

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University
Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship

NCAT Student Newspapers

Digital Collections

2-12-1974

The Register, 1974-02-12

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister>

Recommended Citation

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, "The Register, 1974-02-12" (1974). NCAT Student Newspapers. 505.

<https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister/505>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Digital Collections at Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in NCAT Student Newspapers by an authorized administrator of Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. For more information, please contact iyanna@ncat.edu.

Board Of Governors Approves New Plan

The University of North Carolina Board of Governors approved a new desegregation plan for the 16-campus system Friday.

An earlier plan submitted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was rejected Nov. 13 as unacceptable.

According to university vice president for planning, John Sanders, Thursday night, not only did the board miss the deadline set by the federal government, but he said the new plan lacked the time needed to get the specific information requested on racial changes in student enrollment.

The recent draft is one of a series of outcomes of the original court ruling which cited North Carolina and nine other states in failing to provide adequate desegregation programs.

The original suit was filed by the NAACP to force desegregation and was handed down by the Federal District Court in the Pratt decision of November 1972.

An article in the Feb. 9 issue of the Greensboro DAILY NEWS quotes board member Julius Chambers, a Black lawyer from Charlotte, as saying he could not vote for the plan because it should do more than it proposed to do.

The plan does not contain any proposals for termination or transfer of academic programs among campuses as suggested by HEW, Sanders said. The only new specific action is the establishment of a $300,000 scholarship program to encourage desegregation.

In the Thursday briefing, Sanders said specific goals would be supplied to HEW by Mar. 15 after review and approval by the board.

Black Educators, Student Leaders Comment On Desegregation Details

By Cassandra Wynn

With the first part of the plan for desegregation of higher education in the hands of HEW, some leading Black educators and student leaders here have given comments about the details that have been released to this date.

Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy said that the plan now is so general that it is hard to say anything about it. He did say, however, that there is no indication that it will comply with the 30 per cent enrollment of white students at predominantly Black universities that was suggested by HEW.

Dowdy, who is on the committee to redraft the desegregation plan that was originally submitted to HEW and rejected last November, also said that he gets no indication that the plan calls for taking anything away from the Black university.

According to the Chancellor, the Black alumni consortium that was formed in order to have some input into the new plan that is being submitted to HEW is now drawing up a statement about the desegregation plan that has been submitted so far.

SGA President Marilyn Marshall had no comment about details released about the plan. She said that she has not met with any of the presidents from other campuses concerning the plan.

She did indicate that one reason she could not give any comment on the plan was that she did not have a copy of the plan.

Lloyd Inman, vice president of the SGA, stated, "Personally, I think, if there must be a percentage of whites on the Black campuses, then there should be a certain percentage of Blacks on white campuses."

He was referring to the specific recommendation by HEW that 30 per cent of the enrollment on Black campuses be white and the general recommendation that there be a significant increase of the number of Black students on white campuses.

Inman said, "There are some unique things A&T has that should help maintain its identity. He specifically referred to the agriculture, the engineering, and the biology departments. He said that the scholarship money that the plan calls for the state to set up will probably be to attract white students to these departments.

Nelson Johnson, national chairman of Save and Change the Black Schools Committee, stated that an "on-guard posture should be kept" by Blacks. An on-guard posture was explained by him to be not accepting what sounds good on the surface.

He said that the whole question revolves around the issue of whether Blacks will have less opportunity for higher education. In referring to the letter from HEW to the Board of Governors last fall, he said it has a lot of rhetoric about protection for Black institutions.

He warned that Blacks should beware because Black schools have been phased out on the secondary level and even in higher education, referring to such schools as Tennessee State.

The cracked plaster in the shower is only one of the many complaints of students and counselors in Scott Hall. (photo by Larfce)

Aftermath Of Renovation

Scott Counselors Cite What Remains To Be Done

By Patricia Everett

Before Scott Hall's $500,000 renovation, which divided the single huge men's dormitory into three distinct sections, this residence hall boasting could house 1,010 students.

Now, as an aftermath of this renovation, approximately 960 students can be housed; and rising out of this present number are complaints concerning the living conditions in Scott Hall.

Some students question the relevance of the construction of the three floors of new lobby instead of immediate reparings of internal sanitation problems.

A senior resident of Scott Hall, Floyd Weatherspoon, said, "The good things of the renovation are the new lounge, the new window screens and newly paved parking lot. The way the sections were divided at the beginning was uncomfortable, but it served the purpose of lowering the traffic in the different sections."

Chancellor Dowdy Comes Out Strong Against Second Morrill Act Repeal

By Rosie Stevens

Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy came out strong Saturday afternoon against any suggestion for repeal of the Second Morrill Act, which set up land grant colleges in the nineteenth century.

Dr. Dowdy proposed that the Universities serve as research agents for the government.

He expressed the need for research in areas such as agriculture, ecology, and nutrition. Stating that institutions such as Harvard and

"However the bathrooms remind me of something out of the eighteenth century which the other major liberal arts and professional schools did not fill the needs in these areas, he proposed that land grant colleges have a place in providing this kind of service.

He also expressed strong concern for the opportunity for Black students to have a chance at higher education.

"For a long time," he said, "Blacks had no place to go in cities like New York." The only place for Blacks to go was Columbia, in New York; and Blacks could not get into colleges like Columbia.

The reason, he said, was was placed in Scott Hall. I know the students have to take some responsibility to keep the few that admissions standards were too high.

He implied that efforts to close Blacks out by repealing the land grant act were "abstract, sophisticated segregation and evasion."

These remarks came after the speech delivered by Rep. Richardson Preyer here Saturday.

Dowdy stated that he had just returned from a meeting in Washington concerning higher education. He stated that he had "gotten wind" of the talk of repeal while there.

working commodes clean," he added.

When questioned concerning Scott Hall's living conditions, Lt. Col. William Goode, dean of men, said, "Sometimes I am a bit embarrassed by Scott's conditions because I am dean of men and students look up at me to help change things. However all I can do is report to the people upstairs."

"I used to take detailed inventories of Scott twice a year, but almost nothing was done. So, now I only take inventories once at the end of the year," he said. Lt. Col. Goode went on to comment on Scott Hall's renovation: "We knew we needed to divide Scott Hall. We felt refurbishing took precedence over remodeling. We would have rather taken the $500,000 and brought new bureaus, renovated the bathrooms-do Scott over

(See Scott, Page 6)

Know Your Meadow

The meadow was full of green grass, even during the winter, as snow covered the blades in a coat of white and the freezing rain caused them to bend under its icy weight.

Every sunny day, the farmer would put the livestock out into the pasture. And, as they nibbled talked, they would commend the farmer's benevolent nature.

Then one day, a mocking bird flew over the pasture jeering the horses and cows in the meadow "Guess what I heard, guess, guess?" he quipped.

"Oh, go away," they yelled at him. "We don't care what you've heard. We're busy. Go away!" they clamored.

"But it's important—listen to me," he shrieked. "I'm going to tell you anyway."

"We don't want to know. All we want to do is eat here in peace, learning all we can so we will be prepared when we go into the world beyond this valley," spoke up one bespectacled cow.

"Your green meadow will not always be here. The farmer is making plans to plow up part of the meadow and plant some corn there."

"Why should that matter to me? I have spent four years here, and am ready to go on to other things," said one young filly as she marched across the field.

"Well," stepped up one of the elders among the group, "don't let that little troublemaker worry you. See, he's already gone on his way to excite someone else. We eventually knew it was coming to this, especially with all the crises going around," he said.

"No, no don't interrupt me. As I was saying, yes the present cornfields are overcrowded and more room must be provided for the corn," the elder continued.

But before he could finish, a younger brusque voice piped up with "No corn is going to take the green grass from my little sisters and brothers."

"It's got to be like this, so we can live in harmony with the society," interjected a young calf.

This was just the beginning and the discussions continued in the meadow during the day and in the barn at night. Winter passed; spring slowly came; summer disappeared and they talked right on.

Johnny, Sue, Jim, Ray and Connie Horse disagreed with Coleman, Jane, Donald and Tom Cow. They did not see the farmer come during the spring, they did not know the corn for what it was until in the fall when its tassels were drying, and one of the young stallions who had hay fever started sneezing. Then they looked and saw they had lost part of their meadow without even knowing it.

Moral: Green meadows are going out of style

or

Know what is taking place in your own meadow.

All leading editorials are written by the editor of THE A&T REGISTER. Such editorials will not necessarily carry a byline and will not reflect the opinions of the University or the entire staff. Staff members are free to write dissenting opinions.

The A&T Register

Published twice weekly during the school year by students of A&T State University.

To receive the Register please send $7.50 to the A&T Register, Box E-25, North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro, North Carolina 27411, to cover mailing and handling costs.

Member: Associated Collegiate Press.

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY National Educational Advertising Services, Inc.
360 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017

Phyllis
Wheatley

BLACK HERITAGE WEEK FEB 10-16

Don't Unleash Yet

By Rosie A. Stevens

One important aspect of the energy crisis is not really being touched on. In the rush to provide fuel for industry, the implications of massive pollution have not been looked at hard enough.

It has been estimated by some that the energy crisis could last from 10-15 years. It has also been proposed by others that, in order to alleviate the energy shortage, high sulfur content oil be used rather than the low level oil.

The implications of this could be far reaching if the proposal were carried out. One of the results could be a very high incidence of respiratory and heart disease.

The burning of sulfur results in the production of sulfur dioxide, a gas which turns into sulfuric acid when exposed to water.

The acid has a very irritating effect on the lungs which in turn could cause other problems.

It is known that this gas tends to produce such problems around oil refineries and around plants which manufacture sulfuric acid, a much stronger acid which is also made from sulfates.

With the high concentration of automobiles in the inner cities, along with the use of high sulfur oil in industry, the residents of the inner city could increasingly become the victims of respiratory ailments.

These residents are trapped between the two zones, business and industry, and receive a heavy dose from both sides. Their plight could be complicated by those monsters known as temperature inversions.

Most of these people are Black.

This is a problem which requires more research of an interdisciplinary nature. It calls for medical, socio- and bio-ecological, and chemical research. Hopefully, this will be done before high sulfur fuel is unleashed upon us.

Campus Haps

ALSC Seeks To Link Struggle

Editor of The Register:

The A&T African Liberation Support Committee (ALSC), along with the Greensboro ALSC, would like to thank the A&T student body for its support.

In our recent petition drive to support the independence of Guinea-Bissau, well over 2,000 students' signatures were obtained. These signatures represent over half of the student body and they contributed greatly to the local success.

One of the major goals of the ALSC is to link up the Black Liberation struggle in the United States with the liberation struggle in Africa. This goal will be achieved through projects such as petition drives.

By circulating petitions, we can educate more and more Black people about the plight our brothers and sisters face in Southern Africa and in the Portuguese colonies.

Although the petition drive is over, this was only one very small step toward defeating imperialism and racism, the real enemies of Black people. Now is the time for more and more students to get involved with the on-going work of ALSC campus meetings. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 21, and the time and place will be announced.

Finally, ALSC would like to thank the Political Science Club and the Brothers of Soul Society (BOSS) for their organizational support. Also, we thank the A&T Register and its staff for the excellent coverage of the events we've sponsored this year.

Claude Barnes
ALSC Coordinator

Food Service May Offer Workshops

Last week I added a third entree, fish, to the hot steam table. Our intentions were to have fish available for those students who knew the value of it, those who preferred it to meat, those who were having stomach problems (nervousness, digestion, ulcers etc.), and who preferred it for religious reasons.

Fish was requested by several students and I agreed to have it available as an extra item on the steam table. Not only was fish requested, but so were macaroni and cheese, (which is an entree in itself) and potato salad. These items were also being requested and are being served daily.

Other items that are being served daily are gelatin salads, tossed vegetable salads and cottage cheese salads. The latter items have been served daily for the last four years and there hasn't been a single comment pro or con about them. Why can't fish be made available too?

It is a fact, we, as a people, have learned to look for the worse and bound to criticize destructively before the slightest thought of constructive criticism. We begin to lash out before we lend the slightest thought of finding the truth or asking the question "Why" before we begin to snare.

To be praised by the other people, we have to be super in our efforts; and, for Blacks to be praised by Blacks, we have to be super super in our efforts. We take everything that confronts us in an intercourse of a day for granted. There is nothing more detrimental to us as a people than ignorance.

The Food Service Department tries harder every day to render the best service possible to our students and guests. Our menu comprises the richest foods of all, even beyond the price that is being paid for it. Through the effort of positive management we have been able to maintain a low board rate to all persons whom we are serving on campus: faculty, staff, students and administration.

This is only possible because we, in the Food Service Department, work hard, know our job, are interested in you and care about our school. How much do you care about your school and your fellow colleagues and collegians?

Our menu was tested for its nutritional value by the Home Economic Department in 1970. It was found to be more than adequate in all nutrients, and had excellent variety of foods, color and texture.

We make available for our students and guest foods and service that can enrich them physically and educationally. What is available to you and what you take advantage of can mean the difference between a first or second rate job or it could mean the difference between the honor roll or a low grade. We offer you menus so well balanced that, when chosen correctly over a period of time, will build for you a specimen that is healthier both physically and mentally.

I would like to engage the Home Economics Department, the Psychology Department and the Chemistry Department to do an in-depth study of the eating habits of the students.

Eating is an ugly sight. Observe someone while he is eating. You will notice continuous movement of the lower jaw, open mouth, crouched over a plate that is encircled by arms and hands and wearing hats or caps.

Eating can also be refined and dignified. If left alone, we would grow up ignorant; but, to be dignified and refined, we must be carefully taught.

Table etiquette is learned by being taught. Good table etiquette is essential in all our endeavours, especially in an institution of higher learning such as ours.

Ask your professors about table manners and let him or her explain to you the necessity of them. Have you been taught to use your table appointments properly? What you know about table etiquette and what you practice could mean the difference in landing that position for which you will be interviewed.

Many interviews take place in the office and continue at the luncheon or dinner table. Your table etiquette and mannerism will be your selling point. Are you ready?

I am ready when you are, to begin dormitory workshops or seminars on table etiquette and mannerism, or even set up a special course. I am here to serve you.

Lawrence C. Munson, R.D.
Food Service Director

University Wide Honors Day Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Moore Gym. Dr. Renee Westcott, director of the Division of Social Services of the State Department of Human Resources, will be guest speaker. Classes will be suspended Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Rap Session, Thursday at 12 noon in Room 213 of the Student Union. Ms. Mae Douglas, director of the Commission for the Status of Women in Greensboro, will be the guest speaker. Sponsored by The Forensic Association.

Sociology Club Meeting, 6:30 Tuesday night in Room 212 Student Union.

The Office of Registration and Records has announced that Thursday, Feb. 28, is the last day to remove incompletes received during the fall semester, 1973.

The Home Economics Club will meet 7:30 p.m. in Room 207, Benbow Hall.

Neo-Black Society presents Talent Production featuring Bennett College Gospel Choir and the Neo-Black Gospel Choir Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in Cone Ballroom, UNC-G.

A&T vs. J. C. Smith Basketball game Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Greensboro Coliseum.

Women's Basketball, A&T vs Barber Scotia 7:30 p.m. at Concord.

Women's Basketball, A&T vs Bennett at 7 p.m. Thursday in Moore Gym.

Men's Council Dance, 9 p.m. Thursday in East Gym.

Happy Valentine's Day, Vernon
With love,
C.M.

Special Love To Jerry From Linda

I would like to Sinclair the Hay
at A&T could h

Zip,
love
and more
love.
Hilda

"Someday we'll be together," eternally.
Love,
Candy

"I'm very interested"
Happy Valentine's day
from J.P. to J.G.

Happy Valentine's Day and Anniversary.

Sorors of Delta Sigma Theta

S 3

this is the way Aggie

HAPPY VALENTINE DAY CUPID (BILL)
LOVE

PAULA

Marcia to Carlson

To Mayo from M.B.

To RONALD from D.W.
To Jamie with all my love, a love you thought you never had. L.S.

C.D.C., I love you now, and always, B.C.

Love to my sister, Lillie.
Pat

To: Michael
Happy Valentine's Day, Sweetheart.
From: Katuska

Clayton:
Love, Peace, Happiness
Delores

To Ronald
our sweetheart, we think you're wonderful.
Love from the sisters of Tau Phi Theta Sorority

All my love to Reggie Nita

Happy Valentine's Day, Baby, from Michael to Gardenia.

To: Steve
Valentine's Day was made especially for lovers like you.
From: Phyllis

To my only
Love!!!
Ant/Lo

Hoping things will improve from J.P. to J.G. HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!

Editorial Board
The A&T REGISTER

To the Man in my life,
Here's wishing you a
Happy Valentine's Day
today and forever
Vivian to Paul

Pumpkin,
if ever loved by a Leo
you have been loved totally your secret admirer

To: P.A.E.
Love and affection on Valentine's Day.
From: Jvl
To: Jvl
You as you are now.
patricia

To Mr. Special,
A very sweet person,
Show Girl

To: Greg
No greater love has any girl for a man than the love I have for you.
Love, Jay

A Moment of Truth

for the trials of life are
and the joys,
there is hatred in every
and love, some
I search and seek yet, I never s
That simple joy and the
that I want so

To: Delores,
From one of your special admirers
To: L.M.
With great love and admiration
we wish you a Happy Valentine's Day.
A&T REGISTER
typing pool.

Marjorie sends love to her one and only love, Michael,
on Valentine's Day
The sisters of Gamma Sigma Sigma send their love to their brothers, Alpha Phi Omegas.

Tony (T2)

Happy Valentine's Day to all faithful typists of THE A&T REGISTER.
P.S. Hope to see you each week until
May 5.

To A Que whom I admire,
A.J.

like to take this time to wish the Happiest Valentine a guy could have.

From someone who wishes we could get together
some way.

It's been a long time, and I've loved every day of it.

Love,
Faye

Yvonne to Reggie

CONSTANCE TO MYLES,
with much love

Strick sends love to Billy
happy valentine's day!
from Mary to Larry

Debbie to Bernie

ies say 'i luv u'

I thought of you today
Sweetpea Love, pudding

Artis:
Love Always and Yours
Susan

To Susan
With degrees of affection,
W.R.

LaSonia to Brodie

Virginia to Chester

Your Secret Admirer

Doctor D:
The thoughts of you are too deep to be expressed and too strong to be suppressed.

HAPPY Valentine's day
to a special one--TOTO-- who I would like to tell
in a special way
how much he means to me
on this special day.
Love,
Pumpkin

To Susan
From One of Your Special Admirers
L.T.C.

Ralph, May your memories of this day be as wonderful as the ones you've given me
Sheila

Curtis,
A Valentine
To Say
I LOVE you,
Jennifer

Beverly to Brian

is coming!

It is here...

Miss Gate City for 1973-74
wishes the A&T family
love

Happy Valentine's Day to the friends of your friendly delivery man
Romeo

Valentine's greetings,
To my family,
P.A.E.

Mary sends love to Jacky

Happy Valentine's Day
to M.S. from Howard
With Love Always

are plentiful oys, so few everyone somewhere
er seem to find
d the overpowering love
nt so dearly to be mine

-Phil

To Leon, Wait a few more days.
Velma

On Feb. 14, I don't want cards,
candy, or other materialistic things,
I only want to get next to Marshall,
and enjoy the rest of this semester,
From someone who has all interest in your heart.
F.B.B.

To my "J" men:
Until you love and be loved by a Leo,
you have never experienced love.
From: Phil

To John Eric,
my sweetheart of a brother,
Gwen

Sorors of Delta Sigma Theta,
Happy Valentine's Day.
Soror Erma

R.M. sends love to his secret admirer.

To C.C.:
All my love,
Judy T.

Happy Valentine's Day, John
To the guy that has made everyday a Valentine's Day to me.
Love, Doris

Ronnie,
love and happiness,
Yvonne

Don Juan and Rae:
It's been a long time coming.

REP. L. RICHARDSON PREYER (photo by Lance)

Preyer Sees Impeachment As The Most Important Issue

By Rosie A. Stevens

United States Congressman L. Richardson Preyer, sixth congressional district, spoke before an audience in Merrick auditorium Saturday afternoon.

Speaking on the affairs in Congress this session, Rep. Preyer said it was an "important year for Congress. It is a year in which Congress saves itself and proves itself."

He went on to say that the most important issue confronting Congress was the matter of impeachment. Expressing optimism about the fairness of the senate judiciary committee, Preyer said that the only major obstacle facing the committee would be a confrontation of the committee by President Nixon.

The only alternative, he said, would, of course, be the court in the event of confrontation.

"Failure to act" he said of the Congress, "could be disastrous. Watergate could serve as a license for future wrong doings of Congressmen."

He stated in the question-and-answer period which followed that "it is difficult for me to think of the tape erasure in any sense consistent with innocence."

Going further, Preyer discussed budget appropriations for the coming year. He stated that the proposed budget goes over $300 billion, calling it "the biggest spending budget Congress has even received."

The budget was set up so that recession from the energy crisis could be rapidly alleviated if such were the case, he pointed out.

In speaking of the energy crisis, he stated that the crisis was real. Explaining that energy consumption has increased, he pointed out that "we use far more energy than any country in the world. In 1960, we used more than could be produced."

He indicated later that the energy crisis could last for 10 to 15 years.

In discussing measures to deal with the crisis, he indicated that priorities were placed on vital services with education coming first, followed by health, agriculture, transportation and industry, respectively. Home heating, he said, and personal consumption of gasoline were low priorities.

The consumer would decide upon the use of allocated energy, he said. The government, he pointed out, did not feel competent to decide how the consumer would make use of gasoline and other energy commodities at this level.

He stated, however, that the oil companies have "behaved arrogantly in the situation," and that they have made more profits than they should although they stand to be hurt in the long run.

He stated that the oil companies would be more strictly regulated.

He said he felt, "We may learn to appreciate a leaner life-style."

Preyer also commented on the Budget Reform Bill, now past the house, which would eliminate executive impounding of funds.

He discussed the National Health Insurance proposal of the Nixon administration. He emphasized the advantages of a national health insurance plan for middle income families.

He also discussed education and civil rights, speaking of need to equalize educational opportunities where integration was not possible or practical in terms of implementation. He said he felt that social programs were an answer to the problem.

Bluford Library To Show

Free Movies

Bluford Library Auditorium will become a theatre beginning Thursday. Every Thursday from 2-5 p.m. in the Auditorium the film department of Bluford Library will show a free movie.

The university community will be able to view films which are available for their educational, recreational or political use. The program, which is under the supervision of Mrs. Kaye W. Ingram, will show films such as "Bill Cosby on Prejudice" and "Future Shock."

Other films that will be shown include "Hitch", "Harriet Tubman Underground Railroad", "Prejudice Film", "KKK: Invisible Empire", "Drugs", and "People Next Door."

Also included on the list of films are "Perfect Race", and "Black and White Uplight."

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

Two To Three Out Per Day

Scott Suffers From Absent Housekeepers

(Continued From Page 1)
well. But we were overruled by the Administration."

"The idea was to go ahead with the remodeling with the hope that we could get the other 'plus dollars', out of this legislature, to do the whole building, but this is something in the future; we don't know whether we'll get it or not."

"We ended up remodeling. We have a beautiful lounge; however, at the time it was finished, we didn't know where we would get the money to put the furniture in it," he said.

Continuing Goode said, "Finally with 'X' numbers of dollars—I'm not sure of the exact amount, we ordered furniture to include the two lounge areas of the old sections of B and C. We received a large number of items such as sofas, chairs, and tables for sections B, some of which we put in the C section. We still have quite a few more items to come."

In an interview with the director of Scott Hall, Dean Phillip Boone, and the dormitory counselors of A, B, and C, who are Odell Clanton, James Baten and George Bonner, Scott Hall's conditions and renovation were discussed.

Boone stated, "All we can do is request what is to be done; and when nothing is done, we follow up on it."

Boone said the conditions of Scott Hall were not to be blamed on any one group of people. However, he did mention students did not take enough responsibility on their own to help maintain better living standards.

The director cited incidents during which intercom speakers had been taken off the wall, of students sweeping trash into the hall or throwing their trash out of the windows. Commenting on the trash disposal, Boone said, "We are scheduled to have gotten trash chutes for B and C. At the moment, the only way to transport trash barrels from the second and third floor is to slide the barrels down the steps. As a result, most of the stairwells of B and C are worn. However, section A has an elevator to aid in its garbage transportation."

Scott Hall also suffers from absent housekeepers. The weekly average is 2 to 3 absent workers per day; therefore, substitute workers are called. Boone said he feels this inconsistency of workers' attendance causes housekeeping problems, such that it is only possible for the highlights of the dormitory to be cleaned, instead of the entire building.

Concerning the renovation, Boone stated, "The idea was to improve and to provide a larger area for the men to hold meetings. However, we asked to have repairs made and to build only one floor of lobby, or if necessary, abandon any additional building and go inside and renovate and possibly use the rest of the money for the other two floors. If we couldn't get the entire dormitory, we would have tried to have gotten one section."

Odell Clanton, dormitory counselor of section A, mentioned reporting problems concerning the bathrooms. "It was just reported; I didn't get any answer," he said.

Dormitory counselor of section B, James Baten, stated, "There is not any communication between Scott Hall and Buildings and Grounds.

That's why we can't get anything done."

George Bonner, dormitory counselor of section C, said, "My job is primarily trying to help the fellows and to keep them adjusted. Doing so, I check bathrooms, lightings, etc, then make and turn in the report. Sometimes I have to do follow-ups on previous reports."

Boone also complained about the type of room furniture selected for Scott Hall. "This year we received 50 new chest drawers; this is just drawers without a mirror. So, when they took the old chest drawers out, we lost the mirrors; and the tops are peeling off the newly received chests."

"Also we received about 90-100 new desks. The type of desk which was sent over here is the type used in kindergarten; I don't think they even use them in elementary school. Now this is what was purchased. We were told this was what was on the state contract, and this is all they could get," he said.

Recruiters Will Visit Campus For Annual Teachers Fair

Nearly 40 recruiters from school systems in North Carolina and nearby states will visit campus Thursday, to interview prospective teachers and other school personnel.

The 1974 Teachers Fair is coordinated by the Career Counseling and Placement Center for the School of Education, the Education Department and will be held in the Ballroom of the Memorial Union from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Every 1974 teacher graduate from the Education Department will have the opportunity to schedule interviews with 10 to 15 different school system representatives during the day, and each recruiter will discuss his offerings with 15 or more prospective teachers.

Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, Dr. J. E. Marshall; Dr. S. J. Shaw, dean, School of Education; and Dr. Dorothy Prince, chairman of the Education Department, will all participate in the Teacher Fair activities.

Dr. S. O. Jones, coordinator of student teaching, will preside over the program.

Have A Little Heart

On Valentine's Day

Morgan's 'Human Eraser' Rubs Out A&T's Efforts

By Blannie E. Bowen

Morgan State had not defeated A&T in two tries in Moore Gym, but that came to an abrupt end Saturday night when the Bears put on a show of power in defeating the Aggies 81-63 behind Marvin Webster's 19 rebounds and 17 points.

The homestanding Aggies played Morgan on an even basis for the first 25 minutes of the contest; but, at this point in the MEAC season, a game is won primarily for the sake of placings in the upcoming Tournament.

This victory gave the Bears an unblemished 8-0 conference record and, with only four more games left on its MEAC schedule, Morgan is in an excellent position to win a bye in the first round of the Tournament that is to be played in the Baltimore Civic Center.

A 38-32 Morgan advantage at intermission suddenly jumped to 44-34 with 17:23 left in the game. At this point in the game, A&T was forced to score every time down the court, but Webster had other things in mind.

The 6-11 giant then started to exert himself at both ends of the court. "The human eraser" personally destroyed A&T's offensive efforts with his shot-blocking, rebounding and intimidation of the entire Aggie squad that left A&T with a 31 per shooting night.

At one stage in the contest, A&T could only score when Webster was charged with questionable goal-tending violations. A&T's firing squad of James Outlaw and Allen Spruill was limited to 11 baskets in 41 attempts, and 18 and 13 points each.

Alvin O'Neal assisted Webster with seven rebounds and 20 big points, while Eric Posey came off the bench to add 14 points when Morgan's scoring got slack.

Willie Daniels drives toward goal.

(photo by Lance)

Aggie Cagers Kick Howard Bisons

Utilizing a strong controlled fastbreak, A&T was able to defeat Howard University 85-73 Friday night before a capacity crowd in Moore Gym. With James Outlaw scoring a game-high 37 points, the Aggies won their fifth MEAC game of the year.

A&T led for most of the contest and, even with the huge Aggie crowd behind it, the Aggies had more problems with Howard than the score indicates. For more than 10 minutes in the first half, neither club was able to gain a lead larger than three points.

Mid-way in the half, Bobby Goodwin came in and scored five consecutive baskets for the Aggies, but A&T led by only two at 22-20. Howard then spurred to a 27-22 advantage behind Archielles Carrol and Vadnay Cotton.

An A&T lead of 45-42 was possible as a result of rare play witnessed by an Aggie crowd. Allen Spruill stole a Bison pass and rifled it to Outlaw, who drove down court with Spruill on a two-on-one fastbreak. Instead of taking the shot as he normally does, Outlaw whipped the ball behind his back to Spruill for an easy lay-up with only seconds left in the half.

The play left the partisan crowd in ecstasy and amazement at what it had just seen. Outlaw had proven to some of his recent critics that he could pass as well as shoot.

The Macon, Ga., senior came back in the second stanza to pick-up where he left off. Outlaw came down the court four straight times and fired from downtown for eight points.

After Ron Johnson converted two baskets to up the Aggie margin to 66-64, "The Sheriff" fired three more times to send A&T to a 72-66 advantage with only 7:25 left in the game.

Elsworth Hart kept the Bison in the contest with his left-handed floating shots that netted him 20 points to lead the Howard scoring. Carrol chipped in with 15 points, while all-MEAC forward Robert Lewis added 14.

Following Outlaw in the A&T scoring was Goodwin with 18.

Wrestling Teams Tie In Moore Gym

By Blannie E. Bowen

A tie is a rarity in any sporting event except for football, but one of these rarities occurred Friday afternoon in Moore Gym when Howard University and A&T battled to a 21-21 tie in a wrestling match.

Howard was leading 21-9 with only the 190 and heavyweight classes to be wrestled. The ensuing tie resulted when Howard forfeited these classes to the Aggies, thus producing the tie since a forfeit carries the same six point value as a pin.

The Aggies jumped to a 6-0 lead after Reginald Hart and Charles Simmons won on decisions. Howard stormed back when Joe Windley and Darnell Glover were decided by the men from Washington, D. C.

Seeing his team tied at this point, Aggie Mel Fair tried to grasp a lead for his squad. But in the process, the star from High Point was saddled with his second loss of the year. Fair was pinned in only a minute and three seconds.

Sylvester Wilkins then proceeded to decision his man to cut the A&T deficit to three at 12-9. The Aggie case seemed hopelessly lost after Bernard Leak was pinned and Harvey Bush was decided, with Howard now leading 21-9. A dejected A&T Coach Mel Pinckney said emphatically after the match, "I consider this tie just as a loss."

Spruill tries for two against Morgan.

SPORTS

Follow The Aggiesmoke

To

The MEAC Tournament

At The

Baltimore Civic Center

Feb. 28

Mar. 2 and 3

