Spruill: 'No Comment'

Cager's Status Is Uncertain

By Robert Brooks

What is the status of Allen Spruill on the Aggie basketball team? This question is being asked all over campus by the Aggie student body. Rumors circulating around campus are "The coach asked him to turn in his uniform", "the coach put him off the team", and "he has quit the team."

In an effort to clear the air of the matter, both Coach Reynolds and Spruill were interviewed for their comments on the subject. Spruill replied, "No comment, it would only make matters worse than they are."

Coach Reynolds had plenty to say concerning the matter stemming from the Elizabeth City game. He had the following comments: "As of now, I have received no indication that he has quit the team. We did not feel it necessary to play him the second half because of the type of defense that was being employed by Coach Robert Vaughan. He is a great ball handler with penetration being his strongest point. We needed outside shooting from the floor. In the last two games, Elizabeth City and Winston-Salem, he was two for 14 from the field. Since he has had personal problems, they have affected his play. Even Raymond Perry is not playing well because of the problems he has been having."

He further stated, "I did not put him off the team; I only suspended him from the second half of the game because he was not paying attention to the diagrams I was explaining on the chalkboard."

Reynolds was asked whether or not the suspension is indefinite.

He replied, "No, it was only for that game; but, if he fails to come to practice this week, he will be disciplined for being disloyal to the team, disrespectful and for breach of

Desegregation Plan Is In Final Stages

By Cassandra Wynn

The plan for desegregation of higher education in North Carolina is in its final stages. This was the word from Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy who is on the committee that is working to redraft the original plan that was rejected in November by HEW.

Although the plan has not been completed yet, Chancellor Dowdy was able to give some indication of what the plan might contain. "There is nothing about merger," he stated. Dowdy said that the new plan might provide for "more recruiting counselors."

He said that the purpose of the recruiting counselors would probably be to recruit more white students for Black campuses and more Black students for white campuses.

Dowdy said that it is possible that the redrafted plan might call for "an expanded cooperate arrangement which would call for a criss-cross of things." He explained that for A & T's situation the cooperate arrangement could mean that students here would have to take some of their courses at UNC-G.

He said that there is indication that the redrafted plan stipulates that A & T would have to think of "new programs" where part of the curriculum would be at A & T and the other part at UNC-G. Some of these programs would be at the master's level, he stated.

As for the integration of the faculty, Dowdy stated, "We are in pretty good shape."

Food Services' Director Says Editorial Cartoon Was Unfair

By Janice E. Smith

"They don't have to eat fish," said the director of Food Services in response to an editorial cartoon (which he termed as unfair) appearing in the January 25 edition of THE

A&T REGISTER.

Lawrence C. Munson said that fish had been on the menu daily because there were some students on campus who did not eat pork or meats for religious reasons.

"Am I not responsible to serve them something too?" he asked. And, he added that, although fish was on the menu, the students had a three-way choice of other main dishes.

He proposed that some of the criticisms of food services in Murphy Hall is a result of a "name" or stigma that the dining hall bears.

"Kids are psyched out before they come in," he said, and (See Food, Page 3)

Survey Tries To Reveal Range Of Drug Abuse

By Michael Bray

Editor's note: The following article is the first of a three-part series on drug abuse.

Smoking, popping, shooting and tripping have become some new 'words' to A&T's campus in the past five years, according to a spot survey study and according to administrators.

"This campus has become more drug oriented," stated one administrator who asked that his name be withheld.

But drug abuse has increased nationwide as revealed in recent studies. What we need to know now is just how great is the problem.

This question was put to Lt. Col. William Goode, dean of students for housing. He stated, "We know that, for a fact, marijuana is on the increase. I have had reports that students walk across campus smoking marijuana."

"It would seem," he went on to say, "that, if marijuana is on the increase, then so is the 'hard stuff-herion.'"

He also said there were often people who were better capable of seeing the users and the passers than he was. "No longer is the Union the center of exchange," stated one student; "it's now the dormitories."

It is clear now that we do have a drug problem on this campus. Next week we will attempt to see why and, hopefully, what can be done.

It's Been 14 Years Since The Sit-Ins

Today commemorates exactly 14 years since four freshman students at this institution began what is now known as the famous "Woolworth Sit-in" in downtown Greensboro.

Ezell Blair, Franklin McCain, David Richmond, and Joseph McNeil started that Monday afternoon, Feb. 1, 1960, what they termed a "passive demand for service" at the lunch counter of a downtown five and dime store.

They entered the store at approximately 4:30 p.m., purchased small articles from a counter near the lunch bar, and took seats at the lunch counter.

The following is an excerpt of the dialogue of the initial conversation between Blair and the waitress behind the lunch counter as reported in the

Feb. 5, 1960 edition of THE A&T REGISTER.

Blair: I'd like a cup of coffee, please.

Waitress: I'm sorry. We don't serve colored here.

Blair: I beg to disagree with you. You just finished serving me at a counter only two feet from here.

Waitress: Negroes eat on the other end.

Blair: What do you mean? This is a public place, isn't it? If it isn't then why don't you sell membership cards? If you do that, then I'll understand that this is a private concern.

Waitress: Well, you won't get any service here.

For a Register reporter's description of service at the same lunch counter today, see related story on page two.

Security Officers Will Enforce Limited Access To Campus

New rules for campus security have been released by the A&T traffic committee and the security police. The following rules have been effective since January 30:

1) All unregistered cars on the campus will be stopped, and the drivers required to show identification.

2) Periodic checks for identification cards will be made of persons using the Memorial Student Union.

3) Regulations regarding the banning of guns and other weapons on campus will be extended to also ban the bringing of such weapons on campus by the off-campus students. All out efforts will be made to enforce gun control measures.

4) Beginning immediately and extending until further notice, the campus security officers have been instructed to institute and enforce limited access to the campus beginning at midnight each night.

5) Additional lighting will be installed immediately where needed on campus.

6) The Memorial Union parking lot will be designated exclusively as a parking lot for registered A&T students and loitering regulations will be strictly enforced in regard to this parking lot. Officer Roosevelt Raines, head of the A&T security police stated that these rules were made to cut down on the drug traffic.

Cooper Residents To Know Meaning Of Locked Doors

By Brenda Cannady

Residents of Cooper Hall will soon know the meaning of locked doors. For three years, co-eds in Cooper Hall have lived with side-doors that were easily accessible to unauthorized visitors.

Now, new doors are being installed at each side entrance. Controversy over the new doors has already begun.

Mrs. Fannie Smith, dorm counselor at Cooper, said, "They're not what I expected.

All that I was told was that the building was going to be made more secure."

Co-eds in Cooper have differing opinions concerning the doors. Jacquilyn Dunn, a senior early childhood education major from Ayden, likes the idea of new doors. "It will make it harder for men to come on the halls," she said.

On the other hand, the majority of residents interviewed, disliked the new doors. Brenda Coley, a senior history major from Goldsboro, dislikes the doors and feels that "they are unnecessary."

Frances Burnette, a business education major from Graham, feels that putting up new doors is a "waste of money that should be put to use on things we need more."

This opinion was shared by a number of residents of the dorm. Among the listings of items that the students feel should come before new doors are new shades, a better paging system, improved plumbing, and more washers and dryers.

Blacks May See Irony Now In Eating At Woolworth's

By Sandra Midgett

Hot dogs roasting, the buttery smell of popcorn popping, a beefy burger on an open grill, the sweet aroma of a blend of pastry products- doughnuts, cakes, and cookies---all tantalizing invitations which induce one to stop, sit, and partake of the foods. This is the atmosphere which surrounds the Woolworth's luncheon counter.

Once the patron is seated, a waitress bearing a pleasant expression on her face, cleans the counter, if needed, and asks what you would like to eat. After receiving the order, she returns with a glass of ice cold water to quench your thirst while you await the preparation of your food.

All her actions are performed with a reasonable amount of haste and joviality. She neither shuns, scorns, nor sneers at anyone present; this could be her personality or maybe it could be fear of being reprimanded by her ever-present boss.

If one is Black, he looks at the situation ironically because was it just 14 years ago that these same people refused to serve four young Black students from A & T. Is this the self-same counter from which, only through sit-ins and marches, that Blacks were allowed to eat?

One may wonder if his waitress is the same one of those who witnessed the refusals to serve those other students in 1960. In the early 60's, the atmosphere then was one of great tension, strain, and a general period of revolution, whereby Blacks were no longer willing to be served through windows or back doors, or to eat their food standing up for which they paid the same amount as their white counterparts. They were really desiring and fighting for the right to eat as a human-sitting.

No Decision Made Yet On SGA Scholarship

By Debra Daniels

No decision has been made to determine what two students will qualify for the Student Government Association scholarship.

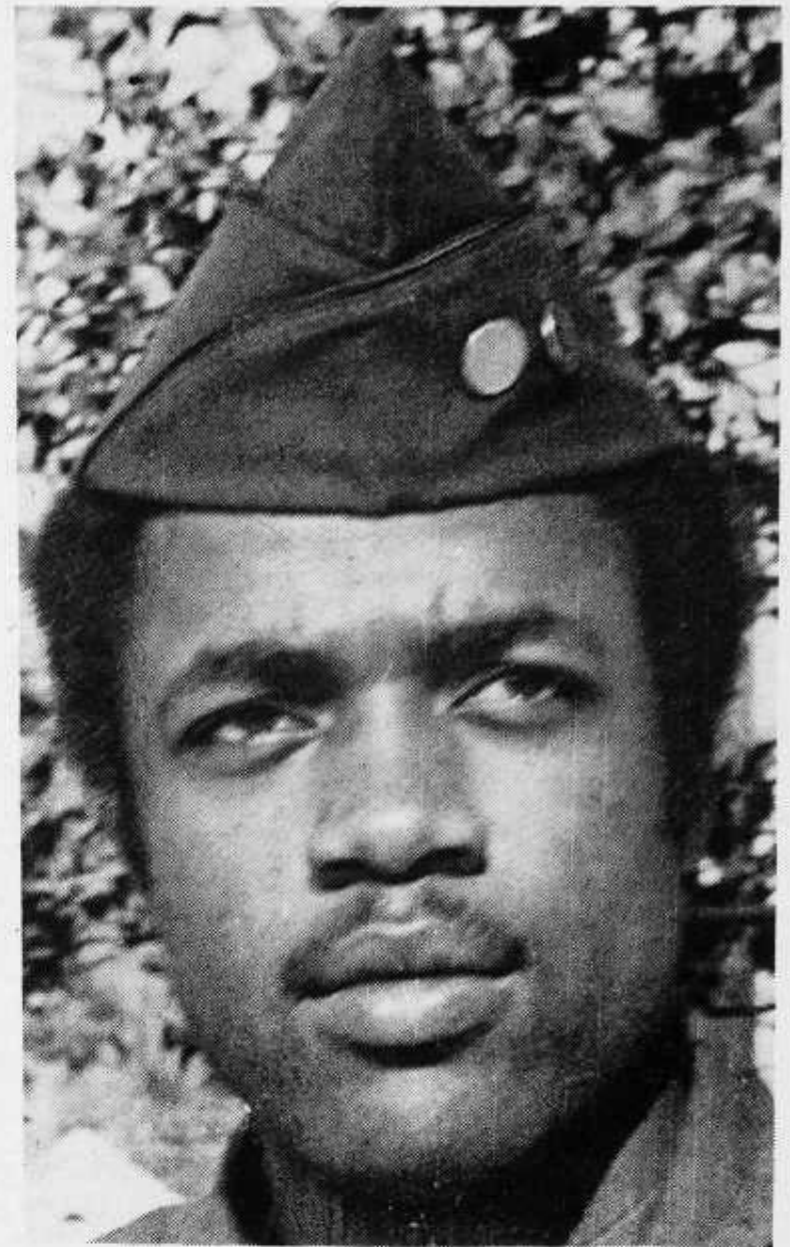

The granting of the scholarship is based on need and the executive officers are currently reviewing applications.

Marilyn Marshall, SGA head, explained that Sullivan Welborne, the SGA advisor, and the officers of the student government will get together to decide which out-of-state students and in-state students should be the recipients of the scholarship.

The main problem, Marilyn stated, is that the applicants have given appropriate reasons for needing the scholarship; and with the need of foreign students, making choice of two students even more difficult.

Marilyn also commented on how few students attended the sit-in SGA meeting which was held earlier this week. She said, if a student wants to be informed accurately and first-handedly on the matters discussed, he should take advantage of these occasions.

Cadet Lt. Thomas Brown of Winterville has become the first A&T student to enroll in the new Army ROTC flight training program. The program leads to a career in Army aviation.

FRED GUIDRY'S THREE SONS WILL EARN MORE IN 1973 THAN HE HAS EARNED FOR 200 YEARS.

It's not unusual to find three college graduates in the same American family. Unless it's a family from Opelousas, Louisiana, right in the center of rural black America.

Fred Guidry has been a sawmill worker since 1933, earning at most $2400 a year. He's locked in a 200 year-old cycle of poverty, ignorance and prejudice that seems almost unbreakable.

But his sons broke out. For openers, James, Fred and Larry graduated from Xavier University, New Orleans, in '68, '69 and '72.

After a year with IBM, James joined the Los Alamos Project, earned an M.S. in Computer Sciences and is now at Carnegie-Mellon studying Urban Affairs.

Fred researches solar physics at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

Larry will return to his Ph.D. studies in chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh after completing his hitch with Uncle Sam.

Fred Guidry's three sons have an earning potential he only dreamed of. But they might never have made it without the United Negro College Fund.

We support Xavier and 39 other private colleges that help 45,000 students break out of the rural backwaters and urban ghettos of this country and into 20th century America.

We know there's a place for them. We know we can help them find it. All we need is money. Yours.

A Mind is a Terrible Thing to Waste.

Ten Students Attend First SGA Meeting

By Rosie A. Stevens

Has there been an SGA meeting this semester? According to the President of the S.G.A., Marilyn Marshall, there was one at 9:00 Tuesday morning.

Marilyn also stated that she wondered why the press did not cover the meeting.

When asked how many people were there, she stated that about 10 people attended the meeting. In response to the comment about the lack of signs posted, she stated in a flustered manner, "It was in The Register."

The Register has done two articles related specifically to the S.G.A. President and in neither of them has any announcement appeared concerning a meeting of the student body. It was stated in the article of January 22 that "she is in the process of working out plans for student body meetings for the spring semester. Although dates have not been announced, Marilyn said that the SGA is working toward meetings on Tuesday to be held during the morning hours." This is a direct quote from the article headlined "Prexy Answers Complaints," January 22, 1974.

In the Weatherspoon article, "Marilyn Marshall: 'I Made No Promises," January 29, 1974, reference was made to plans for "monthly meetings on Tuesday mornings for the spring semester." This is also a direct quote from the president of the S.G.A. in that article. However there was no mention of a specific date in either article.

When asked why the meetings were scheduled at 9:00 Tuesday morning, she again referred to an article in The Register concerning the lightness of classes and the fact that labs are scheduled on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The article she referred to specifically stated that "she felt Tuesday would be a good day because classes are usually light...students do not usually want to leave the dormitories at night after classes are over to attend meetings. "Prexy Answers Complaints", January 22, 1974.

She further stated that the fact that we missed the first S. G. A. meeting was "an oversight on the part of The Register." She charges that there were misquotes in the article in The Register.

She said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the progress of the SGA, pass-fail system, birth control pills and housing for foreign students.

Food Services Does Its 'Darnedest To Get Students Served Swiftly' added that, "if food service served them steak or chicken," the same criticisms would persist because of the stigma carried over by students from year to year.

"We're doing our darnedest to get students served swiftly so they can get to class on time," Munson said.

Munson said the estimated cost to students per meal is 54 cents.

He put the bulk of the responsibility for the atmosphere surrounding dining on the students. "Kids have complained about trays on the table. Are we not mature men and women? Do we need someone to watch over us to see that trays are carried up?" he asked.

Munson said Food Services had been trying to raise the standards of service in both dining halls by replacing plastic tumblers with glass tumblers and plastic plates with coming ware.

"How can we raise the standards if kids take these things, flower vases, vinegar dispensers, and salt and pepper shakers to their rooms?" he questioned.

He said that he had already put 100 dozen blue and gold tumblers in Murphy and that Wednesday he was putting out another 100 dozen.

In the past he stated that Food Services had been used as "a scape goat." He explained this to mean, "If they (the students) are angry when they come in, it will affect their taste and food—if the day has been wonderful, it's a wonderful meal. But, if it has been a hard day and nothing has gone right, then they blame us," he said.

Munson emphasized that he and his staff were interested in students, and if they had complaints about the food, students should complain directly to the source.

On a nutritious note, Munson said, "If we eat more vegetables and fish, we will be more healthy."

'Doubting Thomases'

Despite the rosy picture painted by Richard Nixon in his State of the Union Address we remain "Doubting Thomases." Even with vows that there will be no recession in the United States, we must shake our heads as inflation continues to take its toll.

And, no matter what our political philosophy—working within the system, separatist, or politically indecisive—we are involved. Nixon urged the consumer to be patient so he was definitely talking to us. Blacks in this country are major consumers, and not producers as we work each week only to turn the money back into the system.

Thus, whether we care or not about what is taking place politically and economically, we are nonetheless affected by it.

When Nixon's economic advisers say a six per cent rise is expected in consumer prices, then the persons at the bottom of the economic pole who make the least will be affected the greatest.

One Democratic mayor is reported as stating that the State of the Union message "might just as well have been delivered by President Coolidge in terms of the amount of attention it paid to the plight of America's cities.

"Yet, on the other hand, Nixon has proposed a seven-billion dollar increase for defense spending to Congress Monday.

Although, urban social programs in the past have been attacked as bureaucratic, they have served the function of providing jobs for some Blacks. And, in the years since the Nixon Administration took office, "supposedly social reforms" which could be beneficial to Blacks have been abandoned or neglected.

So, it is no surprise that the President urges patience. It's ironical though how patience seems to be a term that plagues Black people in America because we have heard it for the past 350 years.

Bombarded by impending gas rationing, $1 per loaf bread, and run-away prices in other consumer items, even the most patient becomes impatient.

Pollution of the Mind and Body . . . ?

No Effective Communication

By Rosie A. Stevens

In two interviews done recently with the President of the SGA, she admitted that several things related to the conduct of the business of the SGA had not been done.

One of these points of negligence was the matter of meetings of the student body. She promised to rectify the situation in the future, and she has followed through on that promise. She must be congratulated for this, even though we disagree with the means of accomplishing that goal.

We definitely disagree on at least two points concerning those meetings. We learned that there was an SGA meeting Tuesday morning. We learned it after the meeting was held. In turn, we must question the announcement of the meetings. Marilyn Marshall has referred to the Register as the organ of notification of the meeting, occurring on Tuesday morning.

We have been unable to find any such statement to the effect that there would be a meeting on Tuesday morning at whatever time on whatever date. Some have mentioned that there were posted notices announcing the meeting in the dorms. We have not seen those either.

Then there is the question of the time itself, a more fundamental issue. The meeting was scheduled at 9:00 on a Tuesday morning. This is a time when many students have classes. Although Marilyn says that labs are scheduled for those days, it is not good for a student to miss a lab. It means that the person has to make up the lab, as opposed to obtaining notes for a particular class missed. It is not even desirable to schedule meetings during the day any way because of classes.

The whole issue revolves around communicating with the student body, which she states that she did do. However, only 10 people appeared at the meeting. Thus there was no effective communication between the SGA officers and the student body. This situation should be rectified so that, when the SGA functions, then the student body will know what goes on rather than leaving it to conjecture and rumor.

Black Women Must Not Quit

The sentence read simply, "Give up, woman; you have hurt the fight for Women's liberation; you lost!!!". Such was one of the summarizing statements made by G. Jackson in reference to Miss Marilyn Marshall, president of our SGA, implemented by Miss Marshall and her administration; thus, it is only the sentence which I have already quoted that I feel needs to be dealt with.

Not wishing to deal with the part about Women's Liberation, I feel that such a term they might choose to do, then it would spell the end for Black men as well.

Black women have constituted one of the, if not the, most important components of our survival in this country. For on numerous occasions she has taken it upon herself to serve as both father and mother to her children in an attempt to hold her family together after the Black man has yielded to the oppressive factors of this society and deserted the family.

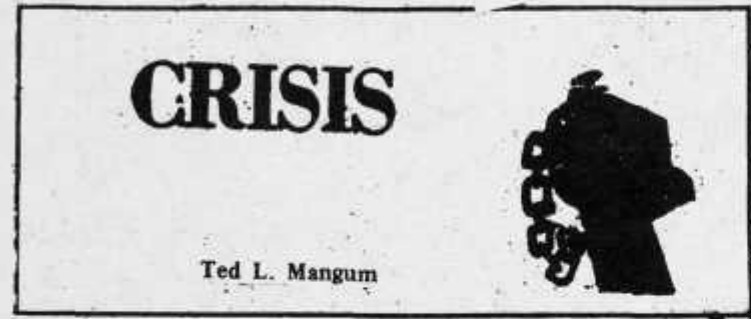

her Black man. And then the lesson concerning her value as a motivation and inspirational force for us will be the hardest one we'll ever have to learn.

White people can afford to argue over who can and can't do the job; we only have time to get behind the person who is doing the job. And, if the sex of that person isn't relevant to us, then the interest of our people, on a whole, isn't primary to us.

But, even beyond all this, I think that the best quote emphasizing the value of our women to the struggle that lies ahead is the quote from Dr. Kwame Nkrumah when he said, "The degree of a country's revolutionary awareness may be measured by the political maturity of its women." How can we ask or demand that our women "give up"?

She has given the best account of herself that history will ever record and the white man cannot subject his woman to the same type of historical analysis and find her to be anywhere nearly as strong as our Black women.

G. Jackson should pray that no Black woman ever sees fit to "give up" because, if she gives up on herself, then she'll give up on (like integration) is basically defined by white folks to reflect the interest of white folks; but it should be hard for any of us, especially Black men, at this late date, to conceive of another Black man's demanding that a Black woman should "give up".

It should be easy to recognize that, if Black women should ever decide to give up in whatever

Religion Is Neglected

Religious aspects of campus life have been shamefully neglected. Harrison Auditorium is filled to its maximum upon the presentation of any popular Black film; however, every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, over half of the seats in the auditorium are vacant.

Perhaps this is because the majority of the students on campus are recuperating from that "partying" good time they experienced the preceding Saturday night.

The attendance of Sunday School is even more disgusting. Normally every Sunday morning at 9:30 the regular small group of people is present.

In this world of increasing hatred and injustice, we need, now more than ever, to be well rounded spiritually as well as physically. We need to acknowledge God as our maker and serve Him accordingly.

We need to refrain from self-centeredness and take time to learn the meaning of unselfishness, love and temperance and then apply them to our daily lives.

Most people consider the material possessions in life more significant than God and His blessings which He has bestowed upon us. Is it not true that it is God who has made it possible that we obtain our possessions? Cannot God who has given us life as easily snatch it away?

Therefore, let Christ exemplify the way in which we should live. Let's start by opening the door of our hearts to Him so that He can immediately begin cleansing them. Also, important, learn of Him by attending church and Sunday School regularly.

The Lord is good and loves us all, as we are His children. See how greatly and miraculously we can benefit from our choice. Do it now. Tomorrow may be too late.

A&T Recruiters Tour The State

By Virginia W. Smith

Faculty members of the Admissions Office will visit high schools, junior and community colleges throughout the state over a three-week period beginning February 4.

W. H. Gamble, director of admissions, Benny Mayfield, assistant director of admissions, and Tylea Dalton, admissions counselor, will participate in the visits.

The purpose of the trips is to inform potential college students of A&T's academic programs. Special emphasis will be placed on visits to junior colleges due to increased number of transfer students from these schools.

"We have had a significant increase in our junior class as a result of transfers from junior colleges," Mayfield said. "Consequently, we do feel our efforts should be increased in this direction."

Gaston College, Montreat-Anderson College, Kittrell College and Lenoir Community College are among the 17 colleges scheduled to be visited during a three-week period.

In addition, tentative plans are under way to visit high schools, junior and community colleges in Dover, Delaware; Washington, D.C.; Norfolk, Hampton and Portsmouth, Va.; Charleston, Spartansburg, Columbia and Greenville, South Carolina and Miami, Florida, upon conclusion recruitment.

Consortium Demands Voice In New Desegregation

Twenty-three per cent of the faculty here is non-Black and of the 23 per cent 11 per cent are white.

A consortium has been formed among the alumni of the five Black institutions of higher education in North Carolina. The group has made a report to the Board of Governors and has demanded a voice in the making of the new plan, according to Dowdy.

Dowdy said that he felt that his purpose on the redrafting committee is "the protection of the Black institution and opportunity of Black students to get an education."

According to Dowdy, there are six Blacks on the 16 member committee that is redrafting the plan to be submitted after the approval the North Carolina Board of Governors, to HEW sometime in February.

Rumors Are A Lie

Editor of The Register:

At this moment, I am overly ashamed and disgusted about the rumors on this campus. It's awful to see some of the so called "adult" students on this campus believing in everything that they hear. It is about time some of these students use logical reasoning before jumping to a conclusion. Because some of the students are getting a belly full of nonsense, this may be one of their solutions as to why they can't eat the food in the cafeteria.

This is my third year here at

A & T. I have heard more rumors on this campus than any other school that I have attended. There is one rumor that I personally think that I should correct. It is rumored that I am a Black-Indian. This is a lie.

It hurts to see students make fools of themselves about something that isn't logical in some perspectives. Personally, this rumor doesn't bother me at all. Truthfully, it makes me laugh when I hear for example, "He" a Black-Indian."

I laugh at the people who believe this. My mother and father are Black, NOT INDIANS. If I am supposed to be an Indian, I would like for these rumors to tell me what kind of Indian that I am: East Indian, West Indian, American Indian, or what?

As Stokely Carmichael stated in his speech last fall semester, and I quote, "Do you know who and what you are?" I know who I AM and WHAT I am. I'm just another Black young man struggling in a white man's world.

I want to end my letter by saying and asking the brothers and sisters on this campus to be critical about what you hear. Be it your friends or not, be critical.

You have a brain and mind that God gave you to use for a purpose. Do some of your own thinking about situations in life. Dr. Martin Luther King had stated time and time again that WE, Black people, shall overcome some day. I hope we don't overcome ourselves with rumors.

Thank you for giving this time and using your time to read this letter

Peace,
David A. King

Julius Nyerere's Title Stated

Incorrectly

Editor's Note: In the January 25 edition of The Register, it was stated that Julius Nyerere was the head of Kenya.

We later discovered that we were in error.

Julius Nyerere is actually the President of Tanzania. The ruler of Kenya is Jomo Kenyatta who became the first prime minister of that nation.

We hasten to apologize for our carelessness and to correct our error.

Twenty-Two Females Presently Enrolled In Army ROTC Program

By Virginia Smith

The lure of travel, prestige, job security and an education has enticed 22 young females to enroll in the Army ROTC program to date. "They all appear to be taking the course in pursuit of a commission," said Major Robert L. Irving, recruiting and enrollment officer for the Army ROTC.

Along with 290 other schools, the program became active for women at A&T in Fall 1973 with 17 young women. This spring, five more joined the ranks. Prior to that time, women could enroll in the course, attain college credit, but could not receive a commission.

Now young women receive all the fringe benefits like their male counterparts. They receive $100.00 a month for 12 hours of classroom work and two hours college credit.

The curriculum for women is the same for men. They develop managerial skills, learn practical exercises and cultivate leadership in the individual. Major Irving said, "The only difference between the female and male curriculum is that the females do not have to participate in any classes, exercises or training that involves the use of weapons. They can if they want to, but it is mandatory for men."

While the men are involved in weapons sessions, the women discuss contemporary military problems relative to themselves, Women's Army Corps, Women's ROTC and benefits of the military service. "In other words, students teach students," said Major Irving.

On active duty, they can be assigned to the same jobs as men except infantry, armor and artillery. This also includes flying aircraft, and the female can attain her private pilots license through Army ROTC in her senior year of college.

Women can also get married, have children and claim their husbands and children as dependents and move them around the world from duty stations to duty station. The individual must get involved in this program prior to age 28. After this age, they can only take ROTC courses for college credit.

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Blannie E. Bowen

Beyond a doubt, James "the Sheriff" Outlaw is one of the best basketball players to ever wear an Aggie uniform. Being only 6-0, Outlaw has had to over-come many obstacles.

First of all, Outlaw was primarily a pure shooter while at Ballard-Hudson High School in Macon, Ga. As a hotshot prep all-American, the star guard had to learn to play defense and pass the ball off to Elmer Austin and June Harris instead of averaging 30 points per game.

In playing on the first MEAC championship team, Outlaw made all-MEAC as a sophomore. During his junior year, he gained the reputation of being a selfish player and having a poor attitude as a result of numerous technical fouls.

Even worse, Outlaw was booed and jeered by a capacity crowd in Moore Gym last season when he started in front of Allen Spruill against Howard University. Spruill had led A&T to an 88-85 win over Morgan State the previous evening.

Not possessing the flashy and crowd-electrifying moves of Spruill, Outlaw was competing against the "students' champion". All of this resulted in his not making all-MEAC again although he was more than deserving of the honor.

This season has been quite different for "the Sheriff" as he has been the leader for A&T thus far. With the offense centered around him, Outlaw has to take 25-30 shots per game for A&T to compete although the Aggies have several other good players.

Despite having to shoot from 15-25 feet, Outlaw has managed to connect on 43 per cent of his field goal attempts while averaging almost 27 points a game.

He does the small things such as causing turn-overs, and diving for loose balls so-well that they go unnoticed. Although he may not be A&T "students' champion", "the Sheriff" has been keeping law and order on the court this season.

ANOTHER PEOPLE'S CHAMPION returned to the throne Monday night in the boxing circles. Muhammad Ali returned to form to capture some lost pride Monday night by decisioning Joe Frazier in a 12-round bout.

Ali was stripped of his crown by the World Boxing Association for draft evasion and he has since been defeated by Ken Norton and Frazier. Ali has now decisioned the only two men who have defeated him.

The only thing separating Ali and another crown is George Foreman, who destroyed Frazier to win the title. Even while Frazier was the champ, people would still flock to see and hear Ali.

An Ali-Foreman bout will be in order should Foreman beat Norton. It will be interesting to see if Ali has the guts to call the younger, stronger Foreman "ignorant" the way he did Frazier.

While Frazier may not have been too-well liked by most Blacks, he gave Ali a good fight. But, as was the case in Senior Dorm, once Ali was named the winner over Frazier, the people again cheered their champion.

Unemotional Home Crowd Watches As ECSU Loses To Aggies 78-75

By Blannie E. Bowen

Elizabeth City and A&T played a basketball game Tuesday night that was marred with a record number of turn-overs and a small, almost non-emotional A&T audience.

With A&T winning 78-75, the partisan Aggie crowd did almost no cheering for the home-standing team until there were two minutes and 28 seconds left in the game. At this point of the contest, A&T led 78-71; but Elizabeth City's Glenn Windley hit four straight points that brought the Vikings to within three at 78-75 with 1:13 left in the contest.

During this final span, neither team could score because the one and-one shots would not fall. Elizabeth City missed two of the three attempted. The Vikings committed an unbelievable 38 turn-overs, with 25 coming in the first half. The Aggies posted 21 themselves, but the 59 total turn-overs set a new Greensboro

Coliseum record.

Guilford College and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte had held the turn-over record with 52. Despite making the 25 first-half turn-overs, Elizabeth City managed to keep the score tied at 41 all at intermission.

The Vikings even led 33-25 at one stage in the first stanza, but James Outlaw hit two straight shots to get A&T rolling. With Outlaw scoring 19 first half points, the Aggies battled back to knot the score at the half when Ron Johnson hit a jumpshot with six seconds left.

A&T came-out smoking in the second half and the Aggies enjoyed their biggest margin, 62-51, at the 13:11 mark. But with Windley waging one of the most fierce shoot-outs ever witnessed at the Coliseum, the two stars' teammates seemed to become complacent and would not execute properly when either team enjoyed a slim lead.

All-CIAA as a forward last year, Windley, a husky 6-6 star, pumped in 13 of 24 from the floor and seven straight free throws while catching 11 rebounds and scoring 33 points.

Outlaw, a 6-0 all-American as a junior last season, scored 33 points; also he connected for his points the hard way. The country's fifth best scorer connected on 16 of 33 attempts, mostly from long-range, while getting only one of three free throws.

A&T played its usual type of game at home because Coach Warren Reynolds believes that his Aggies play better on the road. Whether his philosophy is true or not, A&T is 5-0 at home this year.

But, A&T will have to improve in a hurry to compete with Delaware State and Maryland-Eastern Shore this week-end. State won by 22 points in Delaware earlier, while Maryland rolled over A&T by 18 points also.

'Leaping Lizard' Is A&T's Answer To N.C. State's Basketball Star

By Robert Brooks

Bobby Goodwin, the "Leaping Lizard," is A&T's answer to N.C. State's David Thompson.

A native of Columbia, S.C.,

Goodwin did not really get the chance to play high school basketball because of the zoning and ineligibility.

He started high school at Booker T. Washington; but, after being caught in the school's went back to Booker T. Washington. When he got back, he was told he was ineligible, so in his senior year he did not play at all.

Goodwin commented, "My senior year, I visited a lot of schools with Leon Benbow, our star, because we were tight since the sixth grade. Whenever he went somewhere, he always asked me to go along also. When he came to A&T to visit, I came and we played against the team. I impressed Coach Irvin with my play and he asked if I would like to come here.

I replied, "I'd think about it." I had offers from South Carolina State, Benedict, South Eastern Junior College, Augusta, Minnesota and about five junior colleges in California. I finally decided to come here two weeks before school opened because of the influence of the basketball and track coach at Booker T. Washington. I did not like it when I visited the campus, but they said life was good because they were in graduate school working for their master's degrees. Since it was the best offer and Leon went to Jacksonville, I came."

During the first two years, Bobby hardly played, but he did dress as a freshman and as a sophomore. Then the injured knee held him back his junior year, but now he is playing. He commented, "I think that I should have played more in my first three years here, but I guess that I had a lot to learn and that is what held me back.

"After not playing much I concentrated on my work and I need just nine hours to get my degree. I enjoy playing a lot now, but I do not have all the confidence needed of a player. I

Although it was predominately white, he played basketball for one semester before going back to the predominantly Black Booker T. Washington High School. At Columbia, he averaged 19.7 points a game and led the team in scoring, rebounds and in free throws.

Aggiettes Tramp On Ramettes 60-37

By Robert Brooks

The Aggiettes had four players in double figures Wednesday night to defeat the Ramettes of Winston-Salem, 60-37 in one of their most impressive showings.

After spotting the Ramettes the initial basket, A&T ran off 11 consecutive points in the first quarter toward a 17-7 lead.

Winston-Salem opened up its attack with long-range shooting from the guards to outscore the Aggiettes 13-12 and were down at half time 29-30. This was mainly due to the barrage of three consecutive 25 footers by Nancy Lee, who scored seven straight points for the Ramettes.

In the second half, Coach William Murphy employed a tight 2-3 zone defense that trapped the ball effectively and produced many turnovers. These turnovers cut down the outside shooting of Winston-Salem and limited it to only one shot. In the first half they were getting three to four shots at basket.

The second half of the game really belonged to the Aggiettes' Joyce Spruill and Eva Patterson. Those two connected for 23 of the 31 points scored by the Aggiettes. Eva was scoring on jumpers and Joyce was scoring on drives down the middle. This had the Ramettes running back and forth like a yo-yo, inside to the outside, trying to shut-off their scoring.

For the Aggiettes, Joyce had 15 points, Eva had 14, Sylvia Deloatch with 12, and Bonnie Crawford also had 12 points, which included a 35 footer at the buzzer in the third quarter.

For Winston-Salem, Nancy Lee had 13 points and Kathy Mason had six points.

Coach Murphy was quite pleased with the team's performance because seven of the eight players, dressed, scored at least one point. He stated, "This should boost team morale for the Federal City and Catawba games in the next two weeks."
