Says Save Black Schools
Jackson Addresses Convocation

Janice E. Smith

Speaking to a capacity crowd at Moore Gym, the Rev. Jesse Jackson told the Homecoming convocation that there must be appreciation of the ethic, ethical, and efficient.

Jackson, an A&T alumnus and national director of PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), who used as his subject the struggle of Black schools, said that, at present, the great debate is between reconstruction and reintegration.

He emphasized the importance of learning Black history, not for the purpose of broadening one's knowledge, but in perspective and to study the errors and successes of the past.

Jackson pointed out the progress of the Blacks in this country by pointing out achievements in the past 100 years.

"We don't have time to purchase our wines with dope while the great debate is going on," he asserted.

Homecoming To Be 'Really Big': 20,000 Persons Expected To Show

"The really big one" is the way the 1973 A&T Homecoming weekend is already being described.

What with three bands for the Homecoming band, a mile-long parade, a thrilling football game and nearly half a dozen informal socials for the ole grads, there is little doubt that a record celebration will be held in the Hilton Inn.

More that 20,000 persons are expected to pour into Greensboro for the celebration, beginning Oct. 12 and ending Sunday, Oct. 14.

According to James E. Garfield, general chairman of A&T's Homecoming, most of the alumni festivities will be held in the Hilton Inn.

As in past years, visitors will also be invited to attend the annual Mardi Gras, sponsored by the Tau Omega chapter of the Omega Psi Phi in the National Guard Armory. This dance will be Oct. 12 at 9 p.m.

Saturday's festivities will include an alumni breakfast at 9 a.m. in Brown Hall, the parade at 10 a.m., and the A&T versus the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore football game at 1:30 p.m.

Crowd Packs Gym To See Miss A&T's Banimi

About 3000 students and faculty members were on hand at Moore Gym Thursday night to witness the official installation of Delores Mitchell as Miss A&T 1973-74.

The Banimi (coronation) had as its theme, "More Power Through Unity, Dignity and Struggle: Harambee."

Addressing the crowd, Delores said the struggle for unity and dignity is not for material things.

"Whatever we do for the struggle, we must do it together," she said.

In presenting to her the crown, the Rev. Jesse Jackson smiled and said, "Someday, we will have a universal mind."

Jackson said the great debate deals with the reapportionment of voting districts which includes the terminology, "at large votes and at large schools." "An at-large school means the enrollment of the Black school and not the merger," he stated. He continued, "Under the facade of integration, there is the move to disintegrate."

Jackson referred to the image of America as a melting pot of races as erroneous, with the explanation, "People do not melt; they associate."

He said, if there is justification for universities such as Harvard and Yale, which primarily served white students, there is justification for predominately Black schools.

"Black schools exist not as an only, but as an epitome of leadership and unity," he said.

"You can't lead where you can't go," Jackson often reminds his listeners.

Before transferring to A&T, in 1973, Jackson studied for two years at the Chicago Theological Seminary.

About 3000 students and faculty members were on hand at Moore Gym Thursday night to witness the official installation of Delores Mitchell as Miss A&T 1973-74.

The Banimi (coronation) had as its theme, "More Power Through Unity, Dignity and Struggle: Harambee."

Addressing the crowd, Delores said the struggle for unity and dignity is not for material things.

"Whatever we do for the struggle, we must do it together," she said.

In presenting to her the crown, the Rev. Jesse Jackson smiled and said, "Someday, we will have a universal mind."

Jackson said the great debate deals with the reapportionment of voting districts which includes the terminology, "at large votes and at large schools." "An at-large school means the enrollment of the Black school and not the merger," he stated. He continued, "Under the facade of integration, there is the move to disintegrate."

Jackson referred to the image of America as a melting pot of races as erroneous, with the explanation, "People do not melt; they associate."

He said, if there is justification for universities such as Harvard and Yale, which primarily served white students, there is justification for predominately Black colleges.

While acknowledging that Black schools possess weaknesses, he said, "But there is no wickedness." Making a comparison Jackson stated, "In the white school, there is no student, there is wickedness."

"We are in the economic era. To bring about significant change, you've got to have more than desire; you've got to have sufficient tools."

"It's not your aptitude; it's your attitude that will determine your altitude," Jackson pointed out, a thunderous standing ovation followed from the audience.

Jackson began the emotionally overwrought speech with a refrain of "I AM SOMEBODY" which he termed the battle cry.

"The really big one" is the way the 1973 A&T Homecoming weekend is already being described.

What with three bands for the Homecoming band, a mile-long parade, a thrilling football game and nearly half a dozen informal socials for the ole grads, there is little doubt that a record celebration will be held in the Hilton Inn.

More that 20,000 persons are expected to pour into Greensboro for the celebration, beginning Oct. 12 and ending Sunday, Oct. 14.

According to James E. Garfield, general chairman of A&T's Homecoming, most of the alumni festivities will be held in the Hilton Inn.

As in past years, visitors will also be invited to attend the annual Mardi Gras, sponsored by the Tau Omega chapter of the Omega Psi Phi in the National Guard Armory. This dance will be Oct. 12 at 9 p.m.

Saturday's festivities will include an alumni breakfast at 9 a.m. in Brown Hall, the parade at 10 a.m., and the A&T versus the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore football game at 1:30 p.m.

Speaking to a capacity crowd at Moore Gym, the Rev. Jesse Jackson told the Homecoming convocation that there must be appreciation of the ethic, ethical, and efficient.

Jackson, an A&T alumnus and national director of PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), who used as his subject the struggle of Black schools, said that, at present, the great debate is between reconstruction and reintegration.

He emphasized the importance of learning Black history, not for the purpose of broadening one's knowledge, but in perspective and to study the errors and successes of the past.

Jackson pointed out the progress of the Blacks in this country by pointing out achievements in the past 100 years.

"We don't have time to purchase our wines with dope while the great debate is going on," he asserted.

"The really big one" is the way the 1973 A&T Homecoming weekend is already being described.

What with three bands for the Homecoming band, a mile-long parade, a thrilling football game and nearly half a dozen informal socials for the ole grads, there is little doubt that a record celebration will be held in the Hilton Inn.

More that 20,000 persons are expected to pour into Greensboro for the celebration, beginning Oct. 12 and ending Sunday, Oct. 14.

According to James E. Garfield, general chairman of A&T's Homecoming, most of the alumni festivities will be held in the Hilton Inn.

As in past years, visitors will also be invited to attend the annual Mardi Gras, sponsored by the Tau Omega chapter of the Omega Psi Phi in the National Guard Armory. This dance will be Oct. 12 at 9 p.m.

Saturday's festivities will include an alumni breakfast at 9 a.m. in Brown Hall, the parade at 10 a.m., and the A&T versus the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore football game at 1:30 p.m.
Females Invade Field of Animal Science

By Cynthia Shipley

A field formerly thought of as male is now opening to women, and especially Black women. Talmage Brewer, acting chairman of the Animal Science Department at A&T, said that “Animal Science can be used for good or evil, and especially for knowing what constitutes quality in meats and milk products.”

This relatively new tradition of Graeber also hopes to leave a following dose in November or December. Nurse Vines said that after the second initial dose has been given, preventive steps during the following years include a booster annually. In the past Mrs. Vines said there was a regular of 15 persons who come by annually to get the vaccine. She said that Celia Irwin has had mostly in his budget to purchase it for the students.

According to the doctor, students may purchase the vaccine. Nurse Vines said that if a student has a cold at that particular time, usually the doctor will not advise him to take it right then.

The specific vaccine that the influenza has on hand is the H1N1 strain. Although Mrs. Vines noted the number she administers the vaccine to each year is small, she said that to her knowledge none of these persons had caught the flu.

During the interview she telephoned the Army and Air Force Exchange Service departments where staff members are trained to annually as part of the military program. Response to her call indicated that no new vaccine was, not any to their knowledge had come down with the flu.

* Even though a complete study would have to be done on the merits of the vaccine to make a decision, Mrs. Vines said that it felt it gave some protection.

A&T Takes Several Steps To Save Energy And Fuel

By Ruby D. Allen

The current energy and fuel crisis experienced all over the United States is also being felt here at A&T. Marvin Graber, associate director of the physical plant, stated that conservation measures will be issued to all members of the Aggie family soon.

Graber has already mapped out the action the physical plant will take to help conserve energy. “We will be reducing fluorescent lights in public areas, such as hallways, restrooms, cafeterias, perhaps auditoriums, and non-working areas in office places where that can be done without interfering with the normal visual task to be performed.”

Graber also hopes to leave enough illumination to provide a crime deterrent.

Nighttime maintenance will be scheduled where feasible to decrease the energy usage and to reduce the time buildings are to be illuminated. Personnel are asked to cooperate with the maintenance employees and turn off lights and make sure all windows and doors are closed when leaving a specific area.

The power plant will receive an oil storage tank of a 250,000 gallon capacity, which is also experiencing the shortage of oil. Everything is being done to conserve the energy, and if everyone works together, Graber thinks that there will be adequate energy.

To help conserve energy, Graber stated that the following measures will be taken:

- The heat will be turned down during the night.
- The temperature of the hot water will be lowered.
- Unnecessary light bulbs will be removed.
- He has asked the Aggie family to do their part.

Students Can Get Flu Shots For $2.50 At Campus Infirmary

Flu vaccine is available in the infirmary for those wishing to purchase it for $2.50 a dose. Theresa Vines, director of Student Health Service, said the vaccine is given in two doses, one in August or September and a following dose in November or December.

Nurse Vines said that after the second initial dose has been given, preventive steps during the following years include a booster annually. In the past Mrs. Vines said there was a regular of 15 persons who come by annually to get the vaccine. She said that Celia Irwin has had mostly in his budget to purchase it for the students.

Upon recommendation from the doctor, students may purchase the vaccine. Nurse Vines said that if a student has a cold at that particular time, usually the doctor will not advise him to take it right then.

Barber Places Third In G-boro Primary

Incumbent Greensboro City Councilwoman Jimmie I. Barber placed third in the primary last Tuesday. He is one of 12 candidates who will compete for one of 6 seats on the Greensboro City Council in the elections Nov. 6.

Barber is director of housing and assistant professor of psychology and guidance at A&T. He is pastor of the St. James Baptist Church and is president of the Greensboro Human Relations Commission. He developed a special interest in juvenile delinquency.

Herman Gist, a third Black man who was seeking a place in the Nov. 6 elections, was unsuccessful in his efforts. He collected 1,649 votes.
New Director Hopes To Tailor Library Services To Meet Needs

Bluford Library has a new director, Buford Harrison Conley, who came here from Rutgers University in New Brunswick, New Jersey. As assistant professor of library services at Rutgers, he provided tutorial assistance to specially recruited minority students and conducted research dealing with academic library management and its implications to library management.

One of the things that Conley has planned for library services here is the formation of a student library committee. He said that it would let the library know what problems it has from the users' point of view.

Conley said that he did not study on A&T Library Services before coming here and he is concerned that he found that our students are going to UNC-G to use its library services. "It is due to a break down in communications. Students should make demands and if they don't get them, they ought to demand why," he said.

"The use of the library per capita here is extremely low. The resources here are under utilized. Part of the problem is one of the grass looking greener," he said.

Conley said that he was concerned that the library reach the freshmen. "The student that we want to serve most is the freshman. We want to help him articulate his needs," he stated.

The problem of vandalism is universal to all libraries, commented Conley about the problem of students marving books. The problem is serious, he said, when misplaced aggression, as he termed it, becomes excessive. "I'm concerned if students are dissatisfied with the services," he added.

Conley proposes to tailor the library to individual needs of the users. Recruiting of minority students and faculty involved. He plans to place suggestion boxes around campus and respond positively to the input. "I urge students who may be dissatisfied to come by my office," he stated.

Aggies Show Little Indication Of A Decline In Pledging

By Kathryn Skeens

In recent years, there has been some discrepancy about the pledging requirements and activities that Aggie students are expected to participate in. During a recent interview with Dean Pigott, associate dean of student affairs for organizations, he discussed the schedule for the fall semester pledge period.

Dean Pigott said that last year the president of the Pan Hellenic Council submitted recommendations for the schedule; however, Dr. Marshall, then president of the Pan Hellenic Council, was unable to attend.

"I came here from Brunswick, New Jersey. As a student in the fall semester pledge period, I was unable to attend," said Pigott. "I recommended that the schedule be changed to better accommodate the needs of the campus." He added that the schedule for this year is similar to the one that was recommended.

"The problem of vandalism is universal to all libraries, commented Conley about the problem of students marving books. The problem is serious, he said, when misplaced aggression, as he termed it, becomes excessive. "I'm concerned if students are dissatisfied with the services," he added.

Conley proposes to tailor the library to individual needs of the users. Recruiting of minority students and faculty involved. He plans to place suggestion boxes around campus and respond positively to the input. "I urge students who may be dissatisfied to come by my office," he stated.

Alumni Association Aids Alma Mater

One of the greatest success stories connected with A&T has to be the development of the University's outstanding alumni association. Currently, the most viable alumni organization is the A&T National Alumni Association, which has a membership of more than 13,000 members.

The A&T National Alumni Association has already announced plans for off-campus activities in cities with large student and alumni blocks. Homecoming activities and other on-campus solicitations and activities.

Besides assisting their University, A&T alumni, in their own communities, continue to make their mark in positions of leadership in the health professions, engineering, education, the sciences, religion, law, social welfare, research and the military.

As an example of the growing influence of the University's alumni, during the past year, two of them were named to college presidencies. Dr. Wilbert Greenfield became president of the A&T University this year. Cannon gave an example of telephone problems. "One dude would steal the dialing part out of the phone to insure getting his 'fun.' There were no study places designated, and most people were for self." Cannon said the place wasn't personal enough, and some strictness needed to be imposed concerning noise and privacy.

Another sophomore, newly staying on campus, said the nonchalant attitude of the students towards privacy is what bothered him most, next to the noise. "He said he was speaking in reference to when it came time to study some of the men in the dorm would still come knocking, ready to go out and have fun. He went on the say that the attitude was "play first, study later" and often you short change yourself by giving in to the temptations.

Two seniors, Larry Cannon and J. R. Bunn, moved off campus Dec. of '72. Since then some improvements have been implemented in Scott Hall, but a good many things have remained the same. The most notable are the problems with stealing, the public address system, and the mail boxes.

Cannon gave an example of telephone problems. "One dude would steal the dialing part out of the phone to insure getting his 'fun.' There were no study places designated, and most people were for self." Cannon said the place wasn't personal enough, and some strictness needed to be imposed concerning noise and privacy.

By Cynthia Shipley

Off-Campus Living Offers Quiet Atmosphere Of Home

All aspects of living on campus are not "such as getting to know many people, being close to what's happening and knowing about all the activities," stated Reha Green, a sophomore living in High Rise. However, some of the reasons for moving off campus seem to be valid.

Selecting a place to live may present a problem, but many of the advantages may outweigh any obstacles...
Care About Home

Moore Gym was packed to the brim Monday to listen to A&T alumni Jesse Jackson who chose as his subject the saving of Black schools. Even though the seriousness of the struggle to save Black schools was overshadowed by the festive mood of Homecoming, his choice of a subject served as a gaudily to remind the University body that this is an issue which just won’t vanish.

Although Jackson gave no definite outline for saving Black schools, he did give some valid reasons why these colleges must be saved. And he also touched on another very important things it is not up to the students, nor the administration or the faculty alone to fight for survival of Black schools, but there has to be a united effort which he termed the pulling together of the family.

Some persons might gripe that it was an inappropriate time for discussing the future of predominately Black schools, but there could not have been a better time or place, most of the student body, faculty and administrators were brought together. After all, when you talk about a crisis of saving Black schools in its proper perspective, then the university family is neither apathetic nor nonchalant, but merely unable or unwilling to put the crisis of saving Black schools in its proper perspective.

Enjoy the fun, the game, and the parties this weekend but do a little more-care about the Home whose festivals, but rather the beginning, for there is a genuine reason for celebrating, not that Aggies need a reason for enjoying themselves. So if you’ve never been to an A&T Homecoming, "I dauburned if you ain’t missed something great.

I’m So Glad I Go To A&T

Homecoming week is the time Aggies awaken from a slumber and take a whirl through convocation to coronation to the game to the after-parties. They come from all parts of the country by bus, car, train and some even charter a plane. The campus jumps and twirls with the excitement and anticipation of the next school event.

Overnight, signs are made welcoming the enormous crowd who will converge on the campus by game time. And then it is Saturday, the day after the pep rally and the mock funeral for the opponent’s mascot.

People profile and style into War Memorial Stadium—some strolling and others prancing. Friends jib each other and shout, "Check that dude out."

All this prologue, a way to pass the time waiting for the team to make the winning touchdown and there is no doubt in anybody’s mind that it will. Aggie football teams are known for their perfected technique of giving their fans heart-stopping thrilling games, then it happens, the winning touchdown. That much-talked-about Aggie spirit erupts flooding the stadium with someone from the class of ’40 leading “I’m So Glad I Go To A&T.”

But the winning of the game is not the ending of the festivities, but rather the beginning, for there is a genuine reason for celebrating, not that Aggies need a reason for enjoying themselves.

So if you’ve never been to an A&T Homecoming, "I dauburned if you ain’t missed something great.

Janice Smith

Is Agnew Guilty?

By Rosie A. Stevens

Another resignation in Washington, that of Vice President Spiro Agnew, has touched off a flood of expressions of sympathy and admiration, been the subject of political lessons to be taught, and, in general, provided copy and format for the news media. At the same time, the President has begun considering a replacement for the former vice president, and Congress has been shirred up to the point of deciding Mr. Nixon’s right to choose another President. The actual office to be filled is the office of the Vice Presidency, but the question is one of the right of the President to appoint a candidate for the Presidency in 1976. In brief, the resignation of Agnew has provided a situation for both parties to exploit, independently of any other considerations.

At the same time, the resignation is one which presents an interesting situation. The former vice president virtually, according to some, admits guilt in income tax evasion. It is to be wondered if he is in fact guilty of the other crimes of which he was charged. He stated that there was a frame-up against him by the justice department, but this may be dismissed as some last ditch self-saving that the ruined are entitled to. Mr. Agnew may feel that he had no chance to prove himself innocent. A very, very fine distinction may be made on this point.

This is not to say that the Vice President is not guilty of any wrong doing. The evidence presented by the court has to be weighed against the consideration that Mr. Agnew has presented no evidence to support his innocence. In effect, the considerable evidence presented against him is no help when there is no positive proof of innocence. Mr. Agnew merely made a deal that alleviated his sentence and kept him from being charged with more serious crimes.

At any rate, the nation is involved in a shocking situation which serves to focus its attention on something other than exclusively upon Watergate. This may or may not be the best that could happen.
Nature Defines The Role Women Play In Society

CRISIS

by Ted L. Munsen

Conditions of the vast majority of the non-white people of the world are strikingly similar. This is because they are subjected to the same type of oppressive system and/or oppression which either concerns, or influences their conditions. Thus whites may manipulate our conditions here in America by controlling the political system and manipulate conditions in others in the world. Thus it is important that we understand how this system operates and how it is maintained.

So, by American standards, one is a complete success in society if he meets the following criteria: race-white, sex-male, income-middle, occupation-professional, and religion-Episcopal. Also, because this system is so money centered, one can combine two categories; money and social factors, and still be considered successful by society, meaning one can be one of the upper income bracket and have a professional occupation and still be looked upon as a success by society. To list all the potential failures, and also in terms of American social values, our list must read like this: race-white, sex-female, income-lower, occupation-skilled, and religion-non-Episcopal. Again, the two most determining factors are an indication of material wealth: lower income level and less than professional occupation are qualified with failure, according to society.

My mother grew up with a certain amount of belief in this system and, being subjected to it, she naturally accepted its values. She had been to college and wishes that she had done more with her life. As a domestic worker, she realized that because her qualifications fall under the negatives of failures as determined by the American system, she has fallen short of being a success. The hopes and dreams she once tried to realize have been crushed by this system in terms of my mother. Thus American society was founded upon the question of who qualifies under this system and, being subjected to it, Black women feel that they have been shortchanged by society.

Societies establish systems around the question of protecting what it values most. Thus American society was founded upon the question of protecting "private property." Where life (human values) and property (materialistic values) conflicted, property won out. If a man entered your property to your dissatisfaction, you had a right to his life. Understanding this and the concept that value systems constitute societies criteria for determining success, we understand that, in the U.S., success is determined by society is measured materialistically. In this sense, the American woman is not a complete success. There is no complete success. There is no total success. There is not one woman who is complete success.

The dream she once tried to realize was a complete success. There is no total success. There is not one woman who is complete success. Therefore American society is a failure, according to my mother. As a domestic worker, she has fallen short of being a success. The hopes and dreams she once tried to realize have been crushed by this system in terms of my mother. This American system has "Emily Mungam you don't make it!" I say to that system, "You're a damn lie." Emily Mungam is a complete success according to society. No man defines the role women play in society, nature does. White folks' values are monitory; nature's are humane.

Homecoming Through The Years

By Cassandra Wynn

Homecoming has long been a gala event for Aggies. The method of celebrating seems to be the same thing that has changed in Aggieland.

Back in the 30's, Homecoming was a one-day celebration. The events were centered around the agriculture fair held in Greensboro where many exhibits of agriculture products were shown. The occasion was also commemorated by decorating the campus in blue and gold.

At time went on Homecoming became a more prolonged celebration including more events during the week that led up to the big day. According to Albert W. Spruill, dean of Graduate School, author of Great Recollections From Aggieland, Homecoming included "the old bell" on the Friday evening before the game, and a parade on Saturday. Spruill says that Homecomings always included the Aggie Band, "rahh, raah!" in the street, and "shouting, hand shaking, and slapping on the back." He noted that "a group walks in carrying a paper bag. Some paper cups begin to circulate with cokes, and perhaps other ingredients mixed in, and they whoop it up."

The band has always been the highlight of the big game on Saturday, recalled Spruill. "All tropaeolums breaks loose when the band takes the field at the half time show. He described the band as fast stepping, sharp and spectacular. The drum major always comes to the front with a display of artistic skill."

If A&T won the game, one tradition was to ring the old bell in Crotzer Hall. One tradition that is definitely not practiced now is the crowning of Miss A&T at the half time show at the game on Saturday.

Now the Homecoming celebration has many more activities including an African Coronation. There are parties all during the week of Homecoming, usually a new presented by the Harrison Players a pre-game and a post game dance.

Attention Aggies!!

The cheerleaders need your support and suggestions. They need suggestions on starting a pep club for more school spirit and how to help them improve the cheering squad. Our home games have really been a "DRAG!! No one helps them cheer. We need more school spirit, so please, of you have any suggestions write any of the cheerleaders or Victor Karabin in Moore Gym. His office hours are as follows: Monday, 12p.m. to 1 p.m.; Tuesday 12 p.m. to 1 p.m.; 3 to 4 p.m.; Wednesday 10 to 11 a.m.; and Thursday 3 to 4 p.m. There will also be a pep rally Friday evening at 7:00 p.m. in Holland Bowl. Please support the cheerleaders and the football team. Come out for a "Funky Good Time."

RAH! RAH! RAH!

Crystal Watson

Ways To Conserve Energy

(Continued From Page 2)

Turn the lights off when not in use. Keep doors closed during the heating season and during the cooling season if the building is air conditioned. Vehicles should eliminate unnecessary driving. Doubling up should be practiced where possible. Pickup and trips should be scheduled to eliminate excessive driving. All vehicles should slow down. Faster drivers feel that if everyone does his part, the Aggie family should be able to come through this crisis without too much discomfort.
Jacques Brel Is Alive And Well... So They Say

By Yvonne McDonald

"Jacques Brel is 'Alive and Well and Living in Paris" is a think-for-yourself musical, written by Jacques Brel a Belgium born poet and singer who lives in Paris. Brel writes about a "world of reality, not about the Seine Eiffel Tower, cabaret singers and hansom cabs. There is no story. The Players: Earnest Frierson, Alfred Mack, Linda Thomas and Bonita Chavis, sing about the life Jacques Brel sees. That life is with prostitutes, whores, love, and death. In one selection, "The Desperate Ones" a scene change showed a desperate mother and her son huddled against a stove. In "Old Folks" the scene showed an old lady, as the singers sang: "old folks never die." (See Musical, Page 8).

ACROSS
1 The occult
7 A shaking
13 Social group
14 Attendants to an important person
15 Seasoning
17 Wreaths for the head
18 Mohammedanism
19 Exists
21 Child
22 - accomplish
24 Strength
25 For shame!
26 Extends across
27 More painful
28 Mistakes in published work
30 Salaries
32 Lustful
34 Harvard
35 Strict disciplinarian
39 Portion of a choral ode
43 City in New York
44 Actor Gert
45 Accelerate
46 Actors studio
47 Bring up
48 Mints
49 Wicked
50 Noun-forming suffix
51 Famous grammarian
52 Started
53 Plant part
54 For shame!
55 Distance traveled
57 Fresnes
58 Frightened
59 Heroic feet
60 Cognition

DOWN
1 Pirate
2 Artist's studio
3 Procreated (archaic)
4 Ancient Greece
5 Lexicographer
6 Vicar
7 Ancient Greek land
8 Farcical imitation
9 Ode
10 In the center
11 "... good...
12 Spread hearsay
13 Nun's hood
14 Organic compound
15 Lodging places
16 Produce eggs
17 College girls
18 Beer mug
19 Place of sacrifice
20 Metrical feet
21 American inventor
22 Earnest Frierson
23 Earnest Frierson, Bonita Chavis, Linda Thomas and Al Mack combine for song in "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris."
24 College girls
25 Labor Union
26 Beer mug
27 Binge
28 Mistakes in published work
29 Place of sacrifice
30 Salaries
31 Metrical feet
32 Lustful
33 American inventor
34 Harvard
35 Strict disciplinarian
36 Earnest Frierson
37 Without hesitation
38 Neat
39 Portion of a choral ode
40 Japanese paper folding
41 Floods
42 Levelled off
43 Seeks
44 Swerves
45 Narcotic shrub
46 Livid: Scot.
47 Prison
48 Sects
49 Swerves
50 Livid: Scot.
51 Narcotic shrub
52 Prison
53 Labor Union
54 Earnest Frierson
55 Distance traveled
56 Earnest Frierson
57 Fresnes
58 Frightened
59 Heroic feet
60 Cognition

<answering last puzzle>

WHAT IN THE WORLD IS GOING ON DOWN THERE THUNDER?

YOU KNOW REY JESSE JACKSON WHO GAVE US AGGIES A GOOD PUSH FOR HOMECOMING

AND WE AGGIE BULLDOGS WILL PUSH OVER THEM MARYLAND HAWKS

NOW YOU PUSHIN SUNNY BLUE

THUNDER AND SUNNY BLUE

by EARL JONES

PUSH you know what it takes to get over PUSH

IN OTHER WORDS WE AGGIES WILL PUSH THE HAWKS CLEAN OUT OF SKY.

WE GONNA PUSH, PLOW, PUNT AND STRETCH SCORES

KILLER PUFF

homecoming HOMECOMING

FOR ALL US AGGIES STUPID
Hayes-Taylor will serve as a center for counselling and tutoring of students who have been suspended from the public schools of Greensboro. The major part of the program will be devoted to counseling students with problems associated with adjustment in school and community life.

Other programs this fall will include the Full Kiddie College Program, directed by A. W. Williams. This program is designed for preschoolers three to six years old. Features of this program are a large fenced in playground; spacious classrooms; trained supervision at all times; swimming in the indoor heated pool; physical education in the gymnasium, periodic education and recreational trips using the YMCA activity bus; and a well balanced curriculum to mix fun with learning. Classes are Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Besides the Kiddie Program, the Y is having an after school recreation program for students in Moore and Porter Elementary Schools, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church, Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, and the Temple Emanuel. The program includes activities such as modern dance, basketball, ping pong, volleyball, touch football, folk dancing, majoretting and cheerleading for the girls.

The Leaders Club will be open to both girls and boys. The main function of this club is gymnastics and voluntary services; training juniors to take over duties at the Y and to do voluntary work. The ages are 12-15. The “Y” is looking for someone to donate hours in gymnastics as a voluntary instructor preferably a graduating senior or someone who excelled in gymnastics or fundamentals. One of the ongoing programs at the “Y” is the Thursday Luncheon Club which features distinguished speakers from North Carolina, speaking on current issues. Jimmie I. Barber director of off-campus housing here, is in charge.

Juan Logan's Works Can Be Seen In Taylor Until November

Artistic works of the sculptor-painter Juan Logan are being displayed in Taylor Gallery until Nov 3.

Logan's exhibition includes sculptures done with oak, cedar, aluminum, brass, and galvanized steel. His paintings are done with enamel and mixed media paints.

In explanation of the idea he tried to express in his work Logan commented, "It depends on the piece. The galvanized series was just a matter of getting back to some very basic elements of form. I design not really dwelling with any type of social comment whatever; whereas, like Martha the old lady done in cedar, here she is, 70 years old, and pregnant.

He continued, "More than anything else it's coming on a particular element, a particular experience that I've had which you wouldn't necessarily be able to relate to." When asked if the A&T students were ready for his type of art, Logan replied, "I think that we, as Blacks are not ready yet for art. The time has come for all that-the time has passed. I think it's time for us to awaken ourselves and start acquiring cultural values as opposed to the strictly materialistic values."

He added, "We spend money for a car as opposed to spending money for art. So in terms of A&T students being ready, yes we students are ready and will profit from it.

Comments concerning the exhibition were optimistic. Keith Hughes, an A&T student, said, "I had to look at his pictures with different people and get their ideas along with mine. Certain pictures I liked, I would go back and look at them and after a while the meaning would sink in."

On Full Moons

All Aggies Turn Into Wolves

Juan Logan's works can be seen in Taylor until November. His exhibition includes works with oak, cedar, aluminum, brass, and galvanized steel. His paintings are done with enamel and mixed media paints. The exhibition is open to both girls and boys and focuses on the main function of the Leaders Club, gymnastics and voluntary services. Logan's work is optimistic in nature.
Chancellor’s Wife Takes Things
In Stride In Fulfilling Roles

By Ruth Allen

"I am very busy trying to meet the obligations of my role," stated a reserved Elizabeth Dowdy, Chancellor’s wife. "It is an unrelenting manner. Being the wife of the chancellor, a full-time school teacher, mother and grandmother is a big job for anyone, but the pretty wife of the chancellor takes it in stride and never seems hurried or rushed."

It is a busy, varied life but Mrs. Dowdy seems to enjoy it thoroughly. She said, "In all of my work, from my days in college for my husband’s campus affairs and also a good listener for students who decide to come by the Oaks with their problems."

"I am very interested in all the students, but time is a factor in any job. I have been here longer than most of them. She was able to really get involved with the women’s activities and participate in their program for her and it has become an annual event. Mrs. Dowdy stated that she was very impressed with the students’ creativity and talent this year. She added that "I really enjoyed working with the girls".

Mrs. Dowdy has been involved with life at A&T since 1951 when her husband came here as director of student teaching. During this period, her husband has seen many students come and go. The changes in the students over the years have been fascinating. Dowdy said she can detect a difference between the students of today and those of just 10 years ago. "Now the students have different emphasis. They seem more inclined toward controlling the band, his nervousness before performing in front of half-time crowds, Hargroove said, "It comes to a point where you lose out the nervousness. You set yourself to that point where you say well its time for me to do my show, the audience has done theirs, now its my time. We’re in, this play, and I am the leading character. This is what I must set my mind to at all times." This is McCleave’s first full, as an assistant drum major. He was a drum major for two years at Dudley Senior High. He agrees that drum major is "a form of leadership." His duties includes assisting, and substituting for Hargrove.

When questioned about their Homecoming plans, McCleave laughed and said, "Well, Homecoming will be a surprise." Hargrove joined in the laughter and said, "a big surprise." He also designs some of his clothing and even has requests for his work from other students.

Another interesting personality is that of Lizzie Tyson, a psychology major. She is a member of the North Carolina State Warriors; and Robert Riddick, founder of a Bank in South Carolina. He is a member of the North Carolina State Warriors; and Robert Riddick, founder of a Bank in South Carolina.

Mrs. Dowdy met her husband when he was Lewis C. Dowdy, a former assistant to Judge Elreta Alexander, the first woman judge in the state; international opera singer, Margaret Turner, tenor; Seth McCoy; Dr. J. W. Hairston, former president of Allen University; and Earl McClenney, former president of Paul’s College, Walter “Cron” Riddick, founder of a Bank in Norfolk, Va.; and Richard Barber, president of a bank in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The University has produced hundreds of successful career officers, with several colleagues approaching eligibility to general rank. The past has been bright, but officials of the association predict an even brighter future.

Eugene H. Presten, the current president of the association, said, "The university has produced tremendously successful career officers, with several colleagues approaching eligibility to general rank. The past has been bright, but officials of the association predict an even brighter future."
"A Beautiful Experience"

By Janice Smith

"A very beautiful experience" is how Delores Mitchell describes her reign as Miss A&T. "I've had a lot of exposure, traveled and enjoyed it so much," she said with a flicker of excitement and continued, "I'm doubly happy, immensely happy that the student body elected me."

The role played by any Miss A&T is molded by the individual's commitment, belief and attitude. In elaborating on the role of Miss A&T, Delores said, "I think her ultimate goal should be that of a guiding light, especially to freshman students."

She added, "She should carry herself in such a way that others might say 'I would like to pattern my life after her' or that 'A&T has some of the best students you can find on any campus.'"

What characteristics should a Miss A&T possess? Delores sees cheerfulness, pleasantness and an outgoing personality as traits that the University's official queen should have. "She should be so she can sit down and have an intelligent conversation with any person. She should be a strong person, both mentally and emotionally. She has to be strong physically," Delores mildly asserted.

When asked what she considered disadvantages of being Miss A&T, Delores said, "People want you to look 'decked out' 'clean' all of the time. 'I like to dress casually; when there is a time to dress up, then I will do it.'"

She later added, "Since I've been elected, I've found that I'm not Delores Mitchell, I'm Miss A&T and have an image to keep up; I discovered this early."

On the question of women's liberation, Delores commented, that she did not see Black women as having a great part in the movement. "I'm for liberation of the entire Black race and all the other oppressed peoples of the world," she said.

Delores explained her decision for an African style Coronation by saying, "We are an African people and I knew if I could find someone to do it as I wanted, it would be beautiful, simple and inexpensive."

A senior English education major, Delores said she hopes to pursue a graduate degree in journalism or communications at American University in Washington, D.C.

She is a native of Enfield, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Mitchell, and has four sisters and one brother. In her leisure time, which is scarce since she is a member of numerous organizations on campus, Delores enjoys bike-riding, swimming, singing, and dancing.

The word Banimi, as used in the Coronation ceremony, Delores explained, means a giving-away of the crown—a passing of power from one to another.

Her words, her opinions, her ideals provide glimpses of a Black queen, an Aggie queen—Delores Mitchell, Miss A&T 1973-74.

Delores Mitchell and...

why is it
when I try to think of rhymes and reasons to express your dark uniqueness
I only think of things that've been said too many times before.

or...

why is it
when I try to explain the words and communicate the feelings of our indebtedness to your protective strength which always sheltered us that I get lost while searching for those perfect sentences which could never quite convey that unique perfection of your darkness.

MARGARET WOODS
Miss Pan Hellenic Council

KATHY WARD
Miss Freshman

CLARICE RUSSELL
Miss Phi Epsilon

EULA CLANTON
Miss NCAS
BARBARA WATSON
Miss Gospel Choir

CAROLYN COUSIN
Miss ROTC

MARY COLLINS
Miss Gamma Sigma Sigma

PHYLLIS GLOVER
Miss Freshman Attendant

SHARON MATTISON
Miss Swing Phi Swing

VIVIAN ROSCOE
Miss FAAC

MARY McCALN
Miss Thinker

Homecoming
Due to unforeseen difficulties in the darkroom, all queens did not get their pictures in The A&T Register.
II
Strength endurance painful love
Black woman's love or Black man
Born of preservation
Survival of the race
Survival of the slave child
Among the hostile
The love that said she must hate
Scourge and punish
Depriev autonomy and manhood
For his life—mere life.
She chose the hard way
To save the race, to save the child
Not to kill the child or race.
Explose in rage, but love her.

III
sought after eternally
Nefertiti
Cleopatra
black women queens
all feasted off the lotus flower lost defamed defected
now returning to their land
in their accustomed style regal gentle majestic queens
all

ANN GOODMAN
Miss B O S S

VIVIAN WOODS
Miss Sophomore Attendant

LINDA COX
Miss Groove Phi Groove

DOTTIE BELL
Miss Soul Phi Sigma

CALLIE SHIPMAN
Miss Alpha Phi Alpha

BETTY MILLER
Miss Nu Gamma Alpha
Mary Barbee Selected
As Miss Alumni ’73

A personnel assistant in A&T's physical plant department has been selected as Miss Alumni Mary Q. Barbee, in recalling her reaction to being selected as alumni queen, said through a smile, "I was most of all surprised, because I didn't think I would win."

Mrs. Barbee, a 1969 biology education major, has been affiliated with the Greensboro Gate City Alumni Chapter for four years and was selected as Mrs. Gate City 1970-71. During the Homecoming week, Mrs. Barbee said her role as Miss Alumni is "almost like being a hostess." She said she is scheduled to attend all the alumni sponsored events which include the Mardi Gras. And, during the year as Miss Alumni, Mrs. Barbee said she will be attending regional and national alumni meetings.

A native of Rockingham, she is married to Joseph S. Barbee of Greensboro, and they have one daughter, Nancy. Mrs. Barbee lists sewing, reading and enjoying competitive sports as her hobbies. Her future plans encompass the pursuit of a graduate degree in psychology and guidance.

Females Dominate Major Offices

Women's Liberation Has Hit A&T

By Blannie Bowen

The Women's Liberation Movement has moved on to the once all-male campus of A&T and has scored a stunning victory while planting its roots. Females have been elected by their fellow students to serve in 20 of the 24 top executive positions on campus, while the ratio of female students to that of males is only 51 per cent to 49 per cent.

Leading the list of executives is SGA President Marilyn Jones, who along with Clarice Russell and Delores Mitchell are serving in the capacities of SGA secretary, treasurer and Miss A&T, respectively. Lloyd Inman and Clarence Lloyd Inman, "have gotten slack on the executive committee. Inman is the SGA vice president and Jones, who was one of the males defeated by Marilyn for the presidency, serves as the Attorney General.

Greg Pridgen and Larry Penn are the only males elected to class officer positions as they lead the Class of '74 in the leadership of the SGA, Senior and Junior classes, but the women also wanted control over the Sophomore class too.

Another sweep occurred as the Sophomore Class is being led by Rosa Smith-president, Vivian Douglas-vice-president, Anita Manley-secretary, Veronica Woodard-treasurer, and Cynthia Woodard-vice-president. SG vice president Inman tries to give some explanation for the female take-over of A&T by stating: "Females have realized that they are more than sex symbols and incubators, and are truly capable of serving the student body."

"The males," continued Inman, "have gotten slack on the job and don't seem to care about things as much as they used to.

Vaults In Ward Hall Renovated

By Benjamin Forbes

The storage vaults in Ward Hall have now been renovated. J. Starns, assistant professor of Animal Science said that the installation in the vaults had deterred due to old age. He also indicated that the vaults could not maintain their normal freezing temperature because of the old installation.

Starolitz said that the new installation material had been installed during the summer while most of the students were away. He also said that the vaults were installed one at a time.

He said that there was no need for new freezing vaults because there was no space available and that new vaults would be too expensive.

Women's Liberation Has Hit A&T
Ask about "Zac Man" the Super Hero fighting for dynamite Rags!

For The Homecoming Styles, Zacharia Has Them!

Next To Eckerds In The Northeast Shopping Center. 3 Blocks from The 'T'

Open 10-9:00
October 12, 1973 The A&T Register Page 15

Sewing Machines Whir In The Dormitories

By Bobbye Deck

A&T's Homecoming is just one day away and the stores are full of Aggies buying outfits. And the dorms are full of the noises of sewing machines making outfits for the party time weekend.

But what are the people buying and making as far as the fashion scene goes? One thing that is well known is the fact that pantsuits have become a classic meaning that they will never go out of style but pantsuits will not be the top fashion of Homecoming this year.

This year the head trend is coordinates meaning pants and short waisted jackets, pants and cardigan sweaters, and other matching separates. Scarfs will be worn around the neck, and homes of shiny material. The best colors for this Homecoming are maroon, green, white, and assorted plaids.

As for the styles of this year the look of the 1920's is most popular, styles like high waisted buggies, flared midi skirts, dark stockings, tams, felt hats, big beads, button ear-bobs and the page boy hair style. But whatever you wear, wear it proudly and to do this, wear what looks right on you. Don't spend too much on something that you will hardly wear. Be reasonable and stay within your budget. Try to be more original and not like "Bobbsey Twins", unless you intend to have a "his and hers" look with your mate.

Jobs Are Available For Blacks In Journalism

By Mary Cropps

Journalism today is an open field, especially for Blacks. According to Richard Moore, director of A&T Information Services, the reason why A&T is interested in enlarging its journalism program is that there are a number of opportunities available for Blacks.

He said jobs are available in news reporting for newspapers and television. Also jobs in public relations, teaching, and on magazine staffs need to be filled.

Moore went on to say that he receives a number of job offers for qualified people but such people are just not to be found at A&T. Moore expounded on the fact that careers in journalism pay more than $10,000 a year. Scholarships to graduate school for journalism students are excellent, he said. In addition to scholarships, summer internships on newspapers offer much experience and a chance to earn money. Moore said that an effort is being made to increase the journalism at A&T to 18 hours so that the course can be taken as a complete minor.

He indicated, however, that a major in journalism is not as important as experience.
Maryland’s Queen Attends Homecoming Festivities

Aggies will have the pleasure of seeing Miss Maryland-Eastern Shore during their Homecoming festivities. Carolyn A. Anderson, Miss Maryland-Eastern Shore, arrived here Thursday evening in time for the coronation of Delores Mitchell, Miss A&T.

Carolyn, who is 20, is a senior sociology major and history minor at Maryland. She is a member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. She is also on the dean’s list there and is a member of the marching band. She is 5’ 9'/2” tall. Her hobby is sewing. She is from Woodruff, S.C.

Students Relax And Read In Library Browsing Room

By Sylvia Talford

When you enter Bluford library and see students industriously reading or simply relaxing in a little cozy-looking room to your immediate right, you are looking into the Browsing Room.

A division of the circulation department, the Browsing Room, has been in operation from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday since the library itself opened.

Sabina Alexander, who has been employed in the Browsing Room for the past three years, stated that most students come to read the newspapers and magazines which arrive daily, although students may also check out fiction books, both paperback and hard back, and listen to records as well as check them out. Books are loaned on a two-week basis, and records, on a three-day basis.

Agronomy Club Plans For Las Vegas Trip

Members of the Agronomy Club are planning now to send representatives to the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy which will meet this year in Las Vegas, Nevada. The meeting will be in November.

The officers of the club for this year are James Raynor, president; John Dalton, vice-president; George Summers, treasurer, Roland Mitchell, secretary; Bobby McLean, reporter; and Lester Durham, sergeant-at-arms. Advisors to the club are Dr. Judah Roffin, professor of plant science, and Dr. Samuel Dunn, chairman of the Plant Science Department.

The purposes of the club include stimulating interest in agronomic work among students at the university; cooperation and mutual helpfulness among students in agronomy; providing an opportunity for a wider acquaintance with agronomic science; and correlating activities in agronomy with those in closely related fields of endeavor.

The membership in this club is open to undergraduate students in agronomy; providing an opportunity for a wider acquaintance with agronomic science; and correlating activities in agronomy with those in closely related fields of endeavor. The membership in this club is open to undergraduate students who are majoring in agronomic science or students in agronomically related fields who have shown keen interest in agronomic science.

With the assistance of faculty members, the members of the club plan to make it a functioning organization.

Why do some people think Bud is sort of special?

Go ahead and find out why!

(Brewing beer right does make a difference.)

When you say Budweiser, you’ve said it all!
Junior Frank Johnson from Greensboro, at 6'0" and 204, is one of the smallest linemen in the conference, but Coleman calls him one of the best. Then there is center Melvin Rose, 6'6", 250, a mighty plug in the middle who loves the game backwards and forwards.

On the right side of the line is Stanley Christian, 220, and David Brown, over 240. The left half and the right side feud constantly as to which opens the widest holes and sustains the blocks longer.

According to Coleman, the Aggie backs could have walked through the lines at Norfolk last week because they were so sharp in timing and execution.

And Danny is as versatile in sports as he is about his philosophy on life. He was the MEAC heavyweight wrestling champion two years back. He should have repeated last season but a broken arm halted him.

Not one to worry about recognition for his feats, Danny is more interested in his philosophy on life. He was the MEAC heavyweight wrestling champion two years back. He should have repeated last season but a broken arm halted him. According to Coleman, the Aggie backs could have walked through the lines at Norfolk last week because they were so sharp in timing and execution.

And Danny is as versatile in sports as he is about his philosophy on life. He was the MEAC heavyweight wrestling champion two years back. He should have repeated last season but a broken arm halted him. Not one to worry about recognition for his feats, Danny Steinley, 220, and David Brown, over 240. The left half and the right side feud constantly as to which opens the widest holes and sustains the blocks longer.

According to Coleman, the Aggie backs could have walked through the lines at Norfolk last week because they were so sharp in timing and execution.

And Danny is as versatile in sports as he is about his philosophy on life. He was the MEAC heavyweight wrestling champion two years back. He should have repeated last season but a broken arm halted him. Not one to worry about recognition for his feats, Danny Steinley, 220, and David Brown, over 240. The left half and the right side feud constantly as to which opens the widest holes and sustains the blocks longer.
Aggies Trample Spartans
In 26-12 Runaway Game

In Coach Hornsy Howell’s dual quarterbacking system of Len Reliford and Paul McKibbins, Reliford is supposed to be the rifle-armed passer while McKibbins does most of the scrambling and passing while on the go.

Against J.C. Smith last weekend, McKibbins fumbled the ball to Smith with less than two minutes remaining in the game and A&T behind by six points. The Aggies had a first and goal from the three when the fumble occurred and, naturally, McKibbins had a long week while waiting for the Norfolk State game.

To further complicate the situation, All Holland and George Ragsdale, A&T’s starting running backs, were nursing injuries.

McKibbins found himself playing before an unbeaten team on its home grounds and all he did was pass for 255 yards while leading A&T to a 26-12 win.

McKibbins teamed with another Atlanta product, safety Darrell Glover, to provide the Aggies with their third win against one loss and a tie.

Steve Graeff quarterbacked a successful Norfolk drive in the second period when he scrambled for a touchdown from 10 yards out with the extra point.

Dwight Nettles capped A&T drives later in the second period with field goals from 27 and 32 yards away. This scoring resulted in a 6-6 deadlock at halftime.

Going into the fourth quarter after a fruitless third period, Glover proved that he had gotten over his injuries and he was ready to play full-time. He intercepted a Graeff pass and raced 42 yards for an A&T touchdown and with the Nettles PAT, A&T led 13-6.

Cornell transfer Anthony Drakeford proved to the Norfolk fans why he had erased all of Ed Marin’s freshman records before leading to the Spartans.

With 9:55 remaining in the game, Drakeford rushed seven times for 60 yards. The stunned A&T defense now proved to Drakeford how tough Black College Football actually is when his running game was completely stifled from that point onward by the Aggie defense.

Steve Graeff took up the slack and scored from one yard away, thus narrowing the margin to 13-12. The Spartans wanted the win instead of the tie, but defensive end Ronald Tuck had other things in mind as the two-point conversion attempt was stopped on the one-yard line.

With the momentum swining (See McKibbins, Page 19)
SPORTS NOTEBOOK
By Blannie E. Bowen

With the Homecoming celebration already in full swing, everyone is anxiously awaiting the highlight of the week's activities.

Dr. Jesse Jackson gave the keynote address to the Aggie Family on Monday to start Homecoming week. Jackson is a former Aggie footballer and it is very important to see how well his advice will be accepted and put into practice by his Aggie brothers and sisters.

If the usual occurs around A&T, he will have just given the faculty, students and administration something to slap hands about and say "right-on" brother instead of right now brother.

A lovely Miss A&T was crowned at Coronation last night, but the promises that she made and what Jesse said will be forgotten once the announcer says on tomorrow, "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen, and welcome to A&T's Homecoming Game."

The Aggies will be coming back into the friendly confines of Memorial Stadium to entertain the Hawks of Maryland-Eastern Shore. A&T comes into this game with a 3-1-1 record with the latest victory having come at the expense of Norfolk State on Saturday.

With a 26-12 victory over previously unbeaten Norfolk, the Aggies just might have themselves together for the big, bad Hawks

A&T always has trouble with big, slow and clumsy teams such as Maryland. Maryland is noted for its big teams and last year A&T could attest to this fact. The Hawks won 23-14.

The series record between A&T and UMES finds the Aggies 0-0-1 over a 21-year period. All of the games have been close with the biggest score being 34-13 in 1954 with Maryland winning.

Maryland also won the lowest scoring game and that was 6-0 in 1955. The Hawks also won the first six games of the series before A&T started to play them on an equal basis.

The Aggies had a five-game winning streak snapped last year in Washington, D.C., captured everyone's heart with the grace and ease that she won the 800 meters with.

"Robin did not do anything but eat sweets and run great track the entire while she was in Europe," injected Bynum.

While relaxing behind his desk top, Bynum stated, "You see, I have to keep up with the latest methods and the best methods."

Kappas Ground Air Force
14-12 In Intramural Game

By Robert Brooks

Air Force opened the scoring of the third period with the "bomb" going 65 yards to Luther Jones from Monroe. But the Kappas fought back again -- with the aid of pass interference in the end zone. With the ball on the one, Mayo scored to knot the score again at 12 all this time.

The fourth quarter was a defensive battle fought at the line of scrimmage; plus major penalties killed several drives by each team also until the final seconds.

Air Force had the ball on their seven with three seconds remaining in the game with the score tied 12 all. Monroe dropped back into his end zone to throw the bomb again but he was smothered by Albert Atkins and Curtis Bell for a safety, as time expired giving the Kappas a 14-12 victory.

McKibbins Passes To Stanfield

For 27 Yards

(Continued From Page 18)

letters and pamphlets out on his desk top, Bynum stated, "You see, I have to keep up with the latest methods and the best methods."

New Home Of College Barber Shop And Red Hanger Formals

Located In The Cumberland Shopping Center
Between A&T and Glam-O-Rama
Laundromat

P.S. Our new location will be:
2005 E. Market St.
Corner of Gillespie and Market Streets

University Glam-O-Rama

We Have New Working Machines

I.D. Must Be Presented
Located In The Cumberland Shopping Center
Between A&T and Glam-O-Rama

Dry Cleaners
"He's a classy guy. Always went all-out." These are the words of one of the Dartmouth football coaching staff about Ted Moody, a former star linebacker. Ted graduated from Dartmouth College in '72 with a degree in Economics and a mission in mind... to be a pilot... A Naval Aviator.

Now Ted Moody is going all out again. This time in Pensacola, Florida as a Naval Aviation Officer Candidate. He is finding out what it takes to be a Naval Aviator. He's finding it takes a lot of classroom work and long hours studying. It takes a lot of work on PT fields and obstacle courses. It takes special training like the parachute slide and the land survival mission in which you must hunt your own food and erect your own shelter. It takes a lot of time in a cockpit and even some old fashioned close order drill. And it takes a lot more. But, most of all, it takes the right kind of man.

No, you don't have to play football to be a Naval Aviator, but you do have to have a college degree and a lot of drive. And, when the time comes for you to wear your "Navy Wings of Gold" you will know what it takes. It takes your best!

For more information on what it takes to become a Naval Aviation Officer Candidate call, toll free: 800-841-8000. (In Georgia, call 800-342-5855) or mail in the attached coupon. Be someone special!

FLY NAVY

CAPTAIN Robert W. Watkins
NAVY OPPORTUNITY INFORMATION CENTER
P.O. Box 2000
Pelham Manor, New York 10803

Please send information on Navy Programs for:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>High School Students</th>
<th>College Students</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>High School Graduates</td>
<td>College Graduates</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Name: ____________________________
Address: __________________________
City: __________ State: __________ Zip: ______
Telephone No.: __________ Age: ______