Black Revolutionist Speaks Here

By Maxine McNeil

After a brief introduction by SGA president, Ted Mangum, the students and faculty members who were present were given an informative speech by Stokley Carmichael.

Carmichael has been involved in the Black Revolution movement for a number of years.

Carmichael began his speech by saying that he saw the Black students of the 60's turn the world around. He said that he saw them rock capitalism. "Students have the power to do this, but they have to take themselves seriously to have a revolution," he said.

Carmichael added, "Black students' sole purpose for coming to the University should be to free the people." He said that if we just came here to study our majors, that we are "stupid students".

A Black student can study and become the best doctor in the world, but, if he doesn't try to help other Blacks, he won't be free," he added.

Carmichael continued, "If you're not helping free the people, then you're helping the aggressors to oppress the people. Blacks are being oppressed everywhere." He also said that working to free the people isn't a part time job. We can't stop working at this job for one second."

Carmichael said that America tries to confuse Blacks. He said that everything America teaches Blacks about Black people is a lie. He added that we shouldn't accept these lies as truths. He continued by saying that truth is objective to the point because it's based on scientific reality. He said that Black students must be very critical, that they must test the truths.

Carmichael said that in order for Blacks all over the continent to be free that we all must start from the beginning. He said that all Blacks' beginning is Africa, but whites have done everything they could to cover up Africa. He defended this statement by saying that whites only show movies which depict a negative picture of Africa. He used the Tarzan movies as an example.

"Ever since Blacks came in contact with capitalism," said Carmichael, "they've tried to destroy it. We have to destroy the capitalistic system and build a socialistic system. We have to fight to build this and revolution is trying to get people together to build this by using the scientific method."

Carmichael said that our first step in becoming free is organization. "Africa is our primary goal," he said; "but Africa has to be organized fist because, as long as Africa is weak, then Blacks all over the world will be weak. If the Black man in Africa is strong then the Black man everywhere is strong."

He said that, if we obtain

The use and abuse of hard drugs on campus have decreased, according to Norwood McMillan, director of campus security. McMillan said that hard narcotics were more prevalent during 1971, 1972 and 1973 than they are now.

The most widely used narcotic now is marijuana, McMillan said. But even the use of this drug has decreased slightly.

As far as arrests for possession of marijuana is concerned, McMillan said that he had adopted a wait-and-see policy. By this he means that campus police do not adhere to a strict search policy as before.

McMillan expressed his desire to give everyone the benefit of the doubt. Now he is waiting until the end of the semester to see how his new policy has worked out.

In explaining the new attitude further, McMillan stated that he is in the process of letting students decide for themselves whether they will indulge in the use of drugs or not.

McMillan Views Drug Problems

"Students should make decisions they can live with," McMillan observed. "They should take their education in one hand and the use of marijuana in the other and weigh them. Which is more important?"

Continuing, McMillan pointed out that, when a student makes his decision and the decision is to use marijuana and he gets caught, then he should not blame the police or the administration."

The fate of students arrested on campus for possession of drugs is hanging in the balance at this time. McMillan said he is waiting for a meeting of the minds between the Student Government Association and the University Tribunal.

Although Dr. Waverlyn Rice, chairman of the Tribunal, sent McMillan a letter asking him to take all drug cases to the city police, McMillan said he has not taken any action on the matter.

Gospel Choir Members To Travel To Georgia

By Debra K. Daniel

Fifty-five members and the advisors of the A&T Fellowship Gospel Choir will represent A&T at the Third Annual National Black College Gospel Choir Festival on November 28-30. This event will take place in Atlanta, Georgia, at West Hunter Street Baptist Church. Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy is the pastor.

Choirs from all across the nation will come for several purposes. One is to reclaim the richness of the Black Religious Heritage. Another is to validate the authenticity of Black gospel music.

Other purposes include being in ministry to Black college youth, building models of worship that will transform temporary emotion into permanent motion, and strengthening the bond between the campus and the church.

It's not the Ramsey Lewis Trio anymore, babycakes. The old tightness and brightness and free-spiritedness are still very much around, but a lot more has come to stay: percussion, vocals, flute, even some electronics.

Carmichael Expresses His Ideas

By Daryl E. Smith

"Elements which make up the struggle to build Bridges over troubled waters are (1) Black people need the same platform of philosophy (2) Discipline, and (3) respect for leadership."

"We must know how to direct our energies in the community and how to direct them toward total society improvement."

The above statements are excerpts of two different speeches delivered by Stokley Carmichael, March 1971, September 25, 1973, before friends of the university, students, faculty and administrators here at A&T.

Stokley Carmichael lives and works in Conakry, Republic of Guinea West Africa, with his wife, one daughter, and two grandchildren.

In an exclusive interview, arranged through the SGA, at The Register's office, this reporter, along with others present, talked with and asked probing questions of Stokley Carmichael.

Asked what he thought was top priority for Black students and Black people, Carmichael said, "The building of a party and the organizing of the people is the only solution to our problem, Pan-Africanism."

Asked what is the first step toward obtaining that particular goal, Carmichael said, "Constant political education of people, and students will have to happen in order for total revolution to take hold."

He continued, "If you don't do that, it gives the enemy more time to structure their struggle against the revolutionary forces."

Asked to define what he means by scientific socialism, Carmichael said, "People must own and control the means of production, plus there is no corruption of man against man."

Asked if he had and wanted to give his opinion about Eldridge Cleaver's returning to the United States, Carmichael said, "No comment."

Asked what he thought about Blacks and the Bicentennial, Carmichael replied, "Bicentennial means nothing, because we are not free." He continued, "Black people need constant organizing against repression. Black students have the responsibility to acquire as much knowledge as possible so they can serve the people."

Asked what his thoughts were concerning the American atmosphere, Carmichael said, "Overall, the crisis of capitalism is becoming more severe, making the need for revolution more right."

"The capitalist society is showing its weakness to all people and more people are becoming more aware of the problem. It's going to get worse, not better."

Asked what effect Watergate had on people outside the country, Carmichael said, "Watergate had a great effect, especially on people inside this country. What Watergate showed was the corruption inside the government, and it has affected white people hard."

Carmichael said, "Black folks knew Nixon. They changed the tide of votes for Kennedy against Nixon, so they already knew where he was coming from."

He continued, "For the first time in America, white folks lost confidence in the government."

Asked to comment on South Africa, Carmichael said, "I look forward to it, we are going to win."

Asked why many Black people don't know which side of the fence to be on, Carmichael said, "Intensified pressure has been placed on the Black masses. Illusions have been projected to the masses that a victory has been won. The white media try to bury the Black undercurrents at all times, to make Black progress seem to be going backwards."

Stokley Carmichael ended his statements by answering the question, what can the average Joe college student do, Carmichael said, "Acquire as much knowledge as possible to change the value system, and come to school to serve the people."

Gaining Black Support

President Ford's statement last week that he would consider a Black man as his running mate for the presidency of the United States was clearly his way of appealing to the Black voters. However, there is another, more definite manner in which the President could gain the support of the Black voters.

With the retirement of Justice Douglas from the Supreme Court because of failing health and old age, a move has been put in progress to push a Black woman onto the court. Oddly enough, this suggestion was not initiated by a Black, but rather by CBS news correspondent Dan Rather. He said that Rep. Barbara Jordan or former White House aide Sallyanne Payton has excellent qualifications for the job.

The nomination of a Black woman to the Supreme Court would represent justice and greatly enhance Ford's chances for reelection.

There is, quite obviously, room for controversy about the appointment, since no Supreme Court appointment should be made on the basis of race, religion, political affiliation, or sex. Yet, there seems to be a hole in that line of reasoning, also. If the argument on race specifically has any validity at all, there would be no point in the suggestion of appointing a Black to the Supreme Court. In today's complex society, where ethnic discrimination still prevails, there is an urgent need for minorities being represented on the court.

In 1969, when President Johnson sent the nomination of Thurgood Marshall to the Congress, he certainly had in mind the idea of putting a Black man on the Supreme Court.

With the immense power wielded by the Supreme Court, it can not afford to be narrow-minded. The views of the court can be broadened, though, if the President and Congress would heed the suggestion of nominating a Black woman to fill Justice Douglas' seat on the Supreme Court.

Thanksgiving Will Be Here Soon!

By Zavery McDougald

The fall semester of '75 is slowly but surely winding down. As we proceed through the home stretch, we come upon a major event in the school year, namely Thanksgiving vacation.

For members of the proud Aggie family, this holiday season will be filled with various events, such as meeting old friends, rekindling romances, and attending various social functions.

For those individuals who have been missing that good old home cooking, a much greater emphasis will be placed on that Thanksgiving grit, oh, yes, that tasty turkey, hefty ham, crispy chicken, and those delicious chitterlings.

Then come the collard greens, cabbages, black-eyed peas, carrots, cornbread, hot mouth watering biscuits or rolls.

This will be followed by a delicious potato pudding, a fresh strawberry shortcake, a chocolate cake with homemade icing. To wash all this down take your pick, coffee, tea, milk, or maybe something a bit stronger, like a Royal Crown Soda.

If your meal will be or will not be this extravagant, let us not forget what this holiday season really means. It is the giving of thanks for all the blessings one has received.

Even though the times are filled with little disasters or mishaps, one should truly be thankful. We have been spared another year and given a second chance to better ourselves or maybe even better the world.

As you prepare to leave, remember--be thankful.

We Would Like To Know

By Benjamin T. Forbes

The audacity of the Athletic Department to charge A&T students for admission to the Blue and Gold Intrasquad game leaves a lot to be said about those responsible for making this move, that is, if they are responsible people.

According to the way things are set up here, that event was a student activity which would normally allow students entry into the game by showing their ID's and activity stickers. Why must we pay activity fees (athletic) if we are going to be charged for athletic events. If the Athletic Department is having financial problems, then it should reorganize its budget.

Even if the Athletic Department was justified in charging the students for this particular game, then it should have made it known in a more professional manner. The amount being charged for the game was not that much of an issue to this reporter; however the fact that students were being charged to see an intrasquad game did seem foolish. There were many students who came to the game only with their identification cards and activity sticker. Many of them came from the other side of campus which added a great deal of frustration. This situation did not brighten that "good ole Aggie Spirit."

In past years there has been no admission charged for students. This writer sympathizes and praises those students who turned back after refusing to pay to see their fellow student scrimmage against each other.

Times are hard all over; and, if such policies continue to be the case, things will get even worse.

If there is a reason behind this "mystery", this reporter would most certainly be interested in knowing what the conclusion will be. Also, if we are going to be charged for future athletic activities then I would be more than grateful if I could be refunded that portion of my tuition that before had guaranteed my entrance in to athletic events.

organization, then everything else will come. Carmichael also said that, if we were properly organized, then we could get more power.

The way we must organize ourselves, from Carmichael's point of view, is independently. We must maintain an independent organization. He said that some people say we should organize with whites; but, before we can organize with whites, we must have a Black organization founded on truths.

Carmichael said that, what Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., did wrong in his non-violence struggle was that he confused tactics with philosophy.

Carmichael said, "If a man is shooting a gun at you, you shouldn't just stand there. You should shoot back."

He also said that King thought non-violence could work all the time. Carmichael said, "We must have periods of non-violence and violence interchangeably."

Carmichael also said that Dr. King said that the truth will set you free. "In order for this to

McMillan May Take Cases To The City

He stated that the Tribunal and the SGA are caught up in petty issues. They seem to have forgotten about the student body and the reputation of the university he said.

At the time of the interview, McMillan said he had neither taken cases downtown nor to the Tribunal. However, soon he would have no other alternative than to take the cases downtown, he said.

When a violation of the law occurs," McMillan commented, "there ought to be a punishment." He went on to say that the police are concerned with enforcing the law, and who does the punishing is irrelevant.

Local Principal Speaks Here To SNEA Meeting

Speaking at the Student National Education Association, Robert Hayes, assistant principal of Page Senior High School stressed the importance of education in today's world.

According to Hayes, Black people should be thinking while others are sleeping. Hayes mentioned that the principal of Page informed him of his appreciation of A&T.

Concluding his statement, Hayes said to entertain a man is temporary, but to educate a man is permanent.

The SNEA consists of students who plan to enter the educational field.

happen, everybody must be able to see the truth; if everyone can't see it, then it isn't truth," he continued.

Carmichael said the only solution to the problem for Blacks is Pan Africanism. He defined Pan-Africanism as "the total liberation and unification of Africa on scientific socialism."

Carmichael ended his speech by asking us to look carefully at the problem and to say that the only thing we came here for was the liberation of our people. He said, if we do this, then we have purpose.

Aggie

SPORTS NOTEBOOK

By Craig R. Turner

When President Gerald Ford left the campus of North Carolina Central late last week with an honorary degree in his hands, he took the side of the Eagles in their upcoming grudge match with A&T.

However the Birds ran into some Bison from Howard and were shot down in flames, 41-10 last Saturday in Durham, dropping them to third place in the MEAC.

Central gave up an amazing 392 yards rushing to Howard, as Mike Banks fired four touchdown passes against Central's top ranked pass defense.

Speaking of Howard, they entertained Ford with an honorary degree earlier and were blasted the next week with a 34-14 whipping at the hands of the Aggies. It would seem that A&T has this thing about politicians.

Moving back to more important events, A&T can win its first MEAC championship with a win over its arch rival.

It has been six years since A&T has beaten an Eagle team. The best A&T has been able to come up with was a disgusting 28-28 tie in 1969.

During those years, Central has been one step ahead of the Aggies at every turn and slipping to victories by the skin of their teeth.

The last two years, the Eagles have blown A&T out with a 16-6 count in 1973 and a 29-13 rout last season.

When will it all end? Although Central and A&T have fought some tough battles, A&T has not had the caliber of team to beat the Eagles except in 1972. But this year A&T has taken the lead in the conference's offensive statistics while scoring at a 23 point clip. The Aggies have not been really stopped since switching to the slot I attack.

Blues Overtake Golds 102 - 101

By Craig Turner

A capacity crowd was on hand in Moore Gymnasium Wednesday evening as A&T kicked off its 1974-75 basketball campaign in an intra-squad contest.

The Blues trailed through most of the affair before rallying to 102-101 win in overtime against the Golds.

It was a nip-and-tuck dash throughout the first half, with both teams utilizing the high post attack.

A running tempo that characterized the early play, slowed considerably when the Golds took a commanding 29-20 lead on the offensive board play of 6-10 Sinclair Colbert and 6-7 freshman Steve Cassel. Despite the Golds' decided advantage in experience, freshmen Ken Small and L.J. Pipkin took control at both ends of the court to keep the Blues within striking distance at the half, 46-43.

The second stanza began to shape up much as the first had until Gold guards Raymond Perry and Terry McInnis hit for eight straight points to push their team's lead to 78-69 with 12:37 to go.

From there, the Blues moved sophomore sensation James Sparrow to the swingman spot. The change must have been to the 6-6 guard's liking as he either scored or assisted in the next 12

Blue points.

After pulling to an 84-83 lead at the 2:11 mark, both Cassel and Perry converted free throws to increase the margin to 89-83.

Then Ron Johnson, a 6-8 senior forward, began to make his presence felt by coming up with two straight buckets to cut the deficit to one point.

James Sparrow banged home a long jumper and Perry retaliated with a free throw to close out the regulation time at 90 a piece.

The Blues clearly dominated the overtime period by utilizing their superior height advantage and the drives of Sparrow.

Johnson led the Blues with 25 points and 16 rebounds. Sparrow blistered the nets for 24, and Raymond Barnes added 20.

Six foot nine inch center L.J. Pipkin claimed 19 points and intimidated the Gold squad with seven blocked shots.

Perry topped the Golds with 30 points, and sophomore Terry McInnis pumped in 24. Sinclair Colbert had 14, and Dexter Boone contributed 11 points.

Student Representatives Fail To Show For Trial

By Craig Turner

Wednesday afternoon this reporter sat in on a session of the University Tribunal. Once again the student representatives held true to the boycott statement of SGA president Ted Mangum.

The charges of unfair railroading of students to punishments was not evident in the least. It was clear that the Tribunal was more than equitable in its hearing of evidence and testimony.

Dr. Rice, who served as the Tribunal judge, attempted to explain what rights and privileges were at the disposal of the accused.

In the opening case, the chief defendant failed to show for his hearing. The board postponed the trial date instead of trying the case with only the arresting officers and witnesses present.

The second trial produced conflicting stories between two participants in a dormitory fight.

Both complainants charged each other with inciting the incident but neither preferred to press charges.

After further questioning and suggestions the case was dismissed as it stood at that time.

The Tribunal did not force the issue nor try to establish blame but to merely sort the facts in the two conflicting stories.

In a case where trespassing was in question, the defendants pleaded guilty and acknowledged the testimony of the arresting officers.

However, the Tribunal made sure that the defendants were aware of what the consequences of their actions could mean before their plea.

In summary, the University Tribunal, in this particular instance, worked exceedingly well despite the absence of the student representatives. Rice urged those who appeared in court to tell others not to boycott the hearing if they were called.

Central Eagles Will Meet A&T In An Old Rivalry

By Craig Turner

An overflow crowd of 20,000 spectators is expected at Memorial Stadium in Greensboro Saturday as North Carolina A&T goes after its first MEAC championship against arch rival North Carolina Central.

The Aggies are currently tied for first place with South Carolina State. State will entertain Delaware State in Orangeburg, S.C., Saturday.

Should both A&T and State lose their contests, Central would claim the MEAC crown. Should State lose to Delaware, A&T could win the title outright with a victory.

Coach Willie Smith will wrap up his third year as the Eagles' head coach Saturday. During his tenure, the club has claimed an MEAC title and a second place finish.

Central boasts one of the better signal callers in the MEAC. Quarterback Ricky Moore (6-2,190) is the top rollout passer in the league and an outstanding runner.

The passing attack has utilized receivers Edward Baldwin (6-1, 190) and all-MEAC tightend Terry Walls (6-2,230).

The blocking wall has not lived to expectations despite being the most highly touted in the conference. This group is led by pro prospect and all-MEAC tackle Milton Butts (6-4,250).

Teaming with him is tackle Darius Helton (6-2, 250), guards Don Williams (6-2,220) and all-MEAC Franklyn Bellamy (6-2,245). The center is smallish Leroy Tate (5-10,200).

Runningback slots were vacated by a number of seniors and lacked ample replacements. Eugene Carmicheal (6-0, 180) and Delacio Bartley (6-2,205) are the starting picks.

The defense will be without the services of now-graduated, Bubba Smith and Sam Jones but it does have plenty of young talent.

The big man is Bobby Miller (6-3, 275) at tackle. Larry Height (6-3,255) and Joe Ballard (6-2,240) have plenty of size but lack a great deal of quickness.

Linebackers Tyrone Boykins (6-2,210) and George Jones (6-4, 225) are two exceptionally strong players at their positions.

Bowling Teams Lose First Games

A&T men and women bowling teams opened their season Saturday, November 15, at UNCC, where both teams lost. For the men's match Clay Cowan of A&T had high set for five games, 959, high game 243, and high average 191.8. For the women's match, Julie Lambert of UNCC had high set 878, and Debbi Correll had high game of 226.

From Charlotte, the teams traveled to Columbia, S.C., where they lost to USC. In this match Dave LeadBitter of USC had high set 1105, high game 236, and high average 221. For the women's match Felecia Forbes of A&T had high set 900 and high game 202.

The members of the men's team are Henti Baird, William Compton, Bobby Ford, and Donnie Vinson all from Greensboro. Also Richard Stringfield from Burgaw, Clay Cowan, captain, from Statesville, Fred Chambers of Monroe, Elmer Langston from Wilson, O'Jay Green from Charleston, S.C. Lenny Frye from Bronx, N.Y., and David Miller from Asheville.

The members of the women's team are Debbi McNair Correll from Willingboro, N.J., Diane Glover from Newark, N.J., Hilda

Carter Burke, captain, from Utica, N.Y., Rebecca Smith from Mt. Airy, Felecia Forbes from Hampton, Va., Jennifer Bynum from Durham, and Veronica D. Woodard from Wilson. The two coaches from the teams are Rock Edwards and Roger McKee.

The defense has bent on occasion but did not break when pressure was applied. Central seems to have peaked against South Carolina State and is now on a downhill slide after losing two straight.

The Eagles should hit the bottom Saturday and an old string should end and a new one should start. You can bet on that.

Smith Barrier, sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News, made some comments about the efficiency of the MEAC in his latest Sunday column.

He expressed in no uncertain terms that the MEAC was without a full-time commissioner and lacked a Division I operation. He has rapped like this before.

All I have to say is that the MEAC, still being only four years old and all Black, has had to fight off the slurs and bigotry of a predominantly white University of North Carolina inclined press.

The only way for the MEAC to survive is to work against this biased framework. It will not bother this institution's athletic program nor the other six members of the MEAC if we do not receive favorable consideration from the local press.

A&T's athletic department will survive despite the bullheaded opinions of its opponents, white or otherwise.

It has been six long seasons since the Aggies have beaten Central. The last time was in 1968 by a 21-6 score in Durham.

A six-year habit is hard to break and it's going to take some will power. But like a "henpecked" husband, A&T has the "seven year itch."

So here are the season's final predictions as Blannie and I go for perfect 11-0 records. Besides, Central is long overdue for a good whipping. A&T should win easily.

Channel 2 Celebrity Visits Here

By Nepolia M. Smith

Monday night at 7:00 p.m., Vanstony Hall was visited by the star of Channel 2's "Sandra and Friends Show".

Sandra came to enlighten the females of Vanstony to the many opportunities awaiting a Black woman in television. Also Sandra gave a look into her life on and off television.

Married for 10 years, Sandra is the mother of a three year old daughter. She is also an Aggie.

Her major while at A&T was English Education and she also had a minor, Speech and drama. Sandra stated that all her time was spent in the A&T theatre.

After graduating from A&T, Sandra had difficulty in finding a job in her major. After working several places not dealing with her major, Sandra applied for and received a job at the Channel 2 television station as a news reporter. A year and half later she proposed the ideas for the show "Sandra and Friends."

"Sandra and Friends", Sandra commented is a show designated to inform, enlighten and entertain its listeners. Though it is mainly directed towards awakening the female minds, it also hopes to interest the male viewers too.

When asked by the listening students if her career interfered with her home life, Sandra replied that it was a complete change around in roles for her husband and it was also very hard for her daughter to adjust to her absences at first.

Sandra stressed the need for more Black men as well as women in the television field. She also pointed out that there were no Blacks in the administrative departments of television.

In closing Sandra said that in the future, after completing her family, she would like to go into the larger branches of television broadcasting.

"It's hard to top the challenge and reward NUPOC offers."

It's true. The opportunities you'll have as a Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate are far from ordinary. Just ask Lieutenant Junior Grade Charles Collier, from Baltimore, Maryland. Chuck's a nuclear trained Naval Officer taking advanced studies in the field of nuclear submarine operations. It's tough, but he thinks it's worth it. Because Chuck's next assignment will be in a nuclear powered Polaris submarine. Destination: the world.

Do you think you have what it takes to become a NUPOC? First, you have to be a college senior, or graduate with a good knowledge of math, physics, or engineering. You'll also need talent...ability...and character. All the things it takes to be a leader of men and to deal with the challenges of "innerspace".

The graduate level training you'll receive in our NUPOC program will prepare you for supervising the operation of our nuclear propulsion plants on either nuclear surface ships or submarines. You'll work alongside a hand picked crew of experts. And remember, it's a Nuclear Age. The knowledge you get today will be in demand tomorrow.

You get a lot in return, too. You receive a Naval Officer's commission. Have a guaranteed income while you're learning. And a chance to travel and have some fun. Talk with your Navy Officer Recruiter today about our NUPOC program, or call toll free 800-841-8000. (In Georgia, call toll free 800-342-5855). NUPOC: it means Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate. But it spells opportunity!

The opportunity is for real...and so are we.
