The Register, 1972-10-06

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister

Recommended Citation
North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, "The Register, 1972-10-06" (1972). NCAT Student Newspapers. 448.
https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister/448

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Digital Collections at Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in NCAT Student Newspapers by an authorized administrator of Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. For more information, please contact iyanna@ncat.edu.
Contract Dispute Leaves University Without Doctor

By Cassandra Wynn

Currently A&T does not have a physician under contract. Dr. William Parker, associate dean of Student Affairs, emphasized that medical services will be provided for A&T students. Dr. Flotilla Watkins of Greensboro has agreed to assist the university in providing medical services to students until a physician is secured. Arrangements also have been made to take students to L. Richardson Hospital in Greensboro in cases of emergency. The university has secured a doctor to be on call for such cases.

The situation in the infirmary flared Sept. 29 when Dr. Barbara Jean Gravely, who was, until then, the physician for A&T students. Dr. Gravely also pointed out that a university of this size needs two physicians. In a telephone interview with Dr. Gravely, she said, “I left primarily because I didn’t particularly like the way the Office of Student Affairs handled Health Services. I believe the contract is aneno enough time to get it straightened out. I should have thought of the delay. I added, “It’s not that I’m desirous, that’s not the point. There is no excuse to have contracts lying around.” Dr. Gravely revealed that, in a talk with Chancellor L. C. Bowdy, she talked him into the fact that a physician was not secured, she would be willing to work with Health Services at A&T. She added that Student Health Services should not be operated by the Office of Student Affairs.

University officials are now in the process of recruiting and interviewing prospective physicians. Dr. Parker stated that it is difficult to get a full-time physician because the financial benefits made in private practice are much higher than what can be made at the university.

Many Freshmen coins are unaware of the curfew regulations here on campus. In fact, many upperclassmen are not sure exactly what these regulations are either. According to Mrs. Lucille Piggott, Dean of Women, the curfew is 12 a.m. on Sunday through Thursday and 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Upon request, a coed may have her curfew extended until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Many Freshmen coins are unaware of the curfew regulations here on campus. In fact, many upperclassmen are not sure exactly what these regulations are either. According to Mrs. Lucille Piggott, Dean of Women, the curfew is 12 a.m. on Sunday through Thursday and 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Upon request, a coed may have her curfew extended until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Deadline Set By S.G.A.

The Student Government Association has announced that the fee for Coronation this year has been raised from $2.5 to $35. The fee has been raised because of an increased cost in the preparations for the event this year.

Deadline for the fee is 5 p.m. Oct. 18. In order to facilitate the printing of the programs, no money will be accepted after that date. No organization will be allowed to take part in Coronation without the $35 fee. All checks should be made payable to A&M Morgan, SGA Treasurer. The fee may be paid in Room 218 of the Student Union.

Aggies Coming In Droves

No hard feelings to late Thomas Wolfe, but the Aggies are going home in droves. There is every indication that the 1972 Ole Grads will not be the last Ole Grads. October 27-28 will top all previous ones. The welcome mat will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

The energetic A&T students will be doing “their thing” beginning Monday, Oct. 25, but the Ole Grad, who have slowed their pace over the years, won’t get started until Friday at noon. Highlight of the celebration will definitely be out. According to Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni, and James E. Garfield, who are planning the celebration together for the A&T State University family.

Arlene Bell, Miss A&T

The Personality Of Blackness

By Delores Mitchell

Arlene Bell, an early childhood education major from Asheville, reigns as Miss A&T 1972-73. She is an immensely charismatic young woman who can easily connect with a vast array of people at any given moment. She is a 1969 graduate of Lee H. Edwards High School in her hometown, where she was the first Black elected as the May Day Queen. Arlene is the third child in a family of five. She has one older brother and an older sister. She remarks, "We are a very close knit family, although a small one."

When asked what inspired her to run for Miss A&T, she replied, "Many of my peers encouraged me to run and somehow I feel that I can well represent my school at any occasion." Arlene feels that she can make campus living more pleasant by becoming actively involved in the SGA and by her personal interactions with fellow students.

Her feelings about coed visitation are positive although she feels that certain rules and regulations should be stipulated. Also, the installation of more accommodations is a necessity for appropriate coed visitation," Arlene stated.

Miss A&T has much interest in all areas of sports. She enjoys public speaking, sewing, decorating, reading, and she especially loves to travel.

She is presently the chairman of the senior class planning committee and serves in the Women's Council. She formerly held the position of Alpha Phi Omega. She was also a majorette and the narrator for the band at halftime activities.

Arlene feels that the merging of higher education is another way of exploiting Blacks in a White society. She strongly emphasized her feeling in one statement, "Black universities should be preserved."

When asked about her plans for the coronation, she stated that most of the programs have been finalized as of now. However, she is calling a meeting October 11, at 5:00 p.m. in Room 100 in the Student Union. She wants to see all the queen candidates who plan to participate in the coronation to attend the meeting.

The theme of this year's Homecoming is "Personalities of Blackness." She replied that the reason for this change is that "Blackness should be expressed more than simply wearing Afro's." She added that "the African attitude is beginning to be more widespread and the Arlene emphasized that "In essence, Blackness is a feeling and an attitude, not merely African attire."

When asked what inspired her to become an early childhood major, she replied, "I want to be an inspiration and guide for our younger generation. I feel deeply within myself the need to perform proper guidance through the formative years because they determine many things. I also feel that my major will provide me with an opportunity to give of my knowledge and service to our most prized and gifted little Black boys and girls."

Arlene feels that there is a great need to rid our campus of apathy. She stressed that "Instructors could be more helpful to students, and make us feel that they really care." In turn, students should attend classes and become more involved with the situation at A&T." She feels that all students should take an active part in the cleanup and beautification of our campus.

"After all this is our home away from home."

Miss A&T feels that, with the cooperation of students, she will have an exciting and prosperous year. She adds, "If I can be of any service to anyone, please feel free to call on me."

---

Computer Placement System Free Of Charge

By Joan Boykin

A&T is one of 151 colleges across the nation selected to participate in the Grad II program. This is a new computerized pre-selection system for college seniors and graduate students conducted by the College Placement Council of Bethlehem, Pa.

The Grad II system utilizes five factors which have been found to play the greatest part in student choice of employers to interview. These factors are degree level, academic major, career field, geographic location and type of employer.

By filling out a form which calls for information on these five factors, the Grad II applicant provides the College Placement Council (CAC) computer with the data necessary to search all of the Grad II employer opportunities.

In time applicants will receive from the campus placement office a computer printout for personal use. On the printout will be listed all of the employing firms, and agencies which are using Grad II on A&T's campus and have opportunities matching the needs expressed by the applicant.

The printout will also provide data on those employers who will be interviewing on campus.

W.I. Morris, Director of Career Counseling and Placement, commented that the program is coming over quite well. Some students have already filled out the forms. He wants to see all seniors do so and stresses the fact that the service is free of charge and is open to seniors and graduate students in all fields.

When asked why A&T was selected to participate in the Grad II program, Morris stated that "It is perhaps because of A&T's fine reputation and because A&T offers more majors than any North Carolina school except N.C. State in Raleigh."

---

Dr. Frances Logan

Heads Social Service

By Augusta Mouton

Dr. Frances Logan, a professor of sociology, has been named co-ordinator for the Social Services Department.

Dr. Logan is in the teacher of Social Services 307. This is a course wherein students are placed in agencies within Greensboro or within a 50 mile radius to help them in their knowledge of social service. The students work in these agencies two full work days or they may devote enough time so that it will add up to 20 hours a week.

Some of the agencies where these students work are The Correction Institute at Sandy Ridge, Guilford County Department of Social Service, and Attorney Henry Frye's Office.

For the first time this year, a co-ordinating program has been set up for A & T and UNC-G jointly. The two universities have plans that include joint meetings with students and joint faculty meetings. The co-ordinator at UNC-G is Mrs. Virginia Stevenson.

Dr. Logan said that she hopes that the program will result in richer educational experiences for all students to interest in different situations.

Dr. Logan is an undergraduate of Temple University in Philadelphia, Penn. and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. She has been a practicing Social Worker in Philadelphia, she has taught at Atlanta University, and she came to A & T in 1968 to teach undergraduate studies in Social Service.

Dr. Logan is a Board Member of United Community Services, Mental Health Association, Greensboro YWCA, and National Federation of Centers. Organizations which she is affiliated with on campus are University Senate (she was vice-chairman last year) and the President of the Committee of Curriculum Reform.

---

To all Queens:

There will be an important meeting for all queens who will participating in the coronation.

The meeting will be held in the union, room 100, Wednesday October 11, 1972 at 5:00 p.m.

Please be present and on time.

Thank you,

Arlene Bell
Ms. Delores Tucker

Ms. Politician Blasts Nixon Administration

The faithful turned out for Henry E. Frye, the Black N.C. legislator, last Sunday, but a spunky Pennsylvania female politician stole the show.

She is, attractive Mrs. C. Delores Tucker, secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the third highest ranking elected official in that state.

Speaking at a $10 per plate dinner marking the opening of Frye's re-election campaign, Mrs. Tucker said it's time to "trust President Nixon from the White House."

She called Nixon "a man who is controlled by big business, chairman of the board of the American corporation." Nixon's four years in power have given the nation "government of big business, by big business and for big business," she charged.

The Nixon administration, she said, "is afflicted with a poisonous bigotry—that whites are better than blacks, that men are better than women, that the affluent are better than the poor, that Americans are better than foreigners, that might makes right."

More than 300 persons turned out for the banquet, held in the Student Union of Bennett College. On hand were more than a dozen other office speakers, including Mrs. Zoe Darbee, a black candidate for a Guilford County Commissioner's post.

Mrs. Tucker praised Frye, the first black elected to the state legislature in this century, saying that he should be returned to Raleigh where he can continue to work for prison and election reform. She also said that Frye was primarily responsible for the bill to outlaw the death penalty in North Carolina.

Frye is a graduate of A&T State University and a founder and president of Greensboro National Bank.

By Ethel Evans

UHURU: A Black Experience

UHURU Bookstore is a community-owned Black book and gift store located at 412 East Market Street. UHURU Bookstore opened on February 5, 1972, as the first project of the UHURU Corporation. UHURU Corporation is governed by a Board of Directors who are members of the Black community. Joseph Johnson is Chairman.

At its formation in June 1970, the corporation proposed to sponsor several projects which would benefit the Black community, economically, educationally, socially and culturally. Some such projects considered were a laundromat, grocery store and a few others.

UHURU chose to open a bookstore as its first project because the need was felt to provide for the cultural and educational needs of the Black community.

Since its opening, UHURU Bookstore has sponsored various activities as lecture series by local and out-of-town personalities, raffles on velvet paintings, gift-paks for college freshmen, and it has participated in affairs as Greensboro Association for Poor People's (GAPP) African Bazaar, National Library Week at Lincoln Junior High School, and other such activities sponsored by local and out-of-town groups.

UHURU makes a special appeal to the area colleges and universities, churches, and local groups to purchase or order books for programs, special classes, libraries, and other activities from your community bookstore. In order to serve the Black community, UHURU must be responsive and appreciative. The criteria for enrollment of twenty student is included in a racially integrated program, which has had specialized training in related community mental health professions.

The program is under the leadership of Dr. Marian Vick, and Mrs. Eda Benford of A&T and the Alpha Phi Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. The "Book Nook" is designed to motivate young people to read and learn about the world in which they live. New books are explored every Wednesday from 3-4 p.m. By reading books of their choice, it is hoped that the young people will improve their reading skills. Group discussions of the various activities will also be a part of the program.

By Sybella Ferguson

Program For Training Mental Health Workers Being Tried

The program titled "An Interdisciplinary Program For the Training of Paraprofessionals as Community Mental Health Workers," is funded by the National Institute of Mental Health and is the only program of this nature to be included in a racially integrated program, which has had specialized training in related community mental health professions.

The program is under the leadership of Dr. Marian Vick, and Mrs. Eda Benford of A&T and the Alpha Phi Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. The "Book Nook" is designed to motivate young people to read and learn about the world in which they live. New books are explored every Wednesday from 3-4 p.m. By reading books of their choice, it is hoped that the young people will improve their reading skills. Group discussions of the various activities will also be a part of the program.

By Sybella Ferguson

Yearbook Editor Outlines Changes In This Year's Annual Effort

Beverly Kelly

New officers have recently been elected for the '72-'73 yearbook staff.

The officers are Helen Butler, Editor; Paula Dickens, Assistant Editor; Manager, Evelyn Hill; Copy Editor, Jacqueline Thaxton; Business Manager, Paula Foster.

Aggies may expect to find many changes in the yearbook this year's Annual as compared to the one of last year. Helen Butler, editor comments that "there will be an addition to the number of pages devoted to sports as well as to the administration. An increased number of color pictures will be another major difference. We are renewing our complete section devoted to Ads. The arrangement of pictures will have a new style as well."

She added, "We have been asked to comment on any problems or disappointments that the staff has thus been compiled. Helen Butler said, "We have been experiencing certain problems concerning funds and a lack of supplies but they are expected to soon be resolved. Being that many of our members are new, we have set aside Mondays for everyone to meet for the purpose of orientation."

"To avoid similar confusion as experienced in the past, we are sending letters to each organization specifying their assigned day for having pictures ready. We are asking for every one's full cooperation in our efforts to produce a really outstanding yearbook of quality."

AKA's Help Sponsor Book Nook Program

By Millie Dunn

This fall the Hayes-Taylor YMCA program will sponsor an after school book experience project for elementary school children. Young people will be able to choose books on any subject that they wish. N. D. Stichfow is the director of the "Book Nook" program.

By Ethel Evans

UHURU: A Black Experience

UHURU Bookstore is a community-owned Black book and gift store located at 412 East Market Street. UHURU Bookstore opened on February 5, 1972, as the first project of the UHURU Corporation. UHURU Corporation is governed by a Board of Directors who are members of the Black community. Joseph Johnson is Chairman.

At its formation in June 1970, the corporation proposed to sponsor several projects which would benefit the Black community, economically, educationally, socially and culturally. Some such projects considered were a laundromat, grocery store and a few others.

UHURU chose to open a bookstore as its first project because the need was felt to provide for the cultural and educational needs of the Black community.

Since its opening, UHURU Bookstore has sponsored various activities as lecture series by local and out-of-town personalities, raffles on velvet paintings, gift-paks for college freshmen, and it has participated in affairs as Greensboro Association for Poor People's (GAPP) African Bazaar, National Library Week at Lincoln Junior High School, and other such activities sponsored by local and out-of-town groups.

UHURU makes a special appeal to the area colleges and universities, churches, and local groups to purchase or order books for programs, special classes, libraries, and other activities from your community bookstore. In order to serve the Black community, UHURU must be responsive and appreciative. The criteria for enrollment of twenty student is included in a racially integrated program, which has had specialized training in related community mental health professions.

The program is under the leadership of Dr. Marian Vick, and Mrs. Eda Benford of A&T and the Alpha Phi Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. The "Book Nook" is designed to motivate young people to read and learn about the world in which they live. New books are explored every Wednesday from 3-4 p.m. By reading books of their choice, it is hoped that the young people will improve their reading skills. Group discussions of the various activities will also be a part of the program.

By Ethel Evans

Yearbook Editor Outlines Changes In This Year's Annual Effort

Beverly Kelly

New officers have recently been elected for the '72-'73 yearbook staff.

The officers are Helen Butler, Editor; Paula Dickens, Assistant Editor; Manager, Evelyn Hill; Copy Editor, Jacqueline Thaxton; Business Manager, Paula Foster.

Aggies may expect to find many changes in the yearbook this year's Annual as compared to the one of last year. Helen Butler, editor comments that "there will be an addition to the number of pages devoted to sports as well as to the administration. An increased number of color pictures will be another major difference. We are renewing our complete section devoted to Ads. The arrangement of pictures will have a new style as well."

She added, "We have been asked to comment on any problems or disappointments that the staff has thus been compiled. Helen Butler said, "We have been experiencing certain problems concerning funds and a lack of supplies but they are expected to soon be resolved. Being that many of our members are new, we have set aside Mondays for everyone to meet for the purpose of orientation."

"To avoid similar confusion as experienced in the past, we are sending letters to each organization specifying their assigned day for having pictures ready. We are asking for every one's full cooperation in our efforts to produce a really outstanding yearbook of quality."

AKA's Help Sponsor Book Nook Program

By Millie Dunn

This fall the Hayes-Taylor YMCA program will sponsor an after school book experience project for elementary school children. Young people will be able to choose books on any subject that they wish. N. D. Stichfow is the director of the "Book Nook" program.
Curfew

Once again, the issue which has plagued many minds, but is seldom talked about has arisen.

Curfew is a guideline which is written mainly for the female student on campus and is constantly overlooked by everyone.

The curfew hour which has been set by the university is 12:00 midnight during the week and 1:00 a.m. during the weekend. With special permission, of course, a coed may remain out until 3:00 a.m. on weekends.

But even this policy can be questioned. First of all, why should women have curfew hours while men do not?

Almost everyday, someone is steadily preaching that college students should act like adults, because that is what they are. Yet, at the same time, students are refused adult responsibilities. So now, at what point of college life does a student become an adult with adult responsibilities?

It also seems a little awkward that junior and senior women should have a curfew at all. Somewhere along the line, these students have surely learned enough to except the responsibility of their own livelihood.

This is only a passing thought! From observation, it seems that no one really pays that much attention to curfew hours anyway. Just look at the number of students who live off campus, but pay for room and board on campus! Shocking, isn't it? NO!

This has been going on for sometime now. And just because the campus cops are tightening up on students, doesn't mean that it's going to stop. It's only going to make the students more careful not to get caught.

Maybe, it would help if women exercised their rights in planning curfew hours. And surely it would make the campus cops' job a little easier. But as the old saying goes, " Sly as a Fox," and that is what A&T's coeds are! SLY

Janet D. Jones
News Editor

The A&T Register

Published weekly during the school year by students of A&T State University.

Subscription rate $5.00 per year. Address all communications and checks to The A&T Register, Box E-25, North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro, North Carolina, 27411.

Member: Associated Collegiate Press, Associated College Press Service.

All leading editorials are written by the editor of THE A&T REGISTER. Such editorials will not necessarily carry a by line and will not necessarily reflect the views of the entire staff. Staff members are free to write dissenting opinions.

By Rosie A. Stevens

Objective tests have become the last word in many elements of our society. The guidance counselor, the College Entrance Examination Board Examination Board, the psychologist in industry, all of these people rely on the numbers obtained from tests to pass judgments on people.

One of the tragic things about the users of certain kind of objective tests is the wide discrepancy in qualifications. A teacher is not a psychometrist, but he or she is permitted to use an IQ test or an aptitude test in much the same way in which a qualified professional would use the test.

Sociologist Jane Mercer began a study some years ago to show how the label "retarded" is applied to people who are not retarded. She concluded that the majority of the adults in her sample of borderline retardates were able to function normally in society. She further concluded that "role adjustment" should be considered along with IQ as a means of determining intelligence.

This brings us to an important question. How do we know that "role-adjustment" and IQ results are not both the effects of some other disturbance? It is known among mental health specialists that certain behavioral disorders in children are reflected in low IQ scores. Inappropriate disturbed behavior, and a variety of other symptoms. These symptoms seem to indicate that the individual could be of at least average intelligence, or possibly even bright, but that other factors interfere with the person's learning of certain roles. Psychiatric consider it difficult to distinguish between the child whose behavior prevents learning and the child who is genuinely retarded.

The adults mentioned by Mercer in her study learned to adjust to certain roles because they had had no behavioral disorders. But what of those who didn't? What determines whether a child learns to play successfully certain roles that are productive in society? Surely not intelligence.

This brings us back to the central question of who uses objective tests and what of their qualifications. If such doubts exist concerning the validity of certain tests, why does society permit those who are not qualified to administer, interpret, and use the results of these tests to label people?

Next week the topic "What are some solutions to the problem" will be discussed.
During my stay at A&T, I have noticed that certain instructors have proven to be very slowly and lax in their teaching habits. Furthermore, these instructors sometimes show very little or no concern as to whether they attend their classes every other week.

I consider this a very frightening situation where you find yourself with people who are eager to learn, and who feel they are not getting their money's worth. When I applied for acceptance at A&T, I did not try (by any means) to come here to be dismissed from class or to have an instructor come in and tell me there won't be any class or to have an instructor to constantly miss class. If they are going to stay out of class, how will we, the students, benefit from the classes if we are void or inspired to attend?

I realize there are many students who jump and shout when an instructor does not attend class. In fact, when I have a boring instructor, I don't mind it myself every once and a while, but I feel it is a disgrace for instructors to constantly miss class. If they are going to stay out of class, how will we, the students, benefit from the classes if we are void or inspired to attend?

The issues attacked by Black students on campuses both Black and white often tend to be limited to surface programs. All too often, the Black student movement has failed to discriminate itself in substance, program and methodology from the white student movement.

On the white campus, this manifestation usually comes in Black issues getting confused with new and old left issues. On the Black campus, it appears in the form of always seeing the problems of the Black college in relationship to its not being like its white counterpart.

The real issue on the campus has to be that of control. If the Black campus community does not control its campus life to the maximum extent, it will always be subject to the same intellectual colonization which once ran openly rampant at any point that those in power should make such a decision. And indeed, many of those on Black campuses who ape white issues like equal food, equal coed visitation and the like may find that in concentrating on such surface issues and never taking on the major ones, the campuses have become consolidated and everything suddenly white controlled. Equal, but white controlled.

One of the questions central to Black education, identity and the positive kinds of things that can grow from it, can be lost. Students will have to face this reality and, more importantly, deal with it in such a way as to positively improve their ability to be better qualified to the concrete problems of the Black community. Without such reaffirmation of purpose, the whole quest for Black education-independent, Black college and Black studies—and even Black houses, Black corners and Soul Food will have been in vain sofar as Black people are concerned.

Black And Too Proud

By Ted L. Mangum

The concept that all black things are righteous beyond a shadow and the rhetoric that implies that we, as black people, are indeed superior race, are byproducts of the "I'm black and I'm proud" era. These two ideas or opinions can prove very frustrating to those blacks seeking to document us as the "superior race" as opposed to cannibals. We must realize that there are certain mental and physical characteristics that serve to categorize all races, as members of the human race. We must take the position that neither our race, nor any other race, is the "super-human" or "master-race.

No, I don't think that we are the "super-human" race, rather I feel that whites have done and will continue to do, with or without our help, morally inhumane things against other members of the human race that serve to classify them as "sub-human": the physical genocide of Indians; the physical and mental genocide of black people; the persecution of our own Jewish people; the manipulation and support of Korean, Vietnamese, and African people into wars against themselves. These, along with countless other injustices that the Caucasian race has implemented against all fractions of the human race, speak to the concept that whites have allowed themselves to become "sub-human." By relating wholeheartedly to material things and gain at the expense of humanity and the continued exploitation and oppression of other races, suppression of humane ideas, and repression of liberation movements for other races, which has classified themselves as contrary to everything from humanity to Christianity. (Do unto others as you would have them do unto you)

There is no superior race, but in terms of deeds, there is definitely one race that is less than human.

If not placed in its proper perspective, in terms of our struggle, the entire "black and proud" concept can be misleading. Frustration will never be allowed to become the sole basis for a liberation struggle. We must understand that it is useless rhetoric to speak of people committing themselves physically without first becoming totally mentally committed. It should also be understood that this mental commitment can take two different forms; we should regulate one of these forms and push the other to the ultimate. Pride and principle are the types of commitments that are involved.

Pride is a necessity, yet it is extremely necessary to place pride in its proper perspective. Pride can easily be corrupted or capitalized upon as is evident by the "black power" movement being channelled into "black and proud" slogans and eventually becoming a symbolistruggle. Slogans: power red, black and green dress fads; and "Afro" hair styles. It gave white America a new money market and the only thing that remained consistent among black people was oppression.

Principles, however, aren't taught, compromised or defeated. If you knock a man, who stands upon his principles, down he'll get back up. Only death can keep him down and even death falls short of killing the principle by which he lived. (Garvey, Malcolm, Lumumba, King). You can whip a man of principles and thousand times and only strengthen his commitment.

So while we wonder why, in 1972, we are on T.V. rather than owning T.V. stations and while we are still dreaming the "American dream", while still suffering the injustices of an "American nightmare", it may pay us to realize that, while we failed to recognize and commit ourselves to the principles of our struggle, we may have been "black and too proud" and nothing else. Let us retain our pride in our blackness, but let us also recognize principles that will regulate this pride and move us forward.

In Black & White

ALL-AFRICAN NEWS SERVICE

The issues attacked by Black students on campuses both Black and white often tend to be limited to surface programs. All too often, the Black student movement has failed to discriminate itself in substance, program and methodology from the white student movement.

The issues attacked by Black students on campuses both Black and white often tend to be limited to surface programs. All too often, the Black student movement has failed to discriminate itself in substance, program and methodology from the white student movement.

The real issue on the campus has to be that of control. If the Black campus community does not control its campus life to the maximum extent, it will always be subject to the same intellectual colonization which once ran openly rampant at any point that those in power should make such a decision. And indeed, many of those on Black campuses who ape white issues like equal food, equal coed visitation and the like may find that in concentrating on such surface issues and never taking on the major ones, the campuses have become consolidated and everything suddenly white controlled. Equal, but white controlled.

One of the questions central to Black education, identity and the positive kinds of things that can grow from it, can be lost. Students will have to face this reality and, more importantly, deal with it in such a way as to positively improve their ability to be better qualified to the concrete problems of the Black community. Without such reaffirmation of purpose, the whole quest for Black education-independent, Black college and Black studies—and even Black houses, Black corners and Soul Food will have been in vain sofar as Black people are concerned.

ATTENTION

A&T Students From The Following Areas Are Asked To Contact Mr. Norcly Howl In The Athletic Department At The Memorial Student Union.

Charlotte
Durham
High Point
Canton
Baxton
New Bern
Rocks Mount
Wilson
Greensboro
Kinston
Weldon
\n
PLEASE HELP
Judge for yourself.
Try the Navy.

Judge Stephen L. Maxwell knows what unique opportunities the New Navy offers. During the day, Judge Maxwell presides over his St. Paul District Court.

When the weekend rolls around, he trades his judicial robes for a Navy uniform and, as CDR Maxwell USNR, takes charge of his Naval Reserve Unit. He has responsibility and respect without giving up his identity. Judge Maxwell has found, as so many others have, that you can be Black and Navy too.

The Navy is ready to put its money where its mouth is because they need new leadership—Black leadership. And, to get good Black leaders, the Navy offers two NROTC Programs to qualified applicants.

First, there's a Scholarship Program that pays for tuition, fees, books, uniforms and throws in $100 subsistence allowance besides. The Contract Program is similar except you give a little less time and get a little less in return.

For those about to graduate, the Navy has an Officer Candidate School for men and women. After graduation, you complete a 19-week training course and are commissioned an Ensign or Second Lieutenant. After three years service, you'll be earning about $1,000 a month. If you want to continue your education, you may qualify for a complete graduate degree program on a full-time basis at the expense of the Navy. We're not just saying it, we're doing it. Judge for yourself. All it takes is a little time and a little talk.

Use this coupon for more information. Or call toll-free: 800-424-8880.

The New Navy Navy Yard, Building 157-4
Washington, D.C. 20390

Please send information on Navy Programs for:

[ ] College Scholarship Program  [ ] Contract Program  [ ] Officer Candidate School

Name

Age

School

Class

Campus Address

City  State  Zip Code
Breakfast Meet Opens Campaign

By Gladys Outlaw

A breakfast meeting was held Tuesday, October 3, at 8:30 in The Red Carpet to announce the beginning of the 1973 United Campus Campaign. The purpose of this campaign is to set aside a few months each beginning of the 1973 United Campus Campaign is the sum of 37 community services. They have set aside a three-month time slot to collect the fair share of each person.

The leaders of the United Campus Campaign are aware of the low percentage of students participating in its fundraising drive in spite of the fact that students here at A&T use these community services also. One of the reasons why students have been reluctant to participate in this organization is that many people have looked upon this agency as a program for the middle class. Now this has changed and the pendulum swings in opposite direction. Agencies now are really going out of their way to channel most of their funds into economically depressed areas to be used by disadvantaged children or adults," said Sampson Byne, Jr., coordinator of UCC at A&T.

Many faculty and staff members of Boards and agencies have the additional responsibility of knowing that these agencies play in community life and need for financial support.

The goal for 1973 has been set at $1,694,078 for the whole of Greensboro. The goal of A&T is $7,000. The week of October 3-8 has been set aside as pledge week.

Homecoming Clean-Up Drive Being Planned

By Gloria A. Rodgers

Plans for organizing a "Homecoming Clean-Up Campaign" are now in the process of being completed with Raymond Barrett acting chairman. Its purpose is to beautify the campus for the week of Homecoming.

The Panhellenic Council is primarily responsible. There are eight organizations divided into eight sectors. Each sector will be judged for cleanliness and overall beautification.

Plans are to begin on "Rag Day" with the entire student body, and all non-students are expected to attend. Rewards and recognition would be given to the winners of the most beautiful sector. He is now in the process of getting advertising on the radio, particularly, WANT, WEAL, and WESB.

Students can do their part by helping to maintain a wholesome living environment both on campus and in the buildings.

Revolutionary Consciousness-Regressive Apathy

By Ronald Topping

In this year of politics, Black students have become again a target of various seekers. This is especially true if one happens to be on the one hand, to register as many voters as possible, and, on the other, to woo the vote of the newly emancipated youth wing.

Yet, if events in this town can be considered as normal, some things must be said to question the standing belief that today’s students are tomorrow’s leaders. For it is clear, the Black nation may be a deep trouble.

During the past month three events took place on the campus of A&T State University here which seem to reinforce this thesis. At the very beginning of the 1973 session of the North Carolina state legislature James B. Hunt appeared on campus along with Voter Education Project head John Lewis.

Bond and Lewis schooled the crowd of close to 1,000 on the need for increased voter registration of Blacks and yet the apathy which generally reigned before the Sunday afternoon session was just as heavy the following Monday.

In revolutionary circles, such disinterest in "negative conviction politics", which many believe to be the ultimate motives of Bond and Lewis, have not been taken as a healthy sign. It could be construed as an indication that the nation’s Black youth can no longer be amok-screened into a game previously shown to hold little lasting victories, if, indeed, any at all, for the Black community.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

Unfortunately, the real losers here will be the Black student world? And just what is the concern of the Black student world?

Many faculty and staff members of Boards and agencies here have the additional responsibility of knowing the part these agencies play in community life and need for financial support.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

Aaron Butler

Black energy is not without its politics, as in revolutionary circles, such disinterest in "negative conviction politics", which many believe to be the ultimate motives of Bond and Lewis, have not been taken as a healthy sign. It could be construed as an indication that the nation’s Black youth can no longer be amok-screened into a game previously shown to hold little lasting victories, if, indeed, any at all, for the Black community.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

Many faculty and staff members of Boards and agencies here have the additional responsibility of knowing the part these agencies play in community life and need for financial support.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

Many faculty and staff members of Boards and agencies here have the additional responsibility of knowing the part these agencies play in community life and need for financial support.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.

Many faculty and staff members of Boards and agencies here have the additional responsibility of knowing the part these agencies play in community life and need for financial support.

The political aspirations of the nation (that is, the Black one or the white one) is no longer a prevailing interest to the students who were formerly interested over the most seemingly insignificant matters—good ventilation, food in the dorms, etc. This attitude must be justified by the cities looking for unregistered voters now and what is the concern of the Black communities beyond.
The Leader:

Born Or Made

Activities of the program include on and off-campus seminars, informal meetings, and programs with experts in various fields. Renewing the year is the opportunity for each student to participate in a summer internship experience.

This past summer, Kenneth Hainton of Martinsville, Va., was a management trainee at Southern Bell in the Greensboro office. Ken, an electrical engineering major, spoke favorably of his experience. His summer comprised: "I had never thought about the management or "business" side of engineering before," he put into the Fellows program.

Weighing the question thoughtfully, but answering, Ken described a leader as one who must interact with the people and know how to deal with them.

"The Fellows program has helped me to understand myself better in terms of strengths and weaknesses. As a result, I have been better able to begin to accomplish the goals I have set for myself," commented Rosie Stevens, a sophomore sociology major from Fayetteville.

Agriculture Majors To Attend Confab

By Blannie Bowen

The Agricultural Education Association of the School of Agriculture is initiating its plans to send a group of students to the forty-fifth Convention of the Future Farmers of America. This delegation consists of senior Ag-Ed majors, the 1972 Ag-Ed delegation from A&T will be one of the largest collegiate delegations to ever attend the Convention. Most Future Farmers are in high school, but a person may be an active member until he reaches the age of 21 or more. This fact accounts for college students being involved in the Future Farmers at A&T and all across America.

In today's society, the Future Farmers of America is a "farmingwhiteman's organization" by some Blacks. Former State Future Farmer Vice President Inman disagrees completely with this statement.

When questioned about the statement, Inman remarked, "I love the F.F.A. and here at A&T. The squad for the"72" school term consists of senior Ag-Ed majors, the 1972 Ag-Ed delegation from A&T will be one of the largest collegiate delegations to ever attend the Convention. Most Future Farmers are in high school, but a person may be an active member until he reaches the age of 21 or more. This fact accounts for college students being involved in the Future Farmers at A&T and all across America.

In today's society, the Future Farmers of America is a "farmingwhiteman's organization" by some Blacks. Former State Future Farmer Vice President Inman disagrees completely with this statement.

The presentation of the American Farmer Degree, an honor which the United States Department of Agriculture has bestowed upon certain prominent members of the agriculture profession, is an important event each year. The Agricultural Education Association is initiating its plans to send a group of students to the forty-fifth Convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Inman and Bowen served as State Future Farmer Vice Presidents during 1971-72.

Raynor is a freshman Plant Science major here at A&T.

In this delegation, the Future Farmers of America is a "farmingwhiteman's organization" by some Blacks. Former State Future Farmer Vice President Inman disagrees completely with this statement.

When questioned about the statement, Inman remarked, "I love the F.F.A. and here at A&T. The squad for the"72" school term consists of senior Ag-Ed majors, the 1972 Ag-Ed delegation from A&T will be one of the largest collegiate delegations to ever attend the Convention. Most Future Farmers are in high school, but a person may be an active member until he reaches the age of 21 or more. This fact accounts for college students being involved in the Future Farmers at A&T and all across America.

In today's society, the Future Farmers of America is a "farmingwhiteman's organization" by some Blacks. Former State Future Farmer Vice President Inman disagrees completely with this statement.

In this delegation, the Future Farmers of America is a "farmingwhiteman's organization" by some Blacks. Former State Future Farmer Vice President Inman disagrees completely with this statement.
Cool Blue's got what Big Rosey wants!

Grab a Cool Blue today—you'll see what he means.
Sports

By Jacqueline Glisson

Grueling Contest Seen As Aggies Meet Norfolk

A waiting another grueling pigskin contest are the A&T Aggies who will battle the Norfolk State Spartans in Memorial Stadium. This Saturday, the T-Men already have gridiron plans to highlight the Sports Hall of Fame day with another victory.

Succeeding to a 25-3 defeat from A&T last year, the Spartans will again be confronted with such an unfortunate fate. Maintaining a splendid 4-0 record, the well-oiled T-Men have all intentions of presenting their conquering trend.

Offenses should not be a hard job for A&T depending on the maturity of the opponents' young defensive line. Norfolk's line has its work cut out in gaining experience quickly for the season.

To provide to the armor to the Spartan's fortification will be defensive back William Betts and outstanding linemen Charles Britt, a high school teammate of Eric Cox, commissioner of the Intramurals. With a two-pronged attack A&T first attempted to soften up the Bears defense with a rushing game. The Aggies were primed to stop the rush which Relford stopped them in the air.

The 6-5 sophomore, looking over the foes' heads, lifted his Aggies to a somewhat comfortable 23-0 spread with a pair of touchdown drives late in the second period. A&T first attempted to soften up the Bears defense with a running game. They went over on a 6-3 pass play for one touchdown and then came right back for a second, three minutes later after recovering an A&T fumble.

Johnson C. Smith had to go just 35-yards, and the Bears did quickly with freshman Larry Matkins scoring.

Everything belonged to the Aggies in the first half when they points after two long scoring drives behind the quarterbacking of Paul McKibbens and Len Relford.

The second half was another story. Virginia State was up-tempo and ready to pounce on the Aggies' weaknesses of the opposition.

Many students are actively and wholeheartedly participating in swimming, skating and recreational basketball. Of these activities, the one requiring a fee is skating. Skate rentals cost 35 cents. Skating is offered on Mondays.

The Intramurals Program is well on its way into the season, with four recreational activities provided for the students. Flag football heads the list, as teams have begun to battle in Holland Bowl for the Intramurals flag football championship.

Many students are actively and wholeheartedly participating in swimming, skating and recreational basketball. Of these activities, the one requiring a fee is skating. Skate rentals cost 35 cents. Skating is offered on Saturdays from 2-6 p.m.

Many teams are ready to test their strength, and there is a limited number of skates.

Fric Cox, commissioner of the Intramurals Program, indicated that flag football games are played on Wednesdays. (See Intramurals, Page 11)
Athlete Of The Week

Sophomore defensive back John Hampton from Valdosta, Ga., is this week's star Aggie. In last week's win over J.C. Smith, he intercepted two passes, deflected numerous others, and made several tackles big tackles. Hampton's parents are Mr. & Mrs. Dennis Hampton, Sr.

Intramural Season

Full Of Activities

(Continued From Page 10)

Wednesday, and Thursdays in Holland Bowl. Two games are played each day: the first game at 4 o'clock and the second game at 5 o'clock.

All teams are expected to be at their respective game on time. Kick-off for the first game is scheduled at 4:15 and the second game at 5:15. The teams are expected to show up for the game, no matter how adverse the weather is.

When a team does not report to Holland Bowl for a scheduled game, the game is forfeited.

The other team that is present will get an automatic victory. When the unusual happens, that is neither team shows up for a scheduled game, the game is completed dropped from the schedule.

Flag football competitors are divided into three divisions. Division I is comprised of the AFROTC, the Epicureans, the Vets, Alpha Phi Omega, and Kappa Alpha Psi. Division II has such teams as BOSS, the ASME (American Society of Mechanical Engineers), the Pershing Rigers, Omega Psi Phi, and Iota Phi Theta. The Ty-A-Tars, the Freshman Ace, the Chiefs, the Nomads, Wild Bunch, and the Outcasts complete the their division.

A HEAVENLY DEAL .... WITH THIS COUPON

$1 OFF ANY LARGE PIZZA

MONDAY-THURSDAY 3-12 p.m.

Dine In or Take Out

PEPPI PIZZA VILLA

1115 E. BESSEMER - 274-7619

Ebony Fashion Fair Comes To G-Boro

By Doreen Green

Greenboro is in for the time of its life! The 15th annual Ebony Fashion Fair will be presented here October 19.

The extravaganza is sponsored by the Greenboro Chapter of Links, Inc. and the show will benefit the United Negro College Fund. It will take place 7:00 p.m. in the Memorial Auditorium.

The traveling show consists of some 2000 creations complete with accessories, 10 female models, two male models, a commentator, music director, stage and business managers and wardrobe staff.

The theme of this year's Ebony Fashion Fair is "A Way to Look." Creations for the show were personally selected by Mrs. Ennis W. Johnson, wife of Publisher John H. Johnson.

The show will feature designs from leading countries of Europe and New York as well as a number of creations from leading Black designers.

The show will feature garments ranging from the most elegant ball gown to the most simple but superbly designed daytime dress.

The Ebony Fashion Fair promises to be Black and lusciously beautiful. Don't miss it! Student tickets are only two dollars. Contact Doreen Green, 230 C.M. Vanstory.

Junior Class Membership Cards - on sale in each dormitory. Your support is needed.

Richard B. Harrison Players presents "Manut/Sade" by Peter Weiss. Best play of the year award. October 23-28 at 8:15 p.m. Paul Robeson Little Theater Communications Building. Tickets: Box Office from 9-5 daily or call 379-7500. Students free with I.D. General Admission $2.00.

Audition for the Black Arts Repertory Dance Company will be held Tuesday, October 10, at 7:15 P.M. and Wednesday, October 11, at 8:15 P.M. in the theatre. Meet in the theater lobby.

Voter Registration Meeting Monday Night 6:30 until 8 p.m. Harrison Auditorium.

GOSPEL MUSIC CONCERT The 80- Voice Fellowship Gospel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Yvonne Haygood Smith will appear in its first concert this semester at 6:00 p.m. in Harrison Auditorium, Sunday, October 8. The public is invited. The show is sponsored.

THE RED HANGER

FORMAL WEAR RENTAL

1633 E. Market St.
Greensboro, N. C.

Phone 272-9574

(Continued From Page 10)

traveled 70-yards for the night's first TD. One sprint covered 37-yards, but David Brown saved the day with a fumble recovery prior to halftime.

The Aggies soon dove over the Goal after a fumble recovery on midfield on any other occasion the Outcasts complete the their division.

The Bulls failed to make it to Closest Johnson C. Smith when a punt followed. A&T promptly marched 80-yards to the goal before the Flag football competitors are divided into three divisions. Division I is comprised of the AFROTC, the Epicureans, the Vets, Alpha Phi Omega, and Kappa Alpha Psi. Division II has such teams as BOSS, the ASME (American Society of Mechanical Engineers), the Pershing Rigers, Omega Psi Phi, and Iota Phi Theta. The Ty-A-Tars, the Freshman Ace, the Chiefs, the Nomads, Wild Bunch, and the Outcasts complete the their division.

Junior Class Membership Cards - on sale in each dormitory. Your support is needed.

Richard B. Harrison Players presents "Manut/Sade" by Peter Weiss. Best play of the year award. October 23-28 at 8:15 p.m. Paul Robeson Little Theater Communications Building. Tickets: Box Office from 9-5 daily or call 379-7500. Students free with I.D. General Admission $2.00.

Audition for the Black Arts Repertory Dance Company will be held Tuesday, October 10, at 7:15 P.M. and Wednesday, October 11, at 8:15 P.M. in the theatre. Meet in the theater lobby.

Voter Registration Meeting Monday Night 6:30 until 8 p.m. Harrison Auditorium.

GOSPEL MUSIC CONCERT The 80- Voice Fellowship Gospel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Yvonne Haygood Smith will appear in its first concert this semester at 6:00 p.m. in Harrison Auditorium, Sunday, October 8. The public is invited. The show is sponsored.

THE RED HANGER

FORMAL WEAR RENTAL

1633 E. Market St.
Greensboro, N. C.

Phone 272-9574
PROCTER & GAMBLE
will interview
October 18-19
for management careers in:
Mechanical and Electrical Engineering

The Engineering Division's Responsibility. If you were to join us in the Engineering Division, you would immediately become an important part of a management team of over 500 engineers who design, develop and supervise the construction of from 150 to 200 million dollars' worth of equipment and facilities each year for P&G.

Our Basic Functions Are:
1. To develop the process, packaging, instrumentation and control systems to produce our products.
2. To design and construct new manufacturing, laboratory, warehouse and office facilities.
3. To improve existing manufacturing facilities.
4. To provide technical advice concerning proposed and existing facilities and equipment.

Typical First Assignment. Shortly after joining the Engineering Division you would be assigned to a project, and would be responsible for all design phases of that project from start to finish. Parallel to initial project responsibility, you will be trained in all design and administrative procedures related to our work. This includes comprehensive reviews of all operating, maintenance and quality control requirements.

A typical project assignment will require that you handle all or part of the following work depending upon the magnitude and complexity of the project:

1. Conduct preliminary studies to establish the engineering feasibility of proposed work.
2. Establish design requirements through consultation with representatives of Manufacturing, Research and Development and other contributing groups.
3. Determine the optimum design concept through engineering and economic justification studies.
4. Develop new equipment, providing basic design concepts and direction to designers and machinists as the design is executed and prototypes fabricated for testing.
5. Specify, select and conduct acceptance tests on equipment purchased from vendors.
6. Inspect construction and installation of equipment; conduct operating tests and make corrections as needed.
7. Solve equipment problems that develop during initial operation.

We would like to talk with you regardless of your graduate school or military service plans. For more detailed information see our literature in the placement office.

ERNEST WOMACK
Mr. Ernest Womack, a 1972 graduate in Mechanical Engineering at N.C. A&T State University, worked for the Procter & Gamble Company in its Summer Student Engineer Program during the summer of 1972. Mr. Womack worked in the Disposable Products Converting Department of the Engineering Division in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Womack's assignments centered around the installation of a packaging machine sub-system in the plant and also the development of a simple splice for pre-combined tapes. Mr. Womack conceived several mechanisms for remote adjustment of plastic wrap tension devices.