University Foundation Sponsors Black Tie Fund Raising Dinner

A historic black-tie dinner sponsored by the A&T Foundation Friday is expected to be a tribute to the University's supporters and a report on the $4.5 million fund-raising campaign. Dr. Alvin Blount, president of the foundation, said that the dinner included a significant tribute for the foundation, the most outstanding supporters of the University. Keynoting the dinner for 400 persons at the Hilton Inn will be Congressman Andrew Young of Georgia. Young first gained fame as the executive assistant for the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. during the civil rights movement of the 1960's.

For nearly 10 years, he was in constant organizing voter registration drives across the South. He also participated in the historic march with Dr. King in the drafting of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Marshall Colston, secretary of the foundation, said the dinner will also be given on the current fund-raising effort.

During the past five years, the alumni association has contributed more than $308,000 for scholarships and faculty development. The foundation has generated income from corporations and foundations of $549,471 during the past two years.

Special honors at the dinner will be members of the Chancellor's Council, outstanding financial supporters of the foundation.

Security Guards Placed Inside Cooper Hall

Presently there are security guards patrolling the halls of Cooper as a result of the shooting that took place near Cooper Hall last week. According to Dr. L. C. Dowdy, chancellor of the university, another reason for the security measure is that there have been some reports of "unofficial male guests" in the dormitory. There are plans to make Cooper Hall a male dormitory, according to Dr. Dowdy. Dowdy expressed his concern over the student reaction to the security and safety steps, published in the last edition of The Register, that are being implemented.

"We don't want to close the campus to everybody," said Dowdy. In commenting on the shock of unregistered cars on campus, he said, "The young man that was shot was from outside."

Dowdy said that feasibility study has to be done before plans for the new dormitory can be approved by the state legislature.

Dowdy said that he had not had that much reaction from parents about the shooting last week. He said that there have been some people from the community who have expressed their concern.

Thirteen Register Staffers Attend ACP Convention In Chicago

Thirteen members of The A&T Register staff endured the cold winds of Chicago to attend the Associated Collegiate Press Conference. The conference, held in the fall of each year, is attended by colleges and universities from all over the country that are members of the ACP. Outstanding national figures in the business and publications fields spoke to and confer with college staffs and advisers.

"Rap" sessions are led by professionals and student leaders where ideas concerning problems relating to college newspapers are exchanged. This year, two members of The A&T Register staff were leaders of top sessions. Blannie Bowen, sports editor, led a session on the problems of sportswriters on small college newspapers. Problems discussed in the session included coming out weekly, the writer's relationship with the coaches, being a female sports writer, and writing sports columns. Cassandra Wynn, managing editor of The Register, led a "rap" session on internships. She held a reporting internship last summer with The Twin-City Sentinel in Winston-Salem. Her session included a first-hand description of what it is like to be a reporting intern on a daily paper.

The other Register staff members who went to the conference included Michael Bracy, Robert Brooks, Patricia Everett, Mary Faison, Ted Manigo, Yvonne McDonald, Greg Phillips, Janice Smith, Rose Stevens, Marjorie Strong and Lance VanLindingham.

Other sessions in the conference included a three-day session on photographic journalism in which discussions were held on the nature of photojournalism in the '70's.

Another session in the conference included a discussion on problems minority papers encounter. This session was led by James Ballard, from Project Grapevine, the Black student newspaper on the campus of Michigan State at East Lansing, Michigan. In the session, he gave some insight into some of the financial problems Project Grapevine encountered in getting started. The paper went from a two-page leaflet to a paper that came out 13 times a semester averaging 40 pages each issue. "The paper will not be published this year."

Black Dentists Denied Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three black dentists Monday were refused a U.S. Supreme Court hearing for their claim that suspension of their licenses by the North Carolina Board of Dental Examiners was racially motivated.

The court declined without comment to hear an appeal brought by Drs. Reginald A. Hawkins, John P. Stimson and George T. Nash of a state court decision upholding the dental board.

The dispute stemmed from a clinic established by the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education in 1966 with federal funds to provide dental care for public schools.

Bills for service by the three dentists were rejected (See Dentists, Page 3)
Financial Assistance

With inflation taking its toll in the society in which we live, the cost of a college education is definitely not on the decrease. During the summer some of you probably worked two jobs because you were doubtful concerning the outlook for financial assistance for the upcoming fall.

Some students were apparently disappointed in their financial awards. During the early part of the semester director of student financial aid, Vance Gray, said no crisis existed in financial assistance and that this in part was caused by delays in the processing of applications.

Now that financial assistance is available, it seems that only a few have taken the time to apply for the Basic Education Opportunity Grant Programs.

This is sort of scary in a system geared toward capitalism-money and one wants it. 'Maybe money is losing its lure, but don't count on it.

According to the director of financial assistance after several announcements in the student newspaper, in the dormitories and on bulletin boards, there has not been a good response in applications for grant program.

Freshman students are urged to file at once at the Financial Aid Office in Brown Hall. The grant entitles one to as much as $452 toward expenses. Through your cooperative work in Brown Hall into a ground level the basement of the library. This department has been growing.

We, as the supporters of the Brown Hall into a ground level the basement of the library. This department has been growing. The request was for the Art Department to let him run. Rather than lose the meet by default, he agreed, to let Bill run. The runners are in their own time. The Gallery is. With one Gallery Room and the snack bar in the dining area, its importance to the student body, realized that we can stand even the odds are against us.

The Art Department

The Register's announcement of the use to which Brown Hall will be put when vacated by the food services was quite a blow to the student financial aid. Vance Gray, said no crisis existed in financial assistance and that this in part was caused by delays in the processing of applications.

Now that financial assistance is available, it seems that only a few have taken the time to apply for the Basic Education Opportunity Grant Programs.

This is sort of scary in a system geared toward capitalism-money and one wants it. 'Maybe money is losing its lure, but don't count on it.

According to the director of financial assistance after several announcements in the student newspaper, in the dormitories and on bulletin boards, there has not been a good response in applications for grant program.

Freshman students are urged to file at once at the Financial Aid Office in Brown Hall. The grant entitles one to as much as $452 toward expenses. Through your cooperative work in Brown Hall into a ground level the basement of the library. This department has been growing.

We, as the supporters of the Brown Hall into a ground level the basement of the library. This department has been growing. The request was for the Art Department to let him run. Rather than lose the meet by default, he agreed, to let Bill run. The runners are in their own time. The Gallery is. With one Gallery Room and the snack bar in the dining area, its importance to

The A&T Register

Published twice weekly during the school year by students of A&T State University.

To receive the Register please send $7.50 to The A&T Register, Box E-25, North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro, North Carolina 27411, to cover mailing and handling costs.

Class Attendance

By Rosie A. Stevens

In a statement, a few weeks ago, from the office of Academic Affairs, a positive correlation seemed to be present between class attendance and good grades.

Students who attend class often seem to be in less academic difficulty than those who do not attend class very often. This seems to be an accurate reflection of the situation for the most part.

Some students simply do not attend class, for various reasons, and these students miss a very important part of what is going on in class. Since, of course, tests are based on materials covered in class, it is very hard to do well if one does not get the materials. Other students may not be good for obtaining information because, by then, it is second hand information which is subject to change without notice. This is true when material covered in class is from a source other than the textbook. Mathematical formulas, which vary, and handout materials are examples of nontextual information used in courses.

At the same time, some classes simply do not require that a student be present every day to do well. If this were the case, a graded assignment would have to be due every class period, or the instructor would have to say something unique and different every class period, something which does not precisely duplicate what was said the day before or said in another class. Possibly, the problem in some cases is the overlapping of course content which might bore students who have had courses which contain the same material. Sometimes also, students manage to circumvent the system and to take courses before their prerequisite courses, permitting them to put forth very little effort outside of class or in class to pass the courses.

Also, some students are capable of functioning quite well without better in a structured classroom setting. This is true although we may say facetiously that sometimes the instructors don't know it. Some students have the discipline to check course outlines to determine how this fits in with other courses and to integrate course material so that a minimum of class attendance is required and a maximum of independent work is done. These students are rare, and the university curriculum is not geared to meet the needs of these students.

The A&T Register

TO MY FELLOW STUDENTS: WILL POWER AND DETERMINATION CAN BE THE ANSWER.

I am reminded of a story I heard about a young man named Bill. Bill could play football, baseball, or soccer because of an early accident in his childhood which disabled use of his arms.

Bill didn't come in first, as a matter of fact, he finished last. It took will-power, encouragement and determination to try an activity as track with his handicap.

All of the above are needed by A&T for success. And you can help. Determination, physical endurance, leadership and support are a few of the ingredients that make up a well-established football team. If one of these main ingredients is missing, deficiency in one or all of the others is caused.

In our recent encounter with Grambling, support from the Aggie team would have won if we had given them support, but defeat would have easier to accept. Because we are a part of an outstanding institution, we should stand up and be recognized as a family with qualities of greatness, even when the odds are against us.

We, as the supporters of the all MIGHTY Aggies team, should view our recent defeat as a stage of development which needs improvement, not a chance to denote our ties with the "P". In defeat we shall realize that true togetherness is needed more than anything else in order to maintain the status A&T already has. As defeat should also make us, the student body, realized that we can stand some improvement.

In the future remember this old saying. "The coward never started. The weak died on the line. We STRONG CAME THROUGH."

They need your support. Lift you on in spirit. The AGGIES must march on through defeats and victories. The most difficult part of getting to the top of the ladder is getting through the crowd at the bottom. Together we can build and become greater.

Let's keep up the faith.

Lloyd Ismail II

Vice-President of the SGA

Answer Seen In Will Power

The Art Department

The Register's announcement of the use to which Brown Hall will be put when vacated by the food services was quite a blow to the Art Department. Students and faculty. They had, hopefully, been waiting for an affirmative answer to a request sent in last spring.

The request was for developing the dining area of Brown Hall into a ground level art gallery with window sides partitioned off for classroom space.

For several years the Art Department has been growing and overflowing into the basements of other buildings in one case, sharing the space with a dismantled Atomic Reactor. The Gallery, a good one, is located in the basement of the library. This location makes it awkward for a representative number of students, faculty, and administrators to participate in the exhibits.

Much of the campus community is unaware of where the Gallery is. With one Gallery centrally located as Brown Hall and on street level as is the dining area, its importance to the entire University community would be felt.

It seems, with the new big dining hall, the Red Carpet dining area, when vacated, could be turned over to the Art Department for bringing a part of its program up to eye level, front and center. This side of our University program has long suffered.

The Art Department
Tigers Bomb Aggies; 'MEAC Is Not Ready'

By Blannie E. Bowen

"It was about 80 degrees when we got down there and it was hot. It got even hotter after we got on the field," remarked A&T Football Coach Howard Howell after viewing his Aggies get bombarded by the Grambling Tigers. In assessing what was not exactly a football game through the eyes of Grambling commentator Don Perkins, Perkins remarked, "A&T and the MEAC are just not ready for Grambling College and the SWAC after this 62-6 slaughter."

The Aggies found how true Perkins was when Grambling scored when Dwight Scales caught a 68-yard pass from Joe Comastri hit Sunny White from 33 yards; White ran 21 yards; Kalin Bush snipped six yards; and Rod Zenno added the fourth extra points, as the Aggies went down. The massive front four of Grambling, called the best in the country in college football by most experts, demolished the A&T run. The Tigers led 1-0 at the end of the half, but Kenneth Candler started things rolling again as he scored from five yards away on a run, with Zenno getting the P.A.T.

A&T handled Grambling six more points in the quarter when Sylvester Bates returned a blocked Al Holland punt 25 yards to conclude the awesome scoring which netted the Tigers a 41-0 half-time lead. White opened the third quarter scoring when he got his third TD of the day with a 25-yard run. James Hunter added further injury to the insulted Aggies when he returned a 44-yard punt for another touchdown.

Mike Carter snipped six yards to conclude the Grambling scoring. Paul McKibben scored the only A&T touchdown; and, for his work, the Grambling fans gave him a stock round of applause.

This was the worst shellacking that the Tigers have absorbed since 1967 when Florida A&M ripped A&T 63-6.

Wrestling Quadrangle Set For January

Two new events have been added to this year's A&T wrestling schedule. A quadrangular match with Boston University, Appalachian State University, Pennsylvania's Shipensburg College and A&T participating has been scheduled for January 9 at Boone.

The first Colonial Open, which is being sponsored by the U.S. Navy, will be conducted March 16 and 17 at Newport News, Virginia. This will be the first time that the A&T team has wrestled in programs of this caliber.

To get his Aggies ready for the upcoming season, Coach Melvin Pinckney has added a new wrinkle to his program. November 15, 19, and 20 are the dates for seminars against opposition from other colleges.

Catawba College will come to the Moore Gym balcony on Nov. 15, provided A&T's first competitive attempt that will not go on the Aggies' record.

Linfield College and Winston-Salem State University will also invade the balcony on Nov. 19 and 20 for back-to-back programs action for the Aggies. These matches will be wrestled from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and attendance is encouraged.

Black Students Discuss Exchange Of College News (Continued From Page 1) this year because of a lack of funds. Bullard talked about the advantages that Blacks have as far as obtaining ads for the paper. He said that there are certain things such as the types of food Blacks eat and the kind of clothes they wear that would give a black paper a monopoly in advertising. Students at the session also discussed the possibility of starting an exchange of news among black papers around the country.

Dentists Challenge Examiners Board

(Continued From Page 1) questioned and an investigation by a board committee ensued, according to papers filed in the case.

The white dentist was allowed to re-examine and correct his work, but that avenue was denied the three black dentists, they said in their appeal. One of the black dentists, Hawkins, had earlier brought successful desegregation suits against local government and the dental board.

After the dispute was settled, with an agreement not to charge for any work which the board challenged, the dental board began its own investigation. That process led to suspension for 12 months for Hawkins, 30 days for Stinson and 18 months for Nash. The suspensions have been held in abeyance pending appeals. The three dentists challenged board procedures "as racially motivated and discriminatory, biased and prejudicial and a denial of the process of law." In its response, the board acknowledged that race might have been a factor, but not in the way claimed.

By Blannie E. Bowen

Dwight Darden and Levern Gaddy captured first and second place, respectively, in the Second Annual Durham Open Karate Tournament Saturday on the Durham campus of North Carolina Central University.

Patricia Vaughan, the possession of a green belt, competed against the higher brown belt holding females; and she walked away with a fourth place finish.

In the Kata form that Patricia competed, there were three trophies presented in each division; but there were 25 competitors in each division which makes fourth place finish very respectable.

Gaddy and Patricia also competed in the Kumite form of karate but they did not fare as well in this form. Both were disqualified after several rounds. Darden sustained an injury and was unable to compete in the Kumite competition.

Gaddy and Darden had recently been promoted to the blue belt before they defeated the higher green belts who competed in the Kata form.

Darden gave an exhibition that night following his victory to show why and how he had attained his number-one placing in the tournament.

Two former A&T instructors, Wilford Bennett and Lawrence McSwain, captured third and fourth places in the black belt competition of the tournament.
TED MOODY IS LEARNING HOW TO FLY

"He's a classy guy. Always went all-out."

These are the words of one of the Dartmouth football coaching staff about Ted Moody, a former star linebacker. Ted graduated from Dartmouth College in '72 with a degree in Economics and a mission in mind... to be a pilot... A Naval Aviator.

Now Ted Moody is going all out again. This time in Pensacola, Florida as a Naval Aviation Officer Candidate. He is finding out what it takes to be a Naval Aviator. He's finding it takes a lot of classroom work and long hours studying. It takes a lot of work on PT fields and obstacle courses. It takes special training like the parachute slide and the land survival mission in which you must hunt your own food and erect your own shelter. It takes a lot of time in a cockpit and even some old fashioned close order drill. And it takes a lot more. But, most of all, it takes the right kind of man.

No, you don't have to play football to be a Naval Aviator, but you do have to have a college degree and a lot of drive. And, when the time comes for you to wear your "Navy Wings of Gold" you will know what it takes. It takes your best!

For more information on what it takes to become a Naval Aviation Officer Candidate call, toll free: 800-841-8000. (In Georgia, call 800-342-5855) or mail in the attached coupon. Be someone special.

FLY NAVY

CAPTAIN Robert W. Watkins
NAVY OPPORTUNITY INFORMATION CENTER
P.O. Box 2000
Pelham Manor, New York 10803

Please send information on Navy Programs for:
High School Students College Students
High School Grads College Grads

Name ____________________________
Address ____________________________
City __________________ State ______ Zip ______
Telephone No. ______________________ Age ______