A program designed to attract more minority students to law schools in North Carolina will be held Saturday, November 12, at the UNC School of Law in Chapel Hill.

The program, which is becoming an annual event, is sponsored by the Minority Law Students Association in cooperation with the Student Bar Association. Recruitment is primarily directed toward college level Blacks and Indians from throughout the state who are interested in attending a North Carolina law school.

The goals of the program are outlined as follows: 1) to interest minority students in law and careers in the legal profession; 2) to assist students in applying to law school, and to aid them in their selection of a particular law school; 3) to provide information at an early time as to the nature of law school curriculums in general.

The number of participants in the program last year totaled approximately 100 students and an even larger group is anticipated this year. The schedule of events this year includes informal panel discussions with representative administrators from N.C. law schools, a panel discussion on "The Realities of Being a Minority Lawyer," and small group question and answer sessions.

The discussions are designed to inform students on admissions policies and financial aid matters. Students will also gain valuable information concerning legal careers in the various areas of the law.

The program will begin with registration at 8:00 A.M., Saturday, November 15, in the law school and will conclude with a buffet-style dinner for all participants.

Panelists who have been invited to attend include Charles Daye, a UNC law professor; Carol Taylor of Durham legal aid; Pinkey Moses, a Fayetteville public defender; Daniel Blue of the Terry Sanford law firm; Bill Batey, a Winston-Salem attorney. Betty Jo Joint of the Indian Commission; Frank Bullock, a Durham attorney, and the Honorable George Green. The program provides an excellent opportunity for those legally inclined to meet and interact with knowledgeable attorneys in various areas of the legal profession. All sincerely interested minority students should make an effort to attend and participate in this program.

A&T Agriculture Grad To Speak At Conference

William E. Oliver, A&T agriculture education graduate, has been invited to make a special presentation as representative of new teachers in agriculture in the South East to the National Conference of Student Teachers in Agricultural Education, which convenes in Kansas City, Missouri, November 10-15, 1975. He will review cogent activities and experiences which have occurred during his first year. Oliver is currently employed at the Midway High School in Sampson County.

The presenter will select twelve (12) color slides which depict significant phases of his teaching career. The program includes photographs of the school officials meeting with the Agricultural Advisory Council; PFA activities, including work with the PFA Alumni Affiliates; teaching activities in agricultural mechanics and horticulture, supervised occupational experiences and experiences in the legal profession.

The program will begin with registration at 8:00 A.M., Saturday, November 15, in the law school and will conclude with a buffet-style dinner for all participants.

Remarkable Gains Made By Blacks In Elections

ATLANTA. AP - At least 72 Black candidates won offices in Mississippi and three Georgia cities have Black city councilmen for the first time, a spokesman for the Voter Education VEP project said.

"It was really a remarkable showing, building on gains made in earlier years," said John Lewis, executive director of the Atlanta-based organization which works to assist minority political participation in the South.

Three Black state representatives will join an incumbent who won reelection in the next session of the Mississippi Legislature, a spokesman said.

In addition, Lewis said Mississippi voters approved Blacks to take office as two tax assessors, four coroners, eight justices of the peace and 20 constables in local elections.

In Georgia, five Blacks won election to the Macon City Council; two were elected to the Atlanta City Commission, and four Amerindian voters elected the first Black to their city council.

The Macon and Albany black legislatures by Black candidates were at least partially due to switches to election by ward rather than at-large. The Albany change was ordered by a federal court. The Macon switch by the state legislature.

State Supreme Court Refuses Challenge of Citation

RALEIGH AP - The North Carolina Supreme Court said it would not hear a challenge by William Kunstler of a contempt of court citation the New York attorney received during the Joan Little murder trial.

No comment accompanied the court's refusal. Superior Court Judge Hamilton H. Hobaugh found Kunstler in contempt Aug. 4 for remarks made in court and sent him to jail for two hours.

Kunstler had petitioned the court to join the team defending Miss Little, who was charged with murdering a Beaufort County jailer Clarence Alligood. After Hobaugh denied the petition, Kunstler remained standing and said he was glad to see the quality of justice in North Carolina hadn't changed.

Hobaugh ordered Kunstler to sit down and warned that he should not make any more such statements. Kunstler did not comply and was jailed.

The North Carolina Court of Appeals refused last month to review the contempt citation. Kunstler's attorney could not be reached Wednesday to determine if a further appeal would be made. They could petition the federal courts for review.

Kunstler arrived in Raleigh Aug. 3. He told reporters before the contempt citation that he had a plane ticket to leave Raleigh the afternoon of Aug. 4.

"Tunnel" Casts Insults

How often is it that we pass by Scott Hall's Section B? Most of the students probably pass through this area at least once every day. Every time you pass through this area you will undoubtedly see students (mostly athletes) lined along both sides of the sidewalks and sitting on overturned trash cans.

More often than not, each passerby receives a comment from this "human tunnel." This is especially true for the females. These comments range from nice compliments to vulgar and obscene insults—more of the latter than the former.

Many of the victims of the insults have tried to retaliate by returning insults. It only takes a few seconds for them to find that these efforts are in vain. Not only do the other members of the "tunnel" help to insult the victim more, but the victim learns that the "tunnel" is composed of the type of people whom you can't embarrass, mainly because they have no pride to begin with.

I often wonder why the school housed the athletes in this section of the dorm. It would have been much more logical to put them in Section C, where the freshmen are put and let the freshmen live in Section B. To begin with, this would put the athletes next to Moore Gym, where they have a majority of their classes. But, better yet, the freshman students act a great deal more disciplined than most of the athletes.

Discrimination Reversed

By Benjamin T. Forbes

The Supreme Court is being faced with a very difficult decision. It has to deal with the problem of white rights and race discrimination. In the past years many of the nation's largest industries have had to hire more Blacks and women due to the pressure being put on them by a variety of civil rights and women's activist groups.

With the advent of the economic crisis, and the subsequent loss of thousands of jobs, many of these industries were confronted with the dilemma of choosing which workers would be laid-off. In most cases the first hired were the first to be fired, meaning mostly Blacks were fired. Therefore the old situation of discrimination was thrown back into the limelight.

Blacks became outraged as unemployment began to rise. However, not all Blacks were laid-off. There were those who were able to avoid becoming an unemployment statistic. Their counterparts, most of whom had more seniority, lost their jobs instead. This situation brought about the question of white rights. Should seniority be the determining factor in deciding which workers have to go in times of economic difficulty?

This heated debate can be viewed from two different aspects. First of all there is the situation brought about by the Black worker. He has replaced the white worker who has been discriminated against most of his life. He now has the job he has wanted but had never been able to obtain until now. He has replaced the white worker who has had more experience.

The Black man is now in the position of being the discriminator instead of being the one discriminated against. This is a problem which he did not cause but which was perpetuated by his white counterpart's forefathers who established the first racist hiring policies. The shoe is now on the other foot; the white man must wear it. He can now experience the Black man's feelings of resentment and bitterness.

When the Supreme Court makes its decision, one side will be hurt. Neither side will win because when such a system was set up, the odds were in favor of no one.
Students Voice Opinions On Workings Of SGA

Maxine McNell

Whether or not students feel the Student Government Association (SGA) is working is a question that all students have asked at one time or another. The SGA is supposed to be representing the students here at A&T. If the students feel that they are being misrepresented, then they should be bold enough to say so.

When this writer went around asking students whether or not they think the SGA is working, only a few bold students would comment. Patricia Rice, a sophomore history major, said she doesn't think the SGA is as effective as it should be. She also said that she hasn't seen anything that the SGA has accomplished this year. Patricia was vice-president of her freshman class last year.

"Students don't seem to be interested in the things going on around campus," said Sherry Purvis, an advanced sophomore nursing major. "How can the SGA govern without student participation? If it is working, most students don't have much knowledge about it," she added.

An advanced English major, Tammy Stewart, also said that she doesn't think the SGA is accomplishing anything. She went on to say that the SGA incites all the students but over half the students don't know what is going on most of the time.

Debra Daniels, a junior English major, said that, in a whole she doubts the SGA is as effective as it should be. "I'm not familiar with all its functions but it's apparent to me that it is in need of improvement," she added.

Patricia Rice was in agreement over that idea that they feel the SGA should have more say so over the groups that appear for homecoming festivities.

Lavalle Adams and Patricia Williams were in agreement over that idea that they feel the SGA should have more say so over the groups that appear for homecoming festivities.

Lavalle also said that there should be more educational programs on campus. "I have confidence in the SGA and I back Ted Mangum," said Lavalle, "but I think we should have more Black programs and speakers on Nikki Giovanni and the Last Poets."
There was some speculation earlier in the year about
A&T, possibly finishing the year with a highly respectable 9-2 record.

That particular dream is going to come under a most severe test this Saturday afternoon as the Aggies will travel a 1,000 miles or so to do something no other MEAC club has done before.

How does A&T view defeating Grambling? Well very simply, the Aggies are going to have to play flawless football with a minimum of "foul ups."

Last season A&T grabbed a 10-6 halftime lead over the Tigers at Shea Stadium in New York City.

But things were indeed too good to be true as the Tigers do not possess the team spirit as in the past. The team, the men are now so confident of their ability that the 39-16 final would attest to the fact that the "G-men"
Tigers at Shea Stadium in New York City.

The Grambling State Tigers are presently rated second in the Southern Athletic Conference quarterback Doug Williams. Their rushing attack is led by All-American Sammar White (6-2, 190) in the wingback, Doughty Scales (6-3,275) in the split end, with great moves. Both were clocked well under 9.4 in the day yard dash.

The running backs are fullback David Dixon (6-2,230)
and Fallon Bush (5-11,180).
Grambling's wide receivers are among the best in the nation. All America. Sammie White (6-2, 190) is the wingback, Doughty Scales (6-3, 275) is the split end with great moves. Both were clocked well under 9.4 in the day yard dash.

The defensive line is nearly impenetrable. It has been presented, supreme confidence has enabled him to win a game at 10:30 a.m. with its UNC-G counter part Saturday.
Although injuries will rob our Grambling University of its best talent next season. There is still ample talent among the players.

A MEAC title is taking shape as front runner South Carolina State was upset by once beaten North Carolina Central in Durham last weekend, 6-3, before an Eagle crowd of 10,000.

South Carolina State will face Maryland-Eastern Shore and Delaware State. They are currently tied with A&T for second spot at 3-1.

This will be a "one shot affair" during the next three weeks. Whoever wins the MEAC championship is going to have to earn it. That's for sure.

A long period of soul searching, weighing both loyalty and good sense, and strengths against weaknesses, I still find a prediction somewhat difficult to make.

James Lilly's father died during his earby year here and this kept him from playing for the Aggies until last season. Coming from college, he was not as well known as Charlotte. Lilly had not seen Annapolis until he came for the football program.

Although football has given him many great moments, Lilly says he is going to graduate in May rather than play his other two years of football. "If a professional offer comes along, I will look at it, but I am planning to start working," Lilly noted.

Size may be a problem, but that is about all.

James Lilly Predicts A Win

The tackles are Ricky Grant (6-2, 245) and All-SWAC Ronald Carter (6-1,260). James Robinson's Tigers have moved to guard from tackle and will team with Sammar Whites (6-1, 240).

The defense for Grambling has not been a strong point this year.
There is still ample talent to cause problems for opposing teams.

One thing is for certain, A&T will try to exploit the Grambling weakness in the offense and defense.

"But," Lilly emphasizes, "we are ready to bring pride to A&T.

Study Reveals Dismal Picture

WASHINGTON AP - The U.S. Office of Education studied this week released results of a four-year study which indicate that more than 2.3 million U.S. adults are functionally illiterate, meaning they are unable to do such things as read help-wanted ads or make the most economical purchases.

"It is surprising, perhaps even shocking," the report said, "to suggest that approximately one of five Americans is incompetent or functions with difficulty and that about half of the adult population is merely functionally and not at all proficient in necessary skill and knowledges."

Almost 30 percent of 34.7 million persons aged 10 to 65 years of age flanked consumer economics and another 35 million were "functional but not proficient in such tests as reading a newspaper grocery ad."

In computations, such as determining the unit prior for various sized boxes of breakfast cereal, 39 million adults fell into the lowest scoring category and 16 percent of the white adult population was in the lowest category, compared with 44 percent of Blacks and 56 percent of Spanish-surnamed persons.

"The greatest competence was at least as strong as it was last season. The all-day tournament should offer plenty of excitement and good competition based on the caliber of the teams competing."

Each team will be allowed 20 wrestlers and each wrestler will have two matches. The event starts at 9:00 a.m. with the preliminaries and first round bouts. The semifinals begin at 5:00 p.m. and the finals are slated for 7:00 p.m.

Pinckney commented that last year's tournament was very successful and he is anticipating more success this year. The admission fee is $1.00 for students with I.D. cards and $1.50 for others. Anyone with questions should contact Coach Mel Pinckney in Moore Gym or call 379-7719.

Aggie Wrestlers Prepare For Annual Tournament

By Nicole Cannon

Coach Mel Pinckney and the A&T wrestling team are preparing for their first action of the season. The second annual A&T Invitational Wrestling Tournament will be held in Moore Gymnasium on November 21.

In addition to the hosting Aggies, the tournament will feature Campbell College, Elon College, Catawba College, Winston-Salem State University, Livingstone College, Elizabethtown College, Catawba College, and Barber Scotia College.

"This is the first wrestling event of the year and it is a really big thing for a lot of the schools," Coach Pinckney commented. This will be the first chance for Aggie fans to see the MEAC champs of 1974-75 in action and on paper the team is another one-fourth, 29.5 million, scored in the medium range, suggesting they were functional but not proficient.

The greatest competence was scored in writing, with almost three-fifths of the adult population performing adequately, but 16.4 percent or 18.9 million persons were "unable to cope successfully," the report said.

Combining the skills in nine areas measured through tests and interviews with thousands of adults during the four years, the researchers said during that 19.7 percent scored in the low range, 33.9 percent in the medium range and 46.4 percent in the high or proficient range.

The study found that the functionally incompetent were likely to be older, uneducated, unskilled and perhaps unemployed, and living in poverty.

Sixteen percent of the white population was in the lowest category, compared with 44 percent of Blacks and 56 percent of Spanish-surnamed persons.

"Eighteenth Century England and the Loss of the American Colonies" will be presented today by Dr. Ethel Franklin Taylor, Associate Professor of English, at Campus Union Ballroom, November 9, 1975, at 3:00 p.m.

Dance at the Cosmos I, Saturday morning, Nov. 8, from 2 a.m. until 6 a.m. Admission $1.00 with student I.D. Sponsored by Alpha Phi Alpha.

Dr. Eugene Canutols and Dr. J. Len Stokes, II, from Meharry Medical College will be visiting our campus, recruiting students on Monday, November 10. A group meeting and discussion with interested students will be held on the same date at 7:00 p.m. in Barnes Hall. All students interested are asked to be present.

Dance in Moore Gym, Saturday Nov. 8, at 8:00 p.m. Music will be provided by the Chocolate Funk Band. Admission: $1.00. Sponsored by the Political Science Society and the SGA.

recently scored at a 30-point clip per game. Grambling's defense has been shy and a little too loose this year. But, when you play in front of the home folks, those little faults tend to disappear.

Based on that basis, here are this week's predictions. I certainly hope my record receives a loss this year.

It's true. The opportunities you'll have as a Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate are far from ordinary. Just ask Lieutenant Junior Grade Charles Collier, from Baltimore, Maryland. Chuck's a nuclear trained Naval Officer taking advanced studies in the field of nuclear submarine operations. It's tough, but he thinks it's worth it. Because Chuck's next assignment will be in a nuclear powered Polaris submarine. Destination: the world.

Do you think you have what it takes to become a NUPOC? First, you have to be a college senior, or graduate with a good knowledge of math, physics, or engineering. You'll also need talent... ability... and character. All the things it takes to be a leader of men and to deal with the challenges of "innerspace."

The graduate level training you'll receive in our NUPOC program will prepare you for supervising the operation of our nuclear propulsion plants on either nuclear surface ships or submarines. You'll work alongside a hand picked crew of experts. And remember, it's a Nuclear Age. The knowledge you get today will be in demand tomorrow.

You get a lot in return, too. You receive a Naval Officer's commission. Have a guaranteed income while you're learning. And a chance to travel and have some fun. Talk with your Navy Officer Recruiter today about our NUPOC program, or call toll free 800-841-8000. In Georgia, call toll free 800-342-3855. NUPOC: it means Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate. But it spells opportunity!

The opportunity is for real...and so are we. NAVY
