UNIVERSITY'S AFRO-HOUSE
Campus Afro-House Is Not Closed, But Lack Of Funds Delays Plans

By Lorna Jean Hines

Is the Afro-House closed? "No," says Dr. Frank White, "The House is not closed and it is very much alive and operating." Dr. White accepted the position of Chairman of the Afro-America Center and Steering Committee after Dr. Derwin Turner resigned in order to accept a position at another university. The committee is made up of students as well as faculty members.

The reason behind the conception of the Afro-House was defined by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy at its opening in 1968 as a "study project, cultural activities or before next semester."

Black Muslim Speaks To Enlighten Aggies

By Ruth James

Minister Louis Farrakhan, the National Representative of the Honorable Elijah Muhammad, spoke to an enthusiastic crowd Thursday night in Harrison Auditorium. His very impressive speech left Aggies with something to think about and relate to ways in which a Black person should live together as true brothers and sisters.

His speech was presented to enlighten Aggies on the teachings of Elijah Muhammad and ways of understanding his teachings. He stated that "We must understand the teachings of the Honorable Elijah Muhammad."

In his description of Elijah Muhammad, he explained "He is a messenger of God to 30 million Black people in America. He is a leader of an all Black nation. He is here to bring the Black man in unity. He wants us to know that we have come to the point where the white man is not ruling over Black people."

"America's Falling"

On the situation in America Farrakhan stated, "America is falling—never to rise again. Internally, America is upset." As to the future of Black people in America, Farrakhan added that, "we must fight constructively. We need the right guidance to build up a strong Black nation."

Minister Farrakhan added that the white man is our enemy. He stated, "the white man is trying to close off every avenue where the Black man wants to express himself. The white man's desire is to destroy Black youth, for this young group of men and women are the most fearless generation of Black men."

BLACKS AND DRUGS

"In the time of your rise, we Black people must be very careful for our enemies are laying traps everywhere. One of these traps is selling drugs to the young Black people in America."

Minister Farrakhan gave important points we should be careful about:

1) Do not allow drugs to destroy the youth.

2) Look out for enemies desiring to give you money in high positions to use against the use of your people.

He further stated, "Any Black man who is selling drugs is an enemy."

$3.5 Million Building Leads Proposed Budget

The new $3.5 million health and physical education building leads A&T's list of budget recommendations submitted by the Advisory Budget Commission to the General Assembly Wednesday.

According to the Greensboro Daily News, A&T's recommended operating budget for the 1972-73 year is $4.5 million and $4.6 million for the 1973-74 year, up $1 million over the past biennium.

Re-elected in capital improvement requests were $7.1 million for two science buildings, $1.3 million for an art center building, general improvement to existing buildings, and land acquisitions.

Approval here, in addition to the new physical education building, were a new physical plant warehouse, heating plant improvements, renovation of two campus buildings, and continuation of plans for putting campus wiring underground.

The Commission also requested an additional $3,533,795 to include $533,795 for academic salary increases and $2,990,000 to expand data processing operations.

In a statement appearing in the Greensboro Daily News, Dr. L. C. Dowdy, A&T's chief administrator, stated, "we are pleased that the budget for capital improvements recommended some of the vital needs of the institution which will greatly improve both the operation of our plant and instructional facilities."

"However," he said, "we really need all the items we requested, and we shall work with our legislatures to try to restore the other important issues to the budget."

Dr. Dowdy said the proposed physical and health education buildings were "imperative because we need an adequate facility that has been provided for our major programs in recreation, administration, health education, and physical education."

A&T president stated he will "not have a single classroom to accommodate these programs," he said. "the new facility, if granted, would accommodate, more than 200 classes and 25 special activities programs."

CIAA Officials Predict Capacity

Crowd For Basketball Tournament

The big question being asked around Greensboro is whether or not the forthcoming CIAA Basketball Tournament can fill the recently expanded 18,000-seat Greensboro Coliseum.

Officials of the nationally-known playoffs are confident that the event's attendance will be the same successful years of the future.

As the tournament approaches, executives are indicating that the tournament may be a sellout. With North Carolina State setting the pace in the Northern Division, and A&T, Winston-Salem, Johnson C. Smith and Elizabeth City out in front in the Southern Division, the tournament is already well on the way to its record season honors could go down to the final week of play.

Meanwhile the hot scramble for the slimmed-down capacity in the arena, the most successful sports events are already reporting they have sold down to the final week of play.

"We have every reason to believe that sales are already ahead of last year," said an official of the Coliseum. "We're just about sold out except for Friday and Saturday," said one motel owner. "And we are still getting a number of requests each day. There is no doubt that we have exhausted our supply of rooms much earlier than last year."

Meanwhile the hot scramble for the slimmed-down capacity in the arena, many fans were buying their tickets in advance. Approximately 11,000 tickets were sold within two days of the tournament's opening.

The scheduled activities have been delayed because of what has been described as a series of circumstances preventing funds from being available to the center. However, it was disclosed in this committee meeting that the University president, Dr. L. C. Dowdy, has stated that the center should be open by February.

In the new plans being made for the center, along with the hiring of a full-time director for the house, there is a possibility that jobs may also be provided for some students. Dr. White also said that he was very hopeful the center would be functioning on or before next semester.
Financial Aid Justice

The proposal last week by administrators of North Carolina universities, if accepted and implemented, will be the closest this state has ever come to "fair play" in distributing funds for financial aid to needy students.

The Black administrators' position regarding the first proposal - to distribute funds solely on the basis of enrollment - was very justifiable.

The other administrators present had enough foresight to agree that this would still not solve the problem of all of the money going to the white schools and that the proposal by the Black administrators was more suitable.

This proposal - the distribution of funds on the basis of the number of students coming from families with annual incomes of $7,000 or less - guarantees that the student who needs the money will be the one to get it. The first proposal favors large universities which primarily have students coming from homes with incomes above this $7,000 mark.

State House Representative Charles Phillips, who is also an A&T trustee, objected to this proposal. One of his objections was that this did not correspond with the Financial Aid Study Commission's proposal and that these administrators were seeking funds on a formula and such would not work.

Representative Phillips should realize that his commission is capable of not reaching the best answer and even their solution is based on a "formula". This commission should not "consider" but "seriously consider" the administrators' proposal.

Perhaps this proposal by the administrators is not complete, but it certainly promises more in fairness than does the commission's. If A&T or any other Black school has three-fourths of its enrollment coming from families below $7,000 and UNC has only one-eighth, then A&T should get money for its three-fourths and UNC only money for its one-eighth.

Trustee Phillips says the administrators seek money only on the $7,000 criteria. However, if his commission studies this proposal as it should, then perhaps it can work out other details.

For example, one method of doing this is to base the amount of aid granted on the family income and the amount of this going towards the education of the child.

He has also objected to the administrators' desire to have the aid controlled by their respective institutions and favors a central control agency. It would seem logical that the aid be controlled by the respective institutions, however. The proposal by the Black administrators was more suitable.

Everybody's Trying To Make It

Exams Option

Editor of The Register:

Many students have been discussing the possibility of the University using the method for giving examinations that was used last spring. Last spring the students were given an option as to whether or not they were to take exams. It is not determined whether or not a student has grasped what he was supposed to.

By the end of the semester most students have obtained whatever they could out of a given class. A final examination, does not determine whether or not a student has grasped what he was supposed to.

The students know that it is unfair to themselves or their classmates. Many instructors try to eliminate the possiblities of cheating by staying inside the classroom and keeping a careful eye on the students. Still many students can cheat and not get caught.

In day when honor and honesty are upheld and considered high values, cheaters are not thought too highly of. Cheating is a trait they should try to remove from their character. Cheating on an exam may not help one to pass the test, but he will not know the information if he has to use it in the future.

Cheating one time and not getting caught may lead to cheating again. It will become an habitual thing. So, if cheating is a part of one's character, he should try to rid himself of this trait. There are other honest ways of making it-like studying.

Dorms Closing

Editor of The Register:

I am wondering why the dorms will be closed during the Easter holiday when they were not closed for the Thanksgiving holiday. Both of these holidays are approximately six days.

Many of us cannot afford a trip home after Christmas and then try to save money to get home at the end of the semester. Also there are those of us who have no desire to go home. The alternative of staying at school or going home should remain.

Family Of Slain Jackson State Student Given New Home

The family of James Earl Green, who was killed by police gunfire during the Jackson State College crisis last June, has been given a new home by The Medgar Evers Fund, it was announced last week by Fund President Charles Evers, Mayor of Fayette, Miss.

The 17-year-old Green was killed by a bullet fired by State Police while leaving a local bus on his way home from work during the disorders at Jackson State. He was more than 100 yards from the scene of the disorders at the time he was shot.

Green was one of the main sources of support for his mother, and eight brothers and sisters.

Economist Says 'We'll Call Shots'

On Black Journal

"We're going to call the shots," vows the head of a Black economic development group in Detroit.

Larry Doss, president of the Inner City Business Improvement Forum (ICBIF) describes to NET's Black Journal a novel approach to Black self-determination.

He says: "We're going to plan our own projects, we're going to implement them and we're going to evaluate them, and we might call upon somebody to assist us in doing any of these things, but we're going to be the leadership, and we're going to call the shots."

Black Journal, National Educational Television's monthly program produced for, by and about Blacks, will be seen Monday, January 25, at 9 p.m. (In Greensboro it will be seen on WUNC/Channel 4 at 9 p.m.) Black Journal's executive producer, Tony Brown, says of ICBIF: "Born out of the ashes of the Detroit civil disorders of July, 1967, the organization has aided 100 Black-owned companies with total assets of $5 million. Its goal is $1 billion in assets for Blacks in the country."

ICBIF, a non-profit, Black-controlled economic development group, aids and develops medium and large-size manufacturing businesses. Since its inception following the Detroit civil disorders of July, 1967, the organization has aided 100 Black-owned companies with total assets of $5 million. Its goal is $1 billion in assets for the businesses they create, plus 100,000 new jobs in the next 10 years.

ICBIF is committed to dividing profits within the community. Its policy is to aid only the Black businesses which "broadly assist and strengthen the community," Doss explains in pointing out the difference between ICBIF's philosophy and that of Black capitalism.

Black Journal, a production of NET division, Educational Broadcasting Corporation, is seen on public television the last Monday of every month.

A&T Hosts Conference On School Integration

More than 300 school administrators, teachers, students and parents will explore the problems of human relations at a conference at A&T Saturday. The TASI Conference (Teachers, Administrators and School Integration) is being sponsored by the North Carolina Association of Educators, the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction and the Education and Community Relations Departments of the University.

The keynote presentation will take place at 9 a.m. in the Memorial Union Ballroom with an address on "The Nature of Prejudice" by Dr. Dorothy Williams, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Department of Urban Science at Shaw University.

Dr. Williams is a nationally-known expert in the area of human relations. Other participants in the morning session will include Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of A&T; Miss Estelle Winchester, district president of the NAACP; and Dr. Marion R. Blair, coordinator of the conference.

The afternoon session will be featured by a number of working sessions on human relations problems.

A session on "The Legal Liability of Educators" will be led by Atty. Sammie Chess of High Point. David Atwood, director of the Community Services, will chair a session on "The Role of Community Agencies in Assisting Schools." "Discipline and Communications with Parents" will be chaired by Dr. Melvin C. Stahl, associate superintendent of Guilford County Schools.

V. Maye Bundy, superintendent of Madison-Mayodan Schools will lead a session on "Planning for the Integration of Activities" and Dr. Lois V. Edinger of UNC-G will chair a session on "Integration Opportunities in Student Teaching."

Other participants will be Harold E. Webb of the State Department of Public Instruction and John Patterson, director of community relations for the Greensboro Police Department.

Dowdy Submits Proposal

For Black Corporation

By David Lee Brown

The recent proposal by Dr. Lewis Dowdy, University President, that students at A&T take the leadership role in the establishment of Black business is currently being studied by a committee of the Student Legislature.

The Legislature plans to present this proposal to the student body after it has completed its study.

The Black business established, Afro Enterprises, Incorporated, will be owned and controlled by Blacks and it has been proposed that the funds for its establishment be provided by Black students of the Southeast.

In order to finance the corporation, Dr. Dowdy proposed that shares be sold at $25 per share. Each student will be asked to purchase two shares for two years of college.

Since there are approximately 16,000 Black college students in this state, this will create, in one year, a total of $400,000 and in four years $1,600,000. If the program is extended to include all five subsidiaries, this will create, in one year, a total of $400,000 and in four years $1,600,000.

The proposal for the establishment of Black business, Afro Enterprises, Incorporated, will be presented to the Student Senate. The Senate will then vote on the proposal.

The proposal includes the following:

- The establishment of Black business, Afro Enterprises, Incorporated, will be owned and controlled by Blacks.
- The funds for the establishment of the corporation will be provided by Black students of the Southeast.
- Each student will be asked to purchase two shares for two years of college.
- The total amount of funds will be $1,600,000 in four years.
- The corporation will be organized so that it will be able to finance the establishment of additional subsidiaries.

The committee believes that this proposal will help to create a new generation of Black leaders and will provide an opportunity for students to become involved in the development of Black business.
GAPP Director Describes New Three-Point Program To Deltas

By Patrice Dunn

Tom Bailey, Director of the Greensboro Association of Poor People, in a speech here on campus Sunday in the Student Union described the new three-point program currently being initiated by the group. The speech was delivered to the members of Alpha Mu Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

The first phase includes a factual survey of the black community to find cases of injustices toward students in "desegregated situations." This is being done in an effort to inform blacks of what is actually happening.

The second part will include strategic moves based upon these findings from the survey. The ultimate objective will be to find some system under which black students can be assured of receiving the best education.

The final phase includes increased support to establish a black-owned and black-operated business to show black independence. Currently, windshield covers made by the Malcolm X Liberation University are being sold in an effort to raise the funds.

Bailey accused A&T students of laboring under the delusion that until they get their education there is no way that they can help. He encourages them to remove this desire for cultural development and get out and work in the community by using those skills made available to them.

In an effort to encourage blacks to teach, he cites the Greensboro school system where this year some 300 teachers were hired of which less than ten were blacks. Bailey feels that this lack of blacks to train our young black minds will be detrimental to the black movement. He also feels that Governor Scott's plan for one Board of Directors for all state supported universities is an attempt to eliminate black schools.

Bailey, with his two-man staff at their office on 914 Gorrell Street, is attempting to organize the community people, deal with individual problems and aid striking workers. He expressed his desire to have all possible help from the Sorority and any other interested persons.

Engineering Grad Courses To Be Offered

The addition of several new courses in engineering will highlight the spring semester of the Graduate School at A&T.

Specialized graduate courses in engineering to be offered include electronics engineering, engineering research, management, organization, industrial economics and operations research.

Another special course to be added next semester will be consumer economics, to be taught as an offering of the University's Institute in Afro-American Studies. According to Dr. Albert Spruill, dean of the Graduate School, the course will emphasize some of the problems, difficulties and economic opportunities of low income families. The course will be taught by a member of the Department of Economics.

Graduate courses in chemistry will also be offered at the University. These courses were not offered last semester as the department underwent a complete reorganization.

Other offerings in the Graduate School will include courses in psychology and guidance. These will include educational and occupational information, personality development, introduction to counseling, and the guidance practicum.

Aggies Revenge With 77-66 Win Over Shaw

By Paul Jones
Sports Editor

With the heart of its tough CIAA schedule stiff before them, the Aggies got one notch closer to the conference tournament by holding off the Bears of Shaw 77-66. For A&T it was sweet revenge for double upsets last year that erupted in the court 123-83.

Meanwhile, Elmer Austin was the benefactor of many Harris passes. From the opening tip, both teams had their troubles getting started. After trading misses, Shaw struck the first blow. A basket by Al Carter and the Bears purposely walked the ball up the court to take the momentum out of the A&T fastbreak. From there the battle was on as the rivals traded baskets furiously, but with A&T keeping a narrow 2 or 3 point lead. In the closing minutes of the game Al Carter connected twice from the corner and A&T took a 35-28 lead into the dressing room.

William Harris then broke the game open with dazzling displays of shooting and passing wizardry. Matters were to change drastically in the second half as William “June” Harris came back into the game. Behind the ball stealing tactics and playmaking heroics of Harris, A&T enjoyed its biggest lead at 55-35.

Coach Cal Irvin then inserted another guard to give Harris a breather and the results proved disastrous. Several turnovers and badly taken shots cut deeply into a one-time comfortable lead. With less than eight minutes to play, the score was 68-59 and the Bears threatening even more.

Already plagued by foul troubles, Shaw found the absence of star guard Raymond Haskins too much. Playing with four fouls he came back into the game to lead the comeback effort. Luckily for A&T, they still had a large enough lead to match the Bears on even terms for the rest of the game. The result was a 77-66 victory for A&T.

Leading the attack for the Aggies were Harris with 23 points and Elmer Austin with 26. Al Carter and Walt Anderson also played magnificently in the win. Melvin “Chucky” Evans also had his glorious moments before being ejected from the game along with Bobby Parks.

Winston-Salem’s Ram’s will invade the Coliseum this Saturday to battle A&T for undisputed possession of first place in the CIAA Southern Division.

Besides being the defending CIAA tournament champions, Winston-Salem is hoping it can retaliate for triple losses to A&T last year. In its 85-64, 84-79, and 76-73 (overtime) wins over Winston-Salem, all the games had been hotly contested.

Sigmas Rally 63-31 Over Alphas, High Rise Whips Holland 26-2

By Jacqueline Glisson

Tuesday night students witnessed a thrilling basketball triple-header in Moore Gym. In a battle of the Greeks as Phi Beta Sigma played Alpha Phi Alpha in an exciting game. The Sigmas were victorious as they scored over twice as many points as their opponents with a final score of 63-31. Leading the Phi Beta Sigma team was Willie McKay with 22 points and George Rhine with 12 points. High scorer for the Alphas was John McDer with 8 points.

The Ghetto versus the Tribe was a hard playing game in which the Ghetto was the victor. Wayne Toomer led the Ghetto with 12 points while Williams collected 10 points for the Tribe. The game ended with the score 37-31 in favor of the Ghetto.

If you are a senior...

As you contemplate one of the most important decisions of your life, you will want to remember this: it is not just "a job" you are seeking—it should be the beginning of a career. And it is to be successful, both you and your employer must need and want each other.

To help you with your decision, we invite you to consider the opportunities at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Currently, our engineers and scientists are exploring the ever-broadening avenues of energy conversion for ever-changing conditions and new needs. The technical staff working on these programs, backed by Management's determination to provide the best and most advanced facilities and scientific apparatus, has already laid the foundation for the future. The program is one in which you can play a part. We select our engineers and scientists carefully. Motivate them well. Give them the equipment and facilities they need to develop their ideas. Make them feel that they are succeeding in their work. Reward them well when they do.

We select our engineers and scientists carefully. Motivate them well. Give them the equipment and facilities only a leader can provide. Offer them company-paid, graduate-education opportunities. Encourage them to push into fields that have not been explored before. Keep them reaching for a little bit more responsibility than they can manage. Reward them well when they do manage it.

Your degree can be a B.S., M.S., or Ph.D. in:

- MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
- AERONAUTICAL ENGINEERING
- ENGINEERING SCIENCE
- ENGINEERING MECHANICS

If your degree is in another field, consult your college placement officer—or write Mr. Len Black, Engineering Department, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Connecticut 06108.
