Samuel Woods, Doctoral Candidate At Harvard University

Alumnus Shares Portions Of Dissertation

By Patricia Everett

Samuel Woods, a 1971 economics graduate from A&T and current candidate for his Ph.D at Harvard, was special guest at a gathering held for the presentation of awards for an economic essay competition sponsored by the Economics Department.

Also there was Dr. Juanita Tate, after whom the essay competition was named, to present the monetary awards to the winners of the contest. Winners in the contest were John Kearns, Brinkley Faulcon, and Bennie Glover.

Dr. Tate, first chairman of A&T's Economics Department, told the audience bits of philosophy concerning students; "If I teach them, they belong to me. I didn't just love the good ones, but I loved some of the rascals too."

She told of the seven immature, freshman boys who had come to her office to indicate their interest in Economics. Of them, three later majored in that area, one of whom was Samuel Woods.

Figuratively speaking of the initial and the unique teacher-student relationship between her and Woods, Dr. Tate said, "I have a lot of children who are mine, but I only gave birth to one. He came in when I came in, and to know Samuel Woods is the greatest tribute I have."

Before he gave a short lecture on part of his dissertation, Woods told of his decision on whether to go to work or try to begin his graduate studies.

"Four years ago I was sitting in some of these very same seats--sitting at the same crossroad. My only intention was to go to work. So I was trying to decide whether to accept a $10,000 job offer after 16 long years of school, or whether to go to Harvard, not knowing the probability of whether I would pass," Woods said.

Finally, he made up his mind to work for Proctor and Gamble, where Woods said he was making a good amount of money. Later, however, he accidentally discovered the two white men who also had been hired at the time he was were making more money than he although his qualifications were more prestigious.

Woods said he asked himself, "Do I want my whole future in the hands of these people?"

Being unable to find a suitable answer for the differences in the pay, Woods left and enrolled at Harvard.

Concerning his first experiences at Harvard, Woods said, "My attitude was my biggest drawback. My problem was not a lack of course material, but rather my psyching myself out."

"Talking about those geniuses at Harvard, I met one guy there who didn't have more math than I had." Woods said he got over his inferiority complex and "I'm planning to receive my Ph.D in March or June."

A Harvard advisor told Woods he would rather have a top student from A&T than to have an above-average student from any of the prestigious schools. The latter part of the lecture was focused on Wood's very first lecture on part of his dissertation which will later be given before highly specialized economists.

From his studies, Woods plans to disprove the sensationalistic theories concerning the world food problem.

Such theories predict a drastic food shortage around the year 2,000. But, according to Wood's studies, such a highly dramatic world food problem is highly unrealistic.

Rather, his studies indicate the world's food production is cyclical in nature, and the predicted "doomsday" theories are based more on sensationalism than facts.

Woods' dissertation is entitled "Food Cycles and Crises: A Spectral Analytic Inquiry Into the Nature of the World Food Problem".

According To Student Attorney General

Plans Made For Student Courts

By Craig Turner

The Student Government Association is in the process of presenting a proposal to the University Trustees that would drastically change the Student Court System.

According to Student Attorney General John Kearns, three major changes are pending in the new plan. First, there would be an absorption of the Residence Hall Councils and the Appellate Board by the Student Judiciary Council.

Second, the proposal to give more power to the lower courts would mean changing the University Constitution.

Third, different procedures would be used in the trying of cases to insure fair treatment of the students.

During a five-hour session Monday the SGA was informed that the State of North Carolina would uphold any decision by the courts on punishment dealt out, on the condition that the student's rights be upheld under the constitution.

This means the student court dockets will be filled, once the hearings get underway. "The main reason student courts did not get major cases was that the state would not uphold rulings before, such as expulsion from the university," said Kearns.

The main power of the court system would lie in the University Judicial Tribunal. At the present, the Tribunal handles all infractions. Under the new system, the Tribunal would be the last court of appeal and the first court for serious infractions (assaults, theft, etc.), according to Kearns.

A new facet in the system is the tentative Office of Commissioner which is being manned by Ronald Penny.

The Commissioner would act in the role as the attorney for students facing trial.

It is hoped that the office will be officially established to help insure that students will be protected and advised during judicial proceedings.

Penny stated if a student is facing prosecution, he or she should contact him in Room 216 of SGA offices in the Student Union to discuss the case against them.

Increase In Our Student Population Definitely Caused The Book Shortage

By Daryl E. Smith

The increased student population has definitely caused a book shortage.

James Meachem, University bookstore manager, stated that shortages come after or during the drop-add period. Late registering students will try to get a full class load without knowing if the book store has enough books for their particular subjects.

"Freshman classes and business classes are primary examples of book shortages, simply because these classes are overloaded with students. Anytime during registration or immediately after registration the faculty should inform us of how many students they have enrolled," he said.

Meachem added that the bookstore starts an inventory on the 30th of June to determine how many books have been returned by students. Judging by previous enrollment at the school, he can order books by a median.

Meachem also said that the bookstore has to order mainly from the publisher and there is a time element involved in receiving and sending an order. In placing an order with the different publishers it usually takes from three days to two weeks.

Meachem says that books are very expensive; the average cost is about $10.00 per book. All personnel that work in the bookstore are State Employees, with additional help coming from students during the rush period namely during registration. "We have 12 students as of now on work-aid. Their main duties are general clerical work and serving as cashiers," he said.

Meachem went on to point out that last year, the bookstore had 1,000 freshman books; this year we have a shortage. Being on the rental system, every student is expecting his books.

When you are selling books, then the operation is quite different, there is 50% less work involved than with the rental system.

Meachem stated the book store is owned and operated by the State, but A&T's bookstore is an auxiliary self-sufficient operation, operating just like any other retail store.

Meachem says that A&T has a three-year adoption period on text books. The reason for a three-year adoption is to cover the text's cost and to allow for expected edition changes.

Meachem stated that faculty concern and participation are very low in checking on textbook shortages. Meachem said that

Repository Will House Portraits Of Inductees

A Sports Hall of Fame repository, which will house colorful portraits of Aggies inducted into the Hall of Fame, will be dedicated Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the lobby of the Memorial Student Union.

The area will be officially dedicated in an impressive ceremony, featuring an address by Chancellor Lewis C. Dowdy, the dedicatory ceremony by the Rev. Sampson Buie, and selections by the A&T band, directed by Walter F. Carlson, Jr.

Joseph D. Williams, director of alumni affairs, said plans are for the alumni to eventually build a permanent Hall of Fame building. It was the A&T National Alumni Association which initiated the Hall of Fame project four years ago to honor outstanding former A&T stars.

"We certainly hope the students of A&T will turn out for the dedication so they can see how the rich Aggie tradition has been carried on. We are all (See Inductees, page 7)

Audience Gathers For Rehearsal Of Talent Show

At the rehearsal for the Second Annual A&T, Bennett, UNC-G Talent Show in room 214 of the Union, a small curious crowd had gathered to catch a preview...and perhaps to even judge the "pleasure" value of this social event.

But, sooner or later, after the young talent show participants nonchalantly glided toward the microphone-then seemingly effortlessly poured strong soulful vocal sounds over the room, miraculously the curiosity of the audience dissolved-and...the variously-shaded dark bodies began to sway emotionally to the powerful musical message of the songs.

Manager of "The Black Explosion" which will be backing the vocalists, John McCormick stated this band was (See Talent, page 3) bookstore manager promptly.

This action would eliminate a lot of obstacles facing student and faculty. Meachem also said that students, who would like to, could purchase their books.

Students desirous of purchasing their textbooks shall receive a prorated share of credit of the rental fee paid toward the purchase of any or all rental textbooks on his or her current schedules.

The student should know that the purchase of books must be a cash transaction.

Meachem said that the return of books is very important to the bookstores function. Failure to turn in books at the end of a semester, or when dropping or adding a course or when one has received the wrong textbook affects the bookstore by a shortage of books for students, having to order additional books unnecessarily, which poses a cost factor and an overstocking of books which causes a shortage as well as a supply problem.

Meachem said that the bookstore is part of the auxiliary service here at A&T.

J. E. Garfield is the director of the business services under which the auxiliary services come.

Not only is the bookstore classified as an auxiliary, but the university auxiliary enterprises, consist of intercollegiate athletics, and all other organized activities related to educational departments.

Garfield feels that, in many areas, there will be increased benefits affecting the total environment for students. Garfield says that the old image of A&T will undergo a complete change in the next two or three years.

KelWay Distributors Offer A&T Students Savings

KelWay Distributors now has available to A&T State students a tremendous selection of stereo and audio equipment. KelWay, is a large warehouse distribution center that now allows our student body to purchase televisions, appliances, and now stereo equipment at tremendous savings of up to 40%.

Their new "Stereo Showcase" offers such names as Pioneer, Sony, Fisher, Garrard, BSR, Linear Suspension, and now EPI speakers-rated number one by many stereo magazines and a major consumer magazine.

As an example, Pioneer's top receiver in 1973 is offered to you for $178-a savings of $82. Other savings are also as dramatic.

Their salesmen are not high-pressure salesmen. They know their stereo products and will aid and assist you in helping to find the stereo system that will best fit your need and budget. Their prices range anywhere from $79 to over $1000.

KelWay Distributors also offers other products that might interest us. They carry RCA and Zenith televisions starting at $74. They also have small refrigerators for as little as $88. We really have found some of their prices remarkably low as far as our student body would be concerned.

KelWay doesn't handle everything. You can save yourself a trip, for example, if you are interested in a camera, jewelry, or cosmetics. They do, however, handle digital clock radios, small heaters, or portable radios. If you are in doubt about what they offer, give them a call at 274-3701 or stop by to see them downtown at 221

Commerce Place behind the bus terminal. Just show them your A&T student I.D. card and they will be happy to help you find what you need.

If you are planning to purchase any stereo equipment or just want to listen to some fine audio systems, we suggest you ride down to KelWay Distributors and see what they have to offer you.

Parking Regulations

The regulations governing traffic, parking and the registration of motor vehicles can be found in a booklet called THE REGULATIONS GOVERNING TRAFFIC, PARKING AND THE REGISTRATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

We can't expound upon all of the regulations at this one setting, but would like to bring your attention to the towing ordinance which is in effect on this campus. If you haven't read it, here it is.

Agents designated by the Traffic Administrative Officer shall remove to a place of storage any vehicle parked or left standing on any street way, or parking area other than as provided in these regulations, or when such vehicle blocks the proper ingress and/ or egress of any other vehicle to or from lawful parking spaces for a period longer than five minutes, or any vehicle parked or left standing on a sidewalk or walkway, on grass or lawn, on a crosswalk, or on the roadway of any vehicle stopped or parked at the edge or curb of a street or roadway whether the parked vehicle is parallel or at an angle to the curb or edge. The owner or operator of the offending vehicle shall be liable for payment of reasonable towing and storage fees if such vehicle is so removed and stored in addition to a civil penalty as provided hereinafter.

The traffic registration became effective May 28, 1973, but it was not until this year that towing became important to the student, as well as the administrators.

The Agent designated by the Traffic Administration to tow car away is not upholding the towing law. I say this because he can't understand what reasonable towing and storage fees are. And, if the traffic Administrative officer calls $15.00 towing, $10.00 parking tick, $1.00 a day for storage reasonable for students, then one or both should consider "treatment".

With such volume of towing, this high cost should not be permitted.

According to traffic administrators, they can't afford a tow truck or a driver or a place to store the cars. I say you can.

1. If you tow cars as they are being towed now, the towing could pay for a tow-truck as well as for more parking places.

2. Use campus officers, older students or ground workers.

3. Use a part of Scott Hall parking lot and cement it in.

These are just some of the ways, and, if we would take the time to think before we tow, we may do more to help the student.

Class Of '75

One Milestone Of Our Lives Over

To the Editor:

Open Letter to the Class of 1975:

When we entered A&T in August, we were bright-eyed and eager to meet the challenges of "going to college".

The years since then have dimmed the brightness of our eyes, but they have also helped us to broaden the scope of our lives.

Now we face one of the milestones of our lives—our senior year and, at the end of it, graduation. But, as we enter our last year here at the "T", we need to stop and evaluate the first three we've spent here.

We must ask ourselves, "What have we really contributed since we've been here? When we've gone on to other places and other things, will anyone even remember that we were here?"

Will the Class of 1975 be remembered as "bad-d-d" or will the consensus of opinion be that "they were kinda tired"?

Seniors, it's not too late. There is still time for us to make a positive contribution. Let's all work together to see that the 1974-1975 school year and the Class of '75 will never be forgotten.

Reorganization Is Important

By Rosie A. Stevens

Perhaps the most important facet of the reorganization of the student courts is the emphasis on student rights and due process.

It is sad to note this, but previous courts have placed emphasis on expediency to the point of denying the accused person his or her rights. Such examples of this are the failure of the campus security to inform the person of the right to remain silent during questioning, which, in itself, would nullify any process of law because of the technical point of illegal gathering of evidence that a failure to inform would constitute.

Other examples consist of the denial of the person of the right to face an accuser in cases in which the court deems it unwise. No case could stand in a court of law on such a flimsy basis because, in essence, it denies the accused the basic right guaranteed by the constitution.

It should not have held so long here, and that it has been applied and enforced for so long here is questioned. It is a flagrant example of disrespect for the rights of the accused, and, consequently, the dignity of the person.

If a college or university proposes to teach people to deal with a system that is racist and repressive, the best place to begin is with the court system, in teaching appropriate process rather than denying it.

It is to be hoped that the current emphasis on student rights and due process will be translated into workable structures, practices, and processes in the student courts. A denial of such would be ironic and tragic.

Another good feature of the proposed system is the appointment of a commissioner to have the appointed duty of defending and advising students who are accused of committing offenses.

The student lawyers were fine, but did not have official capacity in the same way as the commissioner would have. This capacity should have an advantage of equalizing the power for the defendant somewhat.

There are, of course, disadvantages in the reform of the courts, just as there are disadvantages in failing to change the system completely. Students may not bring charges against anyone but students, while faculty and administration may bring charges against the student. Currently, there is no way for the situation to be changed because of power inequities of such a structure.

Other means exist, such as the grade appeals board, for student grievances, though these do not work. This should be made a working reality separate and apart for the student courts.

Run-off Slated For Three Freshman Offices

By Carlese Blackwell

On September 12 the election committee released the results of the freshman class election.

According to the election rules, a candidate must win by ten per cent of all votes cast. If he does not, the candidate with the next highest vote is entitled to call for a run-off.

This year, a run-off was called for three offices which are President, Vice President, and Miss Freshman.

Out of a possible 225 votes for the freshman presidential position, Curtis Askew received 66 votes and Donald Stevenson received 63.

For the title of Miss Freshman for which a total of 254 votes were cast, Lavelle Adams received 46 votes and Cheryl Brown received 34.

For the office of Vice President, out of 253 votes, Steve Jones received 91 and Patricia Rice received 73.

The office of Treasurer was taken by Zandra Delnam with 113 of a possible 244 votes.

Sharon Barnes won the Secretarial chair with a total of 171 votes.

The run-off date is set for Tuesday, September 24, in Rooms 217 and 218 of the Student Union. The polls will be open from 8:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon. Also within these hours all newly-elected officers will be sworn in.

Brinkley Faulcon, chairman of the election committee, offers his apologies for the premature and incorrect announcement of the freshman presidential winner. At that announcement Stevenson was inaccurately named as the winner. Faulcon said the mistake was innocent and was due to a miscalculation of the figures.

Sports Notebook

By Blannie E. Bowen

Some four years ago, A&T started a sports hall of fame to honor outstanding athletes who have starred for the Aggies. This year is no exception and an induction ceremony will take place Friday night.

The inductees are J. Niel Armstrong, Robert Komegay, and James Earley. The names may sound ancient to students today; but, during their days, these Aggies were superstars. Take the case of Armstrong. He was one of the best Aggie baseball players of all-time. In 1930 and 1931, his batting averages stood at a modest .430 and .490 each year.

Not only could he hit the ball, but he could really bat it out of the park. He holds the record for one of the longest homers ever hit at Memorial Stadium. Armstrong smashed four homers against Shaw University in one game, and the following day against St. Augustine's College, he hit another round tripper. During the same 1931 season, he hit 27 (See Notebook, page 7)

Shirley Verrett To Open Series

"People who go to song recitals hoping to be moved and exhilarated by the sheer sound of a superior voice found themselves just this side of paradise," wrote the New York Times about a recent performance by Metropolitan Opera star Shirley Verrett.

That is the same Shirley Verrett who will open the Guilford College Arts Series by appearing at 8:15 p.m. Monday (September 23) in Dana Auditorium on the Guilford campus.

Arts series memberships, as well as individual tickets for the Verrett recital, will be available from the College Union office in Bryan Hall until 5 p.m. Monday and then at the door prior to the performance.

Persons wishing to purchase individual tickets at the door will be asked to wait until 8 p.m. to do so in order that series members may be assured of seats.

"We are expecting a large audience for Verrett, but we do not anticipate a total sell-out," said series chairman Edward Lowe. "I am sure we can seat everyone who wishes to come."

For her Guilford appearance, Miss Verrett has selected three Giovanni Pergolesi arias, songs of Gustav Mahler, Richard Strauss, and Francis Poulenc, three spirituals and the "Una Voce Poco Fa" aria from Rossini's "Barber of Seville."

After having starred in most of the major opera houses in Europe, Miss Verrett made her debut at the Metropolitan in 1968 as Carmen, her long-time dream.

Of her portrayal, Time magazine said "Verrett's gypsy go-go girl was proud, alluring, panther-like, intelligent and vocally velvet."

After Dark magazine wrote of her: "Mezzo-soprano Shirley Verrett is the most recent Black artist to 'make it at the Met,' and in light of nothing else but her brilliant performance in the current season's (1974) production of Berlioz' mammoth masterpiece, 'The Trojans,' Miss Verrett would have proven herself to be an exciting and most accomplished performer.

She is one of the most widely recorded opera singers, and her recordings, which range from complete operas such as Bellini's "Norma," Verdi's "Don Carlos" and Donizetti's "Anna Bolena" to orchestral concerts with the London Symphony, reflect her international appeal.

home runs in only 21 games.

Just as amazing are the credentials of Kornegay and Earley. Kornegay was a 187 pound guard who starred for four years with Aggie grid teams. In 1927, the year the Aggies went undefeated and won the CIAA crown, Kornegay proved to be devastating.

Earley was an all-CIAA selection in 1938 for football; and, during his four years, he won four letters in football and three more for basketball. These guys have some impressive figures, and it is hard to imagine anyone being this good.

While they were in their heydays, most of our parents were either playing hide-and-seek or learning to write. It would seem highly improbable for anyone to match these fetes today, particularly in football.

Guards on football teams now tip the scales around 240 or better. Kornegay, with his unbelievable size, led the team to an unbeaten season and only in 1943 did the Aggies have another undefeated year.

Armstrong said A&T's pitcher of today, Al Holland, is one of the fastest pitchers he has seen. Yes, one of the fastest, but not the fastest. Artis Stanfield batted .500 this past baseball season but he has not received his due accolades, yet.

Holland and Stanfield are the best in the country today in strike-outs and batting. They must wait for their turn to be recognized properly.

Armstrong, Earley and Kornegay have waited for their chance since they were the best—in their days.

A QUICK LOOK AT the first football game for the Aggies will find many things, some promising and some not too promising. First, the not too promising.

The offense: needs to get its timing down more and run the ball down opponents throats when possible, like last weekend. A&T got 262 yards in penalties and this is ridiculous. The fisticuffs are not needed on the field.

Now, the promising. The defense looked good; Terry Bellamy gave the crowd the best play in four years and Glen Holland will be able to change his name to Gale Holland if he continues to gain 68 yards in one quarter of a game.

Putting Team Together

Coach Sees Job As Tough

By Nicie Cannon

How do you put together a winning team when you don't have a budget for recruitment or equipment? That is the problem that Mel Pinckney, coach of the wrestling team, is faced with.

Now that A&T is in the NCAA Division one and will be competing with major colleges and universities, the job of Coach Pinckney's will be much tougher.

However, Coach Pinckney is an optimistic person and when one looks at his returning lettermen, he has reason to be.

Returning to the squad is Charles Simmons who finished second in the conference, first in Regionals and first in NAIA District. He went undefeated with a very impressive 13 wins.

Also returning are Roosevelt Hilton who was a conference champion, Melvin Fair and George Harris, both of whom were NAIA District champions. In addition, Joe Windley, Darnell Glover, Sylvester Wilkins and Bernard Leak will be making their contributions to the team.

Even though the absence of a budget restricted Coach

Pinckney to recruiting only two of the six wrestlers he wanted, there are still some extremely promising freshmen on the team. Eric Harris was conference and Regional champ while finishing fourth in his home state of Michigan. Pinckney stated that Harris is a probable starter in the 142 weight class.

Another good prospect from New Jersey is John Ford who is a probable starter at 150 pounds. Ford was also Conference, District and Regional champion and finished fourth in his home state.

Horace McDonald, Al Hall, Rodney James, and Walter Barrett are some other freshmen who were outstanding during their high school careers. McDonald was a North Carolina conference champion and Hall placed third in the state of Delaware.

While at Grimsley High School, James and Barrett put together almost unbelievable records. They have a cumulative record of 62-7 each.

With a squad as talented as the wrestlers appear to be, it isn't surprising that Coach Pinckney can predict his team to have a record of "no worse than 8-4." Pinckney seems to feel that his greatest competition will come from the teams in the MEAC, namely Morgan, Delaware, and Howard.

Coach Pinckney stated that wrestling practice is held between 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. and will officially open October 1. Any interested persons are encouraged to come out for the team. Practice is held in Moore Gym.

Third Ranked Bulldogs Invade Aggieland Saturday

by Craig Turner

South Carolina State enters the Gate City this week to face A&T in one of the biggest games in this still-early season. The Bulldogs came from behind in the final four minutes to grab a 12-8 win over Bethune Cookman in Orangeburg, S.C. last week.

Head Coach Willie Jefferies, a former assistant under Hornsby Howell, moaned last week about the ineffectiveness of his offense that lost its top two running backs. However, Elias O'Neal (6-5, 201) at quarterback showed sparks of brilliance as he threw to wide receiver Darius McCarthy (6-3, 180).

The offense returns the interior line almost intact with all five starters that average 245 pounds per man.

The defense is led by two all MEAC (Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference) choices. The first is highly touted and massively strong Harry Carson (6-6, 290). Carson's play was instrumental on several third down situations against Bethune Cookman.

The other all-conference selection is middle linebacker Razzie Smith (6-3, 225) who terrorized the Aggies last year in Orangeburg. This unit on defense will return 10 starters and rates near the top in the nation.

The Bulldogs will undoubtedly come well prepared as will the Aggies. Should A&T pull off the upset of the third-ranked Bulldogs then a giant step will have been taken towards a conference championship.

proud to be Aggies," said Williams.

This year three persons will be inducted into the Hall of Fame at a banquet to be held immediately following the dedication ceremony. They are J. Niel Armstrong, director of summer school at A&T; Robert Kornegay of Mt. Olive, and James Earley of Hampton, Va.

All students interested in tutoring third and fourth graders this semester should contact Mrs. Cain or Clyde Chesney at Coltrane Hall, A&T, Phone 379-7691. The tutoring will be done two days a week for an hour each day. Tutors can volunteer for any hour between 8:00 and 2:00 on any two days, Monday through Friday. Transportation to the schools, where the tutoring will be done, is provided. We need your help in providing this badly needed service so children can get the individual attention they need.

If you think Kodak is just pretty pictures, you ought to have your chest examined.

When a chest x-ray shows that you have a potential killer like TB or cancer, it's not a pretty picture. But it's an important picture because it can help the doctor detect and catch the killer in time.

When doctors are out to catch these potential killers, they want the sharpest, clearest x-ray films they can get. And that's why people at Kodak spend so many hours creating new and better x-ray film equipment. Already, the results include convenience for the patient, economy for the hospital, an even more useful tool for the radiologist—and, most important, reduced radiation exposure.

Researching and creating better x-ray films is good for our business, which is why we went into them in the first place. But it does our society good, too—which isn't a bad feeling. After all, our business depends on our society—so we care what happens to it.
