Enrollment Overcrowds Dorms

By Benjamin Forbes

The housing crunch that has hit A&T's campus due to a significant increase in enrollment has left 74 women in a situation in which there are three persons per room.

Lucille Piggott, dean of women, explained that there are 30 women in Morrison Hall who are sharing a room of three. In Cooper Hall there are 15 women in the three-room situation and in Holland Hall there are 29.

The other three dorms, Gibbs, Varsity, and Zoe Barber halls are not confronted with this problem because of the fact that the beds are immovable.

Mrs. Piggott stated that roll-in beds are being used to accommodate the students who are sharing the rooms.

According to Mrs. Piggott, a meeting had been planned to let the students know that her staff is doing everything possible to alleviate the problem. She also added that the acting Vice Chancellor for Fiscal Affairs, Matthew King, has been requested to ascertain an adjustment in the lodging fees for the occupants of three per room.

Also the scheduled meeting will include Dr. Jesse Marshall, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, the three-roomed occupants, and one staff member from each of the three dorms. Continuing, Mrs. Piggott added that those students who have not paid their lodging fees and those who have not officially registered will be asked to leave to make room for those who have already paid their bills.

When asked if she had received any complaints from parents concerning the present conditions, Mrs. Piggott stated that some parents have contacted her because they did not fully understand the situation. She added that the decision of the three women room was left entirely up to the students.

Mrs. Piggott concluded by saying that some relief is on the way.

Band Is Hot Again

By Daryl E. Smith

"This year's band will make last year's band sound like children." This remark was made by Robert A. Williams, Marching Band Director. Continuing, Williams said, "Motivation is very high this year, with very good co-operation coming from the upper class members."

The band is a little larger with a bigger sound and we have a lot of older members who have rejoined the band this year and their contributions have been great. With the different types that we play, this band does exceptionally well."

Asked how the various formations were developed, Williams said, "The band has a kind of a drumming season, and new shows, new routines are mapped out. This happens once a week."

"We have about 50 new freshmen in the band and 80 to 90 per cent are from North Carolina; 40 to 50 per cent are from Greensboro."

"I have more non-majors in the band this year, than I have music majors."

"There will be a pep rally on campus next Friday for the first home game."

"As to where the band will be traveling this year, Williams said, "We don't have enough money to make the Grambling trip, but we will make trips to Baltimore, South Carolina, and Norfolk, Virginia."

Williams added, "This Saturday the band will perform."

Courts Rule On Teacher Exam

RALEIGH, N.C. - A three-judge federal panel has ruled that North Carolina's use of the National Teacher Examination is unconstitutional. The court found that the teacher test had "a disparate impact" on Blacks, and was therefore automatically suspect under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Without proof that the cutoff score proves teacher competence, the court said, it is "not reasonably related to any proper governmental objective and constitutes a burdensome and arbitrary denial of equal protection under the 14th Amendment."

The NLA, distinct from any other functions necessary for the betterment of the profession, was formally organized by concerned librarians. The purposes of NLA are to promote librarianship; to develop and increase the usefulness of librarians; to foster a spirit of cooperation among members of the profession; and to perform any other functions necessary for the attainment of these purposes.
Foundation Announces Scholarships

The Direct Mail Educational Foundation has announced applications are now being accepted for all-expense paid scholarships to the Direct Mail Marketing College Institute, November 2-7 in Chicago, Illinois.

The five-day Institute, held twice annually, brings information and education on direct mail and direct marketing to top college students throughout the country. It is designed to teach the techniques of planning, creating and producing effective direct mail advertising and cover all principles of successful direct marketing. The Institute faculty is headed by Edward N. Mayer, Jr., one of America's foremost direct mail practitioners and includes more than a dozen leading mail marketing experts.

The thirty scholarships to be awarded include travel to and from the Institute (from anywhere in the continental U.S.A.), room, meals and course materials. Applications must be received on an official application form and accompanied by a recommendation from a faculty member. The deadline for receipt of applications is October 1, 1975.

The Institute is conducted under the auspices of the Direct Mail Educational Foundation, a tax exempt foundation established to improve education in marketing communications. The Foundation also provides annual fellowships to full-time advertising and marketing professionals for attendance at professional Direct Mail Marketing Institutes.

Applications forms and additional information may be obtained by contacting Ms. Evelyn M. Myers, Ph.D., and Evelyn M. Myers, Ph.D., Educational Coordinator, Direct MAIL Educational Foundation, 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017, (212) 838-4977.

Postal Rates May Increase

WASHINGTON AP: The Postal Rate Commission has approved a proposal that could lead to an increase in the cost of mailing a first-class letter to 13 cents by Christmas, postal sources said Wednesday.

The Postal Service has learned through unofficial channels that the commission approved its request that the present 10 cents rate be increased to 13 cents, according to postal officials.

This would make it possible in time for the Christmas mailing season.

The Postal Service is operating at a deficit of around $8 million per day under present rates.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailey has said the Postal Service will approve whatever recommendation the commission makes in order to raise rates on a temporary basis.

Institute Reports On Cancer

The National Cancer Institute has released a report citing differences in survival rates from cancer between white and black patients.

The study included 219,493 white and 21,048 black patients whose cancers were diagnosed between 1955 and 1964 in selected hospitals in the United States.

The NCIs scientists found that cancers of the digestive tract, reproductive organs, and bladder were diagnosed at a localized stage more often in the white patients than in the black patients.

Black-white differences with respect to extent of disease at diagnosis were less apparent for cancers of the pancreas, lung, kidney and brain, which are more difficult to detect at an early stage. Cancers diagnosed when localized to the site of origin are treated more successfully than are more advanced cancers.

Treatment and Survival Patterns for Black and White Cancer Patients Dismayed 1955 through 1964 "cites generally lower survival rates among black patients as compared to white patients in the study, The editors of the report, Lillian M. Astell, M.S., Mrs. H. Myers, Ph.D., and Evelyn M. Shambaugh, B.A., of NCI's End Results Section, indicated that the 100 hospitals in the study represented a selection of cancer treatment facilities from general hospitals to university-based urban hospitals. Included in the study were all hospitals in Connecticut; hospitals which treat approximately one-third of cancer cases diagnosed in California, a group of hospitals in the Boston metropolitan area; and six large university hospitals in various parts of the U.S.

Results of the study suggest that whites use modern screening and diagnostic techniques more frequently than Blacks. This pattern may be due in part to socioeconomic, cultural, and perhaps other as-yet-unknown factors, the scientist explained.

Survival rates generally were lower among the black patients even when their disease was diagnosed at a localized stage. This difference was greatest among patients with bladder cancer and among females with cancer of the body of the uterus. However, for cancers of the kidney, survival was more favorable among black patients than white patients.

Single copies of the report are available free of charge from the Office of Cancer Communications, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Maryland 20014. Multiple copies can be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20004, for $7.50 each.

Williams Enters Second Year With Band

By Nepolia Smith

The A&T marching band is at it again. It is a very common sight to pass by Frazier Hall in the evenings and see the band, now called the Blue and Gold Marching Machine, practicing its music and sets. Somewhere not far off one will also see Robert Williams, the marching band director, supervising the band.

This makes the second year Williams has been teaching at A&T. Williams is from Winterpark, Florida. He received his B.A. degree in Music at University of West Virginia in the project to help one of Tanzania's universities develop a new department of teaching agriculture and education extension work.

"What is really needed in Tanzania," said Dowdy, "is knowledge. The land is not poor and they have enough rain to be self sufficient. They could feed themselves, but they need new ways of doing things."

He said the per capita income in the African nation is something like $75 per year. "They have got to develop more teachers and next year, they are trying to implement a plan which requires that all children complete at least the seventh grade."

The first five hundred memberships in NLA are available to all persons holding professional degrees who are practicing librarians or library educators.

Persons interested in becoming members of the NLA should apply for membership through a letter of application. The letter should include the name, address, current professional position, and professional education of the applicant. Also, $20.00 is required as membership dues.

National Librarians Association should supply for membership a letter of application. The letter should include the name, address, current professional position, and professional education of the applicant. Also, $20.00 is required as membership dues.

Why Wait?

The severity of the current economic recession, when measured in terms of the total number of Americans directly affected by the unwarranted high unemployment rate, amplifies the genuine lack of commitment on the part of the Ford Administration for the economic well-being of most Americans.

The President prefers to refer to these hard times as a recession or inflation. I prefer to use the word "depression" in reference to the present state of the economy. For, as Blacks, we should know this is a depression. We have never really been out of depression.

Even the nation's economists don't know what to do to make the economy healthy again. Nor is the current unemployment problem about to improve the situation any. Over eight and a half million people have been forced out of jobs by an unrelenting Ford Administration which feels that the needs of big business are greater than the needs of the people.

HEW attempts to give us some encouragement. In spite of the fact that unemployment is pushing the welfare rolls up, HEW finds contentment in saying that the increase is bearing the burden of record joblessness. It seems that this will last through next year. Thus, we are expected to continue to support what he is waiting on.

There are some students on this campus who are more concerned about present fashions and the economy. For, as Blacks, we should know this is a recession or inflation. I prefer to use the word "depression" in reference to the present state of the economy. For, as Blacks, we should know this is a depression. We have never really been out of depression.

The above statement is quite true; evidence of it can be seen clearly on this campus. A lot has been said about Black Americans receiving the short end of the stick when it comes to educational needs. It is true that we have been shortchanged because of discrimination. However, many Blacks short change themselves by accepting the conditions as they are.

The above statement is quite true; evidence of it can be seen clearly on this campus. There are some students on this campus who are more concerned about present fashions and parties more so than trying to improve on the quality of education they now receive.

Where Does Bickering Lie

This is a fair reflection of the OCR's spirit of unreasonableness. Even if a second vet school were needed, which it isn't, building such a school would mean "a diversion of scarce resources that would adversely affect all of the other 15 constituent institutions of the university," as UNC officials have pointed out. The only justification for such racially motivated duplication, they have rightly observed, "would be to accommod a 'separate but equal' rationale" which rationale, it will recalling, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down 26 years ago.

UNC officials make several other telling points in their response to OCR's complaints. For one, they note that a multi-campus university system soon would exhaust its available funds if it had to duplicate facilities whenever black and white campuses filed rival requests for new programs, and the programs were allocated in such a way as to displese the OCR, which is to say if they were allocated to the white campus. For another, they wonder what the hurry is all about. Since the vet school's location is the subject of a U.S. District Court, whose decree will be binding on UNC and the OCR on which has been issued, the OCR must wait until resolution of the question at the administrative level.

UNC officials are too polite in their official comments to speculate on OCR's motivation, but surely Hercules Poitier need not be consulted. The OCR is infuriated with its own authority and hipped on the subject of race, nor is it not available funds.

Let There Be Light

By Mary E. Cropps

Will A&T students have to play tennis in the light of the moon if they want to play at night when the new tennis courts are finished?

If you talk to the chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Dept., Dr. Roy Moore, tennis players will have no choice but to play by the light of the moon if they prefer to play at night, because there will be no lights.

On the other hand, Tennis Coach Matt Brown, plans to put his team against other teams on the tennis courts he says will be well-lighted.

Still another opinion on the subject comes from Gerald Gray, director of the physical plant. He says the tennis courts will not be lighted immediately but later.

So, who is right and who is in a position to know the answer?

Many students are interested in playing tennis and many of them may not have an opportunity to play other than at night. It is obvious that the question of lights needs to be answered before the courts are opened for use. The students who will use them and who helped to pay for them have a right to know.

We Must Act Now

By Benjamin Forbes

A lot has been said about Black Americans receiving the short end of the stick when it comes to educational needs. It is true that we have been shortchanged because of discrimination. However, many Blacks shortchange themselves by accepting the conditions as they are.

The above statement is quite true; evidence of it can be seen clearly on this campus. There are some students on this campus who are more concerned about present fashions and parties more so than trying to improve on the quality of education they now receive.

It seems that Black students today are less concerned about certain issues that will affect them in the long run than they used to be in the late 60's. During the sixties, A&T was known for its financial contributions to the Greensboro Black community and the nation. Today A&T only has its past to look back on. The main thing that is so depressing, is the fact that there are only a few people who are concerned about this situation.

There are many, things which we the students here at A&T can do to assure ourselves and others of a first class education. All of these things we can do can be summed up in one word: STRUGGLE.

It is hoped that we can make the cynical changes needed to make the dream of a first class education a reality. If we don't take that initial step now, it may never be taken. We must act now, if not for the sake of A&T, then for the sake of ourselves.
Editor, The Record

During the past several months, the controversy over where the School of Veterinary Medicine should be located in North Carolina has created a good deal of rhetoric, fallacious assumptions and backdoor stats at A&T State University and the quality of its programs. Unfortunately, for reasons difficult for us to understand, the daily press of Greensboro has been in the forefront of these articles and editorials, which range from complete misstatements of the facts as we know them to the urging of public officials in North Carolina to defy established authorities, including HEW directives, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the “equal protection clause” of the 14th Amendment, and the Supreme Court decision of 1954, which applies to higher education as well as elementary and secondary education.

The attack seems to have two main threats. The first is that HEW is populated with over zealous bureaucrats who are making trouble for the North Carolina system of higher education. We have no comment on this except to enforce the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. HEW is under court order to do so. The second one is more ominous and destructive, because it denigrates the achievements and progress made by a fine university, in spite of decades of disproportionate funding on the part of the state.

No one connected with the daily press in Greensboro has made a single telephone call or visit to the campus to ascertain what the quality of support facilities would be at A&T if the decision were made to place the School of Veterinary Medicine here. There are 15 schools of veterinary medicine, and they are located in schools where facilities, quantitatively and qualitatively, are smaller than those at A&T and larger than at N.C. State. In short, discussion of the quality of facilities has no meaningfulness one has the facts regarding the two campuses. In light of this, we should like to make the following points:

1. A&T State University is not a party to, and in no way involved in, the current suit in the federal courts as it relates to the designation of higher education in North Carolina and as it has been amended to include an injunction against placing the School of Veterinary Medicine at N.C. State in Raleigh. The complainants and parties in this suit have no official connection with A&T whatsoever. The suit is independent of A&T and includes all of the public universities in the state.

2. The assumption that North Carolina State would automatically be a better site for the facilities in question is fallacious and is based on the legacy of “separate but equal.” The educational programs here at A&T have the same regional and national accreditation as those at N.C. State. While State has certainly received the lion’s share of state appropriations over the years, we are now in the forefront of the development of this university from mediocrity to excellence. The foundation is the recipient of all extramural funds and equipment. The foundation channels money, equipment and personnel into the university’s academic programs.

3. There have been very few changes in our budget in terms of academic development under the umbrella of the state university system. The amounts of change are public record. The figures can be had through the offices of the Board of Governors and the legislature. The A&T University Foundation Inc. has been the major single factor in the development of this university from mediocrity to excellence. The foundation is the recipient of all extramural funds and equipment. The foundation channels money, equipment and personnel into the university’s academic programs.

4. It is dangerous and presumptuous to speculate about what the court will do. However, if past experience means anything, if the Civil Rights Act of 1964 means anything, and if the 1954 Supreme Court decision means anything, then there is a probability that the State of North Carolina, in regard to its attitude and treatment of predominantly black public universities, will be weighed in the balance and found wanting. There is simply no evidence to document the questioning of the qualifications of the facilities in Greensboro, let alone to prove that they are obsolete.

5. The issue here is really not the School of Veterinary Medicine, but the quality of all schools of higher education in the state. Is it not the duty of the university officials who have sworn to uphold the law of the land to set the quality of all schools of higher education in the state?

6. There is precious little hope for the University of North Carolina to go to the private foundations or the corporate community to go to the private foundations or the corporate community for the millions of dollars that are needed. The corporate community in the world are certainly receiving the lion’s share of corporate contributions. The private foundations have been generous to the University of North Carolina, but they are no longer making contributions available. The University of North Carolina is no longer a party to the OCR’s determination of its case.

African Dance Company Will Present Concert

The A&T State University Lyceum Committee will present the Ishango African Dance Company in concert on September 8 at 8:00 p.m. in Harrison Auditorium.

In addition to dancing, the company will sing and perform instrumentations and give a lecture. The lecture will take place in the Student Union in Rooms 213, 214, and 215.

Drop-Add Period Begins Wednesday, September 3

By Harry C. Johnson

The University-wide drop/add period is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 3, 1975, and end Thursday September 4, 1975, at 4:30 p.m. The respective stations will be located in Crosby Hall. Schedule cards may be picked up in the lobby and cards may be validated in Room 109.

Students must bring their validated cashier's receipt, and their original validated schedule to the cashier's office in order to pick up their new card.

To add a course, students must bring a class card from the appropriate department before going to the validation station.

Students who registered for less than 12 hours, and are increasing the number of credit hours, must go by the Cashier's Office in order to pick up any cards for the new semester before reporting to Crosby Hall.

This will be the last chance to add a course and late registration for the fall semester. However, courses can be dropped up until November 6. The student must obtain from the instructor the instructor's class student card for the class to be dropped.

Students who registered for 12 or more hours, but who have reduced their total number of hours to less than 12 hours, should go by the Cashier's Office for financial credit.

It is important to keep and read the schedule of classes and registration instructions publication for the fall semester. It contains very important information for the entire semester. The last day to remove incompletes received during the spring semester or summer session 1975 is Friday, October 1, 1975.

New Talent Will Help Team

By Craig Turner

Some highly touted freshmen have entered the A&T football camp for the 1975 season.

Most of the help has come to the defense, which was crippled by nearly every offense it faced last season.

Two defensive linemen of special note are Dwaine Board (6-2, 240) from Union Station, Winston-Salem.

The linebacking corps needed a big size and depth, and a pretty strong return specialist with excellent speed.

Coach Horsby Howell has found a replacement for punter AT Holland. Mike Howell (6-1, 190) averaged 46 yards a kick last season for Greensboro's Dudley High. Howell is also the son of the head coach.

Linden Nibbs (6-2, 240), a tackle, found his way to A&T from Asphalt High (6-2, 240) in Richmond, Virginia. The massive physical specimen matches with 6-3, 243-pound George Small of Richmond.

George Blakey (6-2, 230) is a transfer from Cheatham County Central. Ken Villeponteaux (6-2, 230) is a product of Lees-McRae.

The junior college ranks are also responsible for wide receiver Jim Garrison (5-10, 170) of Chowan.

The University-wide drop/add period is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 3, 1975, and end Thursday September 4, 1975, at 4:30 p.m. The respective stations will be located in Crosby Hall. Schedule cards may be picked up in the lobby and cards may be validated in Room 109.

Students must bring their validated cashier's receipt, and their original validated schedule to the cashier's office in order to pick up their new card.

To add a course, students must bring a class card from the appropriate department before going to the validation station.

Students who registered for less than 12 hours, and are increasing the number of credit hours, must go by the Cashier's Office in order to pick up any cards for the new semester before reporting to Crosby Hall.

This will be the last chance to add a course and late registration for the fall semester. However, courses can be dropped up until November 6. The student must obtain from the instructor the instructor's class student card for the class to be dropped.

Students who registered for 12 or more hours, but who have reduced their total number of hours to less than 12 hours, should go by the Cashier's Office for financial credit.

It is important to keep and read the schedule of classes and registration instructions publication for the fall semester. It contains very important information for the entire semester. The last day to remove incompletes received during the spring semester or summer session 1975 is Friday, October 1, 1975.

New Talent Will Help Team

By Craig Turner

Some highly touted freshmen have entered the A&T football camp for the 1975 season.

Most of the help has come to the defense, which was crippled by nearly every offense it faced last season.

Two defensive linemen of special note are Dwaine Board (6-2, 240) from Union Station, Winston-Salem.

The linebacking corps needed a big size and depth, and a pretty strong return specialist with excellent speed.

Coach Horsby Howell has found a replacement for punter AT Holland. Mike Howell (6-1, 190) averaged 46 yards a kick last season for Greensboro's Dudley High. Howell is also the son of the head coach.

Linden Nibbs (6-2, 240), a tackle, found his way to A&T from Asphalt High (6-2, 240) in Richmond, Virginia. The massive physical specimen matches with 6-3, 243-pound George Small of Richmond.

George Blakey (6-2, 230) is a transfer from Cheatham County Central. Ken Villeponteaux (6-2, 230) is a product of Lees-McRae.

The junior college ranks are also responsible for wide receiver Jim Garrison (5-10, 170) of Chowan.

African Dance Company Will Present Concert

The A&T State University Lyceum Committee will present the Ishango African Dance Company in concert on September 8 at 8:00 p.m. in Harrison Auditorium.

In addition to dancing, the company will sing and perform instrumentations and give a lecture. The lecture will take place in the Student Union in Rooms 213, 214, and 215.

Drop-Add Period Begins Wednesday, September 3

A lot of events are taking place on the A&T athletic scene, some of which will prove to be interesting in future weeks.

Supporters in the Aggie camp are happy about the naming of Athletic Director Cal Irvin to the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association Selection Committee.

This, of course, is the group that decides who is to appear in the National Invitational Tournament (N-I.T.), which is New York City's oldest sports event each year.

Hopefully, Coach Irvin will be able to shed some light in the direction of some very deserving Black college basketball teams.

It seems that teams just at the caliber of A&T, Jackson St., Norfolk, Grambling, and Southern were overlooked entirely because they played against "inferior" opposition.

It is amazing that the N.I.T. officials can pick a former coach from one of these "inferior" teams to help select a field for a nationwide tourney, yet those same teams can't seem to get invited to that event.

Elsworth Turner appeared to be on the outs last week as his academic status rendered him helpless to the football team.

However, the sophomore sensation of a year ago was reinstated. It is not known whether A&T's present quarterback, Steve Ryan, will remain in his top position or not. But one would suspect that Turner will be treated like any one else and he'll have to work himself back into the lineup. As of right now, things haven't changed in the Aggie camp.

A&T is going to have a big promotion day Saturday that will feature the band, players, coaches, and film highlights at Friendly Shopping Center.

I wonder how much editing had to be done on last year's films. Anyway, Aggies are urged to come and enjoy the festivities.

Virus Overtakes S.C. Bulldogs

ORANGEBURG, S.C.
AP-About 70 football players at South Carolina State are suffering from mononucleosis and Asian measles has been suspended for the remainder of this week.

Coach Jeffries, referring to the illness as a virus, said the situation was "becoming serious and we're very concerned about it."

The illness leaves in doubt the status of State's opening game against Gardner-Webb, scheduled Sept. 6 in Orangeburg.

Jeffries suspended practices earlier in the week. He said the team was sluggish and fatigued.

"I've been told that a virus has run its course just like a common cold and that one of the most important factors is getting plenty of rest," said Jeffries. "The doctor has said the harder we practice, the worse it's going to get, so we've had to really slow down."

The Bulldogs are defending champions in the Mid-East Athletic Conference.

In a few more days, shoots such as ace, match point, and game-love, will be heard on the new courts.

Tennis buffs at A&T should be happy to hear that A&T's tennis courts will be ready for use in about two weeks. According to Gerard Gay, director of the physical plant, the eight tennis courts will soon be completed.

Located south of East Gymnasium, at the corner of Market and Booker streets, the eight courts should be easily accessible to A&T students. The courts are all-weather composition courts made from a mixture of concrete and asphalt which gives them a spongy surface.

The tennis courts will be fenced in and equipped with water fountains. However, the question of lighting the court area is yet to be answered.

According to Dr. Roy Moore, chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department, the tennis courts will not be lighted.

He said that "with price increases and the economic scene, we had to forego lights to get all of the courts in."

However, A&T tennis coach Matt Brown said his team will play a six-team conference schedule. Coach Brown said, "The courts will have a good lighting system with lights on the side instead of overhead."

Regardig lighting of the tennis courts, Gray stated that the courts will not be lighted immediately upon opening but plans are for them to be lighted later.

Regulations concerning use of the tennis courts after class hours are being drawn up by a tennis committee Dr. Moore said. When these regulations are finished, they will be published in the student newspaper and posted around campus, he added.

Dr. Moore said that he hopes the courts will generate more interest in the sports on campus although there is a great deal of interest now. He also said that he hopes there will be other tennis courts here.

"Students shouldn't have to go to the stadium to play tennis," Dr. Moore commented.
