10-8-1974

The Register, 1974-10-08

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister

Recommended Citation
https://digital.library.ncat.edu/atregister/540

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Digital Collections at Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in NCAT Student Newspapers by an authorized administrator of Aggie Digital Collections and Scholarship. For more information, please contact iyanna@ncat.edu.
A&T Hosts Fourth Annual State-Wide Math Conference

The fourth annual state math conference was held on this campus last Friday and Saturday. The conference was attended by approximately 850 mathematics teachers and students from a variety of schools located in Ohio State, North Carolina, and Florida. The conference was to motivate mathematics teachers and to give them the opportunity to share ideas.

The first, second, and third annual conferences were held respectively at Winston-Salem State, UNCC-Charlotte, and Meredith College in Raleigh.

One of the many sessions dealing in math at the fourth annual mathematics conference was led by Miss Thelma Bradford, an A&T mathematics instructor. The session was entitled "The Math Lab-An Atmosphere for Motivation". Miss Bradford spoke on the subject, "Semi-Groups Satisfying Unusual Conditions."

Other speakers at the conference were from a variety of schools located in Ohio State, North Carolina, and Florida State. The topics included "The Math Lab," "Unusual Conditions," and "The Math Lab-An Atmosphere for Motivation."

Changes in the procedures used to determine eligibility of college students for scholarship aid may ease some of the financial burden of middle income families. For years, low income students have benefited most from the financial aid system. Middle income families can have a need too," said Walter R. Jacobs Jr., assistant director of the College Entrance Examination Board’s Southern Regional office. "The changes will also reflect more accurately the ability of families to bear the cost of college," said Jacobs.

In Greensboro last week for a College Board workshop at A&T State University, Jacobs said the mathematical tables of the Parents Confidential Statement, used nationwide to determine financial aid eligibility, are being modified to include a test of "Purlie" was considered as one of the most popular Black-oriented musicals.

The cast from A&T includes Avery Venable, Joseph Stallings, Dwe Williams, Mike Lewin, Delores Webb, and Jim Forster, who also serves technical director. Those representing other institutions are Ollie Rasbury of UNCG and Dyora Thomas of Bennett College.

Members of the dancing corps are Kris Dennis, Delores Scott, Carl Collins, Dirk Thomas, Dorey Overby, Duane Thomas, Regina Crawford, Beverly Allen, Freda Jackson, Sheila Jackson, Dorothy McLaughlin, and Pamela McDonald. Mrs. Eleanor Gwyn is the choreographer. The "Cotton Pickers" chorus will consist of Dick Thomas, Duane Thomas, Carl Thomas, and Ayl Mack.

Those representing other institutions are Ollie Rasbury of UNCG and Dyora Thomas of Bennett College.

"The changes will also reflect more accurately the ability of families to bear the cost of college," said Jacobs.

Tickets will be available the week of October 14 in the theatre box office. Speaking on the success of the musical, Dr. Kilimanjaro states, "If you can get an orchestra together, the musical will be a success."
The A&T Register

Published twice weekly during the school year by students of A&T State University.

To receive the Register, please send $7.50 to THE A&T REGISTER, Box E-25, Greensboro, North Carolina 27411, to cover mailing and handling costs.

Member: Associated Collegiate Press

Editor ................. Michael Brayre
Managing Editor ......... Phyllis Mittman
Associate Managing Editor ... Cynthia Shipley
News Editor .......... Rosie Stevens
Senior Associate News Editor ... Patricia Everett
Junior Associate News Editor ... Michael Hailey
Business Manager ........... Gregory Phillips
Office Manager .......... Patricia Ingram
Ad Manager .............. Richard Ford
Production Manager ... John Williams
Sports Editor ........... Blannie Bowen
Fine Arts Editor .......... Sandra Midgett
Feature Editor ........ Mary Cropps
Circulation Manager ... Doris Forbes
Chief Photographer ... Lance VanLandingham
Head Typist ................. Yvonne Anders
Advisor ..................... Mrs. Lorenzo Morrow

Why Are Monitors Needed?

By Rosie A. Stevens

It has been said that the easiest way to maintain a dictatorship is to unquestioningly say yes to everything one’s subjects wish. That a totalitarian kind of system somehow manages to operate at the university is unquestioned. The means of such maintenance, however, are to be questioned, since the benevolent despots exist and died about two hundred years ago. However, it is redundant to go into the means, especially concerning co-ed visitations.

The important thing to consider is that the procedures, outlined by the university in a desperate urge to overawe the conduct of the student body, are not working. They are not working because of one reason, mainly, though several other factors come into play.

This one reason is that in most cases vague, amorphous, undefined entity known as a monitor should never have been tackled onto the proposal anyway. The problems with the monitors are several.

In the first place, they are undefined in most cases. Potentially the procedures and guidelines given them all sorts of authority to invade the privacy of residence hall members in order to make sure the lights are on and the doors unlocked, whatever that means. Why, should monitors have unlimited authority to do such anyway?

Suppose the duties of monitors are specifically defined then. Another problem has seemed to occur in both the residence halls where monitors have both specific and non-specific duties. This problem is that there never seems to be enough of them around to enforce the rules.

Another problem has seemed to occur in both the residence halls where monitors have both specific and non-specific duties. This problem is that there never seems to be enough of them around to enforce the rules.

This is especially true when the problem posed by invasion of privacy could be solved. It could be solved in two residence halls by purchasing furniture to go into that huge expanse of waste room used only by people entering and leaving their own rooms. This room could then serve as a receiving room for guests. At least, the university could utilize its own resources for the purpose for which these resources were designed. It would greatly enhance the processes of group living and make the atmosphere most healthy.

The A&T Register for October 18, 1974
Progressive Ideas May Result In Positive Outputs

By Ted L. Mangum

The total value of educational institution's output is determined by how society cares to structure them and more importantly by the input of that portion of society which utilizes these institutions. Since students represent the overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions.

In such institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

In those institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

Answer To Fat Mama

Skinny and Proud

Editor of The Register:

I was walking across campus one day when some dudis yelled, 'Hey, you fat man, we're not buying what you're selling.' I stopped, turned, and waved. I had not been late for class, or may have even chatted. In any event, I read the letter written in last week's issue by 'Fat Mama,' as she was called, who has been speaking her mind to the young lady 'You've GOT TO BE determined by how society cares importantly by the input of that portion of society which utilizes those institutions. Since students represent the overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions.

In such institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

In those institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

The young man who yelled, 'You didn't find it so easy to walk across campus one day when some dudis yelled, 'Hey, you fat man, we're not buying what you're selling.' I stopped, turned, and waved. I had not been late for class, or may have even chatted. In any event, I read the letter written in last week's issue by 'Fat Mama,' as she was called, who has been speaking her mind to the young lady 'You've GOT TO BE determined by how society cares importantly by the input of that portion of society which utilizes those institutions. Since students represent the overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions.

In such institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

In those institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

An overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions. Since students represent the overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions.

In such institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

In those institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

The young man who yelled, 'You didn't find it so easy to walk across campus one day when some dudis yelled, 'Hey, you fat man, we're not buying what you're selling.' I stopped, turned, and waved. I had not been late for class, or may have even chatted. In any event, I read the letter written in last week's issue by 'Fat Mama,' as she was called, who has been speaking her mind to the young lady 'You've GOT TO BE determined by how society cares importantly by the input of that portion of society which utilizes those institutions. Since students represent the overwhelming portion of society which utilizes educational institutions, the quantitative and the qualitative output by these institutions are determined by the input of that portion of society which utilizes educational institutions.

In such institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.

In those institutions or schools where you find progressive and responsive administration, you usually find positive student input factors like well-attended student body meetings, student government (S.G.A.), students actively involved in campus and community affairs and politics. This means that the output of the institution will be measured academically, politically, socially or whatever. However, this output will be the manifestation of ideas of the student body.
In Opponent's Hometown

Aggies Defeat J. C. Smith 28-15 In Close Game

By Blannie E. Bowen

When two win-starved teams club on a gridiron, the hunger of the two should want to win the contest.

This was the case Saturday night, and A&T came away with a record of 2-2 as a result of a 28-15 win over the Golden Bulls of J. C. Smith. The loss dropped the Bulls' record to 0-4.

Freshman Ellsworth Turner operating the A&T offense, the Aggies moved the football. Turner handled himself with precision exhibited by only a heart surgeon.

His fakes left Bulls going in the wrong directions and running into each other. This type of performance lasted for two quarters, the first and last.

Near the end of the first quarter, Turner put together a masterful drive which lasted 13 plays and used almost six minutes. This drive started on his 26 and ended with seven Aggie points.

Ellsworth Turner Hailed As Main Ingredient For Offensive Success

By Craig Turner

The Aggies got back on the right track with a 28-15 win over Johnson C. Smith last Saturday. For the first time in several games the A&T offense began to do some of the things that are necessary for a successful club.

The most outstanding improvements were in the ability of a young offensive line to move a much larger defensive front, and the finding of a capable quarterback who could direct the offense with a marked degree of success.

The line play got great relief by the influx of freshmen this week and showed up in the total yardage figures. Coach Horsey Howell has seemingly decided to have youngsters who will give him performance rather than tired excuses.

One of those youngsters was...