate gratification. The tempo of the student rebellion is fast and anyone could be swept off his feet into any direction. Electrifying speeches of conference speakers and lecturers must be carefully evaluated before domestic applications are considered.

Everyone can speak for the civil rights and against races, but only Aggies qualify to speak for our university. Specific facts must be known before action can be dictated or advocated from afar. The university does have a system of redress, so that students should employ it first, in any instance. And if the system is accepted, we will do well to remember that it is not the system that wins the case, but its skillful use and presentation of evidences. We must work toward making improvement, but we must take care and not make "take-overs" a fad or a favorite pastime, for in it abideth no respect, which is vital in the educational process.

TO FRESHMEN

The Decisions Are Yours

By PRINCE LEGREE

The foremost concern in the minds of most freshmen is achieving and maintaining academic excellence. "Most freshmen" because some of A&T's new Aggies were pushed in, while some are on short and extended visitations, and still others, perhaps, considered the university as the lesser of the pestering evils. No matter what the motives are, you are here, and you are fortunate. Yours is one of 1100 selected applications from among 4500. You have the best opportunity to absorb the riches of the university and to develop those talents, which lie hidden within you.

Probably no place on earth is as unique as the university, which attracts minds from all corners of the globe and considers nearly everything in the past, dwells on the present, and reaches into the future. With such a vast concentration, misunderstanding and disagreement are inevitable. But the university is the laboratory for truth, and student-like scientists must want to discover and to create.

Whether you are cognizant of it or not, influences are constantly lassoing for you. It will be your decision that will determine whether you will get caught by a fruitful one or not. You and you alone will decide on your class attendance, your drinking and smoking habits, your extra-curricular affiliation and, accordingly, your study habits.

Like upper classmen, you will soon come to some conclusion concerning procedures and operations at the university. Indeed it would be wise for you to learn the existing channels of redress. Undoubtedly, you will protest against many systems and operations while you are here. Students committed to good will want to be aware of the total environment.

You are the king of your castle, as the proverb says, and all decisions are yours.

A Partial Improvement

By HILLIARD B. HINES, JR.

Registration at A&T has always been quite a problem for students and administration. Registration procedures never work out properly. There are incessant lines that students have to go through in order to accomplish the task of becoming properly registered. Crowds of students who are impatient force their way into buildings.

It is a pleasure to be able to say that registration this semester was a tremendous improvement over previous registrations. However, there was one particular thing wrong with this semester's registration, the problem of classes. Whether there were not enough sections for a particular course open, remains to be disclosed. But the fact remains that there were and still are, for that matter, too many students who paid their tuition, which is not cheap by any means, and are not able to get in classes they need to be in in order to graduate on time. Perhaps some of these students failed to pre-register, but these weren't the only ones who couldn't get classes.

There were too many students who pre-registered properly and completely and still could not get classes arranged correctly. The computer-science center, in one instance, scheduled two classes for a person at 10:00 A.M. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday (one being a two-hour class) and scheduled another class at 11:00 A.M. for this same person on these same days.

Students with these problems had to completely register again. After running around the campus (those who do it properly) to find their advisers, these students returned to find that certain classes were closed and that the only class in that particular course that was not closed meets at a time when the student is scheduled for a different course. The instructor or dean politely says, "I'm sorry," but what good is that doing the student who has worked all summer and paid his money and can't get enough courses scheduled to have the minimum credits required each semester to be classified as a full-time student?

Then there is the freshman who can't get in a major course requirement because upperclassmen have taken his place because they failed it the previous semester. (Consideration should be taken for both). What is this freshman told? "Sorry, but you will have to come to summer school." But, neither this student nor any other student should have to pay money to come to summer school when he paid a semester's tuition to take that course. The cost of a college education is too high for a student to have to come to summer school or be a semester late graduating because of a situation that he tried to avoid by pre-registering or because of a situation that existed before he even enrolled.

Despite the tremendous improvements made in registration procedures, this type of incident needs to be studied and corrected in the very near future.

Albert E. Smith, former A&T and professional baseball star, has been appointed acting athletic director at the University.

Smith, 34, will succeed Dr. William M. Bell, who resigned last month to accept a position at Iowa State University. Smith's new assignment becomes effective September 15.

"I wouldn't trade places with anybody in the world," said Smith, after being informed of his appointment as A&T's athletic director. "I think that this is an opportunity that anyone in my place would be grateful for."

While in the Army, Smith led the Fort Sam Houston post team to two straight championships in the 4th Army Tournament. He was scheduled to resume his career with the St. Louis chain, but was forced to retire because of a knee injury.

Following his discharge from the service, Smith served as a physical education director for the city of Chicago and a program secretary for the Metropolitan YMCA there.

He received a master of science degree in recreation administration from George Williams College fact, my feet haven't grown but an inch since then."

That's the kind of optimism and enthusiasm that Smith, a former A&T and professional baseball star, hopes to bring to his new role as boss of the Aggies' gigantic athletic program.

Smith had hardly received his call when he was voicing his plans and aims for the Aggies. "We have the opportunity to build an outstanding athletic program that will complement the overall program being developed by Dr. Dowdy," he told reporters. "We are entering an age where we are going to have to build physical plant and program and we look forward to this."

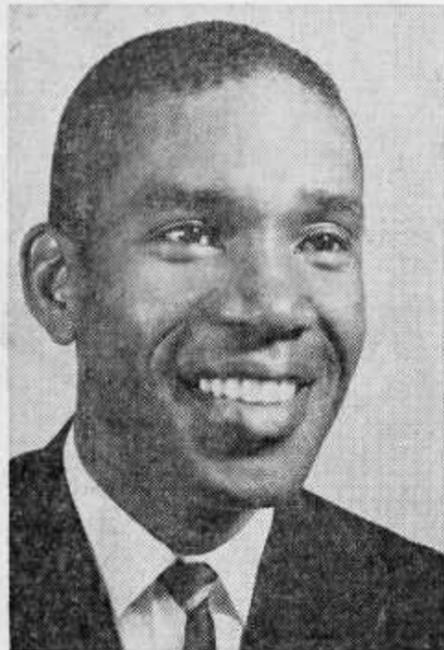

By training and temperament, Smith should prove to be a capable replacement for Bell, the man who recruited Smith from the streets of Chicago some years ago to play baseball for A&T.

A stellar athlete since he was in knee pants, Smith started his career in American Legion baseball. At the age of 13, he was already a good enough first baseman to play with the Chicago Celtics, a semi-pro team of much older fellows.

"Their age didn't bother me," said Smith. "I just felt that I could play baseball."

The son of a much-traveled dining car steward, Smith was born in Sioux Falls, S. D., but the family moved to Chicago when he was 10.

A Chicago White Sox scout began scouting Smith in high school, tried to get him to sign a contract then. "I decided I wanted to go to college," said Smith, "so he told Coach Bell about me. He offered me a scholarship to A&T."

ALBERT E. SMITH

Smith has been serving as director of the Memorial Student Union at A&T since 1966. He will continue in that position, in addition to serving as athletic director.

Smith was born in Sioux Falls, S. D., but grew up in the Southside of Chicago.

Recruited for A&T by Dr. Bell, he was a star first baseman for the Aggies from 1953-55, when A&T won three consecutive CIAA championships. Smith signed a bonus contract with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1955, and played one season with Padukah, Ky. (Class C team in Kitty League.)

He was named to the league's All-Star team, but returned to A&T in the fall. He received a degree in physical education from A&T in June, 1956, then served as an officer in the U. S. Army Medical Service Corps at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

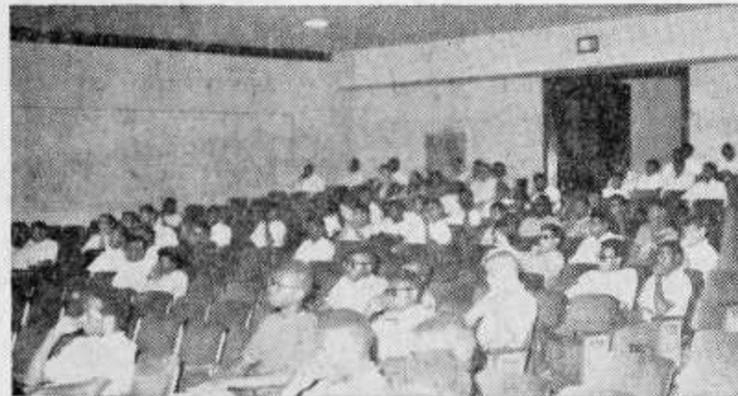

in 1963, then spent two years as varsity baseball coach and director of student union at Knoxville College.

For the past two seasons, he has coached the Greensboro Bethel American Legion baseball team. He is married to the former Sadie Burris of Aiken, S. C. The Smiths have three children, Albert, 11; Robbin, 7; and Angela, 4.

Boss In Big Shoes

Stepping into a big pair of shoes has never bothered Al Smith, A&T's new acting athletic director.

"I wore a size 11 shoe when I was just 12 years old," said Smith, "and that is a pretty big shoe. In Only some 300 freshmen male students showed up to the introductory meeting of the ROTC departments.

AFROTC Cadets Haul In Awards

If you are or think that you are the best all around cadet in your group, then 10 to 1 you would want to know how you stack up in the entire wing.

Bright eyed, senior advanced cadets left the university this summer to find out how they rated against senior advanced cadets from across the nation. Sometimes you deceive yourself, and sometimes you are sure.

Five cadets, among some 30 that left the university, distinguished themselves at their various training base. Norris H. Hanes, Jr., at Forbes AFB, Kansas; Calvin C. Matthews at Fairchild AFB, Washington; Bennett Mitchell at Dover AFB, Delaware; and James L. Shoffner at Otis AFB, Massachusetts, truly stand tall, as they have all captured the prized Vice-Commandant's Award.

The Vice-Commandant's Award was presented to these cadets for:

1. Having displayed a positive attitude toward Field Training, Air Force ROTC, and the Air Force, as demonstrated by attentiveness to instruction, willingness to assume responsibility, and eagerness to learn the operational aspects of the Air Force.

2. Over-all evaluation as recorded on the Field Training Report (AFROTC Form 18).

3. Demonstrated leadership potential, including effectiveness in directing the action of others in both formal and informal situations, and gaining the support of others through mutual respect and effective communication.

4. Demonstrated personal traits of initiative and dependability in accomplishing assigned tasks.

5. Having consistently demonstrated proper military bearing, to include proper wearing of the uniform, correct posture and personal grooming.

Joseph Wyatt and 111 other cadets at Charleston AFB, South Carolina competed for the Air Force ROTC Athletic Award. Cadet Wyatt took the coveted award away, having received it for being the most outstanding athlete at his session of Field Training at the Charleston Air Force Base.

Gridironers Shape-Up For Victorious Season

New A&T football coach Hornsby Howell figures that something good has to happen in the Aggie football training camp soon.

So far, that has not been the case. First Howell lost veteran tackle Warren Frye for the season through an injury. The past week he learned three other lettermen will be scholastically ineligible this season.

They are Lorenzo Pearson, a halfback; Aaron Patterson, a running back; and Ray Parks, a 240-pound tackle. All three players had been expected to bolster A&T's offense.

"We have got something to talk about," said Howell, "and that is that our morale is high. We know that we have a lot of work to do but this is a good group to work with."

Having just gotten into contact work, Howell has been experimenting with four different quarterbacks. Taking their turns at signal calling are sophomore Jerome Turner, the only returnee from last year; Stanley Jacobs, a transfer student; and freshman Chuck Middleton, Hopkins, S. C. and Hank Walker, South Hill, Virginia.

Turner, a native of Pittsburgh, saw limited duty as quarterback last season and Jacobs played college ball in South Carolina before serving in the U. S. Army.

Many of the early drills have been spent stressing defense. Howell has been working with a defensive unit consisting of ends Billy Gaines and Don Thomas, interior linemen Lester Moore, William Smart, James Willie, and Henry Hipps, and a backfield of veteran Merle Code, Wendell Bartee, Daryle Cherry, and Doug Westmoreland, a transfer student.

The Aggies' offensive punch is expected to come from veteran backs Richard Armstrong, Tommy Blue, Maurice Cherry, Paul Renwick, and Fred Robinson.

Halfback Willie Pearson, Winston-Salem, and guard Jimmy Smallwood, Buffalo, New York, have been named co-captains of the A&T football team. The Aggies open the season against South Carolina State September 28. Both players are seniors.

Aggies Are Showing Spark But Injuries Still Plague

With the opening kickoff for the 1968 football season less than two weeks away, A&T football coach Hornsby Howell finally admits that things may not be as bad as they seem.

"We still have a long way to go," said Howell, "and I won't be able to really evaluate our prospects until we have had a few more serious scrimmages. However, some of the players are beginning to come around."

Howell said he was particularly pleased with the showing of veteran Daryle Cherry, who has been switched from defensive halfback to offensive end.

Cherry, a junior from Charlotte, has added new zip to the Aggies' offense. Howell had expressed some concern about not having too many experienced offensive ends.

Others who have looked good on offense in the initial drills are fullback Richard Armstrong, halfback Willie Pearson, and quarterbacks, Jerome Turner, Stan Jacobs, and Chuck Middleton.

"It's much too early to say which of these boys will get the starting role," said Howell, "but we have been working with all three of them. It could go either way."

Pearson, a co-captain for A&T, is generally regarded as one of the most outstanding halfbacks in the CIAA. A senior from Winston-Salem, he led the Aggies in scoring last season with 10 touchdowns.

Howell said the Aggies' defensive units are also beginning to jell.

He cited the improved play of veterans Merle Code, Wendell Bartee, Henry Hipps, Bill Smart, and Billy Gaines. Gaines (6-3, 222) was a fine defensive end for A&T last season. Code was a combination quarterback - defensive halfback last season, but will be used mainly on defense this time.

Injuries continue to plague the Aggies, however. Five potential starters are nursing serious injuries. These players include co-captain Jim Smallwood and Mel Holmes, guards; Ike Golden, a tackle; and Don Thomas, a defensive end.

The Aggies open the season against South Carolina State in Memorial Stadium here September 28.

Football Programs Cited In Nat'l Contest

Football programs, produced by A&T State University during the 1967 football season, were cited for editorial excellence at the recent annual convention of College Sports Information Directors Association (CoSIDA), held at Chicago.

The A&T publication received "honorable mention in Division II of the national contest in a tie with those produced by Northeastern University. Rutgers University of New Brunswick, N. J. was the Division winner.

Richard E. Moore, sports information director at A&T who edits the programs, received notification of the citation from Frank E. Walter, U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., chairman of the 1968 CoSIDA Awards Committee.

Coach Says Students Must Support Team

By DONALD COBB

Hello, Aggies! The sports writers of the A&T Register cordially welcome you back to the all new 1968-69 academic season and also to the opening of the football season for our ever-be-loved A&T Aggies football team. We, at the REGISTER, hope you all had a joyous and prosperous summer and will look upon the new fall season with enthusiasm and lively interest. We know you have your little problems and are probably frustrated with the problems and confusion of admissions and registration. Well, none of you is more ardently involved with daily occupation as the Aggie football team. Its members have been and are still working diligently in an effort to prepare themselves for the 1968-69 football season.

Coach Howell seems a little pessimistic about the team which has so many bugs to be worked out before regular season opens. The coach commented that we don't have an offense at all; they have to catch up with the defense.

Coach Howell remarked that if Warren Frye could play, that would answer a lot of difficulties that the team faces, since he is so versatile. Frye got his leg broken in summer practice and again re-fractured while walking on his way down to the football field. As it now stand, Frye will not be able to play ball this season and there is doubt as to whether he will be able to play up to his former capabilities in future college games.

Coach Howell said, "Pearson is a break for the team because of his versatility and he should be quite adequate in doing his job." Charles Middleton, a freshman, seems to be the most promising quarterback for the team, and he is also very outstanding academically. The captains of the Aggie football team this year will be Pearson and Smallwood. Both tend to possess remarkable leadership ability. Also, all other upperclassmen seem to have good leadership.

When asked of the fundamentals to make a good Aggie team this year, the coach replied, "The best thing for the club is team morale, and a lot of the players will have to be shifted around to fill up the holes. We must be in better physical condition than our opponents so that we can slaughter anyone played. To do his we must rely on aggressiveness and quickness. In order to win we must outmaneuver, outthink, and outcondition our opponents or otherwise there will be on wins. And that's the whole story."

The student body is asked to bear with the team and its handicaps because it will not quit striving to overcome any of its shortcomings. In comment, Coach Howell gave a summary of the team with: "A donkey has never won the Kentucky Derby."

Director Cited In National Volume

Dr. Frederick A. Williams director of planning and development, has been cited as an outstanding American leader in the 1968 edition of the "Biographical Encyclopedia of the United States."

The volume, which includes biographies and data of persons making significant contributions to all areas of American life, tapped only a few Negroes for the current edition.

A native of Beaufort, Dr. Williams is widely known as an educator, world traveler, and is the author of articles in professional magazines.

Dr. Williams graduated from A&T in 1931 and has been associated with the University in various capacities since 1937. He holds an M.A. degree from Michigan State University and the Ph. D. de-

From 1961 to 1963, Dr. Williams served as a visiting professor at the University of Khartoum (Africa) Sudan. He once held a travel grant for the Middle East including India and Ford Research Grant for research in the Sudan.

Dr. Williams is also listed in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest," "Who's Who in American Education," "Who's Who in America," and "Who's Who in Colored America."

He formerly taught at Southern University of Baton Rouge, La.

John Zeigler Named New Business Manager

John Zeigler, chief accountant at A&T since 1963, has been named acting business manager at the University.

The administrative change was announced by A&T President Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy.

Zeigler assumes the post from Harvey Alexander who has accepted a position in Charlotte.

A native of Charlotte, Zeigler, 35 received a bachelor of science degree in business administration from A&T in 1957. He also completed a course at the IBM Training School in Washington, D. C. in 1960.

Zeigler was an accountant at Florida A&M University from 1957-59 and chief accountant at Jackson State College in Mississippi from 1959-63.

He has also operated a public accounting firm. Prior to entering A&T, he served in intelligence and finance in the U. S. Army. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi and Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society.

JOHN ZEIGLER

Zeigler is married to the former Bessie Haymond of Itta Bena, Miss. The Zeiglers have two children, John Reginald, 8, and Elon Patrice, 4.

Freshmen Get Little Direction

By HILLIARD B. HINES, JR.

Many changes occur in the history of an institution. When the students returned in the fall of 1967, they discovered that they no longer went to the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina, but that they were students at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University. Other quite noticeable changes have taken place in our institution, but there is one thing that returning Aggies will always find the same, the confusion of entering freshman students.

Freshman students arrived September 8 and the confusion started. The young ladies were politely assisted by upperclassmen men who were very eager to carry the luggage of the young ladies. The young ladies had no problem finding their dormitory or their rooms because of the red carpet service given to them by the upper-class men.

Moving to the other end of the campus, the picture was quite different. There was no red carpet service. In fact, some of the freshmen men received relative little or no service at all! After finding where they were to go to receive room assignments, they were officially introduced to the famous lines at A&T. After receiving room assignments, these men didn't receive any help with their luggage! There were two young men who got their luggage to their rooms and discovered that their keys did not open their door. And there was another young man who had a Men's Council Card and linen and (would you believe) that was all. After straightening out these freshman students, more came with similar problems.

After the ordeal of getting rooms, these freshman students were introduced to registration. You can only imagine the problems!!

However, we can all be comforted when we realize that these freshman students will leave here as mature individuals in the next four years, because of these and other experiences and problems they will face and have to solve alone while here at A&T.

If the realization of what they will develop into in the next four years isn't enough to console them, freshman students may be consoled by knowing that without them, life at A&T just wouldn't be the same.

Retreaters

retreat, which was considered very successful. Dr. Marshall said he was under the impression that a workable and suitable retreat had been planned. He said that no conflicts had been encountered during the planning stage.

"There was time at the retreat for students to make their grievances known and also upon returning to the campus," said Dr. Marshall. "The University is interested in getting the best for its students, and appropriating funds to obtain the best retreat site in the state was in keeping with this philosophy."

Dr. Marshall said that the Annual Retreat of Campus Leaders had attracted the attention of several colleges and universities across the state.

Dr. Marshall arrived at noon after he had been notified that friction had developed.

During the afternoon session, Student Government Leaders introduced the Student Judiciary System. A successful trial run of the system was observed before the retreat ended.

It was stated that elected class representatives will vote on the new system.

The retreat officially ended with an 8:00 P.M. banquet and dancing to the spirits of the Vets Combo.
