University Tribunal Undergoes Change

By John Kerns

The University Tribunal is in a period of transition. With the resignation of the SGA attorney Clarence Jones and the representative of the Men's Council going to Africa under the AID (Agency for International Development) Program, there exist two vacancies on the Tribunal.

In an interview with Dr. Waverly Rice, head of the Tribunal, it was learned that no cases will be tried before the Tribunal until these vacancies are filled.

Dr. Rice stated that he was surprised that the attorney general would resign in the middle of the year. The remaining student member is the representative of the Women's Council, Agnes Evans.

The function of the attorney general is to prosecute cases brought before the University Tribunal. A common misconception held by many students is that attorney general serves as a defense attorney; this is not true, said Dr. Rice.

Students give us insight and allow for leeway in judging each case.

An example of this, "Students pushing drugs are dismissed and attempts are made to rehabilitate those using drugs. The direction we (the University Tribunal) are moving toward is counseling rather than discipline. There are approximately five counselors, he said.

Dr. Rice further stated, "I am not here to prosecute students. Students are allowed to have lawyers. Each case is judged on its own merits. Beginning last year, student representatives on the University Tribunal have done an excellent job."

AYANTEE Meets Deadlines, Yet Plagued By Problems

How much progress has the yearbook made thus far this year? In past years, the annual edition of THE AYANTEE has been late in getting back to the A & T student body. This has been due to tardiness of the yearbook staff in sending in materials to the ineptitude of the company in returning those materials sent in.

When queried as to the objectives set for the yearbook at this time, a spokesman said it is more than half-way completed, with expectations that it will be three-fourths completed at this time next week. It was also learned that the yearbook staff had set four deadlines, two of which have been met; one of which was met earlier, with the expectation of meeting the third deadline on time.

One problem which has been encountered is that the first supplies were lost in the mail. This loss caused the yearbook staff to be put a couple of days behind. In spite of this fact, the staff succeeded in meeting its first deadline, and was able to meet its second one early, said the spokesman.

Another problem has been that the photographers have not been able to meet the schedule set for the taking of pictures of various organizations. There are three photographers, one who covers primarily sports events, whereas the other two cover organizations.

Because of the illness of one photographer, some organizational pictures have not been taken and have been rescheduled. Another reason for this is the fact that some organizations have been late in (See Yearbook, Page 3)

Marilyn Marshall: 'I Made No Promises'

Letter To Editor Ignites String Of Rumors And Accusations

As the fall semester came to an end, the officers of the Student Government Association were in good standing with the students. A survey taken of over 200 students in November gave the SGA an overwhelming rating of "good" for the work it was doing.

The spring semester may not be as favorable. At the beginning of the spring semester, the students had some apathy in their feelings toward the workings of the SGA. One could say the students were tied down with registration, planning for graduation, and maybe just a loss of interest and respect for government since the implication of Watergate.

A letter to the editor from G. Jackson criticized Marilyn Marshall, president of the SGA, for her performance and her failure to live up to her campaign platform. The letter ignited a string of rumors, questions, accusations and the search for old school newspapers to find Marilyn's campaign platform. And A&T basketball games were the only subject that topped students' conversations over the letter.

In an exclusive interview with Marilyn, Floyd Weatherspoon of THE A&T REGISTER discussed questions from students, rumors and accusations, leaving it to the students to separate reality from myth and politics. This is the first interview since the letter was printed.

Weatherspoon: Why, as President, do you not have office hours?

Marilyn: I don't know a president that has office hours. As president, many times I am representing the students at meetings in Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Durham and other cities. I have meetings with the Administration and the Board of Governors on problems that face the student. The Executive Board knew this in advance and was able to help students with problems along with the vice-president.

If they can't help a student with a personal problem, I can be contacted at the dorm, High Rise. If I'm not there, the student can leave a message which will get a ready reply.

Weatherspoon: Would you say there is a conflict between you and Lloyd Inman, vice-president of the SGA?

Marilyn: When people are working together there are always some types of problems that arise. I would be lying to say that, in all questions, both Lloyd and I agree; but we have a mutual understanding. But, I can say we have never had any major conflict.

Weatherspoon: The Constitution calls for a general assembly at least once every two months. Is this true?

Marilyn: Yes, as stated earlier to the press, this was negligence on my part. We have plans for monthly meetings on Tuesday mornings for the spring semester.

Weatherspoon: Why hasn't the SGA sponsored more activities, such as dances and movies?

Marilyn: We are not trying to impress people by activities of this type. We have tried to stress more academics.

Weatherspoon: What is the situation surrounding Earth-Wind and Fire performing here at A&T?

Marilyn: It was announced that it was tentatively scheduled, that they would perform here Feb. 3. We were informed by officials in the gym that the gym would not be open for use for this type of event until after Mar. 2.

When we contacted Earth, Wind and Fire, they stated they would be on the coast during March and April and had dates open on Mar. 15 and Apr. 9. Of course, we will be on break Mar. 15. We are again trying to book them Apr. 9. I would like to say again this is tentative.

Weatherspoon: What's the cost of having a group of this caliber?

Marilyn: When they were in this area last year, the cost was in the area of $10,500.

They performed at Chapel Hill, but their SGA budget is around a half million dollars. Earth Wind and Fire quoted us a price of $6,500 for a three-hour show.

This group has not performed at many Black colleges because of a loss they incurred performing at another Black college. This may be a factor in getting the group to perform here, but we are still trying because many students are asking for them.

Weatherspoon: Have you tried to evade the newspaper?

Marilyn: I try to evade any type of press because what you say and what you read may come out differently. Personally, I think The Register has done a good job in relaying news from the SGA to the students.

Weatherspoon: Have you kept all your promises you made in your campaign speech?

Marilyn: I made no promises. If you remember, the opening of my speech stated, "I make no promises. These are ideas."

Weatherspoon: Two of your ideas were a pass and fail system and a meal booklet. What's the story on these?

Marilyn: We traveled and (See No Rebuttal, Page 3)

New Gymnasium Still In Planning Stages

By Mike Hailey

To be or not to be, that is the question. Many students are asking about the new proposed gymnasium. Some believe that since the cafeteria is coming at a slow rate, the new gym will also.

You may have noticed that construction is yet to begin, but Dr. Roy Moore, chairman of the Physical Education Department, stated that the new gym is "still in the planning stages." It takes money to do anything and the committee in charge of building the gym is working diligently to get the most out of the money being put into it, he said.

The new building is to be located east of Moore Gym. It will include six class rooms, lounges for students and faculty, an indoor area tennis court, and a handball court. It will also house all of the physical education and intramural personnel.

Another feature of the gym is the 7,000 spectators it is slated to hold. It is to include a shower component unit and will have enough lockers for students to each have one.

As a final note, eight, quick drying tennis courts are planned to be built by spring. They are to be located near the East Gym and are expected to be as good as any tennis facility in the Piedmont area. It will feature lights and bleachers.

The Unseen Majority Speaks

If the goal of our Student Union is "development of persons as well as intellects," then it is time that we take a very scrutinizing look to determine whether it is meeting its goals.

In a recent article, it was stated that 40 per cent of the student body makes use of the facilities in the Union, but the question remained unanswered as to whether this is constructive use.

According to the Union program director Jacqueline Farr, girls are afraid to make use of the facilities especially at night, and some students can not seem to relax within its enfolds.

It's not unreasonable why they should have these feelings about the Union. First of all, as someone mentioned, it is not conveniently located for students on the west of campus. And, more than that, the atmosphere is not very conducive for relaxing. Whether we admit it or not, the loud profane language is not appealing, and the persons lining the entrance make one feel like he is running the gauntlet.

Should not more than 40 per cent of the registered student body make use of Union facilities? If so, the reasons for lack of utility by approximately 60 per cent of the student body tells us that the reasons go much deeper—it tells us about the way the majority of the students feel about the prevailing mood associated with the building, and why students point fellow students out as majoring in "unionology."

Through its name, the far from illustrious image rides us piggy-back; for, we consider it to be the Student Union—the one building set aside for the personal recreation and enjoyment of, by the students of this University.

If it continues to get a "D" grade in our attitudinal evaluation, there's no doubt who must take the responsibility.

It is time to pick up the empty bottles of our nonchalance strewn in the parking lot, and to sweep out the trashy attitudes which make the Union a hang-out, rather than a center for the social development of the individual.

Female Chauvinist . . . !

Literature On Female Chauvinism?

By Rosie A. Stevens

What is a 'female chauvinist'? The term has been heard around campus quite frequently and seems to refer to some concept of meaning we have not quite figured out. We have asked several people to enlighten us on the term but with somewhat less than satisfying results.

As a final attempt to gain information, we consulted the dictionary, to pin down the word in hopes that its recent use on campus is not an indication of the length of the usage of the term. It has been heard here only recently, and we hoped that the term would be old enough to be found in the latest edition of a dictionary.

Our search proved to be fruitless. The words female and chauvinism were listed under separate entries. There was no entry found for female chauvinist. However, one discovery proved interesting in our checking of the meanings of words. That discovery was the use of male chauvinism as a clear example of chauvinism, defined as "unreasoning devotion to one's race, sex, etc. with contempt for other races, the opposite sex, etc." It was obviously a term which had been in use for sometime because it was in the dictionary.

We recognized the term as an example because it has been frequently used by some to refer to those males who exhibit this quality with respect to the male sex. It was wondered if some of those who were using the term "female chauvinist" were referring to this quality in females.

The possibility that this could be the case was instantly ruled out because of the literature on sexist chauvinism. There is absolutely no literature on female chauvinists or female chauvinism, even though some materials in the area of sexist chauvinism have been contributed by males. As a matter of fact, females have been accused at intervals of being the exact opposite of chauvinistic.

We must raise the question, at this point, of the existence of any person on this campus that could be female chauvinist. There may be cases of females who express the feeling that they could do quite well things that males have traditionally done. There are with few exceptions, females who have done this, but there are no 'female chauvinists'.

Scott Hall's Problems Exposed

Editor of The Register:

At this moment I am frustrated and disgusted about the lack of feeling that this institution shows towards the residents of Scott Hall.

How is it possible for 900-1000 students to use six washers and six dryers day in and day out without these machines ever needing repairs?

At this time, I am in the basement of Scott Hall trying to wash my clothes. The first problem which I have encountered today was the washer not completing its cycle; so, after giving this machine money for doing a job which it was made to do, I found myself wringing my clothes by hand.

In using another washer for a second load of clothes, I set the temperature dial for warm wash and cold rinse, only to find out that my clothes were being washed and rinsed in hot water.

While on the matter of Scott Hall, I would also like to know why, after the remodeling of the bathrooms, they (the bathrooms) remain in unhealthy conditions. The sinks in the bathrooms remain clogged up and also the drainage systems in the showers.

I know that all students in Scott do not have the best cleaning habits, but that isn't the main reason the bathrooms are unfit for anyone to use. Anytime a person can go into a bathroom for the purpose of taking a shower and feel as if he will be the victim of some type of social disease, I think it's time for a change.

In writing this letter, I hope that these problems can be solved or the people who have the power to change these conditions will have some feelings for their brothers in Scott Hall.

I must end this letter of hope now because I will attempt to dry my clothes. No telling what awaits me on this adventure.

This is hoping truth will inspire change.

Yearbooks Are Due The First Of May

appearing for their photographs. This has caused a delay in the photographers' moving on to other assignments.

THE AYANTEE, according to co-editor Paula Dickens, is due back at either the end of April or the first of May. It was emphasized that, in order to pick up yearbooks, the following procedures must be observed: Each student must present his or her exam permit from this semester and a valid A & T student identification card. Only one yearbook will be issued per student, and the yearbook office will observe special office hours at this time.

Paula further said, "After this time, the yearbook staff will not be responsible for books not issued during this fiscal year. These books will be disposed of as we see fit; they will be given out to various organizations that request them for useful purposes. Also, this year the alumni will be buying yearbooks at regular prices."

The size of the year book staff has proven to be a problem in that it is too large, Paula said. There are officially 35 to 40 persons on the staff; but of those, only 10 to 15 actually do any work. It was stated that those that do not and have not worked will be removed from the staff.

Two Budding Actors Selected For Professional Appearances

Two budding actors, both students at A & T, have been selected for their initial appearances in professional theatre.

They are James McMillan of Philadelphia, Pa., and Paula Richardson of Cleveland.

McMillan was notified this week that he has been accepted to appear with the North Carolina Reader's Theatre in readings throughout the state and Virginia.

Paula has joined the Theatre for Young People at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Both of the students are proteges of Dr. John Marshall Stevenson, director of the Paul Robeson Little Theatre.

McMillan, a junior professional theatre major, has appeared in a number of productions at A & T, including "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf," "Green Pastures," "Tiger, Tiger, Burning Bright," "Raisin in the Sun," "All the Girls Came Out to Play."

He has appeared in the Bennett College productions of "Barefoot in the Park," and "Who's Got His Own." McMillan will star in "The Blacks," scheduled to open on Feb. 20.

ROTC To Offer New Course

The Army ROTC program has been approved to offer flight training to persons interested in a possible career in Army aviation.

Initiation of the plan, available to qualified high school graduates and area college students, was announced by Col William B. Neal, professor of military science at the university.

Neal said students enrolling in the program will receive 72 hours of flight instruction, 35 hours of ground instruction and 37 hours of actual in-flight experience. He said that successful completion of the flight instruction program qualifies a student for a civilian pilot's license.

Neal said that after a student is commissioned and goes on active duty, he is then qualified

Aggies Will Try To Drop Hot Shooting UMES Hawks

A replay of the most dynamic game in Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference tournament history will be staged Saturday when the Aggies host the undefeated University of Maryland-Eastern Shore Hawks in the Greensboro Coliseum at 2 p.m.

As an added attraction, THE FIRST 100 KIDS WILL BE ADMITTED FREE with a paying adult.

The hot-shooting Hawks from Princess Anne have zipped through 16 games without a stiff challenge. They were picked at the top of nearly every small college poll in the country, including the NAIA.

The Aggies were ranked sixth nationally in Basketball Weekly's pre-season poll of Black colleges. After winning the MEAC tournament championship last season, A & T had the chore of replacing All-American guard William Harris; 6-0 ace James Outlaw came to the rescue this season and is currently ranked among the nation's top ten major college scorers with a 27-point average. A & T has a 9-4 record.

While the Aggies are swiftly making strides toward another championship, they must deal with Coach John Bates' revenge minded squad which was knocked out of the conference tourney crown by A & T.

The Hawks are led by 6-10 center Joe Pace, All-American guard Rubin Collins and sensational forward Talvin Skinner.

The Aggies will counter with electrifying Allen Spruill (the most shifty guard in the area since Earl Monroe), 6-10 center Sinclair Colbert, defensive standout Stanley Parham, 6-6 forward Willie Daniels (all-tournament in '73) and Outlaw, North Carolina's top scorer.

The winner will be in the driver's seat for the upcoming MEAC TOURNAMENT, February 28, March 1 and 2 in Baltimore, Md.

No Rebuttal Planned For Jackson's Letter

checked with many graduate schools on accepting grades from undergraduate schools that had pass and fail systems. Most said they would not and would require the student to have the grade turned into a letter grade.

On the subject of meal booklets, the University receives income from the ticket plan. Switching to a meal book would not be feasible. As you probably know, NCCU has switched from the meal book to the ticket plan.

Weatherspoon: What was your reaction to G. Jackson's letter?

Marilyn: I have planned no rebuttal. One can tell it was from a narrow-minded male's opinion of females and a personal attack on me. I was disappointed that he gave only a few positive words on the secretary and treasurer who are females and who are doing an excellent job in keeping an account of our spending.

Weatherspoon: Why hasn't the spending of the SGA been printed?

Marilyn: We have not received the billing from December, but the amount of our entire spending will be published.

Weatherspoon: What was the reaction from students and the administration concerning the letter?

Marilyn: I received re-inforcement from many students. The high level of mentality of students could see through the letter. One administrator stated that the progress of the SGA has been the best he's seen in the last five years that he has been here. Others stated that it was a political thing because we are nearing an election. But, one thing I have learned since being in office—a person can not be sensitive in politics.

Aggies Lose To Rams 59-55

By Blannie Bowen

Playing Coach Big House Gaines' Rams in Winston-Salem is the same as playing A&T in Moore Gym. A victory on either of these courts is a rarity for opposing teams.

Coach Warren Reynolds has played Coach Gaines twice in Winston-Salem while the two have faced each other twice in Greensboro. Neither has won on the foreign court.

Winston-Salem kept the record intact Friday night by up-ending the A&T team 59-55 before a loud and partially divided audience.

The Aggies had defeated Winston-Salem twice, earlier in the season, once in Greensboro, of course, and the other A&T win had come on a neutral court in Charlotte during the Tip-Off Tournament in December.

The team scoring the most points is declared the winner in most sports, and usually the team having the fewest problems scoring will win. This is where percentages play the most crucial role.

Winston-Salem shot a cool 38 per cent for the evening, while A&T shot an even worse figure at only 28.7 per cent from the floor. Both teams were even colder in the first half as the Rams hit on 35 per cent as compared to A&T's 23 per cent.

Harold "Funny" Kitt was the only player who ignored the poor shooting to hit a superb nine of 15 from the floor and four of seven from the charity stripe to lead the Ram scoring with 22 points.

Big Earl Williams fell into the same category as the rest of the shooters as he hit six of 22 from the floor for 12 points and 14 rebounds.

Joe Hooker gave A&T problems again with his outside shooting as he canned six of 15 from the field. From a 29-23 Ram lead at the intermission, Winston-Salem slowly put points on the board as A&T continued to miss shots.

With James Outlaw getting his usual 27 shots per game, it would seem as though A&T would not have had problems. But, "The Sheriff" hit only 10 bombs from the field and three of five free throws to lead the Aggies with 23 points.

Willie Daniels contributed three of 10 shots and four straight free throws for 10 points although he grabbed 14 rebounds. Bobby Goodwin hit four of 10 shots and one of four free throws to score nine points while collecting eight rebounds.

With Allen Spruill connecting on one of 11 attempts and Sinclair Colbert one of 12, A&T was cold, cold, cold.

Next A&T basketball action is tonight at the Coliseum when the Aggies entertain Elizabeth City at 8 p.m.

Bowling Match Ends In Tie Between A&T And UV-C

By Robert Brooks

Saturday afternoon bowling match between A&T's men kingpins and the University of Virginia of Charlottesville ended in a 45-all tie in the Memorial Union Bowling Lanes.

After the first of five games, the Aggies trailed the Cavaliers 10 to six but made up the difference and were tied at 16 all mainly due to Charles Primm's the newest member, 245 game in the second game.

Going into the fourth game, the Aggie broke back out front 27 to 21 after Chester Morrison rolled a 203 pin game and Primm followed his 245 with a 226.

In the fourth game, the Cavaliers regained the lead 33-31 on two 200 pin games. They were 225 pins by Mike Culbertson and a 221 pin game by Edward Rogers.

The Aggies lost the team and individual points in the fifth and final games because of a cold spell that produced some of our poorest bowling.

Because of this hot streak, Virginia led 45 to 35, only having to have the most total pins for the team to win the match. They failed, by 130 pins, 4543 pins to 4673. We denied them the match because of the excellent games by Clay Cowan and James Correll in the fifth matches. Cowan rolled a total of 245 pins while Correll was even hotter with a total of 248 pins.

Correll took all the individual honors for the match with the high average of 206.8 pins, high game with 248 pins and the high set for the five games with a sacking total 1,034 pins.

Their record now is four wins, two losses and the tie with the Cavaliers.

CAREERS AT THE NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

"The cipher disk, one of the world's oldest cryptographic devices, is a crude forerunner of the sophisticated communications security systems being developed and tested at NSA today."

Because of the nature and scope of the National Security Agency's mission, we can offer job challenge and career opportunities that are impossible to match.

At NSA, we are responsible for designing and developing secure invulnerable communications and EDP systems to transmit, receive and analyze much of our nation's most vital information. The advancing technologies applied in this work are such that they will frequently take you beyond the known and accepted boundaries of knowledge. Consequently, your imagination and resourcefulness are essential qualifications for success.

The Career Scene at NSA: Engineers will find work which is performed nowhere else . . . devices and systems are constantly being developed which are the most advanced in the Western World. As an Agency engineer, you will carry out research, design, development, testing and evaluation of sophisticated, large-scale cryptocommunication and EDP systems. You may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, and solid state devices using the latest equipment for advanced research within NSA's fully instrumented laboratories.

Mathematicians define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, and combinatorial analysis are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. Opportunities for contributions in computer sciences and theoretical research are also offered.

Computer Scientists participate in systems analysis and systems programming related to advanced scientific and operational applications. Software design and development is included, as well as support in hardware design, development and modification.

Starting salaries are based on education and experience, and increase as you assume additional responsibility. Further, you will enjoy the varied career benefits and other advantages of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.
