We now have students coming from eleven nations and thirty-five states. North Carolina tops the list of student enrollment. It has students represented from eighty-nine of its one hundred counties. The number of out-of-state students comprises twenty-five percent of the students which is a total of 1,000 students.

In light of these findings, we have reason to believe that this University will realize the authorized regular session enrollments projected for 1972-1973. Therefore, it is requested that the enrollments remain as certified by the Advisory Budget Commission on February 6, 1970. They are:

1971-1972: In-State, 3,040; Out-of-State, 750; Total, 3,540.
1972-1973: In-State, 3,420; Out-of-State, 1,540; Total, 4,960.

Effective October first the advance fee payments made by A & T students in the spring will rise from $15.00 to $20.00. The increase was ordered for all state universities by the North Carolina General Assembly in a bill ratified in July.

The $50.00 must be paid by all students who expect to return for the next academic year. In the event of hardship the bill allows the deposit to be waived at the school's discretion. If a student decides not to return and gives notice 30 days after the end of the term in which he made his deposit, it will be refunded. The fee is also refunded if the student is not allowed to return.

The bill also instructs all boards of trustees to require each applicant for admission who is accepted to make an advance deposit of not less than $100.00. This deposit will be applied against the student's tuition for the fall semester. In the event of hardship the bill allows the deposit to be returned.

For Advance Payments-Applications

In respect to the teacher shortage activated by the increased enrollment Gamble remarked that the administration is working to solve the problem. There are efforts being made to hire teachers in English, History, and Mathematics. For the spring semester, the Office of Admissions expects an enrollment of 150 freshmen.

Gamble mentioned that many of the students accepted for the fall semester who did not come have notified the admissions office that they will enter next semester.

General Assembly Orders Increases For Advance Payments-Applications

Dowdy Working To Alleviate Shortage

By Drusilla Dunn

"The administration is doing everything possible to alleviate our present teacher shortage and, during this period of adjustment, I am soliciting the cooperation of both faculty and students," Dr. L.C. Dowdy said in an interview today.

The president spoke at length on the budgetary problem involved in acquiring personnel. "The State Legislature underestimated our expected enrollment; and, on the basis of the Legislature's estimate of 3650, we had 9.5 positions at $105,000. Of this amount, $5,450 would have gone for salary increases."

"I am reasonably sure that we will get these positions back," said Dr. Dowdy as he checked the latest budget report. He had predicted the number of full-time equivalent students. With a current enrollment head count of 4442, Dr. Dowdy estimated that, by tomorrow, the full-time equivalent student number will probably exceed A & T's projected enrollment of 3,800.

The Legislature's action occurred in spite of A & T administrators' assurance that the enrollment would increase. A memorandum to heads and business managers of all State Institutions of Higher Education, from G.A. Jones Jr., state budget officer, in April, requested a review of regular session enrollment estimates for 1971-73.

The State Legislature will have funds to guarantee to attract additional students for 1971-73. A $25,000,000 increase was voted in the biennium and $6,000,000 was added for regular session enrollment. These funds should go a long way toward raising the present student body of 15,000.

Advance Fees

Students frequently complain about the seemingly unorganized manner in which the administration plans a school year. What students don't realize is that they are often deceiving the administrators basic planning tool, the advance fee payment.

The advance fee payment is looked upon by many students as just another piece of paper. However, it should be seen as a contract between each student and the UNIVERSITY. By paying the fee, the student pledges to return to the university for the next academic year. By receiving it, the university pledges to have the necessary facilities ready for him when he returns.

Last spring many students put off paying the fee, and many male students did not bother to reserve a room. The result was utter confusion over dormitory assignments.

By an act of the General Assembly the advance fee payment is going up to $50.00. Students will be investing more in their pledge to return.

The university then must take care in planning the next academic year.

If students pay the $50.00 this spring, there can be no excuse for another comedy of errors like the one which resulted in dormitory confusion.

How Our Readers See It

Some Don't Know Cooper Is For Women

Editor of the Register:

It seems that certain young men are unaware of the fact that Cooper Hall is now a women's dormitory.

For this reason, girls are being surprised halfway out of their rooms by young men casually strolling down the halls, as nonchalant and cool as you could possibly imagine.

This is the sort of thing that happened to me, and countless other girls on the evening of August 31, at approximately 1:30 a.m. Many of the guys, unaware of the dangers of opening the doors at a certain hour, are partially responsible for this occurrence. However, it is also the responsibility of the young man, especially when he has nothing more "exciting" to do than to stroll around inside a girl's dormitory and enjoy the "peep show."

Evidently, this episode didn't excite too many cords. A few of us who took a closer look with mild interest others merely pushed their doors together and continued whatever they were doing. Maybe the fact that they were fully clothed caused much more embarrassment on their part. Unfortunately, I was clad in only a very short "shorty" nightgown, so you can imagine my distress. It is difficult to maintain your composure and stifle a scream when you turn around, clad so scantily, and discover two men behind you with mild embarrassment on their faces.

Another Coed

Editor of the Register:

The facilities in Cooper Hall, especially in the rest rooms, are atrocious. They definitely were not designed to meet the needs of women students. What is more, they offer little or no privacy. Some girls are afraid to venture into the bathroom at night alone for fear of being intruded upon by male visitors.

Cooper Move Disastrous

Editor of the Register:

The assignment of coeds to the formerly male dormitory may prove to be the most disastrous move of the entire school year.

Computer Science Errors

Editor of the Register:

The computer science center here on campus has just made, this time, a larger and more obvious error than it has been making in the past. This last error should mark the beginning of some type reorganization, whether it is the firing or reevaluation of the personnel or its procedures.

Any time a department continually fails to meet its goals, as the computer science department has, there needs to be some type investigation as to the reasons, in order to improve.

This problem is a great handicap to the students. Each year students have to check and recheck errors made on their grade slips in order to see if they are really receiving their due credit for their courses. The errors made have to have a source and it is in my opinion through careful investigation this source could be found and corrected.

Immediate action taken in this area would save many people a great deal of unnecessary headaches.
Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of A&T, this week announced the appointments of 26 new teachers for the fall term.

Male Students Show Little Objection To Woman Doctor

Dowdy Announces New Teacher Appointments

By Ethel Morrison and Edna Goodman

According to Dean William Goode, associate dean of Student Affairs for housing, the shortage of dorm space was not a shortage at all. "The institution can not be blamed," sighed Dean Goode. "It was the male students failing to plan.

"I don't consider it a shortage at all," said Dean Goode. "There are 382 girls occupying 382 double rooms, and 900 male students have applied for housing on campus.

Coeds are able to obtain contraceptives and vaginal foams without living quarters. By last Thursday 800 men had applied for housing on campus. With 1500 spaces for men and only 800 filled, 700 spaces were available.

There were 182 girls without living quarters to guard against overflow, the 148 girls on Curtis were removed and placed in Cooper. That left Curtis free to house male students. On Thursday of last week there were 404 male students without living quarters. By last Friday there were 39 spaces available.

University Health Program Offers Tests For Pregnancy And V.D.

By Jane Smith

Social diseases in recent years have reached almost epidemic proportions. Unwanted pregnancies, even with help of contraceptives and wide spread information, have continued to mount.

In an effort to aid students, the Student Health Service has a part of the university health program. The services are available to any A&T student desiring them who meet the designated specifications.

Other faculty members connected with the production are Dr. Howard Pearsall, music director, Leroy Homes, art director, David Steel, technical director, and Mrs. Catherine Clifton, costume designer.

Drama Dept. To Present Musical

By George Johnson

A "first class musical," was the description Dr. John M. Stevenson of the Department of Speech Communication and Theater Arts gave of the upcoming production, "The King and I.

Dr. Stevenson explained that because the production was to begin, 600 men had taken up quarters in a housing shortage. The first one was the Man of La Mancha, which was a tremendous success.

He also implied that because the department wanted to offer the musical, there was a diversity of activities that made this possible.

The King and I is scheduled to run through October 11-16, the week of Homecoming.

Some very prominent citizens have been invited to attend this performance. Among these are: Governor Robert Scott, The A&T Board of Trustees, Members of the State Legislature, and the City fathers.

This musical production is much more involved than any of the previous productions. A twenty-five piece orchestra will be conducted by William Smiley, instructor of woodwind. The orchestra will be composed of faculty members and students from various universities and any other qualified personnel.

A course in persuasive communication is being offered this fall by the Department of Speech Communication.

Dr. Pearl G. Bradley, professor of Rhetoric and Public Address, describes the course as a "study of contemporary principles of persuasion used in the mass media and public affairs."

The course is recommended for pre-law students and others who will use persuasive techniques in their vocations.

Dr. Bradley is a graduate of A&T. She also holds the M.A. degree form the University of Michigan and the Ph.D. degree from Ohio State University.

A career in medicine exacts determination, dedication, and perseverance, but also brings satisfaction.

To determine if venereal disease is present, the VDRL blood test is often used. Also, smear test may be taken to diagnose the presence of gonorrhea. Along with these tests, a deposition chart is available at the Infirmary. The Dapt pregnancy test, a slide test, which according to Dr. James Dixon is university physician, can be administered in about ten minutes, at a charge during the time the students attending doctors are on duty.

Not only are the above tests given to desiring students, but coeds are able to obtain prescriptions for oral contraceptives and vaginal foams.
Freshmen Give Views On Their First Impressions Of Aggieland

By Mildred Medley

There are a tremendous number of incoming freshmen who have expressed various opinions of their first impressions of A & T. These comments represent only a small minority of the large freshman class. Their comments ranged from complaints about the food to praise of the warmness around them.

Juniors "Lenny" Leak, a veteran and a Drama major from Greensboro, stated that, "The majority of the upperclassmen and instructors that I have encountered have been most helpful in assisting me in completing my registration. The basic complaint I have is the long lines which remind me so much of my Army experience."

JoAnn Holland, a Psychology major from Roanoke, Va. said, "Speaking socially and academically, most seniors have been very helpful and understanding and have made A & T pleasant for me thus far."

Increased Demand For Driver Ed. Develops Career Opportunities

By Jaunita HoUingsworth

Numerous career opportunities have developed from an increased demand for a more comprehensive study in driver education and traffic safety.

The interest in improving the motorized segment of our society has been ignited by the Highway Safety Act of 1966 and the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. As a result, A&T is one of few schools to offer a master's degree in driver and safety education.

With training in this field, one is qualified to be a safety supervisor in industry, federal, and state agencies, teaching, in administrative positions in the many newly-established traffic education centers across the country.

In speaking with Dr. Isaac Barnett, a professor in the Industrial Education Department, he stated that individuals have traveled from Raleigh, Asheville, and other places to benefit from this program. He is one of two black men to hold a doctorate in driver's education. The other is Dr. Lenoy Dinee, chief administrator of traffic education of the US Department of Transportation.

Dr. Barnett stressed that these courses are beneficial to all students of all majors. Also, he expressed a need for students to take advantage of the courses at A&T where one is sure to be qualified and certified.

Residents Tell What It's Like In Curtis And Cooper

By Beverly Raye Kelly

Everyone will probably agree that Cooper Hall has definitely gotten on the spotlight in the last few years. Its sudden transformation from a boy's dormitory to that of a coed's has captured the attention and interest of nearly all Aggies.

For the most part, the change is completely new and was quite a surprise to the majority of the students. It appears to have created a certain amount of unease in the minds of its occupants (past and present) as well as in those who merely observe.

Male Aggies seem to possess untapped emotions about seeing women on campus. It appears to have given back to the boys. "It seems funny," exclaimed Jerome Morely, a history major from Georgia. "It's hard to get used to taking your girl to Cooper Hall after a date."

Barbara Davis, a biology major, also points out a few of the other problems facing the girls. "There really isn't enough space for the rooms in the dorm. Not many freshmen have opened their stuff in the dormitory for women, has been changed to a residence for men. Consequently, a recent survey, held in Curtis to obtain the occupants' reactions to their living conditions in comparison to Scott Cooper or the Senior Dormitory, was conducted, and the basic answer was that the dorm was close to the library and dining hall.

Regional Pruitt, junior, stated, "Curtis hall is basically the same as Scott Hall except for the restrooms. Other than that it is fine. Also, I like where it is located."

Sandra Hayes offered a few words of praise, "I think the location is beautiful - especially the view."

But as opinions vary, there are those who find things too uncomfortable or distasteful around the dorm. For instance, Bernadette Davies, from High Point, remarks, "As far as I'm concerned, this dorm can be given back to the boys."

In spite of the many conflicting opinions, it is very apparent that the young men on campus are spending more time than ever in the Cooper Hall lobby.

By David Spaul, Jr.

This school year has undoubtedly brought many improvements. One of the most talked about changes of the year is in the Cooper Hall and how the occupants are adjusting to this living condition.

Curtis Hall, previously a dormitory for women, has been changed to a residence for men. Consequently, a recent survey on the occupants' reactions to their living conditions in comparison to Scott Cooper or the Senior Dormitory, was conducted, and the basic answer was that the dorm was close to the library and dining hall.

Regional Pruitt, junior, stated, "Curtis Hall is basically the same as Scott Hall except for the restrooms. Other than that it is fine. Also, I like where it is located."

Curtis Wiley, senior, said, "Location wise - it's beautiful because it's the center of the campus and one doesn't have to do that much walking. It's just the idea that it once was a girl's dorm and one must get adjusted to it."

Paving Of Campus Rough Spots To Be Completed By Winter Season

By Cassandra Wynn

Marvin B. Graeber, director of Building and Grounds, stated that a contract has been made with the Thompson Author Company of Greensboro to pave parking spaces behind New High Rise, Vanstory, and the Communication Building.

According to Graeber, completion of the parking lots will occur about the beginning of the cold weather season. The job will cost $60,000.

A lack of money was Graeber's response to the question why the parking spaces have not previously been paved. Graeber remarked that a lack of money produces a lack in management and a lack of manpower.

For the 1976-77 term, only 37 percent of the budget went for grounds maintenance. As a result, not only does the Building and Grounds department get complaints from the students, but faculty members make complaints about the condition of the landscape of the campus. Although students and faculty number of teaching positions is 232.5.

"The current personnel shortage could not have been avoided because of the unexpected increase in enrollment, but we shall be in Raleigh Monday with our reports so that we can make adjustments," the President said.

"Meanwhile I have requested that all classes, regardless of their enrollment, be kept in fact, that deans of each school have someone to meet with each class without a teacher," he continued.

Shortages occur in English, History, Mathematics, Psychology, and Art; and laboratory technicians are needed in Biology and Chemistry. Other departments have been able to make certain adjustments.

In reference to so-called "lateral" requests of departments for assistance, Dr. Dowdy said, "Nothing will be done to jeopardize seniors' graduation. They have paid their money and are entitled to the courses. We are going to do everything we can to see that they get them."

The co-operative programs with Bennett College and UNCG may offer some relief. The President indicated that material regarding both programs has been distributed to chairmen of departments and to deans. Student can attend either institution without charge, however they should check with the dean and chairmen for additional information.

Regarding the need for additional janitors, Dr. Dowdy said that, as more money is generated for teaching positions, more money will also be generated for other positions. We are already at work on this problem," he said.
Fashions To Return To The '40's

By Jacqueline Corpening
Fashion Editor

What's going on in the world of fashion in New York? A return to the classic look of the '40's and '50's that puts it all together with blazer, plaid, pleated skirts, peacoats, and pants that go to all lengths. There are vests and sweaters and blouses that give a layered look, and, for evening, the mood is soft, feminine, and nostalgic.

Floor-length sweaters dressing chubby furs add intrigue. There are vests and sweaters and intergrain, pleated suits and brocade dinner suits take front and center. There is plenty of black, brown, and camel colors and versatile neutrals like grey, beige, and soft blue.

The Justice Department Takes Action In Two Mississippi Rights Cases

Two weeks ago, the Department of Justice filed a motion to intervene on behalf of prisoners at the Mississippi State Prison at Parchman who are being held by the marshals and federal marshals in Sunrise and in the state of Mississippi.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said that the action was necessary to bring the conduct of prison officials in the treatment of prisoners into compliance with the Constitution of the United States, the Fourteenth Amendments, and the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which declared the denial or abridgment of any right granted or secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States to be contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

In Two Mississippi Rights Cases

The Justice Department takes action in two Mississippi rights cases. The Department alleged that in the Parchman Unit of the Mississippi State Prison, and in the Tallahatchie County jail, the conduct of prison officials violated the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments, and the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Regular guards have permitted or ordered trustees to beat, shoot at and kill prisoners. Prisoners have been permitted to provide adequate medical treatment for prisoners. Guards and trustees are allowed to impose cruel and unusual treatment upon prisoners and inmates. Prison officials failed to protect the prisoners from assault by other prisoners. Sewage and water systems are totally inadequate and created a health hazard for prisoners.

Inmate camps where prisoners are housed fall far below minimum standards for prisoner housing. Prison officials maintain prison facilities segregated by race. Attorney General John N. Mitchell also authorized the appointment of federal examiners to three counties in Mississippi to register voters for the November 2, 1965, election.

Mitchell issued a statement that the action was necessary to bring the conduct of prison officials into compliance with the Constitution of the United States, the Fourteenth Amendments, and the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Blue-Gold Game To
Preview New Season
By Jacqueline Glisson
Sports Editor
On Saturday night at the Blue-Gold Intrasquad Game at Memorial Stadium at 7:30 p.m., A&T students, faculty, and fans will have the golden opportunity to see the performance and outlook of the Aggie football team before the conference season gets underway.

The Gold Team consisting of the first team defense and second team offense will play against the Blue Team composed of the first team offense and second team defense.

Coaching the Gold Team will be Coaches Willie Jeffries, Matty Blacknall, and Murray Neely, while Coaches Melvin Groome, Stan Jacobs, Fletcher Jones, and Melvin Puckney will advise the Blue Team.

"This Blue-Gold Game will be more meaningful than any one last spring," emphasized Coach Howell, "since all football players will be playing." Last spring, several players were committed to other sports and at that time, could not play in that game.

The freshman class will be well-represented, in that, approximately ten out of twenty-two starters will be freshmen. They will fill the positions of running backs in that game.

The Blue Team’s starting unit for the second defense line-up is linebackers, George Suggs, Tuck, Albert Nesbitt; corners, Carl Collins, Dequincey Davis; defensive tackles, Sanders, Vernon Hargraves for the first team defense.

The only resemblance of a bright spot for the Aggie camp is the performance of the veteran defensive line, led by ends William Wideman, and Reggie Strickland, and tackles, Ben Neely and Freeman Hunter.

Wideout, a junior from Greenwood, S.C., is 6’3 and weighs 275. Sophomore Strickland is 6’3 and weighs 250.

Even with some freshman backs, the Aggies are expected to be much faster than last season, according to Howell. The only veteran performer showing well in early drills has been Charles Middleton.

The Aggies are scheduled to open their Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) season at South Carolina State on Saturday, Sept. 18.

Intramurals Program Offers Large Variety Of Exciting New Sports

The majority of these sports require only the presence and interest of students for their use.

Rifle Team Needs More Sharp Shooter This Year

The A&T rifle team, head by Sgt. Willis of Army ROTC, got underway for this academic year with their first meeting last night. They will be meeting weekly at 7:00 p.m. Thursdays at the Rifle Range.

Sgt. Willis, said that the team is in need of riflemen this year and that he has very few returning shooters. Any student can participate on the rifle team, including females. Although ROTC members have priority in the program, ability is what impresses Sgt. Willis.

Last season, Sgt. Willis led his team to a 4-4 season against some sharp-shooting competition and placed 3rd at the C.I.A.A. meet in Hampton, Virginia, last year. This year he hopes to better his record with the help of last season’s leading performer, Allison C. Dockery.

Dockery led his team with an average of 270 points out of a possible 1000, shooting with a .22 caliber rifle.

Last season we participated against Hampton Institute, Norfolk State, Virginia State, Wake Forest, Wofford College, N.C. State, Presbyterian College in Columbia, South Carolina.

Fellow Aggies, come out and support our team!
Staffer Reflects On Summer Stay In Holland

By Patrice Dunn
Managing Editor

To become a part of a strange, new culture is one of the most rewarding experiences in a person's life. This accomplishment negates the belief that it is actually difficult to believe that such an adjustment can be made. However, within hours the problems were barely noticeable; for "my family" had welcomed me as their child. There was no such affectation of insincere emotion. There was, however, their language as of minute importance in world use. Many daily habits are different. Bread, butter, cheese and jellies comprise the first two meals. Tea and coffee are served from six to seven times daily. Bicycle rides are from 5 to 10 kilometers. Ice cream are a rarity. Eating is done with the fork in the left hand and the knife in the right. Nothing to drink is served away. Saying "you" to adults is pronounced "oo" but for nothing compared to "ya". The list is long; it frightened me during the seven weeks I lived in Holland as part of the "Homestay" program.

Besides, the obvious differences of race, culture, custom, and language, many other details which I will later mention made my "live in" seem highly improbable at first glance. However, within hours the problems were barely noticeable; contemporary "ya". The list is long; it frightened me during orientation in a Dutch castle. At the time, I felt sure that I could never be forgotten. The political sphere is similar to England's with a governing body compared to "second form" irreversibly, gives them an first form of school at ages 12-14. Children, when finishing the first form of school at ages 16-18, decide on their own occupations.

The educational system was new and much more practical than ours. However, I found it hard to believe that such a system had been successful thus far. Children, when finishing the first form of school at ages 12-14, decide on their own occupations. The decision, which is almost irreversible, gives them an opportunity to attend some 50 categories of "second form" schools. Some of these schools lead to the university; others deep, meaningful incomprehensible love-love that grew stronger as time progressed. This was a type of love that I knew only parents could feel for their children.

My family was my support, the support that I needed until I produce men and women who are bakers, technicians, disymy theorists and so forth. Though the system seems unworkable, it has been successful for centuries and few Dutchmen find fault in this type of educational progress.

Housing is the current, most pressing problem because of overpopulation. Holland, only the size of Massachusetts and Connecticut combined, has over 1,000 people per square mile, making it the most densely populated country in the world. In an attempt to alleviate this situation the government is trying to adjust the life cycle to a housing cycle. The cycle gives young couples the apartment, growing families, the house, and elderly couples, apartments in complexes especially equipped for their well being.

The political sphere is similar to England's with a governing body plus a queen. With respect for the queen and overwhelming confidence in the legislature, Dutchmen appear not to disagree with the system although even that, if you do not speak a man's language, you are just as foreign to him as any person in the world. This area of strangeness will remain until you learn his language or he learns yours.

This was summer '71. I guess it can best be described as a successful experiment in International Living that will never be forgotten.
