Vice-Prexy Says:

'No Knowledge Of SGA Award'

By Bennie L. Glover

At the beginning of this school year the Student Government Association made it known to the student body that part of their program for the 1973-74 school year would consist of an Outstanding Organization Award.

Since that time very little has been heard concerning this proposed award and several questions in reference to the award were recently answered by Lloyd Inman, vice-president of the SGA.

In a leaflet prepared by the SGA, it was stated that the purpose of the award was for "a closer relationship between the Black university and Black community. Because this is the feeling of the SGA, an award will be given by the SGA to that organization that has devoted the most time to the community and the school."

This same leaflet further explained that, "a huge chart listing the names of all organizations will hang in the Memorial Union and a star will be given for each hour of service to either the community or school. The Outstanding Organization Award will be administered on Awards Day which is usually held the second semester."

According to Inman, an entry in Campus Haps of the A&T Register on Jan. 25, 1974, gave a deadline for organizations to apply for the award by turning in data sheets of the organization's community and campus activities for the year.

The SGA vice-president also noted that he did not know who had this entry put into Campus Caps and that, to his knowledge, no correspondence has been received from Marilyn Marshall, SGA president, by the registered organization presidents on campus.

Inman did not know exactly if the award would be cash, a plaque or a trophy because the information had not yet been given to him. He did mention, however, that several organization presidents have asked him about the progress made in determining the recipient of the award, but since Marilyn has not recently discussed the award with him, he had very little information to give to them.

Also, the SGA vice-president did not know how the evaluation of the organizations was to take place for the award.

In response to a question concerning his lack of knowledge of an SGA program such as the Outstanding Organization Award, Inman stated it has been stipulated to him that his duties are to pass in student workers' time sheets and serve as speaker of the Legislature.

There are two statements that can be made at this time without error and they are (1) there is no chart hanging in the Student Union plotting the achievements of organizations and (2) there was no award given on Awards Day, February 13th, to the 'Outstanding organization on campus.

Improperly Addressed Mail Causes Delays

By Dexter O. Battle

If you have been receiving your mail maybe a day or two later than its scheduled date of arrival, or possibly even a week later, you've probably wondered what the problem is.

When questioned as to the sources of these problems, assistant campus postmaster, Hohnny White, said "Many times, some of the mail is improperly addressed." In this event, the campus post office must take the time to look up the names and addresses of students to receive the mail, which invariably creates a delay in mail delivery, White explained.

After looking for the proper addresses and not finding them, the mail is returned to its sender after 10 days White continued.

White also stated that there is (See Students, Page 4)

Holland Bowl Went Through Transition

By Sandra Midgett

Almost in the middle of our campus, a sunken area called Holland Bowl rests. Have you ever wondered while leisurely enjoying an activity given in the bowl how it originated or acquired its name? No, Holland Bowl isn't the official title of this plot of land? It is just a name given to it by some students of previous years.

Prior to 1938, plans were being laid to build a girls dorm on the north side of campus. However, before the plans could be made feasible, something had to be done about the ground upon which the building was to be built. The land was too moist and too much below sea level.

A drainage system was built to rid the soil of excessive water, and dirt from land located on the opposite side of the site was taken to elevate the site. In 1938, the building was completed and named Holland Hall after Annie W. Holland, the State Supervisor for Negro Elementary Schools.

At the time, this was the only building located in this vicinity. It remained isolated until the early 50's when Hines, a chemistry building, was built directly in front of Holland while Curtis, now a men's dormitory, was built adjacent to it. However, before these buildings could be completed, the land, too, had to be drained and elevated. The soil used in elevation was acquired from neighboring sources, Holland Bowl and its surrounding land.

After these buildings were built, plans were proposed to build a street. To do this, more land was needed to elevate the road site and a portion of the soil was obtained from Holland Bowl. Henceforth, with each building, land was gotten from our bowl leaving the scoop which is present today. Eventually the area was elevated 10 ft.

The Holland Bowl we view today as a main source of entertainment and meeting place with friends has gone through a considerable stage of transition, mossy swampland, to a soil refinery, and now, to its most modern role—a football and hockey field for intramural games.

Three In A Room

Girls Given Choice

By Carlese Blackwell

The problems of three occupants in a room, which existed in Morrison and Holland Hall, has been solved, according to Mrs. Lucille Piggott, dean of women.

Dean Piggott noted that, after the automatic cancellation date, girls living with two other roommates were given the opportunity to move into other dorms. Those who remained with three in the room, did so by choice.

Mrs. Mary Smith, counselor of Morrison Hall, stated that the reason that girls refused to move was that they had gotten acquainted with the other girls in the dorm; therefore, they were only interested in moving to another room within that dorm.

Dean Piggott's statement was supported with the following comments, from students with two roommates. Vickie Green commented that, at first she disagreed with the idea of two roommates, because of the size of the rooms. However, at this point, she says that she couldn't be more satisfied.

Donice Hendrix re-emphasized the statement by saying that, although her room is a little crowded, the fact of having two roommates has little effect on her. Nevertheless, she protested that the room is very hot at night and sleeping on top of a bunk bed only makes the situation worse.

Governor Appoints A&T Graduate To Board Of Human Resources

An A&T nursing graduate has been appointed by Governor Jim Holshouser to the Board of Human Resources. Mrs. Marjorie Land is a family nurse practitioner with the Orange-Chatham Comprehensive Health Services Chapel Hill Clinic and a member of the University of North Carolina School of Public Health faculty.

The Board of Human Resources was created by the 1973 General Assembly to "assist the secretary of human resources in the development of major programs and recommend major priorities for the programs within the department."

The Board is composed of 15 members. Seven are named by the statute and eight are appointed by the governor. Mrs. Land is the only member from the Chapel Hill area and the only nurse.

A native of Williamston, Mrs. Land completed the UNC School of Nursing Family Nursing Practitioner Program in Chapel

Hill in 1972.

In 1959, Mrs. Land who now lives in Chapel Hill joined the N.C. Memorial Hospital nursing staff. Six years later she was appointed supervisor of nursing and day care at the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center in Chapel Hill, and in 1971 she assumed her current post.

She is married to Velverton Land, director of the UNC School of Public Health Annual Art Exhibition. The Lands Have two children.

Aggies Are Saying . . .

The question is being asked in class, dormitories and the Union: "Hey, you going to the tournament?" And immediately there are all kinds of conversation about the weekend.

For those who reply they won't be going, the most often heard excuses are money and the gas shortage. Then someone pipes up sighing, "I wish the MEAC tourney was in Durham again; man we partied all weekend last year."

But, before the conversation ends, someone always voices the jubilant, loud and aggressive Aggie spirit that pervades little Moore Gym at home basketball games.

And, in the vein of Aggie spirit, he is sure to bring up that all those Aggies from Washington, D.C. and Maryland are going to "turn the place out" with their blue-gold pompoms and alma mater cheers.

You'll notice tournament fever more and more as the week progresses and some students leave to follow the team to Baltimore. For those who remain on campus, you can bet ears will be perked to radios as the defending Aggies make a third bid for the crown.

With another tournament going on right in Greensboro, Aggies will be visited by CIAA friends from Fayetteville and Virginia. Along with the excitement offered by two tournaments, shows, dances and cabarets have been planned to add to the gala atmosphere.

Basketball is in the air and the strong, gusty wind just helps to blow it along to bring all Aggie sports fans under its influence.

The Good Ole Aggie Spirit.

Avoiding Responsibility

By Rosie A. Stevens

Last week we called for a psychologist to deal with some of the problems students face on this campus. Our reasoning was that students with emotional problems which interfere with academic performance might be dealt with in this manner.

However, this is only part of the problem. A psychologist cannot be given the responsibility of dealing with the problems which are caused exclusively by academics. A psychologist should not be given this responsibility.

To do this would be a total avoidance of responsibility by those who are to bear this burden.

Somehow, on this campus, there seems to be a type of shifting of responsibility to students for things which are not really the problems of students.

Some of these problems may actually cause emotional upset in the form of outrage and anger at some of the things which students must tolerate.

Half of the time, it seems that we are the people who bear the responsibility, blame, and sickness which cause some of the problems we face.

The other half of the time, we are the irresponsible people who seem to need mature adults to guide us and to tell us what to do.

It is very infrequent that we are accepted as mature responsible adults who can function effectively in the world called college.

It is no wonder that some of the students here believe the adult conception of them and act out those expectations. If the university expects us to be immature and irresponsible, then we act out that behavior too--whatever the administration expects of us, and whatever patterns are set for us.

At a given point, it must be questioned whether the university promotes the autonomy and independence of its students, or whether it kills such things and labels them sick. At such a point, the exceptions become all important, because the given rules seldom are.

The Price Of The Investment Is Black Lives

Even with the short historical background that I've attempted to lay down in the past couple of weeks, it remains difficult to understand what South Africa represents and is to Black people unless you become fully aware of the conditions and laws of Apartheid. It is for certain that for a Black man in America to speak favorably of South Africa and in support of South African investments is like a Jew investing in Hitler's Nazi Germany. True, the profits may be there; but the price of investment for Black people is eventual self-destruction.

How would life be for you and how is life for our brothers and sisters on the continent under the terror of Apartheid? First of all, you would be classified according to one of four racial categories: Africans-persons of African descent; whites-persons of European descent; Coloreds-persons of racially mixed descent; Asians-persons of Asian (mostly Indian) descent. Africans comprise over 15 million of the total population; Coloreds account for another two million, followed by over a half million Asians. This leaves a white population of only about four million people.

But, even though you would be a member of the "majority race", your life would center around the desires of the minority. You would be part of the nearly 80% non-white population that is restricted to only 13% of the land area in South Africa. The "American Europeans" have the original American population (Indians) confined to reservations; and the "South African-European" have the original African population confined to reservations (Africans).

This brief statistical evaluation of the lifestyle of African people, based on United Nation data and information from the pamphlet "Race to Power-The Struggle For Southern Africa", can't even begin to reflect the day-to-day repression and oppression of our people or the life you would lead as an African citizen.

The pamphlet also states, "The physical separation of races that is the basis of migratory labor is effectively enforced by a system of pass laws. All Africans, men and women, have to carry a pass on their person at all times. The pass books contain personal biographies, details of employment, and records of permits to travel or reside in a certain place. They have to be always kept up to date."

"Africans may be stopped by any policeman at any time, even in their residences; and, if they are found to be without a pass, they are automatically arrested. If the pass book does not contain the necessary permits to reside to work in the place they are stopped; if any of the required information in the pass is out of date, or if some required signature is missing, they are also arrested. Over 3,00 Africans are arrested each DAY for pass offenses. Africans who are arrested without being able to show that they have permits to work in a particular city are sent back to the reserves."

Resistance to this type of oppression, known for the most part, only to the non-white population of the world, is handled in the traditional European-American fashion as the Sharpeville Massacre can attest to. In this outright show of "Savage-like" instinct, South African police killed 69 Africans and wounded up to several hundred other Africans for demonstrating "peacefully" against the carrying of pass books.

Ted L. Mangum

Other conditions directly related to your being of African descent can be reflected in this chart compiled using 1968 data:

Congressman Seeks Fourth Term In House

Rep. Henry Frye said Thursday he will seek re-election to the State House of Representatives for a fourth term.

Frye, a 1953 A&T graduate, is chairman of the Guilford legislative delegation and is president and founder of Greensboro National Bank.

His law practice in Greensboro began in 1967, and he is now a partner in the firm of Frye, Johnson and Barbee.

The 41-year old Democrat became the first Black man this century to serve in the North Carolina General Assembly when he was elected in 1968.

In the November 1972 elections, Frye topped the 15 candidates who were seeking Guilford County's seven legislative seats.

He is active on many legislative committees including chairman of the House committee on Federal and Interstate Cooperation and vice-chairman of the committee on Elections Laws.

Alpha Phi Omega Collects $1500 For G-Boro Heart Fund Drive

Saturday, Kappa Psi chapter of Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity of A&T participated in a Heart Fund Drive with Pi Kappa of UNC-Greensboro.

The two chapters had a goal of $2000 dollars for the area. They fell short of their goal but they collected nearly $1500 from the shoppers and merchants in the Greensboro area.

Each chapter had a small parade from its respective campuses to Jefferson Square. City residents were amazed to see two different groups of guys, each pulling a bath tub into the Central Business District.

They collected downtown until twelve noon. From there, they solicited funds at the various shopping centers in the city and at all the Acoholic Beverage Control Board Stores in the city, and from some gas hungry customers in the gas lines.

After retiring from collecting, the members counted the money and deposited it in a safe. A check will be presented Thursday to the Heart Fund Association of Greensboro by the two chapters.

The members said they felt the gas shortage hindered their chances of reaching the goal.

Security Officer Injured In Auto Accident

Sam Jones Chats With Spruill

Despite playing without Ron Johnson the entire second half and Allen Spruill for 18 minutes, A&T was able to defeat North Carolina Central 72-66 Friday night before a capacity crowd in Central's gym.

From a 6-0 early lead, the Aggies started a march that saw them gain the third-place seating in the MEAC Tournament. Central could have set-up a fourth meeting this season in losing to the Aggies for the third time.

A&T and Central will get the chance to play again this season, depending on how well South Carolina State comes through this week-end.

James Outlaw was again the star for the Aggies as he won the game—scoring honors with 25 points. When his teammates went cold midway in the initial half, it was Outlaw who rifled in 10 straight points.

Central grabbed a 26-25 lead behind Robert Little's eight consecutive points, but it was the Macon, Ga., native who sparked the A&T win.

When Allen Spruill collected his fourth foul in the first half with 7:59 showing on the clock, the Aggies fans held their heads low and in disbelief.

Johnson's then took over with his tremendous hustle and Spruill's absence was made a bit easier. A&T's fans suffered another setback just before the end of the half when Johnson was slammed to the floor with an apparent fractured elbow.

Bobby Goodwin came in to replace Ron Johnson and it was his one and one free throws with a minute and a half to go in the game that iced the victory. Goodwin collected 10 rebounds, while Sinclair Colbert captured 12. It was Colbert that slammed Wesley Johnson's shot to the floor when the Aggies led by only three points.

Spruill put on such a show in the first half that Central's Coach Sam Jones had a small chat with him during the action in an effort to slow him down. But once he received the ball and promptly took several of Central's players to the basket, Jones could only smile in admiration of Spruill's wizardry.

Donald Taylor came off the bench and sparked a Central rally the way that Spruill does for A&T, but his 12 points could not top Spruill's 14 and the Aggies balance

Aggies Win Bowling Match 56-34 Against Polytechnical Institute

By Robert Brooks

A&T's kingpin bowlers journeyed to Blacksburg, Va. last week to face the undefeated Gobblers of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and won the match easily 5-6-35 with a flurry in the final two games.

After falling behind 12-4, the Aggies turned it on behind Chester Morrison, David Shelly and Clarence Primm. Primm, Shelly, and Morrison, each won three of the five games they bowled.

The Aggies were behind going into the fourth set 28-20 because VPI's bowlers were hot. In the set, the Aggies took four of the five matches as James Correll Shelly, Morrison and Primm won their games; plus their total pins for the game were the highest. Fourteen points were gained in the set. From there it was smooth sailing because Correll and Morrison bowled 200 and 201 games, respectively, while Primm had a 98 game. VPI managed only six points in the final two games to 26 for the Aggies. The Aggies got 10 more points, with a total of 4514 pins to 4473 pins to clinch the victory.

The win leaves the Aggies in second place, with a 5-2-1 record. VPI remains on top with a 6-1 record.

VPI's Doc Ulbrich had the high average for the match with 191.2 pins and the high set of 956 pins. Chester Morrison of A&T had the high game with 252 pins.

Students Should Give Complete Addresses

not a roster of addresses in the campus post office for students entering A&T in January. As of now he said the campus post office has only a listing or roster for Curtis and Senior dormitories.

"Other dorms should send a completed roster of their respective occupants," stated White.

Postmaster James Morange and Postmaster Assistant White said students should give their complete and current addresses to their respective correspondents—room number, dorm, box number and section if their dorm is divided into sections when writing.

It was noted that many students write off campus without giving a return address. When this happens, the main post office does not know where to send the return mail. Much of it often ends up at Bennett and UNC-G, for example.

Most of the time when this is the case, the mail is sent back to the A&T campus post office, where names and addresses must be looked up for such letters. This again causes a delay in mail delivery it was said.
