Johnson Becomes SOBU National Leader

By BILLARD B. HINES, Jr.

Nelson Johnson, newly elected vice president of the student body, will speak at the graduation ceremony as the student representative to the Student Organization of the University. This is his first year on campus, having transferred to the institution at the beginning of the fall semester. Johnson, who is a junior in the public relations and political science program, has been active in several campus organizations, including the Student Government Association, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. He is also a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor society.

Malcolm X University Opens To Liberate Black People

By DAVID LEE BROWN

The idea for Malcolm X Liberation University grew out of a struggle by black students of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. The university was established as a competitive organization to other already established black organizations but that SOBU showed its strength in the community with these organizations.

Soph. Nurses To Be Capped On May 25

By CORNELIA SCOFIELD

Fifty-six sophomores nursing students will be honored at the University's annual capping exercises in Harrison Auditorium Sun., May 25, at 6:00 P.M.

Dr. Fredrick Douglass will be the featured speaker, and the program will be called "Capping in a Contemporary Society." Abernathy, the program's title, was chosen because it represents a real alternative for black students who are seeking liberation from the mainstream of institutionalized racial education, and it is intended for the students to be graced with a charter as an educational institution.

The program consists of Bevort Horne, a student at North Carolina State University, 1970-1971; a student at A&T State University; James B. Johnson, 1970-1974; a student at North Carolina College, Greenville, for the Greensboro Committee of the NAACP, chairman of the housing subcommittee. It will also decide upon the appropriate curriculum design and training of resource people, and to establish a charter for an educational institution.

Significance Of SOBU

BY HILLIARD B. HINES, JR.

A large number of groups are attempting to promote Black awareness among Black people of the world and particularly among the students of our institutions. Much of this work is being done, in conjunction with the campus organizations, the Black students and the Black faculty. The Black staff and the Black students are working to a small degree.

In order to make this struggle approach more of an utopian state, our Black brothers and sisters have envisioned the significance of a national struggle for this goal which has taken many forms. One of the beginning of four Black brothers striving for the realization of this vision, a national exclusively Black group has come into development. The group is called: the Student Organization for Unity. Held its first national meeting on this university campus recently.

The conference had representatives from Black institutions all across the country. Some of our Black sisters and brothers have again demonstrated their concern for Black people.

View On Campus Violence

BY FRANKIE PAULING

Perhaps no one can say that the long days of confrontation, unrest, and violence on college and university campuses are over. Perhaps Black students are doing more to a small degree to fight the stress - of a type. But, what about the means by which this progress comes? Surely it is realized that violence is unnecessary in the struggle for freedom. Variously.

Recently, at Cornell University, the intensity of protest grew to that of the casual carrying of guns by students as only token gestures. But this really points to the real issue. Or was it a mere sign of immaturity, prolonged resentment of the administration and a general lack of interest in the facilities being abused.

Take the CCNY incidents that took place recently — the burning of an auditorium, the destruction of property, the serious injuries, and finally the non progress for the betterment of the entire college that was reached as a result of these events.

Compare the violence instituted in these incidents with the pretest and occupation of the administration building at Hampton Institute on April 23. The peaceful demonstrations, in the form of a take over, appeared to be slightly more successful than the violent demonstrations that have occurred in recent weeks across the nation.

We must all be radical. Our society initiates such notion, but to be radical and to accommodate it with militancy spells trouble. For all concerned. Rather than initiating progress, students are convicted of charges of disturbing the peace — for all concerned. Rather than initiating progress, students are convicted of charges of disturbing the peace — for all concerned. The United States of America

BY MARK D. CAMPBELL

First in a Two-Part Series

The United States of America is unique in terms of its significance in the world. As the nation whose influence and culture is felt the world over, and because of its natural resources of the country and its people. The United States stands in the world of the Negro's future. The world's foremost nation and the epitome of democracy is now a building. It has grown from a small colony to a mighty nation.

"I am glad that I know you. You helped me to understand three points on a humanities exam."

Oscar Farrar, a senior art major, who is a student of the A&T State University Choir, Somebody of the two black majors at A&T were Hugh Da Vinci Bullock, Sr., resides in Cleveland, Ohio. He received both the B.S. and Masters degree in Art from A&T. He is presently employed as an instructor of fine arts at Cleveland Job Corps Center for women and has also worked as an art instructor in public schools of North Carolina and at Elizabeth City State College.

Doris Hunt, a 1968 graduate of A&T, is presently standing for a Masters Degree in Social Work at Ohio State University. In the city of Detroit was Margaret Bennett, a graduate of A&T who is presently working as a graduate professor at the university of Michigan. She also works as part of the team of Counseling Association, Inc.

In Highland Park, Michigan, was Love Willy Blackwell a graduate of A&T, she is married to Mary Robert Blackwell of Highland Park. They have a daughter, Renada, who is a Junior English major.

It is interesting to note that the reception received from the University of Wisconsin was a recognition as that of former Aggie. Also a former exchange student.

UNCLE TOM’S CAbIN CLASIFIED

By STELLA DILLARD

The recent emphasis on African-American studies has brought to the screen world a movie based on a popular abolition novel, Uncle Tom’s Cabin, written by Harriet Beecher Stowe. This novel had played an important role in the beginning of the Civil War, but the movie version relates to the mistreatment of slaves, especially slave women, and the tyrannical actions of the slave owners becoming members of the Ku Klux Klan. One of the best scenes in the movie is that played by Loretta Young, who shows the cruelty of Southern slave masters.

Senior art major, Oscar Farrar devotes some of his time to the beautiful paintings of a window shutter.

OUTSTANDING BLACK JAZZ GROUPS PERFORM TO RECEPTIVE AUDIENCE

By W. M. LEECH

The Lyricum program for the 1968-69 winter season featured two outstanding performers, the Lyricum Committee presented Freddie Hubbard and McCoy Tyner’s Jazz Trio. In concert at the Lyceum over the weekend, the artists began their first performance at eight, the artists performed to an audience receptive to their music.

Africa Upststages America

The A&T State University Choir extended its annual Spring tour to Detroit, Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago, Illinois, and Cleveland, Ohio. The tour proved to be the most extensive that the choir has ever taken.

In addition to the extended States Pennsylvania, New York, and Connecticut, the choir has performed in the past. As members of the Aggie Family, they proved as also to be rewarding in that the choir has performed in the homes of A&T graduates.

While responding to the question, "What is his subject matter, he answered, "Some of my works deal with form and gesture. Figures. Now I am beginning the two, I also paint words. The painting itself is a word, the words seen in its painting."

One artist, who works as Roberts and Picasso, "I have something to be said about subject matter, but I have not studied Picasso that deeply," he said.

As a hobby, Oscar said, "It may seem odd, but I like modern mechanics. I take mechanics apart and putting them together."

He explained the painting of a car of his own which he bought, "I also own a 1957 Ford. I am going to paint the car."

It is interesting to note that the reception received from the University of Wisconsin was a recognition as that of former Aggie. Also a former exchange student.

As a by-product of the tour, "Some of the geography of Africa, we are interested there. The Africans never made a slave," said Clarke. "And there is no other culture that holds the wall of pride. The Africans are a people, and the stamp of Africa is still up."

The painting itself is a word, the words seen in its painting. "The painting itself is a word, the words seen in its painting."

In future preparations for championship play-offs, A&T baseball coach Joe Thompson can change his usual strategy and limit his players to four hours of sleep the night before the big game.

At least, that amount of sleep proved sufficient for the Aggies to beat Delaware State, 7-4 Monday night for the CIAA crown.

A&T's bus broke down Sunday night en route from Richmond to Greensboro. The Aggies grabbed a quick snooze, then took it off Richmond again. It worked out just fine.

"These kids played the way I have been trying to get them to play all season," said a happy Greensboro Aggie coach Dick Thompson. "We found out what we will have to do in the final two NCAAs play-offs in Greensboro and we played pretty well.

The Aggies pushed across three runs in the top of the 10th inning to whip the Hornets. A&T got a fine pitching performance from senior David Ellison of Laurinburg.

The pitching of Ellison was just great," said Groomes. "He had only started one previous game and two other players have been declared CIAA champions.

The Aggies had overcome a 3-2 deficit in the ninth, when A&T's Algera Royal Mark led off name Williamson and Cummings. Delaware State's Tony Dupree, who was pitching his third ball game (36 innings) in three days. He did an outstanding job," said Groomes. "I really don't see how we did it.

A&T's title marks the eighth time in 18 seasons the Aggies have been declared CIAA champions.

Serene Lillian Prepares
For Role As ‘Miss A&T’

By BRENDA J. THORNHILL

The charming and serenely attractive Lillian Campbell who hails from West Charlotte High School, has already made her mark on the campus. Lillian is personable and graceful as she prepares to assume her new position as the next Aggie queen.

"When it was revealed to me that I had won the title of Miss A&T, I immediately underwent a period of disbelief. Then, as if it were an afterthought, I realize that it was true after all, and instantly I burst into tears," remarks Lillian.

As far as Campbell is concerned, she is almost always present serene air. While most young ladies are prone to compete for such a coveted position on their initiative, the tables were turned in Lillian's case. She seriously asserted that her chief motivation was stirred when some of her fellow Aggie coeds, felt that she was capable of portraying to the public the theme of black awareness which is so increasingly prevalent on our campuses.

The new "Miss A&T" is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Carl Campbell of Charlotte. Actively affiliated with various clubs and organizations in high school, Lillian took an outstanding leadership role in the student government where she served as the second vice-president and treasurer. Prior to her college days, Lillian served as a pianist at St. Phillip's Baptist Church in Huntersville. Ever since she can remember, Lillian explains that her pet peeve has been, "being shoved against, especially on my shoulder." She immediately reacts by adding, "It makes me feel that someone is trying to belittle me; everyone is equal and it is time people began to realize this."

Not only is Miss Campbell the new campus queen, but she is also very concerned student about student unrest which is spreading nation-wide. She hastily comments, "I can not say positively that change has to be made and made by any means necessary. If, however, it takes violence to wake the nation, then I am in accord with it."

"Miss A&T" she belonged to the Annie family active in the Richard H. Barrons Players, the Angel Flight, and presently she is a member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

In such perilous times as these, a black university finds repose and elegance in its queen who wishes to express the following message of gratitude:

"I would like to thank the following persons politically for their support in my campaign which is greatly appreciated since I could not personally devote all of my time. Suzanne, Leslie, Karen, Charlotte, Phoebus, Joyce, Louise, Brenda, Deborah, Diane (Dee), Evelyn, Bernard, Irina, Huff, Jay, "Juice", and the immediate past Pyramids and Chorubins."

The lovely Miss Sophomore, Barbara Williams, takes a rest on one of the campus benches on a sunny afternoon while strolling through the campus.
