Psychology Students Charge 'Manipulation' By Officials

By Ronald Topping
Editor-in-Chief,

graduate school after graduation. "They need to talk with someone," he said.

Complaints from students in the Department of Psychology this week came to light as a group of the students met with university officials to discuss their problem.

The lack of advisors for psychology majors was also a complaint voiced by the students, according to Dr. Shaw. Shaw noted that there will be three full-time and two part-time persons working in that capacity. Dr. Shaw was sympathetic to the student's plea for advisors since many of them plain to attend

Dr. Shaw feels that adding enrollment in the Department without adding teaching positions caused the situation in the Department to degenerate. He also noted that positions are distributed by the Chancellor on the basis of need.

The students charged that the Department's lack of instructors was due to a basic lack of concern on the part of the administration. In a letter sent to the A&T Register the students charged that they had been "put on strings like puppets to be manipulated by the administration."

At the time the letter was written the Psychology Department had 200 students and two instructors. The Department has also been without a departmental chairman for the past year and a half.

Earlier in the week a group of students from the Department met with university officials in what they termed a "fruitless" meeting.

Dr. S. J. Shaw, dean of the school of education in which the Psychology Department is housed, said Thursday night that "some of the things" the students were complaining about "would be alleviated immediately."

Shaw said in a telephone interview that an instructor was hired Thursday to teach in the department. This presumably brings the number of full-time faculty personnel to three. He also said that he had made a recommendation for departmental chairman. The recommendation is now in the hands of the vice chancellor for academic affairs, Dr. Glenn F.

Controversy Still Stirs Over School Courts

By Janice Smith

"Those people who were involved in infractions of University rules and regulations know it functioned," emphatically stated Robert Rivers, acting student body Attorney General, in response to question on whether or not the Student Judiciary Council as a functioning body on campus. Rivers, a senior political science major from Durham, refuted rumors that during last semester there had been conflict between the Student Judiciary Council and the University Judicial Tribunal by pointing out that a meaningful and successful university cannot be established by heeding malicious rumor. Commenting further, he made brief reference to the point that certain minor details pertaining to judicial procedure have to be worked out in the future.

Dr. Waverlyn N. Rice, chairman of the University

Judicial Tribunal, stressed that although the Tribunal is the highest court on the campus, it has not attempted to usurp or grasp power from the student courts.

However, one source which wishes to remain anonymous denounced the idea of harmony between the two bodies by indicating that the Student Judiciary Council is not truly fulfilling its purpose as designated in its constitution. The source attributed this to "hampering" by the Administration and areas of overlapping jurisdiction of the Tribunal. In explaining, the source remarked that students who have gone before the student court have gained trust, but the Administration has not.

The Student Judiciary Council consists of nine members elected by the student body. It has jurisdiction in all cases which involve student behavior, major social rules, and

Julian Bond To Speak At Rally Here Sunday

By Ethel W. Evans

On Sunday evening at 5:30 p.m., a voter registration rally will be held in Holland Bowl, featuring the dynamic Georgia State Representative, Julian Bond and John Lewis, presently Executive Director of Voter Education projects in the United States. Lewis was also a leader in the early 60's of the civil rights struggle.

The primary purpose of the voter registration rally is to generate student interest in involvement in the registration, and the education of the registered and unregistered Black voters.

"It is time for the college students to take an active role in politics that control his everyday life," says Larry Hinton, Student Government Association President.

"We are the main force that have enough independence and time to devote to the massive registration and education of the Black population to cause our people to understand the real meaning of politics and what it means to Black people," he continues.

"We cannot sit on the sidelines in 1972 as students or voters or potential voters and allow the past to happen now as they did in 1968."

"We must understand that it is politics that placed Nixon in office; it was politics that placed the sheriffs in office that beat student's heads day in and day out; it was politics that put the judge on the bench that places heavy fines on people; and it was politics that placed the legislators in office that developed the restructuring and the first of the phasing out of Black institutions in this state."

"Therefore, we must understand that we cannot be 'detached spectators', but involved participants in the political arena."

We are urging all students to attend this rally to make it a success by taking an active part.

Eleven For Miss A&T

Student Legislature 22 Seekers Short

September 6th was the last date to sign up for a student body office. This was a second chance for many upperclass offices, however, there are still a few vacancies in various positions.

The position for Miss A&T includes eleven (11) candidates.

Only two students have signed up for positions on the Judiciary Committee. Seven more are needed. These vacancies will be appointed by the Student Government officers.

The Student Legislature will be broken down into dormitories. This committee is composed of thirty-four (34) members, with only twelve (12) candidates. The remaining twenty-two (22) members will be appointed by the Student Government officers. Candidates and numbers needed are: Holland Hall (1); Cooper Hall (3); Senior Dorm (2); High Rise (2); Gibbs Hall (1); Scott Hall (4); Morrison Hall (2); Vanstony (2); women living off-campus (3); and men living off-campus (2). These officers will be appointed by the Student Government officers.

The Senior class includes one candidate for vice-president, two (2) candidates for secretary, and one (1) candidate for treasurer.

The Junior class includes three (3) candidates for vice-president, one (1) candidate for treasurer, and five (5) candidates for Miss Junior.

The Sophomore class includes one (1) candidate for secretary and four (4) candidates for treasurer.

The Freshman class includes two (2) candidates for president, five candidates for Miss Freshman, four (4) candidates for secretary, and one (1) candidate for treasurer. The vice-president office remains vacant. The president of the Freshman class will appoint a vice-president.

Campaigning will begin on Tuesday, September 12th. Speeches will be made on September 19th will elections on the following day, September 20th.

PSYCHED OUT

Racism has again reared its ugly head in Raleigh and students at A&T have felt the effect. This time it was the members of the Psychology Department.

The 200 students and their now three full-time faculty members are the result primarily of an under estimation of the school's enrollment by the General Assembly in its last session. Last year the university faced a general teacher-shortage in almost all departments. One of the most striking examples was a photo of a freshman composition class with 400 students. The university population increased 17% last year and the univeristy did not receive a proportionate number of teaching positions to go with the increase. University officals expect the enrollment this year to equal or exceed last year's enrollment. UNC-G was under enrolled last year and should lose some of their teaching positions. They have not.

All this came to light as the students got tired of independent study as one of my classmates calls going to class in the department. A group of students went to the members of the administration to see, if they could find someone to teach the courses required for graduation (if not that, a department chairman to call dirty names) and some advisors to tell how one gets into grad school.

So the administration did the best it could, and found an instructor to give the department three faculty members.

There is only one question left to answer. Why did it take a group of angry students with blood in their eyes to bring some action? A&T knows what is is up against when it comes to getting faculty positions and dealing with Raleigh when it comes to money. The administration prides itself on A&T's ability to do what needs to be done in spite of Raleigh. After all that's what the A&T Foundation is for is it not?

Miss A&T Again?

Soon the student body will go to the polls and vote for Miss A&T once again. The situation is deplorable.

Since all candidates for election to major student offices must have a certian grade point average and the average of all candidates must be certified by the university before they are eligible to run for office, to certify a candidate then revoke the certification after the election is deplorable.

Somebody goofed and then left the whole thing in sombody's elses lap without any regard to the feelings of the persons involved. No solutions to the problem are offered here (perhaps the SGA should have taken the same position) because the problem did originate here.

A whole new election seems to be a little embarrassing not only to SGA officals but the candidates also. It is hoped that Registration and Records is a little embarrassed also.

Slow On Requests, Long On Advice

It's lucky for me that I can think of something to write each week, because the readers have been rather slow to request bits of my sainted wisdom on the comings and goings around A&T. I had almost decided not to write but I knew I couldn't let my fellow Aggies down.

September 9 will herald the opening game of the 1972-73 football season. Just imagine, the first time you sit on those hard benches in Memorial Stadium and cheer your Aggies on to fame.

In case you didn't know, that stickers on the back of your I.D. card is your ticket to this most wondrous event, so please have that with you.

You may notice a lot of people trying to save seats for groups. These are the fraternities and sororities who like to be together to cheer ar and do whatever else comes up. They're not legally supposed to hold seats but it is done. If you are met with this situation you can either move to another seat or fight it out.

Alumni love A&T and they do attend the games. If you catch the sight of a few gray and fiftyish citizens jumping and screaming, just see your self in 30 years.

As members of the Aggie family, you will be expected to act as good will ambassadors and give the Elizabeth City Vikings a warm welcome. Please act as though our weekend visitors are your parents. See yall at the game.

Column Was In Error

By Rosie Stevens

Last week, an error was made in stating that the President had negotiated agreements with foreign countries in an effort to combat drug abuse on an international level. This is an error and we take this opportunity to correct it. The President has not made any agreements with foreign countries for this purpose, to the writer's knowledge, and no operation or committee set up by the president has this authority. The emphasis has been placed on bettering relationships with other nations and in securing their aid in stopping drug traffic. We hope this correction will be accepted by the readers of this column, and the writer apologizes for this blunder.

It must be noted that abuse of illegal drugs is becoming less serious, the danger of drug abuse still exists. Much drug addiction and drug dependence are caused by drugs that are obtainable through legal methods.

Some critics have charged that the reason for this abuse of legal drugs through legal channels is that American society in general likes a quick solution to every thing, from removing a stain to getting rid of depression. Americans are convinced that a chemical will solve every problem.

Many physicians are not immune to this because of Madison Avenue in the medical journals. In a back issue of Psychology Today, an article appeared describing the manner physicians are sometimes lured by advertising into prescribing useless or even dangerous drugs for patients who have problems which should be treated by a psychiatrist. Thus, the stage is set for the legal abuse of drugs. The tragic thing is that very little is being done at present because of the complex factors involved.

Again, students at A&T are being put on strings like puppets to be manipulated by the Administration. For you math majors, work this, take 200 psychology majors and divide that into two instructors out of a possible 231.7 available positions. This is the situation presently existing in the psychology department.

After a fruitless meeting with three key members of the Administration, Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy, Vice Chancellor Rankin and Dean Shaw of the Education Department we were dismissed without having acquired any significant information concerning improvement of our department.

The psychology majors have a legitimate complaint. Presently, our full time staff is comprised of the instructors. One of which does not even teach required psychology courses. And to make matters worse, we don't have a Department Chairman, and haven't had one for a year and a half. When confronted with this dire situation, the Administration merely sympathized and offered no concrete solution.

We realize that a B.S. Degree in psychology is not sufficient to precipitate a successful future. Consequently we need a qualified instructors who can assist us in acquiring advanced study. But with only opportunities are accordingly slim.

These are problems that exist now and have to be solved now. We can't understand why when a a delay in paying our bill was intolerable, there should be a delay obtaining proper facilities for students. After an entire summer the Administration should be sufficiently prepared to meet all needs of the students.

We ask support from all students in upgrading our department because this is certainly a bad reflection upon the entire university.

Aggie Television Ready To Start Production Sometime This Semester

By Cassandra Wynn

In the very near future Aggies will be able to get first-hand experience in the production of television shows. Rooms 105 and 107 in Crosby Hall which are filled with modern push button equipment are the location of the studio for recording and producing television shows. The gigantic lights that hang down from the ceiling the two tall television cameras, the long microphones are just part of the equipment that makes up the television studio.

The initial cost of installation of equipment for the station was estimated to be $34,000. It is now estimated to be worth $50,000. Additional equipment including new turntables and taperecorders has been purchased in order to give the station capability of broadcasting on two channels. The broadcast will be live, recorded or in combination. Although the station can only broadcast in black and white, Dr. A. F.

Jackson, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, foresees possibilities of broadcasting in color.

Thirty-three locations in Crosby Hall and two in the Paul Robeson Little Theater will have capability of receiving broadcast. Jackson stated that several shows will probably be produced this semester; and the station will be in full scale operation by second semester.

Guy Loftin has been hired to be the engineer in charge of servicing equipment in the station. The missing ingredient for operation of the station is a staff. Jackson emphasized that the television station is a university facility and staff positions are open to all Aggies. Among the positions needed filling are those for camera work, sound, and lighting. He feels that those students who have had experience in radio and television would be an asset on the staff. Classes concerning work in television will be offered to interested students next semester. Although the staff would initially be a voluntary organ, the dean feels that funds will be obtained to pay student staffers.

Jackson who is very optimistic about A&T's closed circuit television revealed that his "main priority this school term is to get the station operating." He went on to say that "It gives interested students an opportunity to have experience with a major medium in all its aspects. The university faculty has an opportunity to extend its usefulness as instructors by making their expertise available to a larger audience. It will add a learning laboratory experience for students comparable to independent study in the library. It will give the university a chance to produce programs which can be shown on cable-tv or educational television and it can serve as depository for recordings of significant events and personalities." "The development of educational material," maintains Jackson, "will be the main purpose of the station."

SGA President Looks For New Interest In Student Legislature

The Student Legislature is the supreme governing body of the S.G.A. It is composed of thirty-three members elected at an annual spring election. The members are apportioned among the men students living off campus and women living off campus. The student legislature is headed up by the Vice-President of the S.G.A. This school year Bennie McMorris holds that position.

When consulted for comment, McMorris noted that meetings are held every two weeks but that it did not function too well last year, due to poor attendance. This year, however, he is hopeful that the body will be improved. He pointed out that quite a few persons have come to the S.G.A. office to have their names placed on the ballots for the Student Legislature. McMorris hopes that the interest being shown now will prevail throughout the school year.

The Student Legislature has power to make laws concerning

S.G.A. activities, the judicial system, appropriate funds for all agencies of the S.G.A., for extra curricular activities, as well as the power to impeach and remove from office any elected student official.

According to McMorris, the Student Legislature will begin functioning immediately after the elections, as there are already matters of business now waiting to be presented before the legislative body

Scott Hall Renovation Now Becoming Reality

By Cassandra Wynn

Although the renovation of Scott Hall is something that has been talked about for many years, it is just now becoming a reality. The monstrous building that has been an eye-sore and a dismal dwelling place for many Aggies will soon begin to acquire a new look. The 1971 North Carolina Legislature has appropriated $500,000 to begin renovation of Scott Hall. According to John Zeigler, vice chancellor of Fiscal Affairs, the $500,000 is only a portion of the amount needed to complete the job. The amount it will take to complete the renovation is estimated to be $1,500,000.

The date for bids to be let for work on Scott Hall is September 22. The first of the renovation should begin around the first of October.

The renovation will encompass three phases, unless sufficient funds are appropriated by the North Carolina Legislature in order to complete the job in two phases. Zeigler stated that funds for completion of the renovation will be requested by the University in their 1973-75 biennial request.

When the renovation of Scott Hall is completed, the A, B and C sections will be three separate dormitories. The dormitory was built to house 1010 but presently houses 930 because some spaces are substandard. The dormitory will house fewer than 970 after renovation. Rooms are to be eliminated to make space for stairwells, new baths and trash outlets. The rooms are to be painted and new light fixtures are to be installed. Old furniture in the dormitory rooms is to be replaced by new built-in furniture. During phase one of the renovation only the rooms in the A section of the dormitory will receive the built-in furniture. According to director of on-campus housing, Lieutenant Colonel William Goode, the installation of the furniture will probably occur during the summer.

The north side of Scott Hall will receive a whole new face during the first part of the renovation. A new lounge is to be added to this side of the building. The right side of the dormitory's lawn is to be landscaped. There are plans to pave the parking lot.

Dean Goode feels that presently Scott Hall is too large for good management. He contends that the extensive network of hallways makes it easier for outsiders to infiltrate the building.

"My philosophy," Dean Goode revealed, "is that eighty per cent of the student's time is spent out of the classroom setting. The dormitory gives the student an opportunity to learn to live with one another and receive exposure to different aspects of life."

Because the renovation of Scott Hall will provide a larger place for meetings, Dean Goode believes that there will be more opportunity for learning situations to be augmented outside of the classroom setting. Dean Goode mentioned the possibility of initiating instructional programs such as those on drug education. According to Dean Goode, a more wholesome environment, good management and the fostering of a good academic atmosphere will be the results of the renovation of the huge dormitory.

Career Conference

Two of the main projects scheduled by your CAREET COUNSELING and PLACEMENT CENTER during the 1972-1973 academic year are the New Career Opportunities conferences (Government agencies - Wednesday, September 13th and Business - Industry, Education - Wednesday, September 27th).

Objectives

The main objectives of these conferences are (1) to apprise our freshman and sophomores of the new career opportunities that are available just beyond their graduation with Government, Industry, and Education, and (2) to help motivate our students to pursue their worthy educational goals with determination and diligent study.

Dinner To Start Fund Raising

By Ruth James

Marshall Colston, vice chancellor for Planning and Development, is Executive Secretary to the university fund raising campaign to raise 4.5 million dollars over a three-year period.

This fund raising drive will begin with a kick-off dinner Friday, September 15, at 6:30 p.m. at the Hilton Inn.

"This money will be used to enrich and extend many programs in the University over and beyond the funds provided by the state. The University is not sufficiently funded by the state. So our hopes are for contributions from the community, friends, faculty, students, and parents," stated Colston.

Dr. Earle Barnes, president of Dow Chemical U.S.A. and National Campaign Chairman for the drive, will be the guest speaker at the dinner.

The money from the drive will be used to cover (1) student assistance through financial aid or scholarships, (2) faculty development-enabling supplements to faculty salaries over and beyond the state schedules, and (3) distinguished faculty chairs. The Faculty Chair will add dimension of quality education which will insure that A&T will continue to meet its commitment to society.

Dr. Pearl Bradley Named New 'Chairwoman' Of Arts And Sciences

By Ruth James

Dr. Pearl Bradley, a professor of speech, has been named chairman of the Department of Speech Communication and Theater Arts.

When asked about her reaction to the appointment, Dr. Bradley said, "I was rather surprised. We have needed a chairman since Dr. John M. Stevenson resigned last year." An even greater surprise, perhaps was Dr. Bradley's realization that she is the only "chairwoman" in the School of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Bradley's long-range plans for the Department are indefinite after only two weeks in office. "It is perhaps too early to make a comprehensive statement regarding the expectations of the Department for the 1972-1973 academic year," she said.

The most pressing need of the Department is additional staff, according to the newly appointed chairman. (There are now only four instructors in speech.) "When this need is met, we can begin to fulfill some of the existing programs and maintain our commitments to the students," she said.

"I hope that next semester we can begin to offer regularly a schedule of courses with a broad appeal to both speech and non-speech majors," she continued.

The Department is currently updating its basic course, Speech Fundamentals, with a new Speech Communication textbook, and it will make its first partial break from the traditional approach to speech training. Under the classical or traditional approach, the speaker (source) was the chief element of oral communication, said Dr. Bradley. "Moreover, platform speaking was the leading form of oral communication."

Fashions

Fashion Return To Classics

By Doreen Green

This fall, clothing will be returning back to classics.

Fashions will be simple, carefree, and comfortable. The entire fall look will be one of togetherness.

The jacket is back for fall, very short and very sporty.

The baseball jacket, that looks very much like your kid brother's little league jacket is very popular this fall. It can be worn with a pullover sweater and shirt.

Everything will be put together. There'll be sweater sets, pant and jacket sets. For an even together look pull everything together with a vest or pullover.

The duffle coat that was popular in the 60's for school children is in for fashionable sisters.

The big, big coats are all in for fall with plenty of room for layered full looks,

The Doleman sleeve inspired by turkish garments will be highlighted for full clothing.

You'll be seeing mixtures of many styles this fall. The object is to keep everything moderate and sensible.

Fall will be here soon, so start getting your wardrobe together now.

Coop Education Is A Far Reaching Program'

By Patrice Dunn

The Cooperative Education Program has best been described as "probably the most far reaching and demanding program that serves the need of molination of the motivation" by Paul E. Parker, assistant to the dean of Engineering and Engineering Coop Coordinator. Mrs. Daniette Murray, Administrative Coordinator for Co-Op, adds to the description by stating that the "alternating work-study program helps students to determine their goals, career choices and aims in life."

Parker stated that the program began in 1969 as a result of Union Carbide's desire "to do something different to recruit minority students." as a part of the idea, scholarships or tuition fee packages were included to alleviate the financial situation that faces most Blacks in college.

Some 100 A&T students are currently engaged in the cooperative program which is operated in conjunction with approximately 30 agencies. Special programs are being conducted at the Air Force Logistics Command, Dayton, Ohio; NASA, and DuPont.

Mrs. Murray indicated that most students are not aware of the specific career opportunities that are available in their major areas, but students involved in this program can at an early stage, observe and from their observation decide what career they would like. From such knowledge as this, students can choose elective courses in areas that can expand their career potential or change their major before giving two years of college to an area they may see no future in.

Students may enter the cooperative education program as late as their junior year, but for full benefits of the program Mrs. Murray recommended that students enter after their freshmen year. One benefit which was mentioned was the fact that students starting after one year of college would have ample time to get in the required number of hours to be exempted from the FSEE (Federal Service Entrance Exam) which is required of all persons seeking federal employment.

The program, ultimately offers the student an assured job upon graduation. Even though the companies are not required to offer the co-op participants jobs upon graduation, most agencies no make very promising offers since they have invested money in training the student.

Parking System To Add New Beauty And Safety To Campus

By Millie Dunn

Because A&T's present parking system has proved to be unsuccessful, a new system is in the making. "The present parking system detracts from campus beauty and adds to unsafe conditions of the campus," stated Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T. He also added that parking and driving cars everywhere endangers pedestrian safety.

According to Chancellor Dowdy, new parking regulations are being formulated based upon the Master Plan done by Nolan and Swinburne Associates of Philadelphia, Pa. These plans are possible because of a $20,000 grant received from the Ford Foundation. The new system will be based upon peripheral parking, parking on the fringes of the campus. "The beauty of the campus comes from eliminating too many central arteries," Chancellor Dowdy explained. "Safety will be enhanced with the lessening of traffic between classes."

The new system will encourage the use of bicycles which are much cheaper and safer, according to Dr. Dowdy. Bicycle racks will be placed around campus. Car parking will be limited to Market St., Laurel St., Dudley St., and behind Crosby and Merrick Halls near O'Henry Blvd. A proposed parking lot will also be placed behind the Lutheran Campus. Students will be issued a campus sticker and a decal. The decal will indicate which parking lot they are to use. Use of the inner streets will be limited to certain hours. Temple University, the University of North Carolina, and Western Carolina are just a few of the campuses that already employ this system.

Chancellor Dowdy estimated the cost to change the parking system at a quarter of a million dollars. He further stated that details will be released to the general public approximately the first of November. "The main thing is having the campus well organized and well appointed," he said.

Hayes-Taylor Has A Fall For You

By Betty Holeman

"Do We Have a Fall for You?" is this year's theme of Hayes Taylor Y.M.C.A., said its Program Director Mervin Pitchford. "We are trying to bring new and innovative programs to the greater Greensboro area this fall," he commented.

Under new leadership, Hayes Taylor Y.M.C.A. is trying to take the Y to the people. Several new programs scheduled for the fall include slimnastics programs, improved adult and children swimming classes, teen counselor, junior sports club, kiddie kolage under Mrs Edna Taylor, the Book-Nook Program, Gray-Y Program, Family Nite, modern dance group, basketball, and karate.

The slimnastics program is for women and teens who are interested in trimming off inches. Corrective exercises are given. Each class is set up so as to exercise all parts of the body with emphasis placed on the stomach, hips, and legs.

The book-nook program is a product of the Reading is Fun Program in which we will explore new books every Wednesday. This program will be under the leadership of Dr. Marian Vick of A&T State University and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority at A&T. This program is in conjunction with the Greensboro Jaycees Reading Fundamental Program. This is to motivate young people to read.

The junior sports club is under the direction of James Woodard. This club is set up for boys between the ages of three to fifteen. They will study the techniques of the different sports in season. In conjunction with this, there is a Gray-Y-Program designed for boys in grades four to six. While this is essentially a character building program, Gray-Y participation enables each boy, regardless of his ability to participate, in an athletic effort which guarantees his participation regardless of skills. Football, basketball, and baseball skills will be taught.

Pitchford inserted that they were trying to have a dynamic Saturday program for the youth department. It will commence at 10 a.m. and terminate at 2 p.m. It will begin with the gray club meeting, then arts and crafts hour, team sports, and swimming. Mrs. Angie Wiley will be in charge of teen council. It is organized to assist in planning teen activities for the fall and winter months. They will participate in various activities such as craft projects, sports, games, record sessions, charm sessions and fashion. This club is set up to develop an interest and skills in recreational activities.

Pitchford also stated that their music department this fall will be under the leadership of Dr. Pearsall at A&T. His program will include boy's glee club and guitar lessons along with special performances this fall.

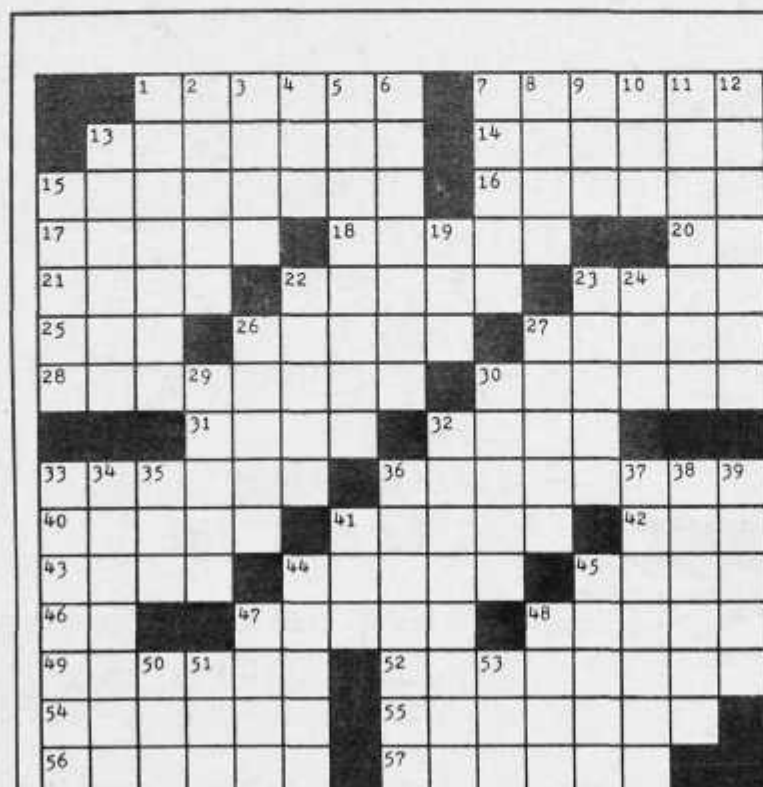

There will also be a modern dance program this fall on Saturday and we would like for A&T students to come out and participate from ten to twelve.

Finally, there will be a family nite at Hayes-Taylor Y.M.C.A. In essence we believe in and encourage full family participation. We have set aside Friday nite from 7 to 9 p.m. as family nite. There will be activities such as volleyball, swimming, billiards, card parties, dancing and basketball. Bring your family and join the good wholesome fun.

There is something for everyone at the Y, and A&T students are welcome to participate. Hayes Taylor already feels as if it is a part of the Aggie family because of the tremendous support it has received from the students and faculty of A&T. The programs begin this Saturday and "Do We Have A Fall For You?"

Professor New MEAC Head

The new president of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, A & T's Dr. Artis Graves, says the goal of the league is to reach first class competition in all major sports and to enjoy overall athletic and academic excellence.

Named to the MEAC's top position this summer, Graves succeeds Morgan States's Talmadge Hill.

"We hope to derive the benefits that have gone to major prestigious schools in the past but have been denied to smaller colleges, especially black ones," Graves said recently.

"This can be done by pooling our schools resources and by sharing our financial gains."

Graves, no newcomer to the athletic spectrum, played football and baseball at Bluefield State College where he was named to several All-American grid teams each year from 1927 to 1931. He coached at Morris Brown College, Atlanta, Ga., where his 1940 squad captured the Black National Championship.

Add to this his experience as president of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC) and the MEAC has evidently landed a seasoned leader.

Born in Hiawatha, W. Va., Graves foresees the emergence of "a broad athletic program that will give high incentives to all competing MEAC schools."

He received his B.S. degree from Bluefield State College, W. Va., in zoology in 1931 and went on to attain his masters and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Iowa.

Graves came to A&T in 1950 to serve as chairman of the University's Biology Department, which he heads now. His term as MEAC will certainly continue its strides toward excellence. He has

Man Now Heads Home Economics Department

By Ruth James

Dr. Harold Mazyck, professor of Child Development, has been appointed chairman of the Home Economics Department as of this school year. He was formerly counselor of education and in the Child Development program before the appointment. About his being named chairman of a department with women in the majority, he stated, "It is a growing trend where you find many men in Home Economics, especially in the Child Development area."

Dr. Mazyck stated that these for he has met few problems with the Department.

Dr. Mazyck's major plans for the Home Economics Department are to put more involvement in Child Development. "At present we have a research project in Child Development. It is the second of a three-part series. The project is 'Characteristics of Paraprofessionals in Child-Care Services' under the Manpower Research Program here."

The project will continue during this school year. There are four students working with Dr. Mazyck on the project.

"We are doing well with the other research in the areas of foods and Nutrition and Clothing and Textiles.

Dr. Mazyck holds the Bachelor of Science degree from South Carolina State College, the Master of Arts from New York University, and the Doctor of Philosophy from the University of North Carolina-Greensboro.

He is married and the father of two children. His wife is in the process of completing her doctorate in Child Development at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Harrison Players Plan First Stage Production

By Lorey Hayes and M. Petrice Holiday

Marat/Sade by Peter Weiss will be the first production by the Richard B. Harrison Players this season.

The play which is scheduled to open October 23 deals with the life of Jean Marat. This is a play related to the Black experience in that it explores the revolutionary man in our world. He is eventually assassinated because he is the leader who acts as a catalyst to affect some needed social changes.

The play will evoke memories of many persons close to the Black experience who have suffered the same fate: Malcolm X, Martin Luther King, and others. Marat/Sade received the Best Play of the Year Award in 1965.

Other productions scheduled for this season are "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground", "Tiger, Tiger", "Blues for Mister Charlie", and "Slave Song."

Student admission to the productions is free this season with presentation of I.D. cards for advance reservations. Reservations should be made at the Paul Robeson Little Theatre.

Dr. John Marshall Stevenson is executive director of the Players; and David Staples is technical director.

'The Battle Of The Conferences' Marks Elizabeth-A&T Contest

By Jacqueline Glisson
Sports Editor

This Saturday will mark the "battle of the conferences" in Memorial Stadium when the "challenging" A&T Aggies of the MEAC play their opening season football game against the Elizabeth City State Vikings of the CIAA.

This promises to be a most thrilling game with the Aggies wanting that first game victory, while the Vikings seek revenge on their defeat by A&T last year. As to his prediction for the game, Coach Howell commented, "I rate the game as a toss-up."

When the Vikings come out on the field, two major players will be missing. Seasoned quarterback Harrell and running back Reynolds graduated last year. This will be a definite asset to the Aggies' strategy. The Vikings are mostly junior and senior players.

The Aggies must meet and overcome the challenge of the Elizabeth City's good offensive and defensive line. Although the Aggies are a smaller-sized team this year, it will not prove disadvantageous to them. The Viking team is about the same size to the Aggies physically.

The Aggies plan to emphasize their attack through their speed and quickness. Regarding the team's quickness, Coach Howell said, "the team must be quick to win in the offensive and defensive line." The Vikings speed is about the same as A&T's and should not prove a vital threat.

Leading the attacks of the Aggies will be quarterbacks Paul McKibbens and Leonard Reliford. Place-kicker will be Dwight Nettles, while punters will be Al Holland and Artis Stanfield. Injuries will play a vital part in the team's success.

For the past three weeks, the team has been plagued with injuries. Steve Jackson of the defensive line suffered a knee injury in the Blue-Gold game.

He will be out for two football games. Linebacker "Brad" Humphries, who suffered a hand injury, will be playing later on this month. Defensive end Reggie Strickland might be out for the season because of a knee injury.

A "welcomed face" returning to the Aggie team is co-captain Osceola "Sonny" Hicks of Goldsboro. Hicks is an outstanding safety on the defensive backfield and will prove an asset to their attack.

In the upcoming game, Howell has been preparing the team by emphasizing all phases of the game. The team has been working on all possible offenses, coverage and receiving, kicking and safeties.

Excitement, curiosity, and victory will be the atmosphere enveloping the 7:30 p.m. game at Memorial Stadium. All Aggie students and fans should be present to see the team begin the season "on the good foot", with a victory over the Elizabeth City Vikings.

Running Backs Impressive In Second Blue-Gold

In last Saturday's second Annual Blue-Gold game at Memorial Stadium, the "powerful" Gold were victorious over the "determined" Blue in a 26-19 thrilling victory. Before a cheering Aggie crowd, the A&T football intrasquad revealed their talents and promising prowess in the offense and defense.

The victorious Gold team was composed of the first team's defense and second team's offense. The first team's offense and second team's defense comprised the Blue team. Quarterbacking for the Gold was Leonard Reliford while Paul McKibbens was quarterback for the Blue.

Commenting on the quarterbacks' performances, Coach Hornsby Howell stated,

"Reliford performed better during the first half, while McKibbens did better during the second half, Coach Howell was most impressed by the outstanding performance of the running backs.

The running backs receiving recognition were sophomores George Ragsdale, Thomas Murphy, Al Holland, William Medley and juniors Richard Holton and Artis Stanfield. Howell added, "All the backs ran well."

Contributing to the victory of the Gold team, was the good performance of the Gold's defensive and offensive line. Coach Howell said of the Blue team, "In spots, the Blue offensive line was good."

The Blue-Gold Game provided

the team the opportunity to play under game conditions and determined the areas of strengths and weaknesses. Coach Howell feels that a great deal of work needs to be done by the team. Improvement is needed in the offense as well as more emphasis being placed on the defense. The defense is less experienced this year, with a host of new players in this department.

On a whole, Coach Howell felt that the freshman players did well in the game, along with the veteran players. "A lot of mental errors occurred in the game," he added, "but we hope to try to correct them."

Three Home Games Planned For Coliseum

In response to the curiosity about the site of the 1972 A&T basketball team's home games, the Aggie cagers will be playing the majority of their home games in A&T's Moore Gym. The Aggie team will return to the victorious home court that led them to the first MEAC basketball championship.

The Aggies will have three home games in the coliseum this year to provide adequate seating for the big crowds. As stated by Cal Irvin, athletic director, "The games A&T will play in the coliseum are with North Carolina Central on December 12, Winston-Salem on January 11, and Johnson C. Smith on January 16. Plans are in the process to set a date with the coliseum for the A&T vs Elizabeth City home game.

The home games in the gym will be a closed activity. Because of the limited capacity of the gym, the games will be open only to A&T students and faculty members.

The reason for the small number of coliseum dates is that the Aggie home games' dates did not correspond with those of the coliseum. The majority of the home games will be played on Fridays and Saturdays. The three coliseum dates were available for the three home games in the coliseum, since the games were arranged for the middle of the week.

Aggie Swimming Team Holds First Try-Outs

A try-out period for the A&T swimming team was held Thursday afternoon with twelve students participating.

This season's team will be the first that A&T has fielded since 1966 when the Aggies were in the CIAA. All of the MEAC foes already have swimming teams, and Morgan State and Howard have been swimming competitively for more than 25 years.

Forrest Willis, assistant professor in physical education, has accepted the heavy burden of coaching this first MEAC team.

Coach Willis said how he would start his swimmers off in this manner: "We will be practicing daily from 4 until 5 p.m. till around mid October. classes are the 400 yard medley relay, 1000 yard freestyle, and 200 yard individual medley, dive, 200 yard butterfly, 100 yard freestyle, 200 yard back stroke, 500 yard freestyle, 200 yard breast stroke and 4 x 100 yard freestyle relay are composed of 4 team members.

The twelve students who participated in Thursday's try-out are Jimmy Cochran, DeWitt Powell, Larry Oakman, Reginald Moore, Roosevelt Hilton, Gail Everette, Cedric Blue, Charles Jolla, Lee Harris, Jamie Miller, Robert Mack and Bernard White. The final four students are outstanding prospects according to Coach Willis.

Coach Willis has issued a plea for all true Aggies, who can swim, to come out and save a "sinking campus sport."

'Sonny' Hicks Named Co-captain

Co-captain Osceola "Sonny" Hicks from Goldsboro is very proud to be team co-captain and a member of a football squad which has pride and unity.

He developed an acute illness during the early stages of practice, but Sonny is now eagerly awaiting the start of the season's opener against Elizabeth City. Football has always been a part of his life and he does not anticipate leaving the sport after graduation.

Sonny was an all-state quarterback in high school, and he had planned to attend Grambling College, but his coach converted his thinking toward becoming an Aggie. Head Football Coach Hornsby Howell is glad that Hicks became an Aggie.

When asked about his greatest moment at A&T, Sonny replied, "The two greatest moments of my collegiate career occurred last season when Morgan State stole a victory from us, and the following week-end North Carolina Central beat us on a freak play. That type of play happens once in a life time. It was just a super freak play that knocked us out of a conference championship."

Sonny commented about the upcoming season in this manner; "We are young, small, weak in linebackers; secondary is quite good; nevertheless, we are quick and speedy, and we are going to have a good year."

Sonny's position in the secondary is one which Coach Howell is not worried about. Opposing teams may die from heat when it is Co-captain Sonny who is roaming the field, and applying the heat. To all of the Aggie opponents, I must say that Sonny Hicks is well now, and of course, shining.

'Brad' Humphreys Heads Line Up Plans To See Action Next Week

By Blannie Bowen

James "Brad" Humphreys alternated last year for one of the A&T linebacking positions; and this year is supposed to be his year to start at one of the positions.

To illustrate the fact that things sometimes do not go according to schedule, Humphreys broke his hand in the second week of scrimmage. This is the first major injury in his entire life. The cast will remain on his hand for five more weeks, but Brad anticipates playing in the second game of this season.

Since entering A&T, he has seen the Athletic Department move progressively each year. When questioned about his choice of a school for playing college ball, Brad remarked, "The Black Colleges, A&T included, offer an athlete more assets after graduation because he is an athlete and also a scholar.

Brad, a sociology major from Charlotte, plans to continue his studies toward a masters degree after the May graduation exercises. If a professional football offer comes along, he will analyze the situation then.

infractions of University regulations and standards governing student conduct except offenses committed within a residence hall. The Council has the power to recommend the imposition of punishment up to and including expulsion from the university.

Seven students and six faculty members compose the University Judicial Tribunal. The Tribunal has subpoena power and both original and appellate jurisdiction over all cases which might adversely affect the University's interest.

"This year's team is young, has great potential, and we are going to surprise a few people who have doubted the strength and might of the 1972 Aggie football squad and you know what, that includes Morgan and NCCU too."

Humphreys likes the style of Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears on the football field; but he described himself in this manner of the field: "I am very quiet, a man of few words, but of great power."

Speech Department To Use New Theory

The Speech Department will now use the communication-theory approach which emphasizes the listener (receiver) and the effect of the speaker's message upon the listener's behavior.

Students enrolled in the Speech Fundamentals course this semester will be involved in interpersonal speaking (face-to-face). They will study the roll of non-verbal language in the oral communication act and participate in small group communication and intrapersonal speaking.

Dr. Bradley explained that many American colleges and universities have adopted the behavioristic approach to the study of speech. A&T, however, has adopted a modified version of the communication theory approach. "We recognize that some of the classical concepts of speech training are still relevant for today's ethical and informed oral communication," she said.

Last spring Dr. Bradley served as coordinator of the Speech Department during the visitation of the State Committee on Teacher Education Accreditation. In addition she was chief editor of the Dial-A-Matic programs currently in use in the speech area of the Electronic Learning Laboratory.
