In Mysterious' Emergency Meeting

Accusations Concerning Leadership Of SGA President Made

Verbal attacks against Vincent McCullough, president of the Student Government Association, were the apparent purpose of a mysterious emergency meeting held Thursday night. The student body called at 11:30 p.m., Thursday night, a meeting which tended with approximately three-fourths of the student body walking out while the meeting was still in progress. One of the supporters of the McCullough accusers was shouting, "Wait!" with no acknowledge of the wording of these words as the students continued to pour out of the Memorial Union ballroom, where the meeting was held.

The meeting drew an estimated 900 students who patiently sat, waiting to find out what the emergency meeting was all about. Horace Ferguson, SGA deputy attorney general appointed by McCullough, told the student body that the meeting was called to clarify a few points. He asserted that the leadership demonstrated by McCullough had come under question and that the meeting was called for McCullough to make a statement to the students.

McCullough, coming before the microphone to speak, commented that since the organization has not taken an address on the student body, it was his duty to clarify a few points. He asserted that the leadership had been provoked by the students who had withdrawn from the university as a means of the ultimate end of an organization.

With no influx of questions directed at McCullough, Leander Forbes, former SGA attorney general who resigned because he had not done anything this year and gave as an example that the organization has not taken a stand on students being expelled from A&T. He further commented that it was his duty to explain the organization's role in Greensboro.

At this point Willie Drake, a graduate of A&T who returned in November to "work with the students of A&T," rose to his feet inquiring, "What were the students called in for?" He was given an answer by an unidentified spokesman, "To let the students know we're going on." Again, McCullough was accused by an adherent friend as Ora McCall, the roommate of Nancy Price, told the student body that the meeting was one of his best friends, told the student body that McCullough had not done his job as SGA President.

More Accusations

McCullough, appearing to remain calm, continued to keep his composure as another student, David Price, who had been seen among the ranks of certain SGA members and a SGA secretary, according to one source. All this point Willie Drake, a graduate of A&T who returned in November to "work with the students of A&T," rose to his feet inquiring, "What were the students called in for?" May Disorders Report Released

The problems underlying disturbances in the area during May 1969 "must be considered as symptomatic of the basic problems of the city," the North Carolina State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said in the May Disorders Report released this week.

The report, "Trouble in Greensboro," is based on a 2-day open meeting held by the North Carolina State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, including certain SGA members and a SGA secretary.

"There is limited usefulness in looking to a decade of protest into a day of protest," added Higginbotham to his audience of thousands.

Embracing the concept of racial separation and recognizing the nation's major problems during the 1970s, according to A. Leon Higginbotham, a federal court judge, the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, is generally considered unsatisfactory.

Higginbotham, who overcame a background of segregation and prejudice, spoke to the observance of Men and Women's Council of America.

"I love the concept of black consciousness," added Higginbotham, "but I don't think anyone has the right to assume that black separatism will mean more justice for all. I see the concept only as a means of the ultimate end of an open society."

"The problems of the 1970s," he said, "will be how can we move from a decade of protest into a decade of solutions? In order to solve these problems, we will need a coalition of all who have a similar goal."

It is easy to get applause when you indulge in the kind of rhetoric that Higginbotham has poured into his audience of mostly students. However, the

Emergency Meeting

Thursday night's so-called "SGA emergency meeting" was a meeting neither called by SGA, in the interest of our Student Government Association nor in the interest of this university.

As members of the student body sat listening to what had all of the characteristics of a prepared plot to get rid of Vincent McCullough, president of the Student Government Association, it became apparent to most of the students present that it was indeed something that the student body did not like nor really wanted to hear.

Upon a close examination of the entire night's events, the conclusion stated above can easily be reached. The McCullough accusers did not come forth from all over the ballroom but were all concentrated in a very small area near the platform. The information relayed by these accusers was all anti-McCullough and primarily concerned conversations that these so-called friends had had with our president and his buddy. We should all agree that McCullough's enemies could not have made a better attempt to cause anti-McCullough feelings among the general student body.

It has undoubtedly made some students wonder about Vincent McCullough and the Student Government Association. Is he or she a good student officer? Certainly, one should not join forces with someone allegedly having similar complaints and plot as to how you are going to get rid of this official.

First of all, any student who has a complaint about a student government official should take this complaint to the student legislature or have his representative to the Student Association in general. However, whether McCullough is innocent or guilty of any of these charges, the manner in which they were presented to the student body and the persons who presented these accusations to us were totally suspect.

In the majority of the people will determine whether or not Vincent McCullough and the Student Government Association in general. However, whether McCullough is innocent or guilty of any of these charges, the manner in which they were presented to the student body and the persons who presented these accusations to us were totally suspect.

Motown’s Tammi Terrell Dies Of Tumor Of Brain

DETROIT, MICH.—Popular Motown singing star, Tammi Terrell, who was struck down by a brain tumor at the tenth of her career.

Motown’s popular singing star, Tammie Terrell, who was struck down by a brain tumor, is dead at age 24. Her death came on the heels of a series of operations and recurrent hospitalizations with a brain tumor, although the exact cause of death has not yet been determined.

Miss Terrell’s death was announced at 8:55 a.m. March 16 at 819 E. Hines, Philadelphia. The Viewing beginning at 7:00 p.m. at 1509 Asheboro St. Phone-BR3-0464

On July 28, 1967, Miss Terrell’s death was announced at 8:55 a.m. March 16 at 819 E. Hines, Philadelphia. The Viewing beginning at 7:00 p.m. at 1509 Asheboro St. Phone-BR3-0464

The climax of the movie caught Newt in an awkward position. In a final analysis, it boiled down to the fact that his testimony in court would vary from a white man, but condemn his black brother and possibly endanger the lives of the black people of the town. Newt managed somehow to survive the court scene and he told the truth. But sometimes the truth hurts. Although the truth triggered the death of Marcus’ father, he had to do the only right thing.

Newt had so many problems with so few answers that it didn’t appear as though he would survive at one point in the movie. Analyzing the incident with him was his rival “friend” Marcus. Newt hadn’t really done anything to harm Marcus. He just didn’t agree with some of the evil intentions that Marcus schemed. Newt was indeed brave, facing up to the bully, considering Marcus’ reputation and their difference in physique.

The University of Delaware Approves Rights For Accused Students

The Committee on Student Personal Problems at the University of Delaware recently approved the Judicial Reform Document and decided issues concerning the rights of both the accused and prosecutor.

A major point brought up for discussion at the CRP meeting concerned the fact that, in addition to the accused, the person bringing charges is able to appeal a case. The three grounds on which appeals can be made are:

- Procedural due process has not been followed
- Additional information is available which is a sufficient basis to alter the outcome of the case.
- The accused feels the penalty imposed on him is unfair.

All three grounds may be used for appeal by the accused, while only the first two may be used by the person bringing charges.

Newt In ‘The Learning Tree’ Appraised

By Brenda J. Thornhill

An admirable figure in the movie which promoted so much interest on our campus, “The Learning Tree”, was a black youth called Newt. Because this central character had many complex problems to deal with, his personality deserves much appraisal, and if I must say so, sympathy.

From the first glance at Newt, I could tell that he was rather small in stature, but very intelligent. In the opening scene, I conceived that the purpose of Melvin’s introducing Newt to sexual relationships or just plain sex. This was one of the lessons or experiences he would encounter as he was maturing.

Newt was a handsome young man with strong character, but inhibited expression. He knew what he wanted to do, but external pressures restrained him to the extent there was no self-experience.

Newt was indeed brave, facing up to the bully, considering Marcus’ reputation and their difference in physique. Newt had so many problems with so few answers that it didn’t appear as though he would survive at one point in the movie. Analyzing the incident with him was his rival “friend” Marcus. Newt hadn’t really done anything to harm Marcus. He just didn’t agree with some of the evil intentions that Marcus schemed.

A line young man of many qualities, Newt had no other choice than to mature amidst a hostile environment with complex problems too far advanced for a fifteen-year old to cope with. Newt realized how hard it was for a black man with ambition to make it in a white man’s society. It seemed as though he realized that after he compared his phobia of death, and especially his mother’s death, Newt’s entire concept of life began to look for the best of things.

As he walked down that all too familiar country road in deep musings, Newt did feel any physical repercussions of his fight with Marcus. I had a feeling that things were going to be “a whole lot better” for Newt in the future—he had broken his last twig of experiences on his learning tree.

Easter Can Be Day Of Awakening

By Gwendolyn Spinks

Have you ever heard of the day when the sun dances in the sky for joy around the world? Easter! This is an "old folk's" belief that this occasion is exactly what happens the day before Good Friday. Good Friday marks the time when Christ died on the cross on the hill outside of Jerusalem. Usually, church altars are left bare, candles are unlighted, and only solemn music is played.

On Easter Sunday, the Lenten period of sorrow and fasting ends. Church altars are lavishly and decorated with beautiful Easter lilies. Yes, this is the day that Jesus Christ rose from the dead, giving to the world redemption, hope, freedom, and everlasting life.

Although Easter is a religious holiday, we, we still follow customs that go back to an ancient festival that was held years before Christianity. During this same season, the ancient Anglo-Saxon people held a festival in honor of Easter, their goddess of light and spring. Eggs were colored and bunnies given to the children in honor of the Persian, Egyptian, Greek and Roman spring celebration in honor of the Persians, Egyptians, Greek and Romans. Today, Easter is a day of great awakening and happiness, every fundamental truth of Christianity and fulfillment of life is involved with the resurrection of Christ.

Opportunity: Don't Knock it.

Because we honestly think it's the most important thing an employer can offer you.

At Chemical Bank, opportunity means creating a climate in which only your ability decides how soon you can assume the big responsibilities in international banking, marketing, planning, consulting, investment advisory and financial management.

It also means living and working in the New York area. No other city in the nation offers more opportunities and rewards for your talent. And in banking, perhaps more than in any other industry, New York is the hub.

That's opportunity. The kind you'll find at Chemical Bank. If you think you'd like some, set up an interview and talk to us about yourself.

THE AGGIE TRACK TEAM — 1970

Track Team Impressive In Relays

By Paul Jones

On Friday 13 March the basketball team of A&T, on an AFROTC journey to East Carolina University, Raleigh, played an exciting game.

In the first game A&T held a 3-0 lead going into the third inning. Before the series was over, Florida tied the score. Although the Aggies clinched a narrow victory, the talented team showed an impressive display of skill and strategy.

This quick succession of points stunned UNC momentarily, but the Aggies recovered and began to give a strong performance. A&T started the second half with a full court press, and rebounding, and competed throughout the game, earning a 1-0 victory over hopes in.

Cadet Team Runner-Up In Tourney

The young Aggies of mentor Mel Grooms recently opened up the 1970 basketball season with a trip to the Florida A&M Spring Carnival. As was the case last year, the A&T club has which saw A&T rally only to loose in the waning minutes of the game.

Track Team Impressive In Relays

By Paul Jones

Senior Seyon Harrel and Junior Curtis Thompson were A&T’s main attractions as the Aggies participated in the annual Florida A&M Relays. Although running in unreasonably cold 30-degree temperatures, Harrel easily won the 440 event in a time of 49.2. Scheduling difficulties delayed the 440 and the 880 was run in the following heat. This time Curtis Thompson surprised Harrel who finished third to capture the event in a 4:53.9 mark and Willie Wright got fifth place in the javelin throw.

Coach Murray Neeley was satisfied with the performance of team members in the events participated in. Among the 16 schools present, Florida State, Fisk University, J. C. Smith, and Florida A&M were the most impressive in competition which was individual instead of teams.

In eligibility of quite a few team members has seriously hurt A&T in events they were expecting to be strongest in. Besides Thompson and Harrel, Coach Neeley cites freshman Maurice Watson, a product of Durham Hightide as having outstanding potential. A&T’s next meet will be the Hampton Relays later in the month.
Bowdoin College Eliminates SAT

(L.P.)—Bowdoin College of Brunswick, Me., announced recently that its faculty voted to eliminate all College Board examination requirements for admission candidates.

"Effective immediately," said Director of Admissions Richard W. Moll, "submission of the College Entrance Examination Board's Standard Aptitude Test (SAT) and Achievement Test scores to Bowdoin is optional."

Asserting that the importance of standardized test results has been widely overemphasized in college admissions, Mr. Moll said Bowdoin's decision to make the College Board optional "represents, for one thing, an attempt to amplify the admissions formula that is based on highly motivated student, whatever the kind of test scores.

"We want the student to apply even though his SAT median may not compare favorably with those of Bowdoin when last recorded (for the Class of 1973, the verbal median was 611 and the mathematics median was 662 on a scoring range of 200 to 800).

"On the other hand, we will not interpret the absence of test scores as a certain indication the student performed poorly. Some applicants may wish to refrain from submitting their scores as a matter of principle."

Mr. Moll said recent studies conducted here have prompted the liberal arts college to question frequent assumptions that College Board scores correlate well with performance patterns in college.

"Analysis is difficult, however, largely because our own definition of success at the College is constantly broadening," he said, "and cannot be stated simply in terms of grades and rank. But even if one concentrates on numerical indications of success or failure at Bowdoin, results warn against overconfidence in the predictive value of standardized test scores."

As an example, Mr. Moll said that among freshmen who graduated cum laude, magna cum laude, or summa cum laude in the Classes of 1968 and 1969 only 34 per cent had entered the College with both SAT's above their class medians, while 24 per cent had entered with both SAT's below their class medians.

"Bowdoin is a small college where the individual is central. Since the Admissions Office is adequately staffed to make a careful review of a transcript plus a series of recommendations on a single candidate, performance and promise are judged as much on description as on statistics," Mr. Moll said.

"The educational process is improved by personalization—and admissions plays an important role in the educational process. As the lecture gives way to seminar and independent study, as highly structured grading systems give way to NO Rank and Pass-Fail, so must the evaluation of a college candidate become less encumbered with scores and formulas, and concentrate more on the appraisal of that human qualities which cannot be measured by standardized tests, but which nonetheless are predictors of success in a particular institution of learning and in a particular area of contribution thereafter."

Many colleges, including Bowdoin, "have failed in their attempts to communicate to candidates, schools, and parents the relatively subordinate role of College Board results in the admission process," Mr. Moll said.

Although most colleges emphasize that actual school performance and personal accomplishment are the key factors, candidates too often estimate their chances for admission to College X by comparing their CEES scores with that college's SAT medians.

"Also, the quality of College X's entering class is often judged purely in terms of these medians, even though the admissions committee passed up many high-scoring candidates for others with lower test scores but stronger overall records."

"The majority of the College's candidates will probably continue to send their College Board scores; we will welcome them, and will put them to good use."
